CCW Chapter 7333

“Young Master, you’re such a blockhead! Naturally, I mean half-brothers and half-sisters. Their father had seven concubines in addition to his principal wife, making eight wives in total. Five of them gave birth in the same year. That’s hardly something unbelievable, is it?”

Only then did Charlie understand. He smiled awkwardly and said, “Well, we’re from different eras. It simply never occurred to me.”

Lin Wan’er smiled shyly.

“Young Master, you could give it a little more thought. Better yet, think about how to put it into practice. If… if someday you could grant me the status of a concubine, I would consider my life complete.”

Although Lin Wan’er did not particularly care about her formal status, naturally, as a woman, having an official position in the family would still be preferable.

She had never dared to hope that Charlie would formally marry her as his principal wife. As long as he was willing to grant her the status of a concubine, she would be completely satisfied.

After all, coming from her era, when a man was already married, becoming his concubine was the best arrangement she could hope for.

Of course, even in those days, some men divorced their wives and married another woman as their principal wife. However, Lin Wan’er had never entertained such an idea.

After experiencing a long life filled with countless hardships and ups and downs, she understood very clearly that a man like Charlie would inevitably have women around him in any era. She would simply be one of those flowers.

Being able to blossom by his side was already enough for her.

If Charlie needed her to, she would even be willing to serve as his adviser and help him transform this private garden into a place where a hundred flowers could bloom in competition.

Charlie felt somewhat awkward about the subject.

Although he had more or less figured out what she meant, he was nowhere near ready to discuss taking her as a concubine so openly.

Therefore, he smiled at Lin Wan'er and said, "Let's talk about these things after we've dealt with Wu Feiyan. Once she's dead, everything will be easier to discuss. Even if that means I have to become a Buddhist monk, I'd willingly do it."

Lin Wan'er smiled and said, "Young Master, you absolutely mustn't become a monk. Otherwise, if I and all those other girls had to visit you at the temple every day, we'd disturb the peace and quiet of the Buddhist sanctuary."

Charlie laughed awkwardly, scratched his head, and changed the subject.

"Come on, let's go. This time, when we go to the United States, I'm going to make the entire Left Army Command mine!"

Lin Wan'er understood that Charlie was somewhat embarrassed, so she didn't pursue the subject any further. Instead, she linked her arm through his and asked with a smile:

"Young Master, do you think Wu Yongzhen will willingly submit to your control?"

Charlie smiled.

"Don't worry. This man is insatiably greedy. This time, he'll suffer a spectacular downfall. When the time comes, I'll use a combination of kindness and intimidation, rewarding him with one hand while threatening him with the other. Even if he has to accept it through tears, he'll have no choice!"