

126 Chapter 126

"Ouch! Owie..." Erin grimaced in pain as she fell to the floor. She rubbed her forehead and looked up at the name on the door. 1

—

Henry T. Grant

CEO.

—

"Mr. Grant, you're so mean. You hit my forehead..." Erin murmured. She thought Henry was still behind the door and probably listened to her pitiful voice.

But after realizing Henry didn't answer her, Erin could only get up and say, "Okay then, I didn't know that you're so mean to me. I've been nothing but being a good girl to you."

Erin got up and then returned to Michael's office.

She noticed that Mai was nowhere to be found.

She was a bit happy that, in the end, Michael still chose her over Mai. Though it was only natural for Michael to choose her, she was prettier, a lot prettier than Mai could ever be.

She rubbed her forehead and went towards

Michael's desk. She didn't shed a tear, but she tried her hardest so at least her eyes would glaze in tears before she faced Michael.

"Mr. Eckermann, wuwuwu..." Erin intentionally made those cute sobs to attract Michael's sense of protection. He seemed to be a man who'd never let the woman he was interested in be in distress. 2

He would definitely give his utmost protection and comfort to the woman he loved.

And who's the woman he loves?

'Me, duh! It's obvious!' Erin thought. 4

Michael wanted to ignore her completely. Mai had been occupying his mind all this time. He wondered if he might look too scary or intimidating or whether he did something wrong, so Mai still didn't like him even though she already knew the truth.

"Mr. Eckermann... Michael!" Erin stomped her feet like a little girl who had lost her lollipop. She thought it'd make her cuter in front of Michael. "Look at me, I'm hurt!" 2

Michael finally lifted his head a bit just to check on the bimbo, and he saw there was a bump on her forehead.

He almost burst out laughing, but he had to be professional. 4

"What happened to you?" Michael asked.

"It's because of Mr. Grant!" Erin said. "He got angry at me and slammed the door to my face and hit my forehead."

"A—Ah, I see," Michael was trying his best not to laugh. Surely, it was refreshing to see this bitch get a taste of her medicine. Though it was only something as tame as hitting her forehead. "But there must be a reason why he did that, right?"

"Well, I knocked on his door because I wanted to spend time with him. But when he opened the door, he told me to leave because he's busy," Erin recalled. "But I saw him having a bulge. Like, a big bulge. He's rock hard! Of course, me, being a good employee, want to help him. So I grab his crotch and tease him a bit. But that only makes him angrier!"

"You... you touched him..."

"Mhm," Erin nodded without hesitation. "Can you believe that he said it's a sexual harassment? Hmph, sexual harassment only happens to women! If a woman touches a man, then he should be grateful, especially when it's from a woman like me!" 2

"Jesus..." Michael was astonished by this woman. At this point, he was convinced that Erin's mother might've dropped her when she was a baby. That's why there was something wrong with her brain. 3

"Now look at this, Mr. Eckermann. How dare he hurt me like this? Aren't you mad? You should be mad for me!" Erin insisted.

Michael already got a text from Mai before. She told him that Mrs. Woods wasn't in the Chief Editor's office, and Mai assumed she would leave for another meeting she didn't know about.

But it seemed that the answer was much simpler than that.

'Henry and Kate must be in the CEO's office right now, having fun while I have to deal with a bunch of paperworks and one bitch. Though, this bitch gives me more headache than the paperworks,' Michael theorized.

He sighed. In the end, he had to cover for his Boss' eagerness to have sex in the office.

"Miss Ross, our CEO, is busy with his job," Michael said. "He has to deal with reshuffling of some staff, and he has a scheduled meeting with the parent company. Whether he is currently aroused or not, it's not important. He's just too busy to care for you right now."

Erin was annoyed that Michael gave her a logical answer that completely annihilated what had happened to her.

It makes sense that Henry must be very busy, and whether he was horny or not, that wasn't their problem.

Erin understood everything, of course, because she was an adult. She acted like a child sometimes to garner sympathy from men. They usually liked it when she acted cute. 1

But it seemed that Henry and Michael weren't affected by her cute acting today.

Thus, she lost her will to play cute in front of Michael and said, "Huh, whatever, I don't really care if he's busy or not. All I know is that he doesn't have time for me."

"Mr. Eckermann, you and Mr. Grant make me very unhappy today," Erin said. "But it's fine. Maybe you two are just too busy, that's why I'll just go home now to treat the bump on my forehead." 1

"By all means, you can leave now, Miss Ross," Michael said eagerly. "All the paperworks had been done by me and Mai. You have nothing to do here."

"Hmph, fine, whatever," Erin rolled her eyes and grabbed her bag. She stomped her feet as she walked out of Michael's office.

She didn't care about the stares that she got from other employees. She didn't care about these lowly shrimps who gossiped because she knew none had power over her.

She was the most powerful in this office!

'I thought I'm the most powerful, but I guess I have to do something so Henry and Michael will have their eyes on me and cater to all my needs even when they are busy,' Erin thought.

She was in deep thought for a while, and as she exited the elevator, she realized that she only had one way to cement her position in the office, and it was through her sister!

'Ah, why do I have to worry? I can just use that idiot bitch sister of mine. After all, this office will not function without my sister, right? I will make them realize that I'm very important in this office, hihl.'

**

PS: Stay tuned, because you will see something REALLY fun about to happen with Erin ;) 8