816 Revealing one's inner thoughts (2)

don't sleep, Wanwan, don't sleep, Hanhan. We'll be there soon. Look, you can see the house in front. Open your eyes and look at Hanhan.

PEI Munian turned her face to the side and shouted anxiously in her ear, " su Wan, if you fall asleep now, I won't forgive you. Wake up!

Perhaps it was PEI Munian's stern threat that made su Wanwan struggle to lift her heavy eyelids again. PEI, PEI Munian, you, you, you, like me, and, and you're so, so fierce to me, and, and you always don't ignore me, ignore me. You, is this how you like people? "

She liked him and wanted to give him all her love and all the good, but he always had a cold face and hid it, making her tired out.

"Wanwan, hold on a little longer, okay? Hang in there, didn't you say it yourself? You're not willing to die like this, so you can't die. You can't die."

"But I'm so cold, so cold. I can't see anything, I can't see Yingluo."

it won't happen. Open your eyes and look. We're almost there. You can see the house in front, huh? "

House?

Su Wanwan almost exhausted all her strength to open her eyes, but there was still a heavy wind and snow in front of her. It was dark and boundless. Where was the house?

"Nian ... Niannian, you ... You're lying again. You're a baddie, a big baddie."

I'm not lying to you. Take a look again. There's really a house in front!

Before, PEI Munian was indeed lying to su Wan, but he didn't expect that as he mumbled, he really vaguely saw the shape of a house. For fear that it was an illusion, he tried hard to open his eyes and quickly walked in that direction. Gradually, the shape of the house became clearer and clearer.

This was just a simple house, like a shed that the construction workers casually built. Although they haven't been able to walk down the mountain, with a house to shelter from the wind and snow, warm her body, su Wanwan might be able to hold on.

A ray of light flashed across PEI Munian's eyes, and her trembling voice was filled with joy. Wanwan, did you see that? I'll bring you there now. Don't sleep, okay?"

PEI Munian clenched her hands that were frozen stiff. Then, she mustered all her strength and ran over.

He walked to the front of the house and kicked the door. Fortunately, the door wasn't locked and there was something behind it. PEI Munian pushed it open with great effort and then carried su Wanwan in.

It was still very cold in the house, but at least it blocked the sharp wind and snow. PEI Munian and su Wanwan could take a good breath.

The house was a little messy and there were a lot of things piled up. PEI Munian found an empty space and put su Wanwan down. She was frozen stiff and didn't even tremble. Her small face was pale and her lips had turned purple.

PEI Munian checked her breathing, but she could not detect any more breathing.

No, su Wanwan can't die. She must not die. PEI Munian quickly stood up and looked around the house. She found a heater, but there was no electricity and it couldn't be used.

If su Wanwan couldn't be warmed up immediately, she would really freeze to death.

PEI Munian stood in the middle of the room with a grave expression. He had never been afraid of anything and thought that he could do anything. This was the first time he was dazed by nature, but he was also helpless.

What should I do, Yingluo?

PEI Munian was on the verge of despair when she suddenly saw something in the corner of the house.
