

Deeply 839

839 A strange phone call (9)

It wasn't that she didn't want PEI Munian, but when she was taking a shower just now, she saw some frostbites on her back and calves. It was too obvious and ugly on her fair skin, so she didn't want PEI Munian to see it.

This was the first time she and PEI Munian had done such a thing after they had revealed their feelings for each other. She did not want anything to be imperfect!

PEI Munian looked at her and could not help but laugh.

Before this, she had been thinking of ways to push him down, but now she knew how to be shy?

However, PEI Munian did not disturb her anymore. After all, she had been on the plane for a whole day and looked a little tired. Although she had been recuperating for a month and had been discharged from the hospital, she still needed to rest.

PEI Munian kissed her forehead through the blanket and said gently, "Good night," she said.

He got up from the bed and walked towards the bathroom. Hearing the footsteps gradually fade away, su Wanwan's big eyes peeked out from under the blanket. She looked at PEI Munian's back and couldn't help but clench her teeth. It was too torturous to only look and not eat.

However, it didn't matter. After the marks on her body faded, she would definitely fight him for 300 rounds!

Just you wait, PEI Munian!

When PEI Munian came out of the shower, su Wanwan had already fallen asleep. He took a towel and casually wiped his hair. Then, he walked to the bed and looked at su Wanwan, who was curled up in the middle of the bed and sleeping quietly. A touch of gentleness appeared between his eyebrows.

He stretched out his hand, held su Wan's hand, and opened her tightly clenched hands one by one. Then, he took the pillow, gently lifted her head, let her rest on it, and then covered her with the quilt she kicked to the side. He carefully tucked in the corner of the quilt.

Her dark eyes quietly watched her sleeping face. PEI Munian's hand gently caressed her cheek, and she leaned over to kiss her red lips. Then, she got up and walked out of the master bedroom with light steps, closing the door behind her.

PEI Munian returned to the study room and walked to the desk. He picked up the phone on it, opened the call record, and deleted the first call number skillfully.

After staring at the screen for a few seconds, he threw the phone back on the table, walked to the coffee table, poured a glass of red wine, and walked to the floor-to-ceiling window. Looking out at the Twilight, he gently swirled the red wine in his glass, then raised his head and drank it all in one go.

—

Su Wanwan slept all the way until daybreak. She comfortably stretched her back and turned around. Her forehead touched a Wall of Flesh. Su Wanwan was stunned and quickly opened her eyes.

The man's handsome face was right in front of her. His facial features were exquisite, and his skin was almost without any pores. He was simply the most perfect work of the creator. Even though she could see him almost every day when she opened her eyes during this period of time, she would still be dazzled by his face every time.

When su Wanwan looked at PEI Munian in a daze, the man's eyes suddenly opened and the woman's small reflection was reflected in his eyes. The corners of his lips raised evilly and his voice was hoarse from just waking up, extremely charming, "peeking at me?"

Su Wanwan blinked and didn't blush at all. Her body directly turned over to PEI Munian's body and held his cheeks with both hands. She said proudly, "I'm clearly looking at it openly."

"What, you won't let me see?"

"Here, you can look however and wherever you want to." PEI Munian furrowed her brows, her eyes full of evil. but I'm a businessman. I don't do business at a loss. We have to exchange for something of equal value.