

Deeply 391

391 I don't want a child (1)

Aunt Zhang's hand missed. Her eyes looked at su Wan's hand and groped in the air. After about ten seconds, she seemed to see where her hand was and held it.

Auntie Zhang looked at su Wanwan in shock.

Ever since su Wan came back from the pregnancy examination, Sir repeatedly told her that she must take good care of miss su during this time. Once he found that she had hemiplegia or signs of partial blindness, she must report to him in time.

So it was an accident that miss su didn't grab her hand just now? Or was there something wrong with Yingluo's eyes?

Aunt Zhang's heart was full of thoughts, but she didn't dare to show it on her face. She helped su Wanwan up and let her sit on the bed. She looked at her worriedly, "miss su, are you okay?"

Su Wanwan seemed to be a little frightened. She was stunned for a while before she slowly shook her head. I'm fine.

Aunt Zhang saw that her expression was not good and wanted to ask something, but she opened her mouth and did not ask anything. She only said, "Miss su, I'll go get you a glass of water."

Aunt Zhang turned around and walked out of the room. Su Wanwan looked at her back and her heart secretly palpitated.

Just now, when she fell on the bed, she didn't know if it was because of the sudden fall, but her vision was a little blurry, so she didn't see where aunt Zhang's hand was.

Actually, this wasn't the first time this had happened to her. Previously, when she was reading, she couldn't read clearly all of a sudden. There were also times when she was walking, but her vision became blurry as she walked. She didn't think much about it before and thought that her eyes were probably tired. However, Yingluo had just woken up, so her eyes couldn't possibly still be tired. She still couldn't see clearly all of a sudden, Yingluo.

Su Wanwan didn't want to think negatively, but her mind couldn't help but recall the words the doctor once said to her.

If her condition worsened, it would cause her to lose her sight, her body to lose strength, and even become delirious.

And now, she was showing these symptoms.

No, no, perhaps it was just a coincidence. Even if there was really a blood clot in her head, it couldn't have deteriorated so quickly. It couldn't be, Yingluo couldn't.

Su Wanwan subconsciously shook her head, but her head felt a sharp pain and her face immediately turned white.

She didn't know if it was because of the ups and downs of her mood, or because of the fall just now, she vaguely felt that her stomach also began to hurt. Su Wan's hand covered her stomach, afraid that there was something wrong with the child. She had to go to the hospital to see. She opened her mouth and called out, "aunty ran ran ran, aunty Zhang Ran ran ran."

However, she called out several times, but Auntie Zhang didn't respond. Su Wanwan could only force herself to stand up and slowly walk out of the room.

She walked to the living room and heard the voice of the Auntie coming from the balcony. She seemed to be on the phone with someone. Su Wanwan took a deep breath and continued to walk towards the balcony.

As she walked closer, su Wanwan vaguely heard Auntie Zhang saying something about her eyes not being able to see, her hands and feet not having any strength, and so on. Her footsteps couldn't help but stop. Was Auntie Zhang stunned talking about her?

Su Wanwan was still in a daze. Aunt Zhang's voice continued to come over, but her voice was very soft. She only heard her say things like "attention" and "report" intermittently.

Su Wanwan's eyes narrowed. What should aunt Zhang pay attention to? Report what?