PEI Munian's Black eyes lifted slightly and looked at the dark sky outside the window. Her eyes narrowed.

It was raining heavily outside, and the employees in the conference room were a little restless. After all, it was already so late, and it was still raining heavily. It would be particularly troublesome and unsafe to go home. Everyone looked at assistant Wu, their eyes signaling him to think of a way.

Assistant Wu was also complaining in her heart. If he had a way, he would have done it long ago. He had no choice!

However, everyone's eyes were too pleading and expectant. He had no choice but to bite the bullet and ask tentatively, "boss PEI, look at Wanwan. It's so late and it's raining so heavily outside. Why don't we stop the meeting here for today?"

PEI Munian's Black eyes slowly turned to him. It was chilly, and assistant Wu felt a chill down his spine.

Just as assistant Wu thought that there was no hope, PEI Munian stood up and said without any emotion, "meeting adjourned. Then, he walked out of the meeting room.

Everyone was stunned for a second, then they all let out a long sigh of relief. They were finally free.

PEI Munian returned to her office. He stood at the door for a long time before he restrained himself from walking towards the French windows. He walked to his office and sat down. He supported his forehead with both hands, the light in his eyes dark and gloomy.

After a few minutes, there was a soft knock on the door. Assistant Wu pushed the door open and walked in. He said respectfully, "Boss PEI, if you don't have any other instructions, I'll get off work first.

PEI Munian did not look up at him and only hummed in agreement. let's get off work.

Assistant Wu nodded and turned to leave. However, she hesitated for a moment and spoke again. boss PEI, I took a look just now. M-young Madam is still waiting for you downstairs.

PEI Munian did not say anything. The huge office was eerily quiet.

Assistant Wu kept her mouth shut and left the office, closing the door behind her.

PEI Munian sat on the chair for a long time. The heavy rain outside was still wreaking havoc in the city and showed no signs of stopping. PEI Munian furrowed her brows tightly and finally stood up. She couldn't control herself and walked towards the floor-to-ceiling window.

Su Wanwan didn't expect that it would suddenly rain heavily in the middle of the night. She went out in a hurry and didn't bring an umbrella. She could only put her bag on her head and barely shield herself from the rain.

However, the rain was getting heavier and heavier. Her body gradually became wet and the wind was getting stronger and stronger. The rain was cold and the wind blew on her body. It was so cold that su Wan kept shivering. She didn't know when this rain would stop.

She raised her head and stared at the top floor of the PEI family's building. After a few seconds, she gritted her teeth and suppressed the thought of retreating. She had said that she would wait, so she had to wait until the end. So what if it rained? She would wait even if it rained!

She knew that her stubbornness was a little funny, but she really could not allow herself to stay in this marriage for another minute or second. The phone call she had received and every word she had said made her want to cut off all ties with PEI Munian right now.

It was very dark outside and the rain was heavy, seriously blocking PEI Munian's vision. However, the strange thing was that he seemed to be able to see the slender figure shivering in the rain, and he still could not bear to see her.

PEI Munian laughed at herself, turned around, and walked towards the main door.
