If they could stay in the same room, she might be able to develop further with mu Nian. However, with su Wanwan here, she didn't know what trouble she would cause. She couldn't cultivate feelings with mu Nian.

This was a rare opportunity. She must not waste it in vain. No matter what, she must drive su Wanwan away!

Riding a horse?

Although she was not the daughter of a rich family, she and her brother had grown up with PEI Munian. Since her brother had saved PEI Munian's life when they were young, Mrs. PEI treated them like half a son and half a daughter. Thus, she let them learn from PEI Munian.

She also knew golf, horse riding, and other sports that aristocrats liked. She learned them well.

When they were in University, PEI Munian brought su Wanwan to the horse track with her. At that time, she had seen su Wanwan's riding skills. It was slightly inferior to hers, so she didn't need to be afraid of her at all in the horse riding competition!

A smile appeared in Xi Zhiwei's eyes and she raised her chin. su Wan, you have to keep your word. If you lose, leave immediately!

Su Wanwan tugged the corner of her lips. you should worry about yourself.

The two of them walked to the stables, and the horsekeeper greeted them respectfully. He then introduced the horses for them to choose.

Xi Zhiwei directly chose the horse that usually ran the fastest and had the fiercest personality. Su Wanwan walked past the stables one by one and stroked the horses. Finally, she picked one that was pleasing to the eye and suited the atmosphere.

The rules of the competition were very simple. The two of them would run a lap around the mountain road in the forest behind them. Whoever ran back first would win!

Su Wanwan nimbly got on the horse and stroked the horse's head with her palm as if she was communicating with it. On the other side, Xi Zhiwei sneered disapprovingly and also got on the horse.

The horsekeeper temporarily acted as the judge. With his order, su Wanwan and Xi Zhiwei both rode their horses and quickly rushed out.

The mountain road in the woods was specially opened up for riding horses, so it was quite spacious. It was not a problem for two horses to run in at the same time. However, it was a forest after all, with many trees and the winding mountain road. They had to control their speed and watch the road carefully to avoid accidentally hitting the trees.

But Xi Zhiwei didn't care. She only cared about hitting the horse's butt and making it run quickly. The horse's speed was fast and soon, there was some distance between su Wanwan and the horse.

Su Wanwan maintained the horse's speed, looked ahead, and watched those winding roads. She changed the direction in advance. Although she was a little behind, she rode very steadily.

Because the watersman had already reminded her that there was a particularly curved section of the mountain road at the end. She had to be careful when riding there. Xi Zhiwei was rushing so fast that she would not be able to stop when she reached that section of the road. She could overtake her. After that section of the road was the finish line. If Xi Zhiwei could not catch up, then she would be the winner.

Xi Zhiwei looked back and saw that su Wanwan had been left far behind her. She smiled proudly. Just now, su Wanwan said that she wanted to have a horse riding competition with her. She thought that su Wanwan was very confident, but now, she was just so-so!

Once she won, she would have to leave the manor, and by then, only she and brother mu Nian would be left!

The more Xi Zhiwei thought about it, the happier she became. It was as if the moment of victory had arrived. In a daze, she did not see the curve in front of her and rushed straight towards a big tree.

Xi Zhiwei pulled the rope out of reflex. The horse's inertia was a little too strong and it still rushed forward. When it hit the tree, the horse instinctively dodged. Xi Zhiwei grabbed the rope with force and it felt pain in its neck. It neighed and raised its front hooves.
