

149 Chapter 149

"Oh?" Henry's mood eased when he heard the good news. He had been so busy with work that he lost his sense of time. He didn't realize that it had been a week since Kate left. 1

All he remembered was that he felt very lonely without seeing her and kept video calling her each night, just to see her lovely beauty before surrendering himself on his bed.

"Have you booked my flight, Mai?" Henry asked.

"Yes, Sir. I've booked your flight to Canada. All you need to do is to go to the airport before ten, because your flight will be at eleven sharp."

"Got it," Henry nodded. He was happy he could finally ditch this bitch in that frozen wasteland after enduring her bullshit for a whole week. She had been so insufferable that Henry wished he could throw her out of the window and let her die like a squashed rat. 2

But, of course, this was the perfect opportunity to bait Erin.

"But who will accompany me to Canada? I mean, of course, the business trip will be for a week, but you don't expect me to go on a business trip alone, right?" Henry asked Mai but kept eye contact with Erin, silently inviting her to participate. "I will be very lonely in my super expensive hotel suite, alongside plenty of formal parties I have to attend."

Mai grinned and replied, "But I'm swamped with paperwork in the office, Sir. What will I get if I go with you to Canada?"

"Well, first, I will pay for all of your accommodation, and you will get financial compensation for accompanying me," Henry said.

Erin was shocked when Mai said Henry had an upcoming business trip to Canada. Of course, she didn't want to miss this opportunity to spend time alone with Henry.

It was even more exciting when Henry said he would be staying in a super expensive hotel suite, with plenty of formal parties and lots of money to compensate for all the 'works' she had to do for him.

'Hotel suite... parties... lots of money and sex with Henry...' Erin began to imagine the HEAVEN she would get for a week staying with Henry. 'Maybe Henry will truly fall in love with me once we're in Canada. Maybe the romantic atmosphere will make him want to marry me! OMG! Kardashian's life, here I come!' 1

"Hmm, but I don't want to fly in Economy class,

Sir. If you want to bring me in, then you have to book me a first class ticket just like you. I want the best accommodation for my comfort," Mai continued to entice Erin, knowing that greedy bitch wouldn't be able to resist so many temptations of a good life.

She already had everything given by her big sister.

Kate gave her a lot of money for her monthly allowance.

She gave Erin an apartment to stay in and even paid for her university tuition upfront, so she didn't need to worry about student debt after she graduated.

Yet, she still wanted more.

This bitch was greedy beyond comprehension, and it wasn't hard to make her fall into their trap.

"Of course, a first class ticket is guaranteed. You will fly in the most comfortable seat," Henry promised. "So, do you want to go with me or not, Mai?"

"Hmmm, I think, I—"

"She's not good enough, Mr. Grant!" Erin interrupted before Mai could say yes. She didn't want to miss this golden opportunity to this chink!

Henry acted as if he was surprised and then asked, "Why do you think she is not good enough, Miss Ross?"

"Well, you said that you have to attend plenty of formal parties. Obviously, you need a beautiful woman to stand by your side," Erin said. She sent a mocking gaze toward Mai, observing her from head to toe.

"Do you think this chick is good enough to represent you? I don't think so, Sir. You need an absolutely gorgeous woman to be by your side. She needs to be a stunner who will attract so many gazes," Erin grinned as she coquettishly tried to seduce Henry with her half-opened breasts. "And I don't think anyone other than me is better than that, Sir. I will attract everyone's attention, no doubt."

"With your slutty dress? Sure, everyone's eyes will be on you in a real formal party," Henry commented. "Then they will kick you out for inappropriate attire."

But of course, he had to put up a considerably excited response, "Well, I can't lie that you will be able to attract many eyes, Erin. I think you will be the best candidate to accompany me on this trip."

"Of course I will! I won't disappoint you with my skill, Sir!" Erin claimed with ambiguous words.

"Please just let me go with you, I will be a good girl!" 1

Henry chuckled. He glanced at Mai and asked, "What do you think, Mai? Are you okay with her replacing you for this Canada trip?"

Erin thought that Mai would not give up, so she was ready to fight that small bitch for this position.

However, to her surprise, Mai nodded and said, "Sure, she can replace me on this trip. I still have a lot to do in the office, Sir."

"Good, then I will go with Miss Ross," Henry said. "Don't worry, you won't be alone for a long time. Michael will return soon, he will come to work with you for a whole week."

"I know, Sir," Mai said. She naturally knew about it. After all, she was the first one to get a call from Mr. Eckermann, and the last thing he said before they ended the call was.

—
'Wait for me. I will be there soon, Mai.' 3

—
Mai found it weird that Mr. Eckermann had to say those words. After all, it didn't matter whether he was in this office. Mai was sure she could handle the paperwork while Mr. Grant and

Mrs. Woods were away to ditch this witch.
'It's been settled then,' Henry turned his head towards Erin and smiled, 'You will come with me for the business trip to Canada, Miss Ross.'

New Book Alert! >

Comment ¹⁰ View All >

Post your first comment!

Vote
Fandom
Send Gift

Swipe left to continue >