In that case, PEI Munian was really hiding a mistress outside? Did this woman, Yingluo, get together with him before they made up? That's right, PEI Munian was so cold to her back then, and he was indifferent to her efforts. Was it because he was afraid of being hurt again that he changed his love for someone else? He fell in love with another woman?

If not for that accident, she and PEI Munian would have gone their separate ways by now, and that woman would be able to be with him rightfully. However, she did not expect that the accident would untie the knot in their hearts and they would be together again. PEI Munian loved her, but he could not let go of that woman? So Yingluo was two-timing?

Su Wanwan was frightened by her own imagination and her face turned pale.

No way, PEI Munian was not that kind of person. He was surrounded by so many beautiful women, but she had never seen him treat anyone kindly. Didn't she see how cold he was to those women?

Even for Xi Zhiwei, he was mostly cold and indifferent.

Although she tried her best to deny it in her heart, the gentle female voice just now lingered in her ears. It was like a demon's voice, and she couldn't get rid of it.

The more su Wanwan tried not to let herself think about it, the more she couldn't help but think about it.

She walked back to her room and lay on the bed. She closed her eyes and wanted to fall asleep. As long as she fell asleep, she wouldn't have to think about anything. However, those terrible images still came out of her mind, and she couldn't fall asleep.

Su Wanwan struggled for a long time and finally sat up.

Instead of blindly guessing, it was better to investigate it. She would not give up her feelings so easily, and she did not want these things to affect them.

Su Wanwan found an excuse and asked assistant Wu about PEI Munian's schedule for the next few days.

If PEI Munian was really hiding a woman outside, they would meet eventually. If she followed him, she might be able to see that woman and know who she was.

It was impossible to find a private detective for such a matter. After all, there was no such thing as an impenetrable wall. If PEI Munian knew that she had hired a private detective to investigate him, it might cause a misunderstanding again. Hence, she had to do it herself.

After su Wanwan followed PEI Munian for more than a month and a week, she didn't find anything wrong. He basically followed his schedule and would visit Mrs. PEI at the hospital or go home to accompany her in his spare time.

After that, she found another opportunity to check PEI Munian's phone. As usual, she did not find any call history or traces of that call.

The more mysterious he was, the more su Wanwan felt that something was wrong. The uneasiness in her heart grew day by day.

Today was the weekend. Su Wanwan had just woken up when she received PEI Munian's call, saying that he would be back tonight. Su Wanwan's face immediately lit up.

It had been five days since he last came back.

After she washed up, she looked at PEI Munian's schedule for the day. She had been in the office the entire day. She thought that since he was coming back at night, she did not have to keep an eye on him today. Otherwise, she would have to rush home without stopping like before when he suddenly came back, and he would almost find out that something was wrong.

In the evening, su Wanwan asked aunt Wu to prepare a table full of his favorite dishes and served them one by one. Looking at the steaming dishes, su Wanwan smiled, took out her phone, and sent PEI Munian a WeChat message: [ where are you? ]

The reply came very quickly, but it was
