

Divine Talent Born Mortal

Chapter 16: The Sect Iron 7

Plus the great talent of Zhang Yi has made him born with the meridians open since birth, so this refinement of the meridians would be far better and more productive than the others who do the refinement with the closed meridians.

Zhang Yi's body has always been stronger, and with body refinement, its meridians have become even stronger and protected and now refinement in the seventh layer of qi culture would be very difficult to damage its meridians, and your body would have many possibilities of regeneration them.

So Zhang Yi has after this layer an even greater advantage over others, not to mention that for him the next realm is an open path, he just has to understand the mantras and the realm paths and then accumulate the Qi.

Now Zhang Yi was keeping the spiritual stones for it since spiritual stones are not medicines would not affect his steady basis of cultivation, and it would take even less time to pass than the first realm.

The biggest reason that other growers take so long in this realm is the lack of cultivation or talent, because this realm has no bottlenecks, more especially the greatest difficulty is to open the meridians, the more meridians open longer takes to cultivate, is the basis and more spiritual energy in the body the cultivator can have.

So Zhang Yi was anxious because he was getting closer to the Houtian realm, if others that when they pass to the Houtian realm with 22 commemorate, heard that Zhang Yi at 13 was already close to the realm also can not imagine the face they would do.

So after another 20 days of cultivation, he reached the peak of the sixth layer of mental energy and was ready to move to the advanced part of the first realm, the seventh layer until the ninth will finish building the house he started long ago.

So he passed consciousness by the seal and unblocked the seventh mantra layer, it would be good for him to at least get to the eighth layer before Zhang Yi went through the celestial tribulation because he could use the condensed and pure spiritual energy to go straight to the peak of the ninth layer.

And after 10 days Zhang Yi reached the peak of the ninth layer of body refinement and also reached the peak of the seventh each of the cultivation of qi, Zhang Yi could feel more and more spiritual energy in his body and a whirlpool forming outside his Dantian.

It seemed that spiritual energy was in a hurry rather than Zhang Yi to advance its meridians were also greatly strengthened, it seemed that it could stand a river of spiritual energy, Zhang Yi, on the contrary, was not in a hurry and was thinking of moving to the next realm of body refinement.

The second realm equals the mental energy and the cultivation of qi has 5 levels, the initial layer is the first, so Zhang Yi passed his consciousness in the initial layer of the second realm of body refinement, and immediately broke the barrier of the realms to the beginning of the initial layer.

Since this realm was the same for the other in both cultivation and refinement, its speed of cultivation would be equally rapid, yet the cultivation of qi should reach after the tribulation.

And after that he passed the consciousness through the eighth layer of qi cultivation, this layer was the most difficult perhaps, because as the whole body had already been refined and especially Zhang Yi who also did body refinement, he would have to penetrate blood and energy spiritual in the marrow, just so the whole body would be fortified.

More the cultivator had to be careful, because any deviation from qi could lead to death and explode the body, Zhang Yi would also have more difficulty in this layer, plus he was fortunate to have the metal element to help and now that some of the blood of the dragon had melted in his body his blood was more powerful than that of other growers.

Zhang Yi would still stop cultivating every day to eat his meals, so the spiritual energy in his body became more and purer, it can be said that he incredibly already had enough base to enter the Xiantian realm, just needed understanding and accumulation of spiritual energy.

So after another 50 days, Zhang Yi reached the peak of the eighth layer of qi cultivation and also the peak of the initial layer of body refinement, which without the support of qi in the same realm slowed down, was now only accumulating energy, it passed the consciousness in the ninth layer of qi cultivation.

Unlike the eighth layer, the ninth layer would be the easiest for Zhang Yi to cultivate, the ninth layer of qi cultivation is called Refinement of the Spiritual Sense and the purpose of this layer is to increase the connection of consciousness, of the body which is now almost without impurities, and so try to start opening the meridians beginning the way to the next realm, also the cultivator has to feel threads of spiritual energy in the atmosphere and bring to their meridians.

And Zhang Yi has already done all this, so he preached two basic spiritual stones and began to cultivate, soon after a larger whirlwind that had earlier formed around Zhang Yi, thus also increasing body refinement and mental energy.

After 5 days he reached the peak of the ninth layer of qi cultivation, and he could immediately feel that if he tried to cultivate the heavenly tribulation would begin, he nonetheless passed his consciousness on to Jake and memorized the mantras of the initial stages and intermediates of the cultivation of qi and also after having already learned the initial and intermediary stage he also learned the advanced of body refinement.

He also decorated the ninth layer and the initial layer of the next realm of his mental cultivation, so now Zhang Yi was ready to leave the sect and make a breakthrough, he would only expect to reach the eighth tier of mental energy before going.

Meanwhile, Bai Cheng awakened from his semi-lit state and was excited, after a few months of cultivation he had reached the peak of the peak layer of realm accumulation of qi, so now he was sure that with the refined pill he would enter the Houtian realm before of the remaining 5 months.

As he was getting more and more excited he saw that he was flashing his disciple token when he found he had seen that he had more than 40 messages, so he saw that he was lucky to have entered a semi-illuminated state otherwise these messages would prevent him from cultivating.

So he heard the message and saw that it was about doing his obligatory mission, seeing this he was enraged, despite the missions being obligatory, if the disciple was in seclusion to pass in a bottleneck it is forbidden to bother the disciple and then I leave him in seclusion he could make the mission late, after all the objectives of the missions is to earn resources to make progress.

If the disciple was in the midst of making a breakthrough and being bothered would be counterproductive, so he immediately went to the building where the Elder was to be disciplined, this Elder and his commanders enforced the laws in the sect.

And this Elder was not afraid to offend anyone if someone did something wrong he was punished even if it was another Elder, let alone a deacon and his grandson.

It was too much trouble to refine his pill and even more tried to disrupt his cultivation by breaking the rules of the sect, this he would not let pass, after all, that could have hindered his chances of entering the Houtian realm before the 22 years pass.

"Deacon, please, my name is Bai Cheng and I am a provisional disciple, I would like to report a serious violation of one of the fundamental rules of the sect for personal quarrels, please inform the Elder to come here."

The deacon looked at this surprised disciple, he seemed to have talent since he was almost in the Houtian realm and did not seem to have passed the age of 22, in which case he could be a future outward disciple.

And if he came here with a complaint and even had the courage to ask for the Elder's presence should be a very serious matter, because the Elder usually acts more when there are killings or abuse of power, the problem was that it was very rare for a disciple had the courage to denounce these crimes and even more to obtain evidence not to be punished for lying.

"Rest assured that I will inform Elder immediately."

No matter what the situation, everyone knew that the Elder disciplinarian was a sect loyalist and what else he hated that the people in his sect used their positions to gain people or disrupt other disciples.

After a while the disciplinary Elder appeared in front of him, he looked like an old man and had a serious face on his face and emitted an aura of blood.
