

Deeply 943

943 Something happened (5)

he's not in good condition. There are problems with his heart and stomach. He's undergoing emergency surgery now. PEI Munian only described it briefly, as if she was worried that she would scare her.

However, even though it was just a sentence, she was still on tenterhooks. She sat on the plane for a few hours and felt restless. PEI Munian's handsome face had a grave expression the entire time. Her thin lips were tightly pursed and her eyes were deep.

Although she could not read his emotions, she knew that PEI Munian must be very worried. Even if his relationship with Mother PEI was so strained, she was still his beloved mother.

It was already late at night when the plane landed in L city.

After PEI Munian and su Wanwan collected their luggage, they walked out of the airport. Assistant Wu was already waiting outside. When he saw them walking out, he quickly went forward and greeted them respectfully before taking their luggage from them.

PEI Munian asked in a low voice, " how's mom's condition now? "

"He's still in surgery," Assistant Wu replied.

"Let's go to the hospital."

PEI Munian held su Wanwan and walked to the car. She opened the door to the back seat and protected her as she sat inside. Then, he followed her in and closed the door.

Assistant Wu put the luggage in the trunk and quickly ran back to the driver's seat. He sat down, started the engine, turned the steering wheel, and stepped on the gas. The car slowly merged into the flow of traffic.

Along the way, no one spoke. The silence in the carriage made people feel more and more uneasy.

Su Wanwan turned her face to the side and looked at PEI Munian. There was no expression on his handsome face. His black eyes looked out of the car window. The street lights slanted in and flickered on his face, giving people an inexplicable feeling of indifference.

She did not like to see PEI Munian like this. She felt that he was very far away from her.

Su Wanwan's hand gently covered PEI Munian's hand that was on her thigh. She was shocked to find that his hand actually had no temperature and was extremely cold. Her heart couldn't help but be chilled by the temperature of the back of his hand.

She couldn't help but hold his hand tightly, trying to give him some warmth.

PEI Munian looked back and met su Wanwan's uneasy eyes. He tugged at the corner of his lips, moved his hand, and held her hand. Their fingers were tightly clasped together.

The car arrived at the hospital. PEI Munian held su Wanwan's hand and walked into the hospital, quickly walking towards the operating room.

PEI Munian's steps were big and her walking speed was fast. Su Wanwan could only jog after her, trying not to let herself affect his speed.

The red light above the operating theater was still on. Mr. PEI was sitting on a bench in the corridor in front of the door. His expression was extremely serious and his brows were tightly furrowed. From time to time, he would glance at the door of the operating theater. His eyes were full of worry. His usual high-spirited self had disappeared completely at this moment.

Xi Zhiwei sat beside him and accompanied him quietly. Her face was also filled with worry.

Hearing footsteps, Xi Zhiwei looked up and saw PEI Munian. Her eyes lit up and she stood up immediately. brother Munian, you're back? "

However, when her line of sight swept to su Wan, who was beside PEI Munian, the light dimmed again. The corners of her lips curled up with extreme sarcasm.

Father PEI also raised his eyes and looked over. When he saw PEI Munian, his eyes moved slightly, but when he swept his gaze to su Wan, his expression quickly sank and his face was filled with displeasure.

Su Wanwan's gaze touched father PEI's face. The hand that PEI Munian was holding subconsciously pulled back.