

Deeply 457

457 Our past (7)

Now that she had lost her memory, she did not know what she had done. Thus, she relied on this to enjoy PEI Munian's good treatment. Every time she saw it, she wanted to tell her about her past scandals and see if she still had the face to continue staying by PEI Munian's side like this.

It was just that she also knew that words were useless. Su Wanwan didn't have such a thing in her memory. Whatever she said to her was just like listening to a story and had no use. So, only by arousing her curiosity and letting her search for her memory on her own, slowly remembering everything, would she understand that she wasn't worthy of PEI Munian.

PEI Munian's deep love deserved a better woman, even if that woman would not be her.

—

During su Wanwan's lunch break today, she tossed and turned, unable to fall asleep. In her entire brain, she was thinking about how she and PEI Munian were like in the past.

However, no matter how much he thought about it, he still couldn't come up with a complete story, which made him go crazy.

Now that she had learned more things, she also understood that her relationship with PEI Munian was indeed very good. Lin Xiaoxuan had said in front of her more than once that they were more loving than many couples in this world, so loving that it made people feel that it was not real enough.

Previously, she could not understand what this 'unreal' meant. Now, she could understand. Without the support of her past memories, all the good things that PEI Munian had done for her seemed to have come out of thin air. However, she did not know when these good things would no longer exist.

The more su Wanwan thought about it, the more flustered she felt. She suddenly sat up from the bed.

She grabbed her phone, opened an APP, and entered a question. I can't remember the past. How can I remember it? "

Lin Xiaoxuan helped her download this APP and told her that if she had any questions that she did not understand, she could ask them inside. Many enthusiastic netizens would help her answer her doubts.

A minute after su Wanwan's question was sent, her phone rang. She picked it up and saw that a netizen had replied.

Netizen a asked, "did you lose your memory?" It's said that people with amnesia can only remember the past after being stimulated. Try something exciting!"

Netizen B: " I agree with the above comment. However, I have to find something important to stimulate myself.

Netizen c c said, " a person's memory won't disappear. It's just that at a certain time, the content in the brain will be sealed. By coming into contact with more people and things from the past, you can stimulate the lost memory.

After su Wanwan finished reading all the replies from the netizens, everyone's opinions were similar. Basically, they all wanted to come into contact with the past, but she didn't know what her past was. How could she come into contact with it?

Su Wanwan bit her lower lip and became more and more distressed.

Aunt Wu originally wanted to go upstairs to see how su Wanwan was sleeping. She didn't expect to see su Wanwan sitting on the bed with a conflicted expression when she pushed the door open. She was slightly surprised and worried at the same time. She thought that su Wanwan was feeling unwell again. She quickly walked forward and sat on the bed. Her voice was filled with worry, " young Madam, why aren't you sleeping? " Are you having a headache again?"

Su Wanwan saw aunt Wu and a ray of light suddenly flashed in her eyes. She couldn't remember the past, but she could always ask.

She immediately grabbed Auntie Wu's hand and said, " "Auntie Wu, do you know what I was like in the past?"