Su Wanwan gratefully smiled at the nurse, took the glass of water, and fed it to little Zeze in her arms. little Zeze, be good. Don't cry. Come and drink some water. Be good.

Little ze ze was used to being easy to coax. His tears quickly stopped. He opened his small mouth in a daze and drank the water su Wanwan fed him.

The nurse's gaze swept over the cup without a trace, and her eyes flickered.

Little ze ze drank a few mouthfuls and was unwilling to drink anymore. He pushed the cup with his small hand. Su Wanwan had no choice but to move it away. She took out a piece of tissue from her bag, took out a piece, and wiped little ze's mouth.

After little ze ze calmed down, su Wanwan thanked the nurse again and threw the paper cup that little ze ze drank from into the trash can. Su Wanwan got up and left with little ze ze in her arms.

After su Wanwan left the injection room, the nurse bent down to pick up the paper cup in the trash can and put it into a transparent bag.

Su Wanwan returned to the villa and ate lunch with Xiao Zeze. She lay in bed and took a nap, but she tossed and turned, unable to fall asleep. The images of her and PEI Munian together these days involuntarily floated in her mind, and the more she thought about it, the more uneasy she felt.

After PEI Munian agreed to start over with her, although she was no longer as cold as before, they did not get too close either. Basically, she was the one who took the initiative to get close to him. Even if he was seduced, he did not take the last step, as if that was his bottom line.

Su Wanwan felt depressed just thinking about it. If PEI Munian was really perfunctory with her during this period of time, how many jokes must she have seen?

Su Wanwan turned over and looked at the other side where PEI Munian was sleeping. She couldn't help but wave her fist and gritted her teeth, "PEI Munian, don't let me catch you doing it with another woman. I'll definitely get away with it.

After a pause, su Wanwan said ruthlessly: "I'll definitely kill you!"

Su Wanwan didn't sleep well last night. She lay on the bed for a while but still fell asleep drowsily. When she woke up again, the sky outside had already darkened and the bedroom was dark.

Su Wanwan reached out and touched the bedside table. She found her phone, tapped on the screen, and looked at the time. It was almost eight o'clock.

Su Wanwan turned over and sat up. She turned on the light on the bedside table, rubbed her eyes, got out of bed, and walked to the bathroom.

After washing her face to wake herself up, Su Wanwan went out of the room and went downstairs. Aunt Wu was feeding Xiao Zeze in the dining room. When she saw her coming over, she said, "Young Madam, you're awake?"

Su Wanwan nodded lazily, glanced around the dining room, and then looked at the living room. She frowned. Where's Niannian? "He's not back yet?"

Young Master just called," Auntie Wu replied. He said he has a dinner appointment tonight and won't be back for dinner. He asked you and Young Master not to wait for him.

Pei Munian was very busy with work and often had dinner parties to entertain. Su Wanwan was used to it and would habitually acknowledge her. However, before she could finish her acknowledgment today, she suddenly thought of something and changed her tone from an affirmative tone to a questioning one. Huh? Niannian has a dinner appointment today? Aren't you coming back for dinner?"

Su Wanwan's reaction surprised Aunt Wu. Yes, young Madam, is there anything wrong?"

There was nothing wrong with it, but Yu Jia's words today made her wary. Was Pei Munian not coming home because she really had a dinner appointment, or was she using the dinner as an excuse to visit Zhiwei or some other woman?
