Chapter 160: Silver Milk

Yes! I did not want to repeat my past mistakes but this was not my past to right my wrongs. When Chris, Amanda and Maya narrated mama and papa Wyatt's life experiences I knew I could not look at this world with earth glasses on because this was not Earth, to begin with. Heck people here do not know what the world they live in is called because they could not explore the world beyond the numerous high-level dungeons that are surrounding them. People here are restricted to a limited land to live in much like the monsters limited by their dungeon.

Colour me surprised when I knew that almost all of the low and middle-level bureaucrats and noble families of the Sky blossom city were dogs of the Circle while some of the top and high-level bureaucrats and nobles were the loyal members of the Circle. All in all the whole Sky blossom City was the Circle's backyard. With such a powerful and cruel enemy how could I hope to live in peace with my loved ones?

After learning the reason for mama and papa Wyatt's death I knew without enough strength I did not have the choice to live a peaceful life. Not to mention now that the circle knew I had the same origin card as mama Wyatt it would not let me have my freedom let alone live a peaceful life. Aura sight is a very resourceful origin card that is key in the Circle reaching its goal. That is why I or the Kane trio do not understand why the Circle killed papa and mama Wyatt despite their obvious usefulness. Disposing of the useful tool was not like the Circle, it is a mystery I had to solve. Anyway, they needed a new tool and I was it. They are waiting for me to spread my wings before they shackle me and show me my place as their obedient tool.

I have been too high profile recently and the circle should have already learnt all about my growth and it's only a matter of time before the circle decides I have grown enough and comes looking for me. Knowing what the future had in store for me changed my mind about this world along with my ideals and morals within a few deep minutes. I was feeling guilty about using the calamity daughter core to cure Chris, Amanda and Maya, as rust turning them into my subordinates but learning the cruel reality about this world where I or anyone I hold dear could die any time the guilt was no longer there instead I no longer intended to hold back my power. I was going to make use of the parent/daughter core and build a loyal and strong army greater than the Circle and its circle of influence.

Therefore there wasn't a shred of guilt in me when I tricked Van, Sarah, Pablo or Fred into ingesting calamity daughter core. Since they are my subordinates I won't take them for granted or treat them badly. They all would have their free will as long as they stayed loyal to me.

Having upgraded their grimoire I ordered Pablo and Fred to help Sarah in the merger of the three guilds. For now, those three had their hands full with the creation of the new guild. There should not be any opposition since the trusted representative of their late guild themselves agrees to the merger and also because with most of the elite adventurers of the guild dead it would be very hard for the guilds to stand alone.

Even though the adventurers of the three guilds knew that some powerful force out there had just massacred most of the guild members and the guild leaders they did not choose to leave the guilds because they knew it did not matter if they left the guild if the enemy wanted to wipe out the very last member of the guilds. Not to mention no guilds will recruit them knowing they abandoned their old guild in time of need.

While Sarah was busy announcing the merger of three guilds along with Ferd and Pablo. Van and I visited the D-rank Silver beach gate dungeon. Where I made a huge discovery.

I had asked Van to find a suitable E-rank or above dungeon belonging to three guilds for me to feed its dungeon core. My reason to feed on a dungeon core was the dungeon calamity seed and its habit of exclusively feeding on a dungeon core in hopes of reaching a higher evolution. I thought maybe devouring a dungeon core would be the third condition to unlock the 3rd transformation of my origin card calamity soul core. Van did as I asked him to and he found two dungeons matching my requirements one was D-rank and another one was C-rank. So I chose to visit the D-rank silver beach gate dungeon.

The inhabitant monsters of the D-rank silver beach gate dungeon were giant poisonous crabs. If not for the poisonous part these crabs would be sought after for their meat. The crabs are not to be blamed; they are not poisonous by birth, it's the ocean water they feed on that is poisonous. Yes, the topography of the D-rank silver beach gate dungeon had a small beach with a part of the ocean.

The water of the Ocean in the D-rank silver beach gate dungeon was silver in colour due to an unknown poison in it. Therefore the gate dungeon was named silver beach.

After visiting the D-rank silver beach gate dungeon I discovered that the poisoned ocean believed by the adventurers was not a sort of poison but silver milk. I was able to tell because I had created this silver milk in my lab back on earth. If I remember correctly, silver milk was just a byproduct produced during the production of the Viltronian superhuman serum I had created to fight the Viltronian bastard.

"I am home." Announced Corey as she locked the door behind her.

"You are early today sweet pea." William, who was cleaning the ceiling of the flat, inquired.

"I feel like I am about to break through to the card soldier realm. So I asked big sis Susan for an early leave." Answered Corey as she headed to her room to freshen up.

"My granddaughter is the most talented. If only you were not be distracted with this new job of yours and single-mindedly concentrate on the cultivation you would have ascended into the card soldier realm much earlier." William nagged

"Stop it, grandpa. I am not quitting my job. If anything it helped me grow a lot as a person." Corey's thoughts were different from her grandpa's.

"I never asked you to quit, I just pointed out that you would have ascended to the card soldier realm a lot sooner without that job distracting you." William didn't seem to give up on his argument.

"I will not be having dinner tonight as I will be trying to break through to the realm so don't disturb me." Saying that Corey shut the door of her room.

I conducted a series of quasi-experiments using the gathered data by observing the system of the D-rank Silver beach gate dungeon. And I was right this poisonous ocean water was indeed Silver milk. Silver milk is indeed deadly for a human as it has an insanely high level of sodium concentration in it. These levels of sodium concentration can lead to organ failure and heart attack even in a card student or a card scholar.

The reason for these high levels of sodium in the silver beach ocean water is the salts contained in the ocean water. These salts were not normal salt, they were highly concentrated and vigorous. In layman's terms, these salts are strengthened by the soul energy which brings a change in their compound structure. Leading to insanely high levels of sodium concentration in the salts.

Sodium helps the body to maintain fluid levels. In the human body, the balance of fluids and sodium is necessary for the health of the heart, liver, and kidneys. It helps regulate blood fluids and prevents low blood pressure.

I consider the discovery of silver milk as a huge discovery because of the miraculous effects of the salts extracted from it. There is a popular belief that salts are best for food preservation, and are dubbed as microbe killers and food savers. But actually, not all salts are the same, some sea salts help in the growth of various types of microbes.

Similarly, the salts extracted from silver milk can help in the growth of a certain rare and special type of microbe which is commonly found in the earth's atmosphere. A little amount of this salt when placed in an enclosed container void of light can produce tonnes of these microbes in the enclosed container. Later these microbes are extracted and processed to be stored in powdered form.

These microbes are special because they help in the all-around development and growth of the human body even breaking the normal limits of the human body reaching the superhuman level upon prolonged regular consumption. I did not know how these microbes did this until I came into this world, turns out these microbes help in increasing the active soul control % of humans with prolonged regular consumption.

In this world, there is no external way or shortcuts for achieving 10% active soul control. Nearly 86% of people in this world do not achieve 10% active soul control before 17 years old and are deemed as late bloomers for having a lesser talent for active soul control cultivation. These people will pay an arm or leg for their progeny to reach 10% soul control before they reach 17 years of age. Just take young Wyatt as an example, he was scammed into bankruptcy being promised a way to increase active soul control %.

If I were able to grow and mass produce these microbes then I would no longer have money troubles. Yes if I played my cards right I would no longer need to worry about money or soul jades but that is easier said than done. I may solve my money problem but I will be putting my life in jeopardy. If I had to monetize the microbes efficiently while ensuring my safety then I would have to find a strong backer and partner, who better than the one who governs everyone, the central government. If I get in bed with the government in the production and sales of these dry powdered microbes I will be making significantly less money but my life will be out of danger.

Revising the plans for my future course of action I began extracting salts from silver milk to cultivate a batch of the special microbes and produce the silver milk powder. Since the microbes are produced by the salts extracted from silver milk and consumed in the dry powdered form they are termed silver milk powder.

"Hey gramps what's for dinner? I am starving." Said Corey as she walked out of her room in nothing but a tight tank top and extra short shorts.

"Sorry, sweet pea. I only prepared dinner for myself since you said you did not want any." William answered as he set up the dinner table for himself.

"Fine, then I will enjoy this meal as you prepare meals for both of us again. This amount of food will not satisfy my hunger." Without care, Corey did not wait for William's response and began devouring the meal William had prepared for himself.

"Sure, sweet pea. To celebrate you stepping into the card soldier realm, I will also bake a special dessert for you." William excitedly headed to the kitchen satisfied seeing his beloved granddaughter enjoying his hand cooked meal.

"And gramps, I'm quitting my job at the association mall tomorrow." Declared Corey with her face stuffed with food.

"Great!" Hearing Corey finally willing to quit her job as a mere staff William finally beamed with joy. Though he supported Corey's decision it doesn't mean that he thought his precious granddaughter working as a maid for a bunch of ants was a good idea. William was so happy that he failed to notice the change in Corey.

Chapter 162: Dwarfed Giants

Date- 25 Mar 2321

Time- 21:23

Location- Sky Blossom City, D-rank Silver beach gate dungeon.

I raided the D-rank Silver beach gate dungeon planning to devour its core and see if it could satisfy the hidden condition of unlocking my third transformation but due to the discovery of the silver milk, I had to put it on hold.

Successfully concocting the first batch of silver milk powder I ingested the powder, it tasted tasteless and bland like the whey protein powder back on earth but it contained way more nutrition and soul energy in it. If this powder were to be injected from childhood people may be able to reach 10% active soul control even before reaching 16 years of age. So everyone will be a genius or a 16-year-old card apprentice would no longer be considered a genius or a talent. This powder will bring in a revolution in this world and I who is at the centre of this am bound to gather a lot of attention.

Without thinking too much about the implications of me introducing this product to the world I began writing two different papers on my findings on how to destroy a calamity dungeon core and silver milk powder production and application. Having completed the paper coming out of the gate dungeon, I called Elliott because he promised me he could get my findings patented within a day.

“Hey, Wyatt. If you have called, thank me, do not bother. Your people have been a lot of help, they just protected me from an ambush a few hours ago. Don’t worry, I am fine.” Elliott answered the call and joyously reported his status.

“What about my relatives and the Kane siblings?” I thought I was sending them away from harm’s way but it seems I had underestimated the dispute between Elliott and his siblings.

“They are fine but it will take them some time to settle in their new life. And also the ambush on me was rewarding, Maya has successfully upgraded her grimoire to golden grade. Right now we are out shopping for suitable B-rank and A-rank cards for Maya.” I was happy to hear that the Kane trio’s visit to Blossom cake city was already yielding results.

“Good to know that everyone is safe. Hey, I have written two papers on two different findings of mine, help me apply for a patent for both. The second findings are a bit sensitive. Be more cautious than usual applying for the patents.” I advised Elliott to be careful as the findings I am about to send to him were very sensitive.

Was I worried that Elliott would betray me, yes? Did I give Elliott all my findings regarding Silver milk powder? Yes! In the paper that I forwarded to Elliott, I had explained in detail how to produce silver powder and what its application was. But did not mention where to find the key ingredient in the production of the silver milk powder, the silver milk. Yes, There was no mention of the silver beach dungeon or silver milk being ocean water in the paper. What’s the use of the recipe if you do not have the ingredients? Without proving the existence of silver water the whole paper I wrote on silver milk powder would be just treated as a work of fiction. But publishing the paper and patenting my findings wouldn’t be a big deal.

“Sure, send it over, I will give you the good news tomorrow morning at the latest” Elliott assured me.

5 minutes later

[Elliott calling... (Ans/Reject/Ignore/Reply)]

‘Answer’

“Wyatt, is it true! You are not kidding right.” Elliott frantically asked. He could not believe the second paper his friend had written he went through it 5 times before calling just to be sure he was not hallucinating.

“I am serious, if you find it hard to believe it then come over I have a batch of freshly concocted silver milk powder on me you can verify it.” I could understand Elliott’s disbelief, silver milk powder was just that unbelievable.

“No, I believe you. That is why I am planning on doing something big so if you are kidding me just tell me now otherwise it will cost my life.” It seems Elliott was not boasting when he said he could get my findings patented in a day.

“Trust me, I am the last person to joke about this kind of thing.” I assured Elliott because I was sure whatever he intended on doing would benefit me more than him.

“Good, I will get back to you within 3 hours. Keep the silver milk powder safe. If possible, make more of it.” Elliott ended the call

Since I could not verify my hypothesis about devouring the dungeon core to meet the hidden requirements to unlock the third transformation of my calamity soul core at the D-rank Silver dungeon gate dungeon I came to the second dungeon of the two dungeons which Van had listed for me, C-rank Mount tribe burial Caves gate dungeon.

Similar to the Silver beach gate dungeon, the Mount tribe burial cave gate dungeon was also one of the least profitable dungeons. except for training purposes, this cave did not serve any other purpose or bring any form of income to the guild. So it was listed along with Silver beach as useless dungeons for me to devour the dungeon core.

The inhabitant monsters of the Mount tribe burial Caves gate dungeon were mutant zombies of the mount tribe. The Mount tribe are a mountain settlement of dwarfed giant race whose height spans from 4 to 7 meters.

A dozen of 4 to 7 meters tall mutant zombies rushed towards me and Van who had just entered the dungeon through the gate. I singled Van not to take action as I wanted to see how strong I have grown after forming the calamity dungeon core.

Chapter 163: Sacrifice

Date- 25 Mar 2321

Time- 21:51

Location- Sky Blossom City, C-rank Mount tribe burial Caves gate dungeon.

A dozen of dwarfed Giant mutant zombies rushed towards me, seeing these eleven to twelve 5-6 meters tall mutant zombies run at me I did not feel an oppressive sense one would feel upon such a sight instead I was excited and I followed my desire as I made use of Viltronian flight and flew straight punching a zombie on the temple of its skull. My punch was so vigorous that it shattered the zombie's skull and penetrated its brain, killing the zombie on the spot. I tried to do the same to the other zombies but I was surrounded and about 4-5 zombies clawed at me, sending me flying and crashing into the pavement.

Even though I was just a card soldier I was able to kill a C-rank monster which is a level higher than me because my viltronian physique had been strengthened by my 4 times mutated refined soul energy. That is to say, my Viltronian physique was 4 times stronger than any normal Viltronian physique. So even though I was one level lower than the C-rank monster I was still easily able to kill it with a punch. Similarly, even though I crashed into the pavement under the force of the combined claw attack of the zombies I was still unscathed there wasn't a single scratch on my body.

Even though I was stronger than the mutant zombies, the mutated zombies had two advantages over me, their enormous build and numbers. If I continued to fight with zombies in the same style I would take a beating but eventually, come out victorious. But I had another ace up my sleeve which I wanted to test for a while now, getting out of the rubble I looked at the mutant zombies who dashed at me and a grin formed at the corner of my mouth as I activated the second transformation of my calamity soul core, Viltronian Titan.

'Boom!'

With a loud explosion, an enormous amount of heat and energy was generated as my 1.7 meters tall body transformed and grew into a 21-metres tall giant. Unfortunately, the caves were not tall enough to hold my tall physique and I hit my head on the ceiling of the cave. The height of the cave was about 18 meters or so. I had to bend over to fit in the caves. This restricted my mobility, I wanted to go on a rampage with my new form but the lack of height in the caves made me feel like being caged and I even felt a bit claustrophobic. So, I hurriedly took care of the zombies by stomping them all into meat patties and transformed back to the first form of calamity soul core, Viltronian.

Knowing that I cannot freely use my 2nd form in this dungeon was a letdown. I asked Van to clean the zombies on our way as we headed to the boss room of the dungeon. Stepping into the boss room I saw a bulky 9 meters tall mutant zombie holding a war hammer. Other than finding the requirements for the hidden conditions for the 3rd transformation of my calamity soul core I had another reason to visit the dungeon that is to test the effect of my calamity daughter core on a monster and the mutant boss zombie in front of me was a good subject to conduct my experiment on.

Therefore I handed a calamity daughter core to Van and asked him to use force or trickery to feed it to the mutated boss zombie. As the mutant boss zombie let out a war cry, Van with an unimaginable speed sprinted next to the mutant boss zombie and stuffed the calamity daughter core down its throat.

Swallowing the core the mutant boss zombie's furious facial expressions became mechanical and unnatural before it finally submitted to the calamity daughter core and acknowledged me as its master. As the boss monster was enslaved the core of the dungeon revealed itself.

It seems my experiment was a success and it opened endless possibilities for my future combat style. Looking at the mutant boss zombie which was respectfully bowing to me I shook my head as it had to die because I did not make prior arrangements to take it with me. And also with calamity daughter core, I could enslave a Lord Level A-rank monster so why settle for a C-rank monster.

Disposing of the C-rank Boss monster also gave me a chance to test the ability which allowed me to sacrifice the calamity daughter core hosts to recover my soul energy. When I activated the sacrifice ability I felt a surge of soul power in my body and simultaneously I noticed the mutant boss zombie wither as the surge of energy in me grew. Finally, the boss monster turned into dust and dissipated with the wind.

After sacrificing the boss zombie I turned my attention to the dungeon core. The core of different ranks of the dungeon is different and the core of the C-rank dungeon is about the size of an adult human. Walking next to it I could feel the incredible amount of soul energy stored in it, the core was brimming with soul energy so much so that pure vapours of soul energy leaked out of it. I placed my hand on it and felt the soul energy in the core and then summoning my grimoire I began sacrificing the soul energy in the core to my origin card.

It took me an hour to suck the whole dungeon core dry of the soul energy and several notifications sounded in my grimoire.

[The first condition for unlocking 3rd transformation of Calamity Soul Core satisfied.]

[ (10000/10000) soul jades stored for the creation of 3rd transformation body]

[You have sacrificed a C-rank Dungeon core to your origin card calamity soul core and unlocked extra privileges for the calamity daughter cores.]

Reading the notifications I shook my head in disappointment as my hypothesis turned out to be untrue. Instead of satisfying the hidden condition, it helped me achieve the first condition of sacrificing 10,000 soul jades to create my 3rd transformation body. Not only did I not manage to find the hidden condition but made a huge loss as a C-rank dungeon was worth more than 10,000 soul jades. But still, this experiment yielded some results. I did not know what privileges for calamity daughter core were opened but I think it should be good as I had swallowed a C-rank dungeon core for it to give me these privileges. To check the privileges obtained by the calamity daughter core I turned to Van...

I never thought that sacrificing a dungeon core to my origin card calamity soul core would open extra privileges for me. Giving it thought I think this has something to do with dungeon calamity seed and its addiction to devouring dungeon core. Anyhow though my experiment wasn't successful still it saved me 10,000 soul jades and gave privileged authority to the calamity daughter cores I create.

The privilege I gained is that the calamity daughter cores that I create can unlock their second form without me having to unlock my 3rd transformation of calamity soul core, this was huge. I devoured the dungeon core mostly because I wanted to unlock my 3rd transformation of calamity soul core as soon as possible so that all my calamity daughter cores can access their 2nd transformation.

Being able to access their 2nd transformation meant that each of my calamity daughters core could now single-handedly defeat an army of card apprentices of the same realm or even jump realms and defeat enemies with the higher realm. Just take Van as an example he could now easily kill 3-4 card lords as easy as killing flies. But this also meant now I had to gather 1000 soul jades for each of my calamity daughter cores. Thankfully I had discovered the silver milk which will soon take care of all my money troubles.

Having conducted my experiments and made substantial gains with few unexpected discoveries I sent Van to help Sarah while I returned to the warehouse waiting to hear from Elliott. With Sarah gone I thought finally I will be able to sleep in the bedroom I had Susan built for myself. Imagine my anger when I saw Ronnie sleeping in my bed butt naked. It was me who walked in, what if it was Susan or Corey? This puck needs to be taught a lesson.

Grabbing hold of the butt naked Ronnie by his ankle I dragged him off the bed. His body slammed onto the cold hard concert floor jolting him awake from his snoring slumber.

“What the Fuck!” Ronnie yelled curses in a half-awakened state until he saw my menacing face, the shock chased away all his sleep, “Cousin...”

“Shut up and get dressed first.” Hearing my harass tone Ronnie knew he would pay dearly for pissing his cousin off.

After confirming the truth to the papers forwarded by Wyatt, Elliott called one of his capable and trusted connections, Anna Heatsend. Anna Heatsend is a slutty but great friend of Elliott. He met her when he visited the southern region central government administrative building 3 years ago. Unlike others who would admire or praise his intellect and later scorn him for his disability behind his back, Anna was different. The first time they met she said, “I will turn you into a man if you are game.”

Anna was more than a slutty good friend, she was very capable and had a wide reach and connections. Her origin and work were a mystery to Elliott, all he knew was that she worked at the southern region central government administrative building. As long as he had any work at the central government administrative building a call to Anna would take care of it. Thinking about Anna, her devilish body And their arrangement for tonight an unconscious grin formed on Elliott’s face.

“Hello, Elli. Can’t hold it any longer and want to start over the call.” Anna answered the call and teased Elliott for calling her even though they had agreed to meet later tonight.

“Anna, as much as I would love to take you up on your offer I will have to reject it as this call is regarding work.” Elliott steeled his mind and talked about the matter at hand.

“Elli you are no fun! It’s past 9:30 and night is still young. Why are you ruining my mood with work stuff?” Anna was in no mood to discuss work with Elliott.

"I have a way to raise your mood with me here. I will send it to you. After reading it you will want to do it with me for a week." Elliott was not a virgin anymore, he knew how to handle one or to sluts God occasionally sends his way.

"I will be the judge of it." Saying that Anna hung up the call and opened the file Elliott had shared with her.

Elliott was no fool, he only sent Anna the conclusion and results section of Wyatt's paper on Silver milk powder and its uses. He knew that after reading the result section no matter whether the info that he had sent was true or not Anna would still call him seeking verification and answers just like he did with Wyatt.

And he was not wrong to think so, 5 minutes later,

[Anna Heatsend calling... (Ans/Reject/Ignore/Reply)]

"Elliott I thought better than this... sending false reports to gain my attention, is it because you are not confident about your manhood." Anna did not believe a single word in the file sent by Elliott. The file claimed what many academicians tried to find for over centuries.

"Anna quit it, I need an audience with her eminence. Only in her presence, I will reveal the complete findings and the final product." This was the reason Elliott contacted Anna instead of contacting the patent and trademark association. The existence he spoke of here was none other than the commander of southern watch Card emperor Maiden of hell.

"Elliott, aren't you getting bolder... just because I want to bed you doesn't mean I will go along with every demand of yours. Her eminence is not something you can meet whenever you want." Though Anna's words said one thing, her playful tone which delivered the words said another.

Elliott has been with her long enough to know what she meant, said, "What will it cost me?"

Chapter 165: Emperor of South

"What will it cost me?"

"Send me a picture of the goods." Anna's playful tone suddenly got serious.

“Anna, you know I can’t do that. Trust me the Silver milk powder and its results are real.” Elliott had complete trust in Wyatt’s words, therefore he wanted to do this one right.

Once the patent for Silver milk powder is granted it will attract a lot of attention most of it will be bad. So before applying for the patent, Elliott wanted to make sure that they had a strong backer, the Commander of Southern watch was it. But if Elliott wanted to get close to the commander he needed Anna’s help as she had an unclear relationship with the commander of the southern watch.

The southern watch is the strongest force present in the southern region governing and protecting all the cities in its area of action. As the commander of Southern watch and the only card emperor in the southern region, Maiden of hell had complete control and authority over the southern region. It would not be wrong to say that she was the emperor of the south.

If Elliott can get the card emperor back Wyatt and his Silver milk powder nobody would dare to have double thoughts about Wyatt or silver milk powder. But getting the Card Emperor’s support and protection would not be easy or cheap, not to mention the bleak future that awaited Elliott and Wyatt if the silver milk powder can not deliver the results it promised. Elliott had complete faith in Wyatt so he did not hesitate to risk it all by playing it big. If all this pans out then he is bound to have huge returns.

“Not that silly the other one in your pants. If it isn’t big enough I will be making a loss.” corrected Anna. She was really worried that the goods in Elliott’s pants would not be as big as he promised.

To her silver milk powder was not that important as she did not believe that Elliott could achieve what the academicians of the top 10 universities could not achieve for centuries. She had seen many who claim to have found a way to increase active soul control in mortals which turns out nothing but them fooling themselves into believing that they were different and their product was different. Honestly, she was a little turned off by Elliott due to this but remembering his handsome face all her dissatisfaction vanished.

“One moment” Elliott’s luck with girls has been at its peak ever since he got rid of the wheelchair and his sickly body. He had hot and sexy sluts coming and going not to mention the retention rate was near a hundred percent, they all returned for seconds. All thanks to his origin card because of it his bro down in his pants could do what no man on the planet could do or offer. Elliott snapped a pic of his bro down in his pants at its peak and most favoured shape and shared it with Anna.

“So, what do you think?” Elliott asked Anna proudly.

“Done, I will arrange a meeting between her eminence and you after I am done with you.” Anna did not hide her eagerness.

“Can it wait for after I had an audience with her eminence?” Elliott had promised Wyatt that he would call back in 3 hours with the results. As Elliott stated that his grimoire sounded with a notification, it was a semi-naked pic of Anna grabbing her large melons.

“What do you think?” Anna’s voice inquired from another end of the call.

“When will you be here?” Asked Elliott thinking that Wyatt would understand.

“I am right at the gate of your community, so 1 min tops.” Answered Anna.

3 hours 45 minutes later,

“That was the best I ever had.” Mouthed Elliott as he gasped for breath.

“Surprisingly, this time I can say that too. what you lacked in the technique section your origin card ability made up for it. I strongly suggest you purchase some pleasuring technique skill cards for our second sleepover... I will take a shower now.” Anna had her fair share of sausages and recently even the best ones have started to seem bland. For someone as experienced as Anna, Elliott and his abilities were like a bone from the heavens. otherwise, she was considering playing for the other team for a change.

As Anna left for a shower, Elliott who was still in the bed could not help but think, ‘Why does it feel like I am like damaged goods and where is this shame I am feeling stemming from. Did I not do what all men dream about with the woman all men dream about wanting to do it with.’ Anna’s experience and her active lead left Elliott doubting his masculinity.

Having taken a shower Anna returned in a new set of dress. This time it was not as revealing as the last, but rather it was more professional.

“Now when will you arrange the meeting?” Having taken care of his needs Elliott did not forget about the work assigned to him by Wyatt.

“Right away... Here” saying that Anna summoned her grimoire and passed it to Elliott, as Elliott took Anna’s grimoire it turned from golden grade to platinum grade. Seeing this Elliott was shocked and confused, not knowing what Anna was hinting at.

“You wanted an audience with me, right.” Asked Anna Looking at the confused Elliott.

“You- you are the commander of the Southern Watch Card Emperor Maiden of hell.” Elliott was dumbstruck, finally figuring out Anna’s real identity. No wonder whenever he called her with a problem it would be solved within a moment’s notice.

“You should see your face. Now let’s talk business.” Said Anna. But Elliott was still in shock, he did not know how to react because he just bedded a card emperor. Never in his dreams did he have the courage to imagine doing it with a card emperor.

When Elliott was processing his shock he realised something which almost twisted his reality. The Card Emperor at the minimum is over 100 years old even his grandmother, if alive, would still be in her 80s. Realising this Elliott had a revolting urge in his stomach but he soon suppressed it down remembering every nook and corner of Anna’s tight and plumpy body. So what if she is older than his grandma she was the best he ever had to date.

Thankfully Anna did not know what Elliott was thinking otherwise she would have beaten him to death with her strongest and cruellest move.

Chapter 166: Nanomorpher

Since Ronnie had sullied my bed by sleeping naked on it I had to change the sheets and blanket before I used it. But I could not sleep remembering that Elliott had said that he would call me back in 3 hours. Instead of sleeping, I started practising abyssal bear form. With my card soldier realm and mutated Viltronian physique, the effect of the E-rank martial arts card had become redundant for me. So I decided to make a card to pass some time while awaiting Elliott’s call. I had just the card in mind, the HoverBike card.

Due to recent events, I was rather busy and did not have the time to create the HoverBike card. I had already received all the parts for the HoverBike and they are stored in my cardholder. Since I finally had some free time at hand I should create this card rather than having the ingredients eat dust in my grimoire cardholder.

Ever since I bought the hoverbike ingredients I had lofty plans for it. Back on earth, there was this anime in which the humans using nanotechnology created new-age vehicles with the unique abilities to morph into sentient humanoid or beast shaped robots, known as Nanomorphers. This anime was very popular and later had an entire movie franchise devoted to it.

So I was going to imagine the same technology and give the HoverBike the ability to morph into a sentient humanoid-shaped robot. I was going to use my robotics and golem creation knowledge to achieve this. Sadly, The height of the humanoid Robot can only be 6 to 7 meters, not enough to be considered a mech because of the limited body of the hoverbike.

I was also going to use a calamity daughter core in the creation of the hoverbike to give it sentience making use of the Hive AI. I even planned on giving the hoverbike the alloy replication ability of the Iron flesh card. As I thought it would be a great addition to the skill set of the hoverbike. I had asked Susan to purchase the ingredients required and she had nearly arranged all the ingredients asked for in the warehouse.

[Black Steel x 40

High Spit Firestones x 10

E-rank Metal Tooth Slime essence x 40

E-rank Metal Tooth Slime Core x 40

F-rank Black Iron Bug essence x 108

F-rank Black Iron Bug core x 108

E-rank High Wood Wisp core x 40]

Having gathered all the ingredients without any further delay, I placed all the ingredients on the card creation page and proceeded with the card creation. First I decided to turn the stock body into a liquid black steel armour body capable of taking any given form and withstanding heavy damage. The stock body provided by the association guild mall was just for design and style to attract customers. it could not handle high damage therefore I had to change it no matter what. The stock body of the hoverbike was already in card form so I did not use a core instead I morphed the stock body card into a core to proceed with card creation. By repeating the steps and soul pathway and arrangement transfer I used in Susan's slime armour origin card I was able to turn the stock body of the hoverbike into a liquid black steel armour body.

After taking care of the stock body of the hoverbike, I transferred the soul pathways of the soul energy reactor and the soul engine along with the floater components of the hoverbike to the core which contained the liquid black steel armour body. And following the card recipe and manual for the hoverbike given by the association guild mall I arranged and aligned all the soul pathways of the soul reactor, soul engine and the floater components within the liquid black steel armour body.

Inside the core, I could see a jet black hoverbike made up of liquid armour which would occasionally dissolve and again assemble to form the hoverbike. Now I created a calamity daughter core and combined it with the core containing the liquid armour hoverbike. This way I could program the liquid armour bile to morph into any form I desired.

At this step of the card creation, I realized why I should limit the form of the liquid armour hoverbike to one humanoid form. Instead, I could leave it as it is, this way I could access several forms by instructing the sentience of the liquid armour hoverbike formed by using the Hive AI of the calamity daughter core. Just like Susan's slime armour which could take the form of any armour card sacrificed to it. I did not do this to Pax's Iron Flesh because it was one of a kind card. It would be hard for him to find a 21-meter golem or armour card to copy, therefore, to compensate him I add three transformations to his origin card. With this the creation of the hoverbike card was complete.

[Card Name: NanoMorpher(HoverBike)]

Card Type: Item card

Card Rank: C-rank, Uncommon Grade

Card Rating: 4-Stars

Card Durability: [97/100]

Card Effect: NanoMorpher is a sentient HoverBike with unique abilities to morph into a sentient humanoid or beast shaped golem. Also replicate the shape, size and ability of the golem cards it feeds on.

Additional effect – absolute replica(passive) memory(passive) alloy replication, Hive AI, Float(active), Accelerate(active), vacuum brake(active)]

Except for Hive AI, none of the other abilities of the calamity daughter core were suitable for the Nanomorpher card. But still, I was satisfied with it and its abilities. It took me nearly one and half hours to complete the hoverbike card and it was past the time pacified by Elliott yet he had not contacted me. Thinking that he must be busy or something came up, I headed to sleep.

Just as I got into the bed I received a call from an unsaved contact,

[Unknown contact calling... Ans/Reject/Ignore/Reply]

I did not know who was calling but considering the timings, it must be urgent otherwise they would have called at a much appropriate time.

Chapter 167: Teleportation

Date- 26 Mar 2321

“Hey, Wyatt this is Elliott... send your current location to this grimoire quickly. I will explain later.” Elliott’s came from the other of the unknown caller. I was surprised as Elliott could have just called with his grimoire and why is he sharing my contact info with someone without my knowledge. But before I could answer or ask him he hung up. Not knowing what was happening, trusting Elliott I sent my location to the unknown caller’s grimoire. Just as I was in deep thought regarding Elliott and the unknown caller, suddenly two figures appeared out of the blue in the bedroom, a meter away from me catching me off guard, “Holy Ghost!”

“See we landed a meter away from him.” Said the charming female who was dressed professionally to Elliott who was next to her.

‘Location teleportation – A high-level teleportation not limited by distance or predetermined location but the coordinates of the destination. As long as you have coordinates to the location you can teleport there. No wonder he asked for my location. Wait this is more than normal location teleportation which only allows the host to teleport, she was able to teleport with Elliott. This card is of mythic grade beyond the rare grade, meaning she has a platinum grimoire. Thankfully I do not have the bad habit of sleeping naked like that mutt Ronnie.’ Knowing that the female next to Elliott had a platinum grade grimoire I decided to look past their rudeness for invading my bedroom without permission. Now that I had an idea of what was going on I regained my composure and calmly gazed at Elliott and his female companion.

Seeing my questioning gaze Elliott let out a simple apologetic smile and explained, “Your highness this is Dalton Wyatt. *Ahem* Wyatt, this is her eminent commander of the southern watch, Card Emperor Maiden of Hell.”

‘Card Emperor!’ Knowing the true identity of the female next to Elliott I hurriedly got off the bed and with respect, I said, “Dalton Wyatt, pays respect to her eminence the Card Emperor.”

“Interesting boy, what have you done to your body? It is stronger than a C-rank beast’s body even though you are just in the Initial card soldier realm. The purity of the soul energy in your body is off the charts, it’s a lot denser than regular soul energy. Elliott said his physique is thanks to his origin card. Is your condition the same?” Under the Card Emperor’s gaze, my mutated soul energy and special physique both could not stay hidden. Thankfully my false human core was architected copying the design of dungeon calamity seed, which was a mystery to demigods let alone a Card Emperor.

“Elliott has a variant clear scale earthworm core in him which explains his mutant physique. But I do not sense any monster core in you. How did you get your mutant physique and soul energy?” Card apprentices having a monster core in them was not a new concept. Many Card apprentices had monster cores as their fated ingredient, some extracted powerful skills from these cores to create cards, some incorporated these cores in their bodies to gain a half-human half-beast form known as Were Form. So the card emperor was not surprised to find a false core in Elliott’s body. Seeing my physique she thought the same about me but she was unable to find any core puzzling her. Just when I was sweating bullets considering how to explain to her my physique and soul energy mutation, the Card Emperor said, "Everyone has their secrets right, let's not dwell on it and talk about the business we are here for. shall we?"

"Yes, your highness" yelled Elliott enthusiastically. He seemed very proud and close to the Card Emperor for some reason, almost as if he was her manservant. I never felt so much disgust for Elliott. I guess the title Card Emperor and the power it comes with could charm and bind the best of us.

"What business does your highness have with this humble high schooler?" I asked. Seeing how she was keen about the variant monster core in Elliot and our mutant physique, I thought she wanted to get the recipe for the card I have created.

"Wyatt, take out the sample of the Silver Milk Powder let her eminence see and verify your product, with the help of her highness we could launch the product without any trouble in the market." Hearing Elliott a bomb exploded in my head 'fuck! this idiot invited a gator inside the house.'

I do not know what Elliott sacrificed to get the Card Emperor to personally come and verify my product but I was sure she was so casual and easy-going because she was 100% certain that our product was a hoax. After all, if she felt there was even a 1% truth to our product being able to turn mortals into card apprentices faster then she would not hesitate to silence us after getting our product.

Now consider my predicament, who knew that the Silver milk powder had 100% results in helping mortals become card apprentices by helping them cultivate their active soul control % faster. I knew if I showed my product or denied having such product in the first place either way I and Elliott both would be killed, for wasting her time or silencing us. Worse if my words raised suspicion then only hellish torture awaited me. Knowing I would be murdered, either way, I decided to play along and improvise.

"Your highness, this is the Silver Milk powder I have created. Upon prolonged intake, a mortal can cultivate his/her active soul control % faster and become a card apprentice." Introducing the Silver Milk Powder I handed the batch of Silver milk Powder I had on me to the Card Emperor.

The Card Emperor scanned the silver milk powder with her keen eyes then smelled it before licking a pinch of the silver milk powder, upon a sudden realization she consumed a handful of powder and her eyes shone with brilliance.

Chapter 168: Drill Machine

Date- 26 Mar 2321

Time- 2:42

Location- Sky Blossom City, Guild Association Mall, Warehouse no.234

Ingesting the Silver Milk Powder Anna felt nothing at first because she was a Card Emperor and the advantages brought by silver milk powder was redundant to her current realm but with the high-level realm came absolute control over her bodily functions and inner soul energy which allowed her to notice the effect of the silver milk powder, it indeed excited her soul energy and active soul control but this boost by silver milk powder was nothing to her high active soul control if not for Anna meticulously observing and searching for any sign of change in her soul she would have missed it.

Upon discovering the small sign of anomaly Anna ingested a handful of the silver milk powder to confirm what she felt earlier, with consumption of a large quantity the anomaly became obvious. There was a sign of silver milk powder positively affecting her active soul control but to her, the effect brought by the silver milk powder was superfluous. But still, her eyes shone brilliantly as if she had been enlightened or found a chance to change her destiny.

Though the Silver milk Powder was useless to Anna she realized the infinite wealth and power it would bring to anyone who could control its supply and production. With this powder, she could convert an army of mortals into an army of card apprentices within a year. Realising what Elliott had claimed was true Anna glanced at the person who made this possible, a high schooler. To think which the academicians of the top 10 universities could not achieve over centuries with all that resource and advanced knowledge at their disposal, this high schooler who was not even two decades old had achieved it with limited resources and knowledge in a rundown city deemed unfit and abandoned by the government and other powers.

Feeling Card Emperor's hot gaze scan me from head to toe I was uncomfortable but I could not voice out my discomfort because I was weak. Noticing my discomfort the Card Emperor coughed and finally returned to normal and said, "Congrats Master Wyatt you have successfully solved the problem which the government and the top 10 universities were trying to solve over centuries. Your achievement has no praise which I cannot applaud you with. If I may, Master Wyatt could you show me the creation process of this Silver milk powder."

This was the power of an inventor and scientist. So what if I am weak no matter how strong the card emperor was she could not reproduce or replicate something like silver milk powder. The Silver milk powder has gained me the acknowledgement of the card emperor and now even she had to erase the scorn and disgust she had in her eyes when she arrived with Elliott and call me Master even though I was several realms weaker than her and several decades younger than her. But I did not let her flattery get to my head and fool me,

"Your eminence..."

“No need for honorifics Master Wyatt... your achievement has earned you the right to call me by my name... please call me Anna.” The Card Emperor interrupted me and asked me to drop the honorifics and call her by her name. I was more than happy to oblige with her request.

“Anna, let’s not be hasty. I believe you must have read the paper I have shared with Elliott. Then you must know Silver milk is an absolute ingredient in the creation of silver milk powder, I have none on me right now. So I cannot demonstrate to you the production of the Silver milk powder.” I would be stupid to carry Silver milk or the salts extracted from it on me because with that in her possession Anna can with enough time find the D-rank Silver beach gate dungeon. I deliberately left out the part of extracting salts from silver milk and credited the growth of the microbes to the silver milk, this way they would not know that silver milk is actually ocean water. If they knew that silver milk is ocean water with enough time and trial and error method along with the process of elimination, Anna and her cronies could easily discern that the poisonous ocean water in the D-rank silver beach gate dungeon is the silver milk I have mentioned in the paper.

I am sure that right now in her mind Anna is making dozens of plans to get all the information regarding the ingredients and production of the silver milk powder and then dispose of me and Elliott. Though Elliott wanted to find me a big backer to keep out the hyenas, this successfully solved the problem of the hyenas but brought a tiger inside. Instead of giving up and blaming Elliott or begging for our Life, I decided to negotiate while I still had the upper hand.

“So, why don’t we go find the ingredients? with me here It should be easy right?” Said Anna as her eyes shone in brilliance, hearing I did not have the key ingredient and could not perform a demonstration Anna was not disappointed instead overjoyed and offered to help find the key ingredients. This way she can know where to find the ingredients and eliminate the need to keep me and Elliott alive.

“Wyatt I am sorry it looks like I brought our doom upon us.” Anna could not be more obvious. Even Elliott, who was charmed by her for some reason, finally snapped out of it and realized the grave mistake he had made. To kill the rats he poisoned his corps, this was the stupidest thing he had ever done. Turning to me Elliott knelt and sincerely apologised. Elliott realised that even though he got rid of his disease he had contracted something much worse which led to his downfall, douchery. The old Elliott even though wheelchair ridden would never made such a rookie mistake.

Seeing Elliott’s action Anna laughed not caring about her plans having been seen through. With her power, she did not have to use any trickery but it saved her some time and honestly she enjoyed all the drama.

“Good, looks like you guys are not dumb. Elliott honey, don’t take this personally. I enjoyed our sleepover especially that part where your thing starts spinning like a drill machine. I enjoyed it so much that I planned on adding you to my collection of toys. But fate has other plans... Do not blame me, blame the circumstances for putting you in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Hearing Anna I looked at Elliott and shook my head. This dimwit screwed everything I have built just because he could not control his urges. Feeling my gaze Elliott looked away in shame. Elliot knew he went overboard with his newfound freedom which now costs him his life.

Chapter 169: Competitors

Date- 26 Mar 2321

Time- 2:58

Location- Sky Blossom City, Guild Association Mall, Warehouse no.234

"Cough everything out do not leave a single detail. And don't make me say the old cliché villain dialogues, it will just piss me off." Since her intentions were found out Anna no longer cared to cover her motives and blatantly showed her true colours. Not just Anna if it were someone else in Anna's place they would do the same. The allure of Silver milk powder and its importance was that significant enough to turn to the dark side.

"I get it you are not a third rate villain from a story... Nor am I the third rate tragic hero of the story. Let me make it clear, I have nothing to lose and I care about myself more than anybody. Go ahead, do your worst." As soon as these words came out of my mouth a red arc of soul energy extended out of Anna aiming at my knees. The next second, I fell on my back. Laying on the ground I saw my cut off feet still neatly erect on the ground. The scene was horrifying and not for weak hearted people. I did not feel a little bit of pain as the energy blade was that sharp and fast. Surprisingly no blood was spilt out as the arc cut off my legs it also burned my wounds such that I would not bleed.

"I made it painless, but next time I will not be that generous..." said Anna. Elliott looked at me with an ashen face the guilt he felt showed on his face.

I scoffed at Anna and her threat as thanks to my origin card I had already ascended the mortal body. With Hive AI I can dampen my pain receptors and later restructure myself of a new body so torture was useless on me. As for mind control, illusion, truth serum etc types of cards I could just shut off my consciousness in calamity soul core and have the Hive AI operate my body. But I did not plan to let it go to that point.

"Anna, let's negotiate... that's the only way you can make me talk, these third rate theatrics do not work on me." My word angered Anna as another arc extended out of her body and claimed my left arm, just like she said this time it was painful but I had already dampened my pain receptors just in case. Seeing me not scream and weep in pain Anna was puzzled.

“looks like normal means will not work... good Wyatt you have managed to piss me off.” Saying this bright red energy oozed out of Anna which made her look devilish. Seeing that this woman would kill my mortal body. I decided to no longer agitate her and show my leverage. Because if my body is dead I risk my calamity soul core being discovered. Which was worse than revealing the Silver milk powder secrets.

“Anna, I have already saved drafts about my complete findings of silver milk powder addressed to various editorials, agencies and government authorities, including the grimoire network. I have even added your name as the reason for my death.

Either you calm down and negotiate with me or I will hit send and the mails will reach their destination.” I revealed my leverage to Anna who wanted Silver milk powder for herself. I was in my current condition because Anna did not have equal competition. She had a solo monopoly over me and my product but by threatening her that I would give all the information to everyone else for free I created an invisible competition that she lacked.

“Who will believe you? I have hundreds of ways to erase you from society, make it such that you never existed.” Anna was unfazed by my leverage. But I knew she was only downplaying my hand to get better terms in the negotiation.

“At first no one will believe my words but when they notice the commander of the southern watch and her cronies active in Sky blossom city it will raise suspicion. Considering the importance of the Silver milk powder you know what will happen next.” I explained just to emphasise that I am not falling for her tricks.

“You will kill me anyway. But this way I will make sure you won’t have an easy time either.” Anna’s face was unsightly but soon her expression eased as she offered, “Okay fine as long as you give me the info I need for the creation of silver milk powder I will let you live.”

“Anna if you are not being sincere I might as well just send the drafts to not waste our time.” I had to let Anna know I knew what I wanted and she should stop screwing around and negotiate seriously.

“Fine! I will purchase the info in exchange for 10,000 soul jades and your life.” Finally, Anna started to get serious and negotiate with me. But her offer was not sincere enough.

“Do you think I am a beggar! The research is mine so the patent will be in my name. But I am willing to give you the exclusive rights to the production and supply of silver milk powder for 70% royalty.” I put forward my demands. My demands were too high considering that my life was in Anna’s hands. But in a negotiation, you always start high.

“You got some nerve, you take what I give you. You are in no place to make demands. I can allow you to register the patent in your name but you will sell it to me for 12,000 soul jades later. Don’t push your luck with me.” Ordered Anna.

” You must be delusional if you think you can just buy the patent for 12000 soul jades.” There is no way I will sell the patent for 12,000 soul jade if I did I would be the dumb bady of the millennium “Nope! not happening, the patent stays in my name and you get exclusive rights to the patent for 65% royalty.”

“Wyatt, you must be tired of living if you think you can keep the patent. The only way you can live is if you sign a soul contract stating that you will sell me the patent of the silver milk powder otherwise ....”
