The word “pregnant” resounded in su Wanwan’s ears. A sharp pain suddenly hit her head. Her vision went black and she lost consciousness.

The nurse quickly stabilized su Wanwan’s falling body and anxiously asked for help from the doctors and nurses who passed by, “ someone help!

A doctor came forward and did a simple examination for su Wanwan while asking the nurse, “ what’s her condition? ”

“I think it’s caused by a headache,” the nurse answered.

“Do you have a headache?”

The doctor pressed on su Wanwan’s temple and philtrum, but she didn’t react. He said decisively, “ Let’s send him to the brain Department for a look first.”

After saying that, he bent down, picked up su Wanwan horizontally, and strode towards the brain Department.

Su Wanwan vaguely felt a clamor in her ear. Someone was talking and she also felt something cold stick to her head. Something moved on it and then something pressed on her head. Suddenly, it pressed on a place and it was extremely painful. Su Wan’s confused consciousness was immediately awakened by this pain and she suddenly opened her eyes.

“Miss su, you’re awake?” the nurse asked.

Su Wanwan moved her stiff eyes and slowly looked at the nurse. Her eyes went from muddled to sober. The memories in her mind also came back little by little, but they were a little blurry, making her not know whether her memories were real or if she was dreaming.

“Miss su, how do you feel? Are you feeling better?”

Su Wanwan stared at the nurse, her dry lips slowly opening. However, she didn’t answer the nurse’s question, but asked the doubts in her heart word by word, “ just now, Yueyue, did you say something to me? ”

She said that Yueyue was pregnant?

She didn’t have the courage to say the last few words.

Su Wanwan’s voice was very low, trembling slightly, and her hands unconsciously clenched the bed sheet under the bed.

The nurse was slightly surprised. After all, she had only fainted for more than ten minutes. How could she not remember what she had said? However, despite her surprise, the nurse still answered truthfully, “ yes, miss su. The results are out. It’s confirmed that you’re pregnant. The child is about four weeks old.

So it wasn't a dream, so it was real! Su Wanwan's long curly eyelashes trembled fiercely, and her whole body was instantly covered in a cold chill.

She was really pregnant.

If she had been pregnant for a month, did that mean that she had gotten pregnant that night? Why did Yueyue take birth control pills? she clearly didn't want it. She clearly wanted to cut off all ties with PEI Munian. Why did the heavens play with her like this?

Was this her punishment for loving PEI Munian? But she clearly knew that she was wrong, but she clearly woke up, so why did she still not let her go, why!

She was about to divorce PEI Munian and PEI Munian was about to marry Xi Zhiwei. Her life had already become a joke. This child was not even born yet, but it was already a joke.

The mist in front of her eyes rose and tears flickered in the bottom of her eyes. Su Wanwan laughed, but that laughter was sad and miserable.

The nurse saw that su Wanwan's face turned pale and she looked like she had lost her soul. She couldn't help but worry, "Miss su, what's wrong? Are you alright?"

Su Wanwan bit her lower lip with her pearly white teeth. Something flashed quickly in her teary eyes. She raised her hand and wiped her tears. She suddenly lifted the quilt and got up, walking directly to the door.
