

Chapter 84

A hiss left Kyle's lips. He asked, "Are you really a businessman? Or are you a doctor? Even yesterday, you knew how to chest tap my son."

"Mr. Wright, I lived in the hospital for almost a year following my accident," Adrian narrated. "So, I learned from nurses and doctors. Also, I run the healthcare entity of The King's Enterprises. How could I run a hospital if I don't know the basics of healthcare?"

"Are you saying this to impress me?" Kyle scoffed, making Gabrielle laugh from her seat. Even Riley and Adrian failed to hold their amusement at Kyle's directness.

"Handsome, please be kind. Mr. King is teaching our son for free," Gabrielle scolded her husband.

"Well, I'm glad it's working, Mr. Wright, but if it makes you feel any better, I expect nothing in return," Adrian bounced back.

"Haha!" Gabrielle reacted, "Oh, he got you, Handsome. Mr. King got you."

The two men continued to train Kenneth, with Adrian giving the tips and Kyle supporting his son. As they did, Riley took the chance to chat with Mrs. Wright. She asked, "So when are you due? I did not see your bump clearly yesterday, but seeing you now, I think you are about five months pregnant?"

Suddenly, Gabrielle giggled. She corrected, "No, I am three months pregnant."

"What?" Riley was stupefied.

"Haha! I am having triplets!" Gabrielle revealed.

"Oh, my god!" Riley's eyes rounded. She cried, "I want triplets too!"

Again, Gabrielle laughed hard at Riley's reaction but later disclosed, "Think it clearly. It's not easy. I just came out of a four-week hospitalization to keep the babies safe. It's a very risky pregnancy. Oh, and please, call me Gaby."

Riley's chest became filled with warmth. It dawned on her that this was the start of a friendship. She happily answered, "And you can call me Riley."

***

Due to that morning's encounter, Riley and Adrian had dinner with the Wrights in the evening. Riley purposely wore her jewelry pieces, and it did not escape Gabrielle's eyes.

"You sure know your jewelry, Riley," Gabrielle complimented.

"Of course, I am a jewelry designer," Riley said, touching her necklace. "I designed this necklace. Would you like to look at some of my designs?"

Gabrielle happily agreed, and Riley presented Adley's new pieces on their website. The actress reacted positively to each picture. 1

"Wow, this is gorgeous!"

"Riley, these jewelry pieces are better than the famous brands!"

"Ooooh! I like this one." Gabrielle pouted her lips and flashed the phone to her husband. "I wish somebody would buy me this."

Gabrielle referred to a diamond set with a necklace, bangle, and earrings. Her husband quickly leaned across the table to study the set. Kyle smirked and asked his wife, "What do I get from buying that, Beautiful?"

Riley watched as the actress leaned closer to her husband and winked, "You'll get a lot after I give birth."

It took a second, but Riley caught on and laughed at the couple's flirtatious actions. Gabrielle joined in, laughing with her, while Adrian chuckled from his seat. From that point, the dinner became even more informal. 1

"I love the love between the two of you," Riley commented on Kyle and Gabriel's relationship.

"Thank you." Gabrielle winked at Riley and said, "I see the love in you and Adrian, too. You both will go a long way."

***

While Riley and Adrian were making new friends during their honeymoon, back at Halliport, Brian had just entered their neighborhood's gates.

The security guard stopped his car, and he rolled down his window. He asked, "What is the problem?"

"Mr. Martin, your visitor from earlier forgot his ID." The guard gave Brian a social security identification in the name of William Barlowe.

"I don't know this person," Brian said.

"But, Mr. Martin, he had already visited your house twice." The guard reported. "He drives a Bentley. Are you sure it doesn't ring a bell?"