Su Wanwan stumbled as she ran into the operating room. There was a strong smell of blood inside. She saw her always dignified and solemn grandfather lying on the operating table, dying. Various tubes were inserted into his body, maintaining his last life.

Su Wanwan pounced over. She wanted to hold her grandfather's hand, but she didn't dare to touch him, for fear that once she touched him, he would turn into green smoke and disappear.

"Grandpa." Su Wanwan's voice was extremely low.

Su Zhenhua opened his eyes with difficulty, but he could only open them a little. He couldn't even see su Wanwan's face clearly, only a rough outline.

He was full of anger towards su Wanwan, but at this moment, he couldn't vent his anger. Wanwan, no, you don't have to be sad. When we're old, there will always be such a day.

When one was on the verge of death, one's heart would always be soft. No matter how dissatisfied he was with her, when he was dying, she was the only one who stayed by his bed and cried for him.

Grandpa, I'm sorry. I didn't know that you were in such poor health. I was too willful. I'm sorry, Yingluo.

Su Wanwan's tears burst out of her eyes. hold on, okay? get better, okay? I'll listen to you in the future. Don't leave me alone.

Su Zhenhua tried his best to raise his hand. Su Wanwan quickly held his hand. Feeling his bony hand, su Wanwan's tears flowed even more fiercely.

Wanwan, I'm very sorry that I can't make the SU family glorious again. I, I don't want to force you to support this crumbling SU group anymore, but there's, there's one thing that you must promise me. You must do it. Otherwise, otherwise, I won't rest in peace even if I die.

Su Zhenhua couldn't help but emphasize his last sentence, and his turbid eyes became clearer.

Grandpa, what's the matter? tell me. As long as I can do it, I'll do my best.

Su Zhenhua used the last of his strength to say his last wish in su Wanwan's ear word by word. Su Wanwan's eyes suddenly widened, but before she could digest this news, Su Zhenhua closed his eyes. The heart instrument next to him had already made a long buzzing sound, and the heart curve chart also slowly turned from a weak fluctuation line to a straight line.

"Grandpa!" Su Wanwan cried out and was on the verge of collapse.

The doctor and nurses rushed forward and su Wanwan was pulled away. After the doctor examined Su Zhenhua, he shook his head and looked at the clock on the wall before announcing the time of death.

The nurse removed the instruments from Su Zhenhua's body one by one. Su Wanwan still didn't believe it. She pounced on him and grabbed the doctor's hand. doctor, Grandpa won't die just like this. Please do the operation again and think of a way. I beg you.

“Miss, my condolences.”

The doctor comforted her and then pushed su Wanwan away. Su Wanwan watched helplessly as the nurse covered Su Zhenhua with the White cloth, completely covering his whole body. She covered her face and cried uncontrollably.

Su Wanwan was pushed out of the operating room. Nanny li hugged her as soon as she came up and also cried sadly. Secretary su, who was behind her, also couldn't help but sob.

Su Wanwan's tears seemed to have dried up inside. She raised her eyes in a daze and looked at Secretary su. Her voice was extremely hoarse, " what Grandpa said, is Hanhan true? "

Secretary su wiped his tears and nodded slowly. it's true.
