Chapter 151 I want to live a good life with you (21)

PEI Munian's eyes were cold, and her entire body exuded a sense of oppression. There was no warmth in her voice, as if a storm was brewing.

Su Wanwan's body trembled slightly and she couldn't help but feel a chill on her back.

If it was in the past, su Wanwan would be very afraid of PEI Munian in this state. She would move away without hesitation and watch him leave.

However, Wanwan couldn't back down now. If she did, she and PEI Munian would go back to how they were before. She really didn't want to face PEI Munian like that.

Su Wanwan clenched her hands and bit her lower lip hard to suppress the uneasiness and fear in her heart. She tried to speak in a gentle tone, " PEI Munian, weren't we fine before? Why are you so cowardly?"

"Well?"

PEI Munian repeated these three words. The corners of her lips curled up, but it was full of a mocking smile. su Wan, I think you're mistaken? I'll have a chat with you."

He paused for a moment, then said ruthlessly, " have you had a good time? "

Su Wanwan knew that PEI Munian's words had always been venomous. She had also been hurt by many of his words. She once thought that she was immune to them, but she was still hurt by these words.

Have I ever had a good time with you?

Such a simple sentence, such a simple few words, but it ruthlessly overturned their past.

The sweetness and throbbing that she once had were like fleeting clouds, as if they were just her imagination.

The softest part of her body seemed to be poked by something. Her nose quickly welled up with sourness, and her eyes also ached. Su Wanwan clenched her hands even tighter, her sharp nails digging into her flesh. She tried hard to take a deep breath and suppressed the desire to cry, but her voice still couldn't stop trembling. PEI Munian, did I do something wrong? "

She had done something wrong.

Su Wanwan's voice slowly entered her ears and PEI Munian's eyes were slightly stagnant.

He also wanted to pick out su Wanwan's mistakes, but he was very clear in his heart that su Wanwan didn't do anything wrong. She just didn't love him.

PEI Munian laughed at herself, her voice almost silent. you didn't do anything wrong.

He was the one in the wrong.

He had used love as an excuse to force her to be by his side, but how could a forced melon be sweet? If she didn't love him, she didn't love him. Forcing him would only make him a joke.

He was actually delusional.

Su Wanwan didn't hear what PEI Munian said clearly and was about to ask when PEI Munian pulled her away without saying anything. She opened the car door again, sat in, and closed it.

Su Wanwan quickly reached out to knock on the window, but PEI Munian ignored her. She started the engine, turned the steering wheel, stepped on the accelerator, and the car turned out of the villa's Gate and left.

Su Wanwan chased a few steps forward, but it was completely useless. She could only watch the car leave and disappear from her eyes.

Su Wanwan was rooted to the spot and couldn't help but feel discouraged. She didn't ask anything clearly, but she was still full of sadness.

She originally thought that a week ago, PEI Munian's reconciliation would be a turning point for them to start over. However, was Wanwan still overthinking things?

PEI Munian, do you know how sad I was when you said those words?

Unable to suppress the sadness, su Wanwan blinked and tears burst out of her eyes. Her hand couldn't help but cover her face and she sobbed in a low voice.
