

Daddy CEO 216

Chapter 216 For Educational Purposes

The realization that she could be pregnant made Ran Xueyi feel tremendous joy. Previously, she wanted to rely on her child and pour all her affection to the child that she never received from her family after taking revenge on them.

However, after getting a call from the doctor that operated on her during the procedure and told her that it failed, Ran Xueyi was disappointed and saddened by the news. Added with the fact that she had to find out that Song Yu Han was actually the owner of the sperm donor that she received, it heightened the disturbance of her mood.

Thus, she snapped on him that night as soon as he returned from a foreign country to deal with business.

However, it had been almost three months since she took the insemination procedure. If she calculated it then the possibility of her pregnancy was higher. However, that doctor's call made her suspicious and when Song Yu Han arrived at the cafe, she didn't tell him about it just yet.

If she remembered correctly, Song Yu Han also wanted a child. What happens if she told him that she didn't have her menstruation period for two months and when they arrived in the hospital to have a check, they found out that it was a false alarm. That she wasn't really pregnant?

Would he feel devastated and disappointed?

Ran Xueyi didn't want to make the only person who showed real support and affection to her feel disappointed.

Hence, she decided to go to buy a pregnancy test kit later without Song Yu Han's knowledge. It was better for her to be sure first before telling him.

It would be nice if the test gave her a positive result. Wouldn't that make both of them the happiest in the world?

While Ran Xueyi was in a daze, pondering about what action she will do, Song Yu Han decided to bring her to the cinema to watch a movie. In his head, he couldn't help but think that they didn't have much time to spend with each other due to their busy schedule. Thus, he wanted to continue their shortened date from last time.

Since it was quite late in the evening, when they arrived at the cinema, there were only a few people lining up at the ticket counter. Some of them were couples who decided to spend time with each other like them, some were planning to watch a movie alone, while some brought out their children to bond with their family.

"What do you think we should watch?" Song Yu Han wasn't really interested in watching any movies. They could do it at home with their wide and tall TV against the wall, but he heard that the sublime experience from going on a date at the cinema was different.

Ran Xueyi looked at the posters behind the ticket counter and thoughtfully looked at each one of them. The thoughts and disturbance in her heart was suspended for a bit after she was distracted by Song Yu Han's sudden plans.

"I'm not sure..." Ran Xueyi wanted to scratch her lips but because she was wearing a mask to cover her face so she could avoid being recognized, she changed it to rub her ear. "How about you pick the movie instead?"

Song Yu Han looked at the poster and after a few seconds, he pointed his finger at a movie poster that was placed at the corner. "I want to watch that then..."

Ran Xueyi followed the direction where he was pointing and felt choked up.

It was a rated eighteen plus movie.

The poster was very suggestive and ambiguous. As for the title... Ran Xueyi didn't even want to say it since she felt that her mouth would rot if she said it.

"Why do you want to watch that?" Ran Xueyi felt blocked up and coughed twice.

Song Yu Han saw her flustered expression. It was actually a joke, but since she asked, he could only continue teasing her.

He leaned forward until his lips were almost touching her left ear and huskily said, "For educational purposes."

Ran Xueyi was slightly confused before she finally blinked and blushed profusely. How could she not get what he meant? Song Yu Han was telling her that he wanted to watch it so they could try the things out that will show up in the movie.

Glaring at him, Ran Xueyi decided to blindly pull him to an empty line and bought tickets and a bucket of popcorn. It only took her a few minutes to do this and she pulled Song Yu Han to their designated theater number and went inside.

The contrast between the long corridor outside that was very bright and the dark theater hall they went inside made them think that they were pulled into another world. There were several empty seats and only a few people sat in different places from the front to the back. The huge screen where the movie will be shown was already playing the advertisement from the investors and sponsors of the movie.

Song Yu Han looked at the theater in front of him and had an enthralled expression on his face. This was actually his first to set a step inside a cinema and theater. Actually, when he was young and before the Song family took him away from his mother, he didn't get the chance to go to this kind of place because he focused on his education and part-time job to help lessen the burden from his mother.

Seeing it for the first time, he felt like he was an alien who stepped foot on Earth and was curious about everything he laid his eyes on.

Ran Xueyi noticed his strangeness and guessed what he was thinking. She tentatively asked, "Haven't you been to this place before?"

Song Yu Han shook his head as he replied, "No... But when I was younger, my mother wanted to bring me to this place on my birthday. At that time, it was winter and my mother fell sick before my birthday so we decided to celebrate it at home."

Ran Xueyi's eyes softened and tightened her hand around his hand. Even though she hadn't met Mother Song, she felt that if Song Yu Han's mother was alive, they might get along.

Song Yu Han's life was really painful and filled with suffering. He lost his mother at an early age and had to watch as people ruined his mother's reputation in front of him.

Suddenly, her eyes couldn't help but tear up a little bit. If... If she was really pregnant and she had a child with him, would the emptiness that was left by his mother be filled again?

Sensing that the mood turned a bit too solemn, Song Yu Han reached and patted her head before saying, "Don't cry... It's been too long and I already forgot the past. Now, we will focus on our present and future, alright?"

Ran Xueyi bit her lips and nodded.

That's right. The past cannot be changed, but their future can and they will just have to make sure that they will stay together for a very long time.

However, what Ran Xueyi didn't know that she said these words a bit too soon.

Chapter 217 Autograph

Ran Xueyi and Song Yu Han stayed in the theater until the movie ended and rolled the credits on the screen. The people who were inside the theater had already left and went home.

"Should we go out and eat in a restaurant?" Song Yu Han held the small and slender hand in his hand while glancing at Ran Xueyi.

Ran Xueyi readily agreed with him and the two finally went out to eat. However, when they were outside the cinema, Ran Xueyi saw a barbeque stall on the side of the road and she dragged him to eat there.

Song Yu Han could only helplessly watch her order several servings of barbeque sticks from the stall and also helped her order some.

"That woman... Doesn't she look a bit familiar?"

"Who?"

Two teenagers, who were eating inside the small barbeque stall, noticed the two from afar due to their outstanding aura that was completely different from the other customers who sat inside the stall.

They had just gotten out of school and went there to eat before going back to their dormitory, but they didn't expect that they would meet two extraordinarily beautiful people there.

Not only these teenagers noticed Ran Xueyi and Song Yu Han, even the other customers also glanced in their way and felt that the small and cramped barbeque stall turned into a luxurious and high-class restaurant in the city.

Ran Xueyi and Song Yu Han were already used to getting this kind of attention and ignored the people who kept on looking at them. They quickly sat at their table and waited for their order to be served. Five minutes later, the stall owner brought their orders to their table and also gave them a free bottle of beer.

Ran Xueyi was about to refuse, but the old lady persuaded her to accept it anyway.

"You and your boyfriend just made us a lot of money tonight. So, there's no need to pay for the bottle of beer." The old lady was all smiles when she said this.

Ran Xueyi nodded politely at the old lady and when the stall owner finally left their table, she pushed the bottle towards Song Yu Han and said, "You drink it... Sister Zhao will kill me if she finds out I drank beer."

Actually, this was just an excuse. Ran Xueyi didn't want to drink or touch any alcohol from now on. She was still suspicious and hadn't checked if she was really pregnant and because of that, she would rather avoid anything that could harm her body.

Song Yu Han didn't know what was inside her mind and since Ran Xueyi told him to drink, he really drank the whole bottle. He was really a slave to his wife.

Ran Xueyi smiled and pulled down her mask to eat, but when she was about to take a bite, she saw the two teenagers from earlier and they stood next to their table.

"Um... Excuse me."

One of the teenagers' voices sounded nervous as her eyes were glued on Ran Xueyi.

Ran Xueyi glanced their way and saw the two blushing excitedly. "What is it?"

The teenager with the short hair swallowed abruptly before saying, "Your Ran Xueyi, right?"

Ran Xueyi put on a smile and nodded. There was no point in denying it since they already saw her face.

Very recently, Ran Xueyi has gained some of her popularity from the past due to her confession during Ran Yue's birthday party. Not only that, Gu Jiao's schemes made passersby take notice of her so the attention she was getting recently was not strange.

And thanks to these two green-tea b*tches, Ran Xueyi was slowly rising in popularity.

The two teenagers squealed instantly when they saw her nod and they rummaged through their backpacks. They took out a pen and a notebook while looking at Ran Xueyi with sparkling eyes.

"Can we get an autograph?" they almost simultaneously said.

Ran Xueyi looked at the barbeque stick in her hand for a second before putting it down and wiped her hand with a clean napkin. Then, she signed both their notebooks. Her signature was very smooth and elegant. When the two teenagers got what they wanted, they headed outside the stall reluctantly and dazedly stared at the signature on their notebooks.

They couldn't wait to take a picture of it and post it on their social media page.

Inside the stall, Ran Xueyi stared at the backs of the teenagers for a bit longer before redirecting her attention at Song Yu Han, who was staring at her.

"What is it?" Ran Xueyi didn't understand why he was staring at her.

Then, without a word, Song Yu Han patted his body as if he was looking for something. After a few seconds, he finally found what he was looking for; it was a pen.

Confused, Ran Xueyi didn't know what he wanted to do with it and only silently stared at him as he stood up and took off his coat and turned his back to her.

"Sign it."

Ran Xueyi: "Ah?"

Song Yu Han was not embarrassed when other customers inside the stall gazed at him with strange looks in their eyes as he watched him kneel with his back towards her.

"I still haven't gotten your autograph," Song Yu Han said with a bit of sadness in his tone.

They had been together for three months now, yet he still didn't get his wife to sign for him. Is he going to wait till she finally gets the Best Actress award before getting her autograph?

When he saw the two teenagers asking Ran Xueyi for an autograph, he was angry and jealous because he could have been the first person to get an autograph from her after her return to the entertainment circle.

Ran Xueyi did not know what was going through his mind. However, she only patted him in the back before telling him to sit back down in his chair.

But who could have expected that Song Yu Han didn't listen to her this time and was stubbornly waiting for her to sign on his back.

Finally, Ran Xueyi signed and signed a big autograph on his back.

After signing, she saw a big and proud smile on Song Yu Han's lips, as if he had won a big project.

When she heard him explaining his strange actions, Ran Xueyi giggled and whispered to his ear, "You already received my signature. Isn't written on our marriage certificate?"

Later that night, Ran Xueyi received a call from Zhao Fei asking her to look at the trending searches on Weibo.

Ran Xueyi had a guess of what was happening and when she opened the interface of the app, there really was a trending topic about her giving away two autographs.

#RanXueyiAutograph

Under the trending topic, several old Ran Xueyi fans lay dormant after a few weeks of drought. They finally got content from their goddess, however, when they saw the two autographs the two teenagers posted in their pages, they couldn't help but drown in their envy.

On the other hand, the two teenagers who didn't have any intentions to brag about the autographs they received were struck dumb by the sudden rise of their follow counts. There were even several people from their school and strangers trying to chat with them, asking if they wanted to sell the autograph and how much they want to sell for it.

Chapter 218 Nine Weeks Pregnant

"Next time, don't give your autograph to anybody. Your current fame is rising and if you give your autograph to just anyone, your fans will feel betrayed," Zhao Fei told Ran Xueyi through the phone. "Don't worry, once you have already participated in other projects and your dramas and movies are released to the public, I will ask Manager Wu to arrange a fansign event."

Ran Xueyi listened to Zhao Fei's words before hanging up.

In order for her to relax her nerves and clear her doubts, Ran Xueyi ran to the hospital early that morning for a physical exam. She didn't use a pregnancy kit because she trusted the doctor's words more than a test kit.

"Miss Ran, congratulations, you are already 9 weeks pregnant," the doctor delivered the good news with a smile. "The child growing inside you is very healthy. In the early stages of pregnancy, you can visit the hospital for a prenatal check up once a month. We will monitor both you and your child's condition."

Ran Xueyi stared in daze at the doctor. Her body shook in happiness and she didn't know what to say after hearing what the doctor said to her.

9 weeks... She's been pregnant for nine weeks.

That must mean that the insemination succeeded. Then, why did the doctor say that it didn't?

Throwing away that question at the back of her head for now, Ran Xueyi focused on what the doctor in front of her told her to be careful while she's pregnant.

Ran Xueyi released a sigh as she held onto the health report in her hand as she left the doctor's office. She almost couldn't contain the joy she was feeling in her heart. A child was growing inside her. And it wasn't just her child, but also Song Yu Han's child.

Looking at her flat stomach that will eventually and slowly grow as the child in her womb grew bigger, Ran Xueyi couldn't help but put her hand on it and rub her stomach.

"Baby... grow and come out to see mommy and daddy, okay?" Ran Xueyi's lips trembled as she couldn't contain the happiness she was feeling. Tears started to pool in her eyes as she couldn't wait to tell the good news to Song Yu Han.

After confirming her doubts and finding out she's pregnant, Ran Xueyi left the hospital. However, when she had just entered the elevator, a figure came out from a corner and stared intently at Ran Xueyi.

Ran Xueyi didn't notice the person nor did she recognize them. Many people come and go to the hospital and she was currently distracted by the good news she had just received.

The person who hid in the corner finally came out when they saw that Ran Xueyi was no longer in sight. A nurse was also passing by and felt someone grabbing them by the arm.

When the nurse looked at the rude person, she wanted to scold them and tell them not to grab them, but she recognized the identity of the person who grabbed her and immediately shut her mouth.

"Miss Cao Haoyue, is there something wrong?" The nurse asked with a stiff smile on her lips. If this person didn't have a wealthy identity, she would have scolded them.

Unfortunately, in front of money, people will always bow and smile in front of it.

Cao Haoyue glanced at the elevator and turned to the nurse, "Did you see the woman who just went to the elevator just now? Do you know why she came here?"

The nurse also looked at the elevator but frowned. How could she have taken notice of the people who took the elevator? Besides, a nurse could never memorize a patient's face or name with how many people visit the hospital.

"No, Miss Cao. I didn't notice. Why? Is that woman someone you know?" The nurse still tried to maintain a polite and humble response.

Cao Haoyue was slightly displeased because she didn't get the response she wanted but still said, "Nothing. You can go."

The nurse didn't stay with her and left. Cao Haoyue, however, walked towards the doctor's office where Ran Xueyi entered.

Cao Haoyue came to the hospital because her son's fever was not coming down since last night. Unlike Cao Huiling, her cousin, she couldn't call for the family doctor and could only take her son to the hospital.

That's when she saw Ran Xueyi entering the doctor's office and after several minutes, she left with her eyes slightly red.

She knew that Ran Xueyi was the woman that the young master Song, Song Yu Han, who was also Cao Huiling's step-son, had taken fancy. So, she couldn't help but feel curious about what she was doing at the hospital.

Could she be sick?

Because Cao Huiling was married to the Song family, the Cao family put all their hopes on her and her son, Song Yongrui, leaving Cao Haoyue as cannon fodder in their family. However, Cao Haoyue never wanted to become her cousin's enemy, knowing that Cao Huiling was a cruel and merciless woman.

And so, instead of making Cao Huiling her enemy, why not become allies?

And coincidentally, Cao Huiling was having a headache because of the woman Song Yu Han admired. He even goes so far as to introduce him to Old Patriarch Song in front of everyone, making Cao Huiling feel threatened.

Glancing at the doctor's office again, Cao Haoyue made up her mind and knocked on the door.

Thankfully, the doctor didn't have a patient inside his office after Ran Xueyi left. Cao Haoyue could ask for information without waiting.

However, when the doctor heard her asking about Ran Xueyi, he didn't give her an answer. If he did give her an answer to Cao Haoyue's questions, he would be defiling his oath and his ethics would be put into question.

Thus, no matter how much Cao Haoyue felt frustrated because of the doctor's attitude towards her, she didn't get the answer she wanted.

In the end, she could only use money to bribe him.

"Doctor, this is a one million yuan check. You can get this only if you tell me why the young woman came to you." Cao Haoyue was confident that no one would resist once they see the amount written on the check.

The doctor, however, didn't even glance at it and replied, "Ma'am, this is a hospital. I have consulted several patients today. Which young woman are you talking about?"

Cao Haoyue's smug smile became unbearable as she slapped the table and glared at the doctor, "Don't fool me, Doctor. I know you can tell which one I'm talking about!"

The doctor still didn't feel intimidated and smiled again. "Ma'am, if you're not here for a consultation and check up, please leave my office so my patient can come in. Or else, I will call the security to drag you outside of the hospital."

Cao Haoyue scoffed. "My cousin is a big sponsor of this hospital. Do you think you can be safe if you reject me? Doctor, just tell me why that woman came to you and you can live without worries! I can even ask my cousin to promote your position!"

Chapter 219 Cao Haoyue's Threats

A doctor's dream was not limited to curing a patient's disease and seeing them go back to living a normal life. Cao Haoyue was confident that the doctor wouldn't be able to resist this temptation and tell her what she wanted to know.

As expected, as soon as her words were heard by the young doctor, he went silent and hesitated.

Cao Haoyue showed a triumphant smile on her lips.

"Doctor, you're still young and don't know how this world works. Just give me the details I want and I will assure you that your promotion will go smoothly."

The doctor replied, "Ma'am, if you want me to resign. I can do it. This isn't the only hospital in the country and I can easily get into another hospital. But I can never betray my patient's trust and disclose their examination results."

However, soon, the smile on her face was wiped away as she heard the doctor reply to her with an expressionless manner.

Cao Haoyue was incensed by his reaction and swiped the stuff on top of his table. "You dare! Go ahead and resign. See if there's any hospital in the country who will accept you because I will have you blacklisted the moment you step out of this room!"

Outside of the office, the patients and nurses who were walking by couldn't help but stare at the closed door. Though there was no gap in the door, the soundproofing of the office wasn't helping and with Cao Haoyue's howling, many people who were nearby couldn't help but stop and observe what was going on.

Naturally, they heard her words and frowned, wondering who was this lady showing such attitude for?

"Doctor Qin is inside that office, right? Shouldn't we call for the security team?" a nurse looked at the office in worry.

"I'll go and call them. Stay here and see if you can enter the room," the other nurse said before leaving.

The nurse who was left outside of the office glanced at the door again. Doctor Qin was a young doctor who was known in the medical circle all around the country. He wasn't just a genius hailed from a renowned medical university, he has developed a theory that helped fight back cancer cells from growing and developing into a later stage.

Not only does he have the brain that many doctors wanted to covet, he also has a good-looking face that made many women want to climb on his bed.

Since when did he need someone's backing for a promotion? Besides, he resigned, hundreds of hospitals will flock to him, begging him to go and work in their hospitals. As for wealthy families who wanted him as their family doctor, it need not be mentioned. They will probably knock down the metal gate of his house.

But still, the nurse felt like she wanted to protect Doctor Qin since his family background was rumored to be poor and only relied on him.

Cao Haoyue was still showing a smug look on her face, as if she had won the battle. Currently, she was asking like a wealthy heiress who has no shame and morals or cares about stepping on a person's life.

Somehow this made her feel delighted after being suppressed by her cousin, Cao Huling, for so many years.

Unfortunately, her jabs and stabs were thrown at a soft pillow, bouncing back and not hitting the target she intended to hurt.

Doctor Qin stared apathetically at the middle-aged woman in front of him and sighed. He was really getting tired of her ramblings.

He knew that Cao Haoyue was messing with him because of his previous patient, Ran Xueyi. He could have just disclosed what he knew about her examination result, however, it stands against his belief and morals as a doctor. Besides, Ran Xueyi probably already guarded against the people who wanted to know about her pregnancy since she paid him ten million yuan to keep his mouth shut and continue being her doctor during her check-ups before she left.

On the other hand, he didn't really bother caring about what Cao Haoyue was screaming at him. This incident actually helped him a lot since he was already thinking of resigning from that hospital before this day happened. He even sent his resignation letter a week ago and was only waiting for the higher ups to approve his resignation.

He could use the reason of being harassed and threatened by a patient, who coincidentally has relations with the sponsors of the hospital, to justify his resignation and force the hospital to let him go.

In any case, there was no loss for him at all.

As for being blacklisted... Heh, can Cao Haoyue really do it?

Qin Mo stared at Cao Haoyue and finally said, "Ma'am, there's no need to keep on using threats. I will leave the hospital right now. As for being blacklisted... Suit yourself, I don't care."

After saying this, Doctor Qin, or Qin Mo, grabbed the file that contained the details of Ran Xueyi's examination result. The hospital already has a copy of his other patients but Ran Xueyi's details weren't sent in their system yet since he hadn't inputted it in his computer. The least he could do right now was to protect her details and also keep his words to her.

Doctor Qin walked without looking at her once and left the office. He was planning to make a complaint and mention what happened today to force the higher ups to allow him to leave.

Cao Haoyue never expected the turn of events and was speechless as the young doctor in front of her started to gather his stuff as if he was already expecting this to happen and already prepared to leave. What she didn't know was Doctor Qin had already handed in his resignation and was really prepared to leave.

After receiving such a defeat, Cao Haoyue didn't stay at the hospital. She feared that what happened today would be reported to the Cao family. If that happens, not only her father would be so angered, her uncle will also scold her and call her stupid.

And so, she could only go to her cousin, Cao Huiling to beg for help.

"What did you say? You saw the young lady whom that bastard brought to father-in-law in the hospital?" Cao Huiling was startled by the news that Cao Haoyue told her. "Are you sure of what you saw?"

"Yes! I just saw her leave and even went to ask the doctor whom she went to so I could ask what was wrong with her!" Cao Haoyue was sweating as she said this.

"And what did the doctor say?"

"I don't know! The doctor refused to tell me and even rejected my money... Cousin, tell me, what should I do? I think my father and uncle would get angry at me if they heard I tried to bribe a doctor. Can you help me?" Cao Haoyue said.

Cao Huiling frowned before smiling, "Of course, cousin. I will help you. However, you must not let that doctor leave the hospital at all cost. If he disappears... don't even think that my father will spare you for making us look like clowns."

Cao Haoyue shuddered in fear and nodded her head. After hanging up their call, she instructed her bodyguards to guard the hospital's entrance and exit to block the young doctor.

But even after waiting for a day, they still didn't see the young doctor they were looking for.

It was as if he disappeared without a trace.

Chapter 220 Ran Xueyi, For The First Time, Felt Unsafe

Qin Mo had already guessed that the middle-aged woman who came to threaten him that morning would try to keep him inside the hospital. But he didn't think that it would be so exaggerated that he had to call someone to help him get out of the hospital without being seen.

"Hahaha... What happened, Qin Mo? Are you running away from one of your female patients again?" Lu Che grinned at the man with the most expressionless face he had seen in his life.

Qin Mo glanced at the rearview mirror to give him a look before he replied, "It would have been much easier if it were the case."

That's right... If it was just a female patient who wanted to court him and chase after him, he could just give an excuse to them so they could stop harassing him. However, that middle-aged woman wanted to take him away for questioning.

Lu Che saw the complicated look in his eyes and sighed, "What happened?"

"Nothing..." As he said this, he opened the file that was in his hand and looked at the details on the examination report. He eyed the address and contact number for a while before grabbing his phone to send a message.

At this moment, Ran Xueyi was preparing to go to the studio where the thriller movie was going to be filmed. There were several people who already arrived to take a look and there were some stars who also came there for one purpose; to get themselves familiar with the atmosphere of the movie.

Since she was only playing the third female lead role, Ran Xueyi didn't have many scenes. However, her role was a core character that will force the main characters to act. Without her character, the main characters will continue to run around the places and have no idea on how to proceed with the plot.

Her character's name this time was called Ruan Jiaojiao, a young woman who was also the first person to get in contact with the male lead, Gao Yang, a police officer. When she was still in high school, the first boyfriend she had cheated on her, causing her to awaken her darkest desire and do her first murder.

That's right. Ran Xueyi's role this time was one of the murderers, psychopath murderers, who will be captured in the end.

However, her character was quite an elusive and cunning one. Ruan Jiaojiao didn't only successfully get into the police station Gao Yang worked at, she was also a policewoman working alongside him. No one expected that the naïve and innocent policewoman who can't even stomach the sight of blood in every crime scenes turned out to be a murderer.

On one hand, she claims to be an innocent bystander working at the police department, helping the main characters gather more clues on the murderers running rampant in the country. And on the other hand, she was a murderer that the country wanted to capture so badly because of her cruel and bloody method of killing her victims.

"Ran Xueyi's role is very tricky. You will be acting two roles at the same time." Director Sun said when they got to her character when reading the script.

Ran Xueyi also knows this. She wasn't only playing the innocent and naive policewoman who wanted to fight for justice, she was also playing a psychotic character who will torture and kill people.

"Don't worry, Director Sun. I will do my best to portray my roles well," Ran Xueyi said.

Director Sun nodded at her before pointing out other characters in the movie. The artists who will play the main leads were also in the conference room inside the studio and listening carefully to the guidance Director Sun was giving them.

After the informal script reading, the artists started to try to get close with each other. Gao Yang's actor, Su Zixi, and the female lead's actress, Miao Li, especially went to look for Ran Xueyi since the three of them will need to get familiar with each other. Miao Li was playing the girlfriend and also another policewoman who worked much earlier with Gao Yang.

Su Zixi and Miao Li didn't underestimate Ran Xueyi just because she was inactive for several years. They treated her as if she was their senior and asked for her opinion while they tried to unravel the plotline.

"Gao Yang is really pitiful. He didn't only lose his girlfriend because of his stuck up personality, he also got fooled by Ruan Jiaojiao's innocent face." Su Zixi lamented when he was halfway through his script.

Miao Li laughed at his words and also said, "Don't say it anymore, Brother Zixi. I think Gao Yang deserves what happened to him. After all, he cheated on Ning Qian with Ruan Jiaojiao. But I think Ruan Jiaojiao's is the most pitiful character in the movie in my own opinion."

Su Zixi agreed with her instantly.

He glanced at Ran Xueyi, who was blankly staring at her script and wondered if she was too engrossed in her character's role. After all, Ruan Jiaojiao's character has many suffering and painful scenes.

What the two didn't know was that Ran Xueyi was half-listening to their conversation. Despite appearing normal as if nothing happened today, she was shaken up due to the doctor's message.

Doctor Qin mentioned that there was someone who was trying to force him to talk and wanted to know about her examination results, leading her to think of some people who would do this.

Was it her mother? Or Ran Yue?

p Ran Xueyi thought that it was possible, however, they never really cared about her well-being. Why would they suddenly have the urge to know about her health when they never showed any interest in the past?

Was it Song Yu Han?

That was not impossible. But Ran Xueyi knew that Song Yu Han wouldn't do something like that. He would ask her face to face why she went to the hospital. And recently, he hadn't sent anyone to follow her movements.

Then, who could it be?

Ran Xueyi, for the first time, felt unsafe.

Now that she was pregnant, she couldn't just make decisions without thinking about her child's safety. Moreover, she was curious why the person approached Doctor Qin in the first place since she never told anyone about her plan to go to the hospital. Besides that, she also made sure that nobody was following her before she went to meet Doctor Qin.

There was only one thing she could think of... That person saw her at the hospital and hid somewhere.

That person knew her, but she didn't.

Ran Xueyi waited until the day was over before she headed outside. She couldn't rest and calm herself down while someone was trying to do something behind her back.

She needed to find out what happened and who is that person.