Chapter 220: Lucy

Date- 27 Mar 2321

Time- 9:02

Location- Sky Blossom City, The Sky Blossom Card Stadium, Arena 38

“Arena 38, Winner Lucy Robert”

The second set started at 8:50 and since the card fights had a time limit of 12 minutes, the second set of the first round lasted till 9:02. After witnessing Tom’s victory over John. I turned my gaze towards Arena 38 where Ed Bright was supposed to fight against Lucy Robert. To my surprise, the duel at arena 38 had long reached its conclusion with Lucy Robert as the winner. Yes, Eb Bright, one of the lucky few to be blessed by my calamity daughter core lost to nobody.

Thankfully the VIP boxes smart array window screen had a recap function which allows me to see what transpired in Arena 38. Yes, I Banned three bright brothers from using their second transformation but the 1st transformation of the calamity core was more than enough for an opponent like Lucy Robert.

Arena 38 recap,

Ed and his opponent Lucy both got on the arena 38. Unlike previous times Ed was not talkative or tried taunting his opponent. He seems to be taking this duel seriously unlike his old self who would underestimate his enemies. Looks like the calamity daughter core has enforced some positive reinforcement on him.

“3.. 2.. 1.. Fight!”

As soon as the match began Ed summoned both his undead summons, Skeleton Fiend and Undead Scorpion. Then Ed ordered Skeleton fiend to engage his enemy as Vanguard while the undead scorpion served as his bodyguard. Until now I saw no fault or lack of judgment on Ed’s Part. As a summoner card apprentice with a bronze grimoire, this is the most Ed could do being limited by card ratings of the bronze grimoire. Thankfully he did not need to focus on the defence card thanks to the Viltronian physique provided to him by Calamity daughter core.

“Dessert Cannon”

“Hexa shield”

Lucy, unlike Ed who chose to hide behind his summons, activated her origin card and went on offence as soon as she heard the referee start the match. I was curious about Lucy's origin card Dessert Cannon, what the fuq is a Dessert Cannon? Does it shoot cakes and biscuits at its enemy? Turns out I was right, both of Lucy's arms turned into two huge cannons and started shooting Cheesecake.

[Card Name: Dessert Cannon

Card Type: Origin Card

Card Rank: Unique Grade

Card Rating: -/-

Card Durability: -/-

Card Effect: The host's forearms turn into Cannon and shoot explosive shells in the shapes of all kinds of Dessert known to the host.

Additional Effect: Sugar High – turn sugar in to bomb. the explosive power of the Dessert shell's shot by the cannons depends on the amount of sugar in the Dessert shells.

Restriction: the host should sacrifice the Dessert shaped ammunition to the origin card.

Note: Max ammunition per Cannon x300]

[Card Name: Hexa Shield

Card Type: skill Card

Card Rank: C-rank Uncommon Grade

Card Rating: 14-stars

Card Durability: [98/100]

Card Effect: the host can summon a 4-meter radius hexagon shaped 6 layered energy shield.

Additional effect: Shock resistance, Enhanced durability, heat resistance, Self-repair]

Shock resistance – Thanks to its 6 layered arrangement the shield can absorb all the shock waves directed at the host.

Enhanced Durability – Being stacked on layers all the 6 hexagon shields are more durable as any damage obtained will be equally distributed between all 6 shields.

Heat Resistance – the shield is resistant to all forms of heat. The summoned Hexa shield has a high-level heat resistance and it can protect the host behind the shield from extreme temperatures.

Self Repair – when not under attack the shield can generate and repair itself using the soul energy stored in the grimoire.

'Boom!'

Before everyone could soak in the surprise of cheesecake shaped ammunition the duel had reached its conclusion. Within a blink of an eye, the result of the Card fight in arena 38 was decided. It seems it wasn't just me who missed the duel and had to watch the recap, everyone in the audience focusing on arena 38 had to watch the recap. Because the results of the duel were concluded within a second. This match may be the fastest victory during this tournament with a record time of 2.56 seconds.

Ed was not to be blamed for his loss because most of the participants participating would also have achieved the same results. Who would have thought a cute loli would be packing so much explosive power? Thankfully Lucy was not aiming for Eb's life. Otherwise, Eb would have lost one or two limbs in the explosion instead of being seriously injured and suffering from a 1st-degree burn. This was the condition of Ed despite having a Viltronian physique so one could imagine the amount of explosive power in the Cheesecake ammunition.

Lucy Robert is the female heir of the Robert family. Despite being 17 years old looked like a middle schooler thanks to her petite figure. Being the female heir meant she had to be the ideal woman but unfortunately her figure did not allow it even the people working under her did not take her seriously. But Lucy was an ace in other areas, she was a talented card apprentice and a ruthless leader. Thanks to her origin card it did not take long for her to consolidate her strength in the family and suppress all the patriarchal-minded voices against her in the family.

With the signal of the referee, Lucy did not hesitate to activate her Origin Card at the beginning of the duel she knew that though her opponent knew what her origin card was he would still underestimate the power behind her dessert shaped ammunition so she planned to use it to her advantage right off the bat. But Lucy did not aim at her opponent, instead of his skeleton summons as knew that if she directly aimed at her opponent he may lose his life.

Sugar High, the additional effect of her card allowed Lucy to create explosion shells with unimaginable destructive power. Higher the sugar content in the dessert shaped ammunition higher the destructive power behind the Dessert shaped ammunition.

The catch of this additional effect was there was basically no limit to the amount of sugar she can add to her Dessert shaped ammunition meaning that there is basically no limit to the destructive power behind the Dessert ammunition she fires at her enemy's.

One ammunition of hers can be equal to a punch from a toddler or a punch from a Card emperor; it all depended on the amount of sugar in the ammunition. Therefore Lucy personally made all her Dessert shaped ammunition using the Baking occupational card.

The two cheesecakes that Lucy used to attack Ed's skeleton packed enough explosive power to disable a Card Grandmaster. Thankfully the explosion force was in the forward direction otherwise even the Hexa shield summoned by Lucy could not protect her from getting out unscathed from her attacks.

So, Ed never stood a chance against the ammunition which could even disable Card Grandmasters, with his Card soldier realm and Viltronian physique. The full brunt of the explosion was bore by the skeleton fiend summoned by Ed. While Ed was only in the outer part of the explosion range still Ed was thrown out of the arena stage disabled, heavily Injured and with 1st-degree burns all over the body

Seeing the recap of Ed's duel I realised I could not completely rely on the participant info list given by Bright brothers. Lucy was a Black colour level threat but she was marked as an Orange colour level threat.

[Unknown Contact calling... Ans/reject/ignore/reply]

Anna who had left VIP box no.1 did not leave instead stayed wanting to watch the man who made her heart race in action but she was disturbed by an incoming call to her grimoire, the call was from an unsaved contact but still, Anna decided to pick up the call,

[Ans]

"Hello, Daughter. how are you?" A husky male voice sounded from the other side of the call and addressed Anna as Daughter.

"Fuq! It's you, Traitor. You have lost all the right to call me your daughter. Get this through your head I am not your daughter. Your daughter is dead. Knowing you, I bet you didn't even attend your daughter's funeral. Oh! Wait I killed everybody related to her so except you she should have nobody to bury her and give her a proper send-off." Hearing the voice Anna went berserk and started yelling and cursing. As this voice belonged to the man who stole her mothers happiness. This voice belonged to the man who betrayed her grandpa, uncle and her clan. This voice belonged to the man who was the very reason for the sadistic bitch she is today. This voice belonged to the man who was the cause of every wrong and sadness in her life.

"You know me well my daughter. Talking to you reminds me of your mother. By the way, how is she fairing?"

Chapter 221: Ruthlessness

Date- 27 Mar 2321

Time- 8:58

Location- Sky Blossom City, Above The Sky Blossom Card Stadium

How dare he! How dare he! Seeing the guts of the traitor to bring up her mom Anna was enraged. Infuriated Anna was no longer thinking straight, her mind was consumed by anger so much that she wanted to blast the noisy card stadium below her but soon a figure of a teenage boy flashed in her mind, halting her in her action. Remembering the teenage boy Anna came to her senses and regained her calm.

Anna's fascination with Wyatt was not because she fell in love with him but because she genuinely admired him. She admired him for his guts to cheat a Card Emperor while he was at his death bed losing both his feet, an arm and an ear. Despite her sadistic and foxy impulse Anna always tries to be aware of her surroundings and the people she is surrounding herself with.

Thinking back to the day she met with Wyatt she noticed that despite losing his feet, arm and ear Wyatt bargained with her till she caved to his terms. And as the cheery on the top, he tricked her into thinking that she was taking advantage of Wyatt, which prompted her into agreeing to provide him protection. Later he dared to trick her again into buying the dungeon for a fortune despite there being no competitors for it. When Anna knew all this she was angry but her eyes showed appreciation for Wyatt.

Anna longed for what Wyatt had, which made her think that being with him and knowing him should help her learn what makes Wyatt different from the rest of the herd. But sadly Anna who did not have a normal childhood did not know how to make friends, all she ever had were flings, subordinates and enemies. Knowing Wyatt she knew he would not respond well to her authoritarianism therefore Anna decided to offer herself to Wyatt to seek what she lacked in him.

What did Anna lack? She was the Card Empress of the Heatsend Clan. She was born with a genius-level aptitude and intelligence. As for the other materialist things they would be provided by her clan. Confidence and willpower, Anna had so much of it that she ascended to the Card emperor realm before 100 years of age. In a way Anna was lacking nothing, that's what she thought until she walked into the real world and found out that she was just another emotion-filled hormone controlled meat bag. Being used by her father to kill an entire family made Anna realise this reality. Numerous decades have passed since that incident but Anna still could not get over the fact that she played right into that man's hand.

How could she allow that traitor to take advantage of her like that, though Anna could not find answers to this question she understood how someone so smart as her mother fell for the oldest trick in the book, she was not ruthless enough, ruthless enough on herself and people surrounding her. This ruthlessness Anna saw in two people the traitor and Wyatt. She did not know how Wyatt hid it but Anna saw right through his disguise, the reason why Wyatt would not respond well to authoritarianism is that he is an authoritarian.

"You done? I will hang up the call now." Anna finally realised that she did not have to accommodate someone whom she hated down to her bones, she could hang up just like Wyatt did with her. Hanging up the call Anna felt like she gained a certain control and power over that man. Since the beginning of the call, she never felt in control of the conversation thanks to her messy emotions and that traitor made sure to make use of that to drive the conversation into achieving his motives. Hanging up the call gave Anna a sense of self-satisfaction.

Anna did not know what that traitor wanted from her but she was pretty sure that for that man to take initiative and call her for the first time since her birth at a time like this then his motives could not be more clearer, Silver milk powder. It has only been a day since the silver milk powder was granted patent but it already shook the entire world powers. It seems her family will also have to hasten their plans.

Nearing the final three minutes of the duel both Jaya and Ned were running out of patients. Jaya no longer tried to destroy the arena floor seeing it remain unscathed even after taking her strongest punch, coming to the conclusion that the arena is made of high-grade alloy.

As for Ned, he was scared. It was funny to see Jaya try to break the floor but soon witnessing the force behind each punch of Jaya, Ned realised that he was not a match for Jaya in close combat. One punch of her's could fatally wound him if aimed at his vitals, the punches may even send him to his death bed.

Being in Were-Form Ned still did not have the confidence to go head to head with Jaya and her monstrous strength. Therefore unlike Jaya who was wrecking her nerves to end the duel before the time limit, Ned was praying for the time to run faster so that the duel would end in a draw and he would not end up lose to a girl.

Unable to come up with a solution to get rid of the black water surrounding her or finding Ned, every passing second was like a ticking time bomb to Jaya who frustratedly let out a shout like an angry beast. Feeling stuck Jaya finally decided to use the other cards in her grimoire.

“Wind Jab”

[Card Name: Wind Jab

Card Type: Skill Card

Card Rank: C-rank, Uncommon Card

Card Rating: 16-stars

Card Durability: [95/100]

Card Effect: The host coheres all his/her soul energy and strength to his/her fists and performs an overwhelming Wind Jab, dealing physical damage to the enemies on the path and slowing them. The Wind Jab explodes when it hits an obstacle.

Additional effect: knockback – The enemy unit hit by Wind Jab will be knocked back.

Note: The force and explosive over in the Wind Jab depends upon the strength and soul energy of the host. Distance of the Knockback effect will also depend on the strength and soul energy of the host.]

Balling her fists and gathering all of her soul energy and strength onto them Jaya punched out fists-shaped ball of wind vigorously at the eyewall of the black water hurricane's eye. The downpour of the wind and water at the eyewall is very robust and extremely lethal but soon the effects of Jaya's Jabs began to show, the rotational speed of the hurricane started to decrease with every punch of hers.

Chapter 222: Breakfree

Date- 27 Mar 2321

Time- 9:01

Location- Sky Blossom City, The Sky Blossom Card Stadium, Arena 17

Every punch of Jaya's created a basketball-size wind fist that would explode on the eyewall of the hurricane's eye. One had to know that a Viltronian Soldier's pure raw strength was already enough to create wind fists, just by punching in the air Jaya could create wind fists which is why this card was a good fit for her as she could provide the necessary strength and soul energy to continuously generate these wind jabs with inhuman stamina level.

The Wind Jabs had the effect of exploding upon meeting an obstacle, these continuous explosions started to break the eyewall created by the hurricane. The effect of the wind jabs showing as the speed of the hurricane started to decrease rapidly. The hurricane would collapse any second now, yet there was still a minute for the duel to end. Ned knew as per the physical prowess displayed by Jaya she would require less than 10 seconds to defeat him. Therefore he decided to use his final move, Blackwater Burial. He knew this move would not help him defeat Jaya but as long as it drags her until the duration of the duel is over it will have served its purpose.

Ned swam to the top of the slowing Blackwater Hurricane, using his Blackwater manipulation and Blackwater dome abilities he reverted the swirling black water into a black water dome again capturing Jaya at the centre of the dome. Jumping out of the Blackwater dome Ned activated a skill card as he blew out freezing cold air onto the black water dome, Turning the Blackwater dome into a frozen black water dome as he safely landed on it.

“Super Freezing Breath”

[Card Name: Super Freezing Breath

Card Type: Skill Card

Card Rank: C-rank, Uncommon Grade

Card Rating: 23-stars

Card Durability: [94/100]

Card Effect: when activated the host's breath is capable of freezing objects and generating hurricane-force winds. His super freezing breath can extinguish fires or freeze things.

Additional Effect: Enhanced Lungs – The host could also hold his/her breath for a very long period, allowing him/her to travel underwater without a breathing apparatus.

Note: if you are suffering from a cough please be careful while using this card may lead to friendly fire.]

Right now Jaya was restrained inside a frozen black water dome, no wonder Ned named his final I've Blackwater Burial. Suddenly Jaya who was immobilised in the frozen black water dome moved her eyeballs showing that she was alive and not completely frozen. A second later frozen Jaya started to glow with brilliant bright blue light, “Boom!” The frozen Jaya exploded, along with her the frozen black water dome exploded. As for Ned who was standing on the frozen dome was caught in the aftermath and blown off the arena getting automatically disqualified.

[[Card Name: Break free

Card Type: Skill Card

Card Rank: C-rank, Uncommon Grade

Card Rating: 19-stars

Card Durability: [94/100]

Card Effect: the host can gather all the soul power and strength in the body to emit an explosive shock wave to surroundings.

Additional Effect: All the physical restraints restraining the host will explode with the emission of explosive shock waves.

Caution: After using this card the host will enter an abnormal status, Weak.

Note: the card does not Discriminate. Be it friends or foes, meet your maker.]

Weak- all the stats and card effects of the card apprentice under this abnormal status will be suppressed by 90%.

Technically Jaya never exploded, she just emitted an explosive shock wave which exploded the frozen black water dome restraining her. Thankfully Jaya did not exhaust all of her energy leaving just enough energy and strength to explode the huge black water dome and throw Ned off of the arena. So in the end Jaya proved that god does take care of fools and drunk.

“What are you doing here?” Asked Diana looking at Jaya who dragged her weak body to the Fine Gold VIP seating area.

“Sister, I am under abnormal status ‘weakness’.” Instead of answering Diana, Jaya complained about the debuff on her as a result of using the skill card ‘Break Free’, to her sister with puppy dog eyes.

“So?” Asked Diana but looking at Jaya who had teary eyes, Diana sighed, “who’s fault is it? The duel was a joke, and your performance was extremely disappointing and pathetic.”

“I know sister I was wrong! Sorry, I will practice harder next time. Could you please ask Barbara to use her origin card on me?” Jaya hurriedly apologised and agreed with her sister knowing to argue will only get her in more trouble.

The woman named Barbara summoned her grimoire to negate the debuff on Jaya using her origin card but before she could do so. Diana glared at her. Being glared at by Diana, Barbara retrieved her grimoire and hurriedly apologised before returning to her seat, “Sorry, boss. I will be taking my seat now.”

“Sister!” Jaya protested seeing Diana stopping Barbara from helping her.

“What are you doing here?” Diana asked again but this time there was more force behind Diana’s voice.

“I... I... I wanted to watch the tournament with you sister.” Jaya lied, unable to say that she was too embarrassed to return to VIP box 1. After the incident with Anna and now this disappointing win Jaya was too embarrassed to step into the VIP box 1.

“What did you do?” Knowing her sister, Diana concluded that the fault lay with Jaya.

“Why do you always think I am at fault?” Jaya wanted to guilt her sister to not force her to go back to VIP box 1.

“You know how important this thing is to us, right? Mend your relation with Wyatt, without his support all our plans will come to a halt. It may seem like currently the southern emperor is out to get him but mind you he is worth a lot alive than dead to them.” Diana reminded Jaya about their objective.

“Okay. And what about the abnormal stats on me, I cannot participate with this in the second round.” Jaya reluctantly agreed to return to VIP box 1 but demanded to get rid of abnormal stats on her.

“Sure you can. If you can skip your training then you can also participate in the second round with the abnormal stats.” Diana did not agree to lift the weakness debuff on Jaya. Because she knew Jaya could not get the first rank in the tournament and anything below the first rank was pointless. Also because accommodating all of Jaya's mistakes would only make her spoiled and she would never learn.

“Name’s Dan, Dan Malvin, leader of the Great Eagle gang. You must have heard.” Dan arrogantly introduced himself to Nick. Nick was not only his opponent in the tournament but in his real-life too. Both being the gang leader of one of the top three high schools in sky blossom city they were bound to be rivals.

“Yes, I have heard of you. I am Nick Bright, leader of the Bright Lions Gang.” Nick politely greeted his opponent. Surrendering to the calamity daughter core Nick has realised what mattered, what was important, what he should prioritise and what he should fight for. Nick did not care about the childish rivalry which Dan showcased.

“Are you sure you are the leader of the Bright Lions gang? I heard you lost to your classmate whom you used to bully. How lame!” Dan looked down at Nick for losing to someone he bullied.

“Did you watch the video of the duel?” Nick asked because anyone who watched the video would not be looking down on him or his lord.

“Participates ready!”

“3..2..1, fight!”

“No, I did not... ” despite the announcer announcing the start of the duel Dan ignorantly continued to converse with Nick only to be interpreted by a punch to his face.

“C-rank skill card: Speed Reinforcement”

“C-rank skill card: Strength Reinforcement”

“C-rank Martial skill card: Dragon Kong Martial Arts”

[Card Name: Dragon Kong Martial Arts

Card Type: Skill Card

Card Rank: C-rank, Uncommon Grade

Card Rating: 14-Stars

Card Durability: [87/100]

Card Effect: Equipping this card the host gains Master Level proficiency of the martial technique Dragon Kong Martial Arts.

Additional Effects: Dragon Vigor, Dragon Boost, Dragonskin

Note: This card does not help in marital bed performance.]

Dragon Vigor: This effect gives the host the ability to heal minor injuries received, minor heal.

Dragon Boost: This effect boosts hosts stats by x2

Dragonskin: This effect increases the host's defence.

Having gained the physique of a Viltronian through the daughter core Nick changed his fighting style after I warned him about the attack and movement speed of his origin card Mountain golem. This change in fight style was not sudden, Nick knew his shortcomings and had already planned to fill the gap with martial arts but martial arts cards require a lot of training and workout for a Card apprentice to fully display its prowess. But now Nick had a Viltronian physique which was made for martial art cards.

Dan was unguarded and did not expect Nick to pull a fast one, he thought Nick being a summoner like him would summon his Mountain golem as he summoned his blood puppet and together they can have the ultimate showdown in the history of the tournaments, yet his dreams were broken being treated by a punch to his face.

“What the fuq are you doing?” Dan yelled glaring at Nick who was looking at him dumbfoundedly.

“How are you still standing?” Nick was confused, Viltronian strength along with strength reinforcement and Dragon boost gave Nick confidence that he could K.O Dan but to his surprise, Dan did not move an inch after being punched by his full strength.

“Surprised, this all thanks to my origin card. It not only allows me to summon a blood puppet but also enhances my physical strength and defence by a huge margin.” Dan did not mind revealing the abilities of his card to Nick.

“Aren’t you full of surprises!” Saying that Nick pulled back as his opponent also seemed to be well versed in close combat.

“Nick, let’s make a bet. If you win, the Great Eagle gang will become the underling of your Bright Lions gang but if I win, your Bright Lions gang will become the Great Eagle gangs underling. What do you say? We are bound to cross paths sooner or later. Now the question remains, do you have the guts to settle it right here right now, one on one.” Dan proposed a bet and he seemed to be serious. He had to be because the entire sky blossom city was watching this broadcast.

“An interesting idea you got there. Good, I accept your bet. Winner takes all.” Nick did not hesitate to accept the bet as I commanded him to accept the bet through Hive AI. A butcher wouldn’t be butcher if he did not slaughter the fat pig that presented itself under his blade.

“Mountain Golem” In front of Nick a 13-meter huge mountain was summoned, hearing his call it unravelled into a 20 meter tall Mountain golem.

“Blood puppet” A 16-meter diameter blood orb appeared in front of Dan which then morphed into a 20-meter tall humanoid blood puppet.

“How is it? Not bad huh! Blood Titan verse Rock Titan, this is going to be one epic battle in the history of Sky blossom city.” Dan yelled and laughed maniacally “Shut up and fight.” Nick had enough of Dan’s blah blah... and asked him to commence the battle with annoyance.

[Card Name: Blood Puppet

Card Type: Origin Card

Card Rank: Unique Grade

Card Rating: -/-

Card Durability: -/-

Card Effect: The host can create a single blood puppet with the amount of blood he has sacrificed to his origin card.

Additional Effect: Blood Reinforcement – the host gains physical reinforcement based on the amount of blood sacrificed to the origin card.

Chapter 224: Soul Armament

Date- 27 Mar 2321

Time- 9:07

Location- Sky Blossom City, The Sky Blossom Card Stadium, Arena 13

Two 20 meter tall giants appearing in arena 13 attracted all the attention of the audience towards them. 40 card duels were being held in 40 different arenas in every set but none of the arenas had ever managed to gain the complete and undivided attention of the audience like arena 13. Unfortunately for everyone, the arena was not big enough to hold the fight of two 20 meter tall giants. Either of the giants tried to take a step forward or backwards they would be out of arena bounds and automatically be disqualified.

“Contestants of Arena 13, please use the One-time use skill Summon Armament Shift card soon to be provided by the referee to continue the duel otherwise, you will be disqualified.” It seems the school had already thought of the problem of the arena not being large enough for large summons, maybe Pax summoning his mecha was their wake up call. Therefore the announcer hurriedly reminded Nick and Dan to fight using the One-time use skill Summon Armament Shift card. I did not know what a Summon Armament shift was but its name made it obvious that it must be something related to summons and weapons.

[Card Name: Summon Armament shift

Card Type: One Time Use Skill Card

Card Rank: C-rank, Uncommon grade

Card Rating: 4-stars

Card Durability: [97/100]

Card Effect: This Item allows the host to turn his/her summon into an Armament for the host to use as he pleases.

Additional: Armament Spirit,

Restriction: The Summon can turn into any form of armament depending upon its master's wish.]

Armament Spirit – the Beast will of the host's summon would serve as the spirit of the armament giving the armament access to all the powers and abilities of the summons.

Note- Once the Armament Spirit recognises its master all the stats of the summon turned armament's stats will be distributed to the host's stats.

Knowing the Card info of the Summon Armament Shift card I was impressed, but what impressed me more was that the school was willing to fork out such a good card, one-time-use cards are cheaper but something rare like a Summon Armament Shift Card must be worth a lot of money. But it was understandable why the school was willing to take out something like a Summon Armament Shift card because all the cost would be borne by the sponsors of this tournament, the White sponsorer City hall and Black sponsorer The Circle.

“Really dude? I wanted to write history here and you want us to fight with toy weapons. Have you seen anyone remembering people fighting with toy weapons, Demigod Toy Master doesn’t count.” Dan yelled at the announcer. He did not care if the arena was too small for two giants to fight; he just wanted to give the audience duel worthy of entering the pages of history.

Dan’s words received a huge round of cheers from the audience. The audience was also tired of watching these rookies playing Card duels. These duels were fine for the parents of the contestant who were proud to watch their babies grow. But the audience who paid 300$ per seat to watch this shit were bored and considered it a waste of money. The tournament was a huge success at the school level but once it was promoted to city level it could not match the hype it had created. Therefore when they heard Dan’s words the majority of the audience agreed with him.

“Contestants please follow the tournament rules otherwise it will warrant an involuntary surrender.” The announcer was not pressured by the Audience’s enthusiasm and asked Dan to follow the rules if he does not want to be disqualified.

“Whatever. It seems I can give you the epic battle I promised Nick. ‘Blood Puppet Armament’” Dan turned his attention to the arena and used the one-time use skill Summon Armament Shift card.

The 20-meter tall humanoid blood puppet turned into a 16-meter diameter blood orb which later shrank to a 2-meter diameter blood orb which swallowed Dan into it and then morphed into a full-body blood-red armour fitting Dan perfectly.

“Mountain Golem Armament” Nick also activated the one-time use skill Summon Armament Shift card. The 20 meters tall mountain giant reverted to its 13-meter high mountain that shrank to a 200-centimetre diameter boulder before splitting into two equal-sized 100-centimetre diameter rocks. Each of these two rocks swallowed each one of Nick’s arms and transformed into Rock gauntlets.

“I choose to turn my summon into a full-body armour because I am afraid of pain and getting hurt, what about you I? Why did you choose a gauntlet?” Dan asked Nick why he chose a gauntlet but instead of receiving an answer Dan was once again greeted by a punch to his face.

They were in a duel, not a talk show. So instead of responding to Dan and his unnecessary rant, Nick let his fist do the talking, a proven effective way to shut up loudmouth people. Despite the delay, Nick and Dan's duel would not be provided any extra time because it would disrupt the schedule already in place. So Dan had already wasted half of the duel talking nonsense which annoyed Nick who wanted to complete the task provided by his master as fast as possible.

Dan received Nick's punch with open arms; he did not seem to consider Nick's attack as a threat and had a lot of confidence in his full body blood armour. He was right in doing so as Nick's did not break through his defence. Which caused Dan to sneer and taunt Nick saying, "your punches are too weak Nick, do not tell me that this is the best you can do even with a summon armament."

"meteorite jump" Nick sneered at Dan's taunt as his last punch was bait to make Dan underestimate his strength for when he pulls out his ultimate move, the meteorite Jump.

Chapter 225: Meteorite Jump

Date- 27 Mar 2321

Time- 9:11

Location- Sky Blossom City, The Sky Blossom Card Stadium, Arena 13

"Meteorite Jump", The ultimate move of the Mountain Golem. This move marvellously propels a few tones weighing mountain golem to 300meters up in the sky which would physically be considered impossible. When the egg-form mountain golem descends from such a height it would descend with a swift speed under the effect of gravity quite similar to a meteorite. Thanks to the Armament spirit skill of the summon Armament Nick could also be able to use this move of Mountain golem.

As Nick jumped up 300meters into the sky, what Dan saw was that Nick suddenly vanished from the arena. Seeing Nick vanish Dan thought it might be an invisibility skill and relaxed as he was pretty confident that Nick's attack could not break his blood armour armament defence. Which was exactly what Nick was aiming for when pulled his punch hitting Dan before he executed 'Meteorite Jump'.

Upon reaching the 300 meters mark Nick dived towards the earth aiming both his fists at Dan who was still searching for Nick who suddenly vanished. Under the enhancement of speed reinforcement and Dragon Boost, Nick descended at an incredibly fast speed almost reaching 350 meters per second. Within under a second, Nick covered the distance between him and unaware Dan.

“Crank Skill Blood Hardening” Dan who was covered in blood armour activated a card to harden his blood armour as he noticed speeding Nick nearing him. Realising it was already too late Dan had no other choice but to strengthen his defence by activating the Blood Hardening skill Card.

Boom Nick’s rock gauntlets covered fists meet with Dan’s blood armour-plated chest and a huge shock wave of wind spread out throughout the arena with Nick and Dan at the centre.

Crack Later the sound of bone cracking sounded as full-body blood armour covered Dan bounced upon the impact, skipping 3 times on the arena floor Dan’s body was flung outside the arena bounds.

350 meters per second is the speed of a bullet, now consider a bullet packing all the stats of Nick and Mountain golem under the effect of Speed reinforcement, Strength reinforcement and Dragon Boost. That amount of stats is enough to turn a bullet into a ballistic missile. Thankfully Nick had Dan a blood cushion for a safe landing. If he had landed on somewhere other than Dan, for example, the arena floor, then the one in the miserable state would be Nick himself.

Dan should be lucky to be alive facing such a deadly attack head-on if not for his Blood puppet Armour Armament, Blood Reinforcement, Armament spirit and Blood hardening strengthened by giant Blood puppet stats Dan would not have gotten off with few broken bones instead he would be a pool of blood, flesh and bones right now.

“Arena 13, Winner Nick Bright”

While watching the Card duel I also kept an eye open for duels of people who could be my future opponents in the tournament. The participant list given by the bright brothers had listed them all with Black level caution.

Set 3, Arena 40, Kimble Wang Vs Josh Bent

Arnold Barnes and Nathan Buch were the two external participants whom I met in the principal's office. They were two of the three who caught my attention of all the Black level cautioned in the participant list given to be by the bright brothers. And the last one was Kimble Wang. These three caught my attention not just because of the strength and strange methods and cards showcased by them but because of the ruthlessness they showed towards their opponents who were only classified as green or orange level caution at max.

Set 3, Arena 29, Arnold Barnes Vs Kim Li

"3.. 2.. 1, Start!"

Plash As soon as the announcer announced the start of the match a splashing sound sounded from where Kim Li was standing but Kim Li was nowhere to be seen. Only a blood puddle filled with minced meat bones and brain matter was left in her spot at the arena 29.

The audience watching this fight felt a chill in their spine thinking, 'what the fuq happened?' Even the announcer was stunned and had to watch the recap before he could comment on the card duel on Arena 29.

No matter how many times one watched the recap all people could see was Arnold Barnes was motionless while Kim Li vanished in thin air leaving behind a puddle of blood filled with meat, bones and brain matter. But after slowing the recap by x124 times finally, it was clear what happened at arena 29.

It appears Arnold Burns never moved a single muscle instead a whirlwind forwarded from Arnold's body at extremely swift speed aiming for Kim. And in a blink of an eye upon coming in contact with Kim the whirlwind stopped its forward trajectory and swallowed Kim on the spot within it, mincing and grinding Kim's body into a puddle of blood filled with meat, bones and brain matter.

"Kim Li, Dead"

"Arena 29, Winner Arnold Barnes"

Set 3, Arena 31, Nathan Buch Vs Kindle Chou

"3.. 2.. 1, Start!"

"How do you want to die? Do you prefer the agonising dead or the silent dead?" Nathan Buch asked his opponent Kindle Chou

"So I'm dying either way... How about the third option? 'C-rank skill: Flameshot' " Suggested Kindle Chou as he threw a fireball at Nathan, a young and healthy boy whose fat ass would fall out of his sweatpants every time he bent over.

"So you chose to struggle. This is going to be a juicy one. 'Poison Mist' " listening to Chou's suggestion Nathan no longer delayed and made Kindle's choice for him activating his Poison Mist Card.

Soon a grey mist covered the entire Arena 31 choking and extinguishing the flame shot aimed at Nathan. Later Kindle who was engulfed in the mist started screaming and howling like a pig to be slaughtered. Soon the screams stop and with it the grey mist covering the arena cleared.

"Kindle Chou Dead"

"Arena 31, Winner..."

"Set 3, Arena 31, Winner..." As the announcer was preparing to announce the winner of the duel something miraculous happened on the arena stopping Nathan Buch who was about to descend the arena stage.

The condition of Chou's Corpse was very bad because of the corrosive and acidic nature of the grey mist. The miraculous part was the mingled and melted corpse of Kindle Chou in the arena which started to glow with bright blinding light. The condition of Chou's Corpse results from the corrosive and acidic nature of the grey mist. The brilliant light on the Chou's corpse vanished leaving behind a completely healthy and energetic Kindle Chou.

Seeing Chou resurrect a cold sweat broke on Nathan's back not because he saw a ghost but because he almost got off the arena thinking Chou was dead. This would mean that he would be disqualified for walking out of the bonds of the arena. Thinking about how he was just about to become the biggest joke of the tournament Nathan was enraged and wanted to teach this resurrecting fat pig a lesson but he was left dumbfounded by what fatty did next.

"Fuq! You did not descend the arena yet. I should have waited a little longer before resurrecting" yelled Kindle Chou looking at Nathan who was glaring at him. Remembering the hell he had been through in the grey mist, Chou let out a shriek and genuinely rolled off the arena stage shouting, " I surrender! I surrender!"

Others could only see that Kindle Chou was resurrected healthy and full of energy but only Chou knew what he had to pay for his resurrection. Falling down the arena on his face, Chou shouted, "Medic! Medic!" Seeking help from the medical staff assigned to oversee the injured participants.

"Arena 31, winner Nathan Buch"

As the puzzled medical staff carried a completely fine Chou on the stretcher, Chou asked the beautiful medic walking next to the stretcher, "Miss when will I get my participation certificate? I can no longer continue to participate in the tournament due to my condition."

The medic did not know what condition the participant in front of her was speaking about as her medic scan card showed that Kindle Chou was completely fine but she did not think too much into it and answered, " the participation certificate will be sent to your grimoire after the tournament ends and the young heroes ranking list is prepared."

After a while Chou combed his oily hair with his hands and putting on the most charming smile his chinless face could deliver he looked at the female medic and said, "Beauty I am ranked 420th on the Sky blossom young heroes list. Would you like to grab a coffee next week?"

"No, I just decided to cut back on my caffeine intake. " the medic looked at Chou with scorn and rejected him as bluntly as possible but also not being too obvious.

"How about some English tea at Prestige Cafe?" A single rejection would never stop our boy, Chou.

“How about the slaughterhouse you pig?” The Medic no longer cared, her face cramped with anger as she rejected Chou mercilessly.

“No thanks, your taste is too heavy for me.” Replied Chou with a genuinely troubled face. Seeing chou’s genuinely troubled face after indirectly mocking her, the medic stomped her foot on the ground and left hurriedly.

The resurrection ability of Kindle Chou successfully caught my attention and wondering why I missed such an awesome ability I checked the list of participants to check his info. Seeing Kindle Chou’s info I knew why I skipped his name,

Set 3, Arena 40, Kimble Wang Vs Josh Bent

“3.. 2.. 1, fight”

“Bait” mouthed Kimble Wang forming a finger gun mimicking a handgun, aiming at Josh Bent. The next second the Kimble’s opponent Josh vanished into the thin air as if he never existed. The Announcer and the Audience monitoring the card duel at arena 40 both became speechless. One of the contenders just vanished. ‘What the fuck happened?’ This thought screamed in all of their minds.

Unfortunately this time even the recaps of the duel did not help them to understand the situation. No matter how much they slowed the recap all they saw was that Josh just vanished.

As time went on the question and mystery behind the vanishing of Josh continued to eat at the thoughts of the audience and the announcer, especially the parents of Josh Bent, Mr and Mrs Bent along with the rest of the Bent family.

The referee was confused; he did not know whether Josh was dead or alive. He had to see the corpse or body of Josh before he could declare a winner. At first, the Announcer and audience thought that Josh had used an invisibility or stealth card but as time passed they started to entertain the thought that maybe Josh is dead. Then the referee turned to the only person who seemed to be calm despite Josh vanishing, Kimble Wang.

"He is dead. Please announce the results." Kimble nonchalantly answered the referee some clearing and adding to the mystery behind Josh's disappearance.

"Josh Bent dead"

"Arena 40, Winner Kimble Wang"

In a blink of an eye, that's all it took for the duel at arena 40 to come to an end. Kimble's explanation other than confirming the death of his opponent only adds to the mystery behind the disappearance of the contestant Josh Bent. This mystery caused a chill in the spine of all the audience who watched the card duel at arena 40.

Since I only watched the recap of the arena 40 card fight, I was checking all the duels of the black level caution participants after I was done watching Nick's duel. I could not use my soul pupils to check on the mystery behind the disappearance of Josh Bent and Kimble's card ability. But a ridiculous thought crawled up in my mind that what if Josh Bent purposefully gave up on the card fight by using long-distance teleportation. That seemed ridiculous but it promotes another angle to Kimble's card ability, what if it is related to teleportation.

Shaking my head as Sunan, Kathy and the rest wished me best, I got up and headed to arena 37 as the 3rd set of the first round had reached its conclusion and the 4th set was about to begin soon.

Arena 37 Dalton Wyatt Vs Vivian Cale

As I stood in Arena 37, I could hear the noise of a bored crowd and proud parents watching their children embark on the journey of Card apprentice. Maybe if the tragedy had not struck the Wyatt family, Mama and Papa Wyatt would be among the audience cheering for young Wyatt at his first-ever CardFight tournament.

“Hi, Dalton Wyatt. I saw your victory over Nick Bright, impressive.” Vivian, my opponent for the first round of the tournament, praised my victory over the bright brothers. But she was not done there, she added, “If that is your full strength then that is not enough to defeat me. Since the staff has asked the giant summon user to use summon armament, your chances are even lower than before as the obvious advantage of your summon will be useless since you will be using a summon armament, right?”

“Are you worthy? Worthy to make me use a summon armament.” My answer may sound arrogant and prideful but I had 5 A-rank Viltronian Stone giant monsters in my hands which could easily take down a dozen of card lords to back up claims.

“A win over nobody and you start to think you are the strongest and act full of yourself. It looks like it will be easier to kill you than I thought.” Vivian sneered as she gave me a scorn filed look.

“Why do you want to kill me? I have no hatred with you or your friends and family.” I asked Vivian.

“Don’t act like you do not know anything? After all, you are at the centre of this incident. Do you know how much my family paid to call first dibs on you? 75,000 soul Jades. Yes, 75,000 soul jades, that’s how much your life is currently worth. If my family was not willing to pay that much I would not get to fight you in the first round of the tournament.” Explained Vivan.

It took many big families to come together to arrange this tournament and everyone had one goal, which is to kill me at the hands of their progeny. As only the family that kills me will gain the favour of the Southern Emperor. In order to reduce infighting, the Circle who did not care about gaining favours with the Southern Emperor because they already had a different demigod backer came up with a plan to auction which family gets to fight with me in the first round of the tournament. The Circle had paid the most by taking out the False Relic tournament first place reward, so they wanted to make up for the losses this way.

As for the Cale family, why they were desperate to kill me was because of their family business, Potion Production and distribution. They wanted to make use of the favour they gained with the Southern Emperor by killing me to get the silver milk powder production started in their potion creation plants, they could not be more obvious. Since the Cale family stood to gain the most they did not hesitate to spend the most.

“What? I would have fought a life and death match with you for half of that amount of soul Jades.” I was not joking, if the Cale family was willing to bet 37,500 soul jades I would have signed up for a life and death match with Vivan any time they asked me to. Hearing my words Vivan was angry but before she could refute the announcer commenced the fight.

Pioneer, Potion-Brewers or Potion Maker make one-time use potion cards like the A-rank Highland Troll blood essence which old Ben drank to recover from his injuries. Though the one used by old Ben is on a higher side of price level and effect there are various types of potion in a varying range of prices, levels and effects.

Potion brewing is similar to a normal card creation where we follow the card recipe to use card ingredients to create a card, in the case of the potion brewing a potion card. That's what I think Potion Brewing is, apparently true but according to the grimoire network, it is more complicated and sophisticated and requires in-depth knowledge of every medical ingredient to properly blend different poisonous medicines to get a useful potion card.

“Stone Viltronian! I choose you” I summoned the boss stone Viltronian as I planned to follow the same strategy I used against the bright brothers.

“Forbidden Garden” Vivan also activated her origin card and soon the whole Arena 37 turned into a freaking Jungle. But unlike the wild jungle, this one was well maintained as the trees, bushes and grass were trimmed at approximate height. The summoned jungle was very clean, especially the ground which was not filled with dead leaves or rotten fruits and flowers. The arena looked more like a British garden despite the tall trees in between. Vivian's forbidden garden origin card seemed more like a field card than a summoning card.

"Welcome, Wyatt. You are the first man to enter my Forbidden Garden." Vivian welcomed me into her forbidden garden.

"So, I am you first. Hahaha" Hearing Vivian I burst out laughing, was she not hearing what she just said. It was extremely misleading.

"Why are you laughing?" Vivian still did not realise how inappropriate and misleading her sentence earlier was. My laughter was also of no help as it only infuriated her.

"Okay, now that you have welcomed me into your 'Forbidden Garden', will you serve your tang next?" Having said that, it was very hard for me to control my laughter.

"Tang, what is tang?.... Are you mocking me? Fairy guards assemble."

Chapter 228: Forbidden Garden

Time- 9:22

"Fairly Guards assemble" infuriated Vivian yelled and went offence. She was not done yet as she yelled again, "ElderSpace WoodFairy Array."

Since I did not know what was happening I could only stay alert hiding behind boss Stone Viltronian as I watched Vivian's every move with my soul pupils as I did not want to be the next Josh Bent whose whereabouts are still unknown.

Through my soul pupils, I saw a huge amount of soul energy being transferred from Vivian to the trees in the forbidden garden. Vivian was able to do that, not surprising but the amount of energy she transferred to the trees did not belong to a Card soldier realm card apprentice but a Card Lord but their realm was clearly at Card soldier realm. I double-checked with my soul pupils they never failed me yet.

What Vivian was doing was only possible if she was making use of an A-rank soul energy generator or container cards. What does she require so much soul energy for? I did not want to take chances and yelled, "Stone Viltronian kill" pointing at Vivian who was completely focused on supplying soul energy to her forbidden garden.

Hearing my command Stone Viltronian rushed towards Vivian at an extremely swift speed to crush her head but just as Stone Viltronian's fist was about to connect to Vivian's head, she murmured, "Switch"

As soon as Vivian said that word my vision went dark and the next thing I saw was Stone Viltronian's fist about to land on my face.

'Faq' I couldn't help but curse in my mind. That fist contained the power of an A-rank boss monster enhanced by calamity daughter core. If it connects to my face then my whole head will be blown off and my headless body would be left laying on the arena floor.

Thankfully the Calamity parent and daughter core have a clause that forbids calamity daughter core from attacking its calamity parent core, making it impossible for daughter core to attack parent core. But this also came with a huge drawback that if in any unforeseen circumstances the daughter core were to attack the parent core then the daughter core would be destroyed.

Before the fist of the boss Stone Viltronian could connect the calamity parent core activated the defence protocol to destroy the calamity daughter core and the host it was occupying. And the fist right about half a centimetre from my face broke down into ashes and dissipated into the wind.

'Stupid! Stupid!' I yelled in my mind after losing the mightiest damage dealing card of my deck. Due to my lack of awareness, I lost my army of 350 Stone Viltronian by a single move of the opponent. Vivian's one move took out one of my most powerful cards, was this a fluke just a coincidence or preplanned. But seeing the clueless expression on Vivian's face it was clear that it was a coincidence. Whatever it was, my losses were huge.

Vivian, who was busy transferring soul energy to the trees in the forbidden garden on the surface maintained a calm and collective face as if waiting for the opponent to attack. This should give her enough time to power the forbidden garden. But she noticed that her opponent had ordered his summons to kill her.

The Stone elemental summon was well sculpted and pleasing to eyes but when it decided to kill her it turned fierce and ruthless. Seeing the Stone elemental advance towards her Vivian wanted to dodge instinctively but her hard practice and training had taught her that would be the worst option for this situation. Therefore despite the fear in her mind Vivian stood her ground waiting for the right timing to execute her move. And as soon as the fist of the stone elemental was about a centimetre away from her face she counterattacked by activating one of the effects of the ElderSpace WoodFairy Array, Switch which allowed to switch places with anyone in the ElderSpace WoodFairy array.

So Vivian planned that she would switch places with her opponent in the arena as the fist of the stone elemental was about to connect to her face. This way she would catch the opponent off guard and fall for his attack. But never did she imagine that before the fist of the stone elemental could connect with its master's face it would turn to ashes and disintegrate into the wind. Seeing the thing unfold in her favour Vivian was overwhelmed with the ridiculousness of this situation. She has not used the noteworthy effects of her cards yet she had already killed the opponent's ace.

Infuriated by my stupidity and carelessness I summoned all the remaining 4 normal A-rank Stone Viltronians.

Seeing 4 more stone elementals appear Vivian was not surprised as in the video of my card fight against the bright brothers she had witnessed nearly 350 stone elementals being summoned by me. Instead, she smiled brilliantly and said, "done"

It seems whatever she was preparing for was finally done. The trees in the forbidden garden started to glow with brilliant green light and soon numerous small buds started to grow on their branches. These small buds matured and blossomed into cream-coloured flowers. Nearly 300 flowers bloomed on about 25 trees.

The fully bloomed flowers started to turn into caucasian colour fruits which slowly grew bigger and bigger, from the size of a Tangerine to the size of Watermelon to the size of Jackfruit. The fruits finally stopped growing once they reached the size of a meter and 140 pounds in weight.

Soon the huge ass fruits started to crack and caucasian coloured humanoid figures started to break free from these fruits. Like chicks breaking free from their eggshells. It did not take long for the humanoid figures to break free from their shells and descend to the arena floor. Upon closer inspection, they were wearing attire made out of leaves covering their sensitive parts.

Chapter 229: Reverse Harem

Time- 9:24

Location- Sky Blossom City, The Sky Blossom Card Stadium, Set 4 Arena 37

Falling from the beach as they broke free of their shells, the leaf-covered humanoid creatures stood up straight facing me, I could finally clearly see the features of these creatures, and their appearance was just like an extraordinarily good looking human but more ethereal and perfect than a human can ever look. If I were to compare them by human standards then they were extremely good looking and attractive. These Leaf clothed extraordinary creatures reminded me of the graceful and gorgeous fantasy creatures that would appear in most of the fantasy novels and games back on planet earth, Elf.

Just like the Elves were portrayed back on earth, these creatures looked the same as humans but they were more graceful, beautiful, taller and had pointy ears. Their facial features were attractively defined with perfect symmetry.

They are pale-skinned, have green hair and green eyes. And judging from their physique and soul pathway I could tell that they were strong as each one had soul power enough to overpower a peak Card Grandmaster.

“What, mesmerised by the beauty of my Fairy guards?” Vivian proudly boasted her extraordinarily beautiful tree born humanoid creatures.

“...” Vivian was right. I was indeed mesmerized but by how it is possible to fit 302 people, 4 stone elementals and 25 trees in a 600sqmeters area arena, is this one of the effects of her ElderSpace WoodFairy Array or forbidden garden. Yes, the area within the arena has somehow increased by 12 times the original area. The present area of the arena was 7200sqmeters. Enough for 302 people, 4 stone elementals and 25 trees to stand spaciously on by not enough for a Brawl. Due to this congested area and their numbers, if the 300 Vivian’s summoned unit were somehow able to launch an attack on me and my 4 stone elementals, the chances of friendly fire on Vivian’s time was very high.

This is what mesmerised me rather than how good looking and handsome her summoned creatures were. I never imagined that one day I would get to meet the most beautiful creatures of the fantasy genre like this, birthed on tree branches by flowers from a meter long and 140-pound fruits but I had watched more disgusting stuff on TV.

“Speechless, my babies have such an effect on people. Do not underestimate them based on their appearance, they look harmless and cuddly but each one of them is strong.” Vivian could not stop boasting about her fairy guards so much so that she may have even forgotten why she summoned them in the first place.

“I have a question, why are they all men and have what looks like a leaf covering their genitals? And can you also summon a female version of them?” This question was bugging me the most, I am confident about my sexuality but being surrounded by 300 bare naked men was too much for even me. Now keep in mind that they are not your average males, each one of them look-a-like a Greek god, especially because of the leaf covering their genitals.

“Cough... Isn’t it obvious and yes I can also summon the opposite sex” hiding her shame with a cough Vivian replied to my questions.

“Because you think men are stronger than women.” I knew why Vivian only chose male fairy guards, that’s because she was a female pervert. And I also had another motive for blaming her of gender discrimination.

“No I don’t, I think the opposite. Women are powerful as they can have it all.” Vivian agreed that she does gender discrimination and back on earth we had a name for such women, Feminists. This female pervert was blood and prideful

“Then prove it, summon a female Fairy guard.” This was my motive behind entertaining prideful Vivian and her reverse harem. I really wanted to see if the female elves were as beautiful and mesmerising as their lores spoke of them back on earth.

“I would but I can only summon 300 guards at a time… why the faq am I explaining these to you? Fairy Guards arm yourself” Vivian finally jolted from the pride of her 300 men harem. And order them to arm themselves. Listening to their queen the 300 men stretched their hands towards the branch of the tree they spirited from. Those branches of the tree grew wooden pikes and round shields to arm the Fairy guards. After her 300 men were armed Vivian yelled “D-rank 300 Men Coil Formation” hearing her the armed fairy guards moved in a disciplined manner forming a circle formation surrounding me and my 4 Stone Viltronians.

Seeing this I finally took Vivian seriously, 300 card grandmaster strong men in a formation can stand on the same footing of half a dozen card lords not to mention the 4 stone Viltronian’s I had besides me. If I had the boss Viltronian by my side things would not be this desperate.

The obvious flaw of Vivian’s origin card Forbidden Garden was the time taken to summon the fairy guards which Vivian was aware of and made up for the shortcoming of her origin card by using a high-level space array card like ElderSpace that did not make of the delay but it bought her enough time till she summoned her guards.
