

Deeply 355

355 I would rather you hate me (1)

He looked forward to him having a child with su Wan so much. With a child, the relationship between them will never end. He will always have the opportunity to pursue su Wanwan again, but now Qianqian, this child he looked forward to so much, affected su Wan's examination. After that, it may also affect su Wan's life.

PEI Munian's lips curled up. She only felt that it was extremely ridiculous. If this child was really his, he could use it as a bargaining chip to get su Wanwan back. However, such a bargaining chip came with the price of blood. He simply could not have this bargaining chip.

PEI Munian staggered and leaned against the wall weakly. He covered his eyes with his large hands and closed them in pain.

—

Su Wanwan took the medicine and walked out of the hospital. Because Yu Jia's operation was not completed, she picked up her phone, sent Yu Jia A text message, and then walked to the side of the road to hail a taxi.

She stood there in a daze. Many cars had come over, but they were all taken by others. Some of them even accidentally hit her. Fortunately, she only staggered for a moment and held onto the streetlight pillar beside her, so she did not fall.

There were a few times when PEI Munian was frightened, but she could not walk over. She had already been frightened enough today. If he appeared in front of her now, she would be even more afraid and unable to bear it.

PEI Munian took out her phone and quickly dialed a number. Once the call was connected, he said, " call a taxi to the entrance of xxx hospital and pick up a woman with long hair, a blue dress, and a white bag. Oh, right, tell him to do it naturally. Don't tell him that he specifically called her over.

"Understood."

The taxi came very quickly and stopped in front of su Wanwan. The driver rolled down the window and said to su Wanwan, who had a dull expression, " "Miss, do you need a ride?"

Su Wanwan blinked and looked at the driver in a daze. She stared at him for a few seconds before she realized what he said. She returned to her senses and nodded gently. yes, I want to take the car.

Su Wanwan walked to the back seat, opened the door, and sat in.

The chauffeur asked again, " miss, where are you going? "

Where to?

Su Wanwan didn't know if her consciousness hadn't reacted or if she had forgotten again. After a while, she said the name of the hotel, " go to this hotel.

"Alright," he said.

The taxi started and slowly merged into the traffic. PEI Munian also started the engine, turned the steering wheel, stepped on the accelerator, and followed the taxi.

Su Wanwan returned to the hotel and entered the room. Her whole person was paralyzed on the bed.

Her head continued to hurt, and there was no relief at all. It was as if thousands of needles were stuck in her head. She hugged her head and curled up on the bed, tears falling uncontrollably.

Since fate was playing with her like this, she had no room to resist. She wasn't afraid of God taking her life, but at least Hanhan would give her time so that her child could be born safely.

Su Wanwan's hand slowly touched her lower abdomen. Her palm gently touched it, as if she could feel the child in her belly tightly connected to her. Su Wanwan closed her eyes and said in a hoarse voice, "baby, I said I wouldn't leave you again, so I definitely won't leave you. You must be strong and don't abandon mom. Mom wants to see you and come to this world safely.

As the night deepened, the door of the hotel room was pushed open with a soft click. A tall figure slowly walked in.