Chapter 781 Why Can't You Just Stay Together?

If Jonathan argued, he would embarrass Charlie.

Charlie was a person who cared about his dignity after all.

Jonathan had no choice but to take the blame silently. He nodded and said, "Sorry, it was my fault. I didn't handle it well."

Charlie said coldly, "Keep an eye on me from now on, and don't let me do anything shameful to her again."

Jonathan nodded. "Yes!"

However, Charlie was so clingy when he was drunk. Who could stop him? Who would have the heart to stop him?

"Dad." Just after Charlie berated Jonathan and made him feel bad, Ben opened the door and walked out.

The boy was still wearing his pajamas without putting on his shoes. He stood on the carpet barefoot and looked at Charlie. "Dad."

Charlie looked at Ben and said, "Good morning."

Ben held Charlie's leg and responded, "Good morning, Dad! You were drunk last night. I went to call you, but you just ignored me. Are you feeling better now?"

Charlie nodded. "Yes, much better."

Ben asked, "Dad, why do you drink? It's said that one only drinks when he or she is unhappy. Are you unhappy?"

Chapter 782 Charlie's Worry

"Ben, it seems that you don't like me at all," Charlie sighed with disappointment.
Ben shook his head and said, "I love you, Dad. It's just that I think Mom needs me more."
Charlie thought of Theresa and wondered if she really needed the children.
"If she married Dick, she would only think of our two children as burdens, wouldn't she?" Charlie thought, feeling helpless.
He really wanted to keep Theresa by his side, but the reality made him realize that he might not be able to do that.
But he really couldn't leave the two children.
Moreover, he didn't want Theresa to marry Dick and let the two children live with Dick.
After all, Dick wouldn't want to see the two kids unless he intended to hold them as hostages.
Charlie couldn't help but suspect Dick's purpose.
If Theresa really married Dick, Dick would be able to manipulate the two kids, Charlie believed.
"Theresa, have you ever thought about these things?" wondered Charlie.
After dinner, Ben walked out of the restaurant with a toy that a waiter had given him and he asked Charlie, "Dad, are we going back?"

Leah was shocked greatly. "Are you talking about Leonard and Ben?"

Sarah replied, "Sure, or else?"

Leah asked in disbelief, "But Theresa never told us about it. Didn't she say they were Cristina's children?" "Who knows what she was up to," Sarah said. "She is really scheming and good at acting. Although she knows we've targeted her, she never makes any explanations."

Inwardly, Sarah added, "No wonder the two bastards didn't even spare a look at me when I tried to please them. Damn! Theresa just meant it. She just wants to see my mother and me make a fool of ourselves."

Sarah felt humiliated at the thought of it.

She clearly remembered what had happened when she had been detained in the past few days. She hated Theresa's guts now.

Sarah felt depressed at that thought.

"Charlie was supposed to be with me. He even went against Leticia for my sake. He just fell out with me after he knew that Leonard and Ben were Theresa's children later," thought Sarah to herself.

Leah said, "It's only natural for Charlie to be angry. After all, the two children like Theresa. It was indeed your fault, but you didn't know it either. Make a sincere apology to him. I believe he will forgive you."

Sarah asked, "Really?"

"Men are softhearted. As long as you don't mess with him, you will get a chance sooner or later. I don't think Theresa cares about Charlie at all. How can Charlie stand her? Sooner or later, Charlie will dislike her. You'll get him as long as you can play tricks. Johnson has listened to me over the years, hasn't he?"

Sarah looked at her mother. Thinking of Johnson's attitude towards her mother, Sarah responded, "Okay, I see."

Back then, Johnson could have married an unmarried woman. After all, he was rich and good-looking. But later, he still fell in love with Leah, who had nothing, and even treated Leah's daughter as his own daughter.

Therefore, Leah was quite impressed by herself.

But later, because of the divorce of Theresa and Charlie, Charlie didn't want to take care of the company anymore, and Jimmy began to take charge of it.

Charlie looked at Johnson and said, "I have no other intentions. I just want to help you manage the company well so that I can make up for Theresa. It's not good to let Dick take care of the company all the time. What do you think?"

Johnson responded, "I agree. After all, I'm not familiar with Dick. He did ask Jimmy to help us, but the company had no choice before."

Speaking of this, Johnson took a look at Charlie. If it weren't for Jimmy and Dick, Charlie would have ruined the company in a fit of anger.

Johnson was afraid of Charlie, who could easily make his company go bankrupt.

Charlie was a smart woman. He knew what Johnson was thinking and with a guilty look on his face, he said, "Johnson, those were all misunderstandings. I brought Ben here today just to show my sincerity. You are not in good health, and Theresa is your only daughter. You'll give your company to Theresa instead of Sarah and Leah in the future, right?"

"Of course." Theresa Johnson's his biological daughter. Although Leah had the right to inherit the company, Johnson didn't want to give it to Sarah at all.

After all, Sarah was not reliable at all, and Johnson really didn't dare to trust her.

Charlie said, "Don't worry. As long as you agree, I will deal with Jimmy and Dick."

Johnson nodded.

Charlie looked at him and said sincerely, "I'm sorry, Johnson! I went too far before, but Sarah just pissed me off. Because of her, my grandfather is still in the hospital. I hope you can forgive me. Regardless of how things between Theresa and me will go in the future, you'll always be the grandfather of my two children."

Charlie's words made Johnson feel a little embarrassed.

Johnson sighed, "I'm ashamed of what happened to your grandfather. I'm sorry, Charlie. Your family treated me very well. It was my bad. Your engagement was too hasty. In fact, the person who was supposed to get engaged to you was Theresa. But she had married Jimmy. I couldn't let her marry you." Charlie smiled. "It's all fate. If I had known her earlier, maybe we would have had a different ending."

Then he and Theresa wouldn't have ended up like this.

Johnson said, "Then I'll write a commission for you right now."

"Thank you."

Leah took a look at her clothes and asked, "What should you call me then?"

Ben shook his head. "I don't know."

Leah said, "Call me Grandma!"

Ben pursed his lips and didn't want to call her.

His mother's mother was his grandmother.

But the woman in front of him was not his mother's mother.

Seeing that he didn't say anything, Leah knew that he was unwilling to do so. After all, this little boy had always regarded her and Sarah as bad people.

Johnson glanced at her and said, "I'm tired, and I want to have a rest. How's Sarah?"

"Do you still care about her?" Leah complained. "She's so miserable now. It's all Theresa's fault. After all, Sarah is her sister. How can Theresa treat her sister like this? I've always treated Theresa as my own daughter, but she has never treated me as her mother at all. It's too difficult to be her stepmother."

Johnson looked at her and said, "What does it have to do with Theresa? I've told you not to make trouble with Sarah, but you just didn't listen."

"Come on! Your precious daughter called the police to get Sarah arrested. We are family. Why can't we enter the house?" Leah got angry at the mention of this. She looked at Johnson and said, "Do you know Leonard and Ben are Theresa's children?"

Johnson nodded and responded, "Yes. You already know it?"

He assumed that Sarah had told her mother about it.

Leah looked at Johnson in disbelief. "So, you've known it for a long time, but you've been playing dumb all the time? Johnson, I'm your wife. How could you hide such an important thing from me?"

Johnson glanced at her and tried to cover it up. "I didn't know it until recently."

He didn't mean to hide it from Leah, but if he had told her earlier, she might have leaked it out long ago.

Charlie raised his eyebrows and asked, “What’s wrong? I’m here. Do you still want to give him a hard time?”

Charlie’s words scared Sarah.

In order to maintain her image in front of Charlie, she had to put up with it.

She said softly, “Of course not. But Charlie, you said you would be with me.”

“I have made it clear to you. I just use you as an excuse. Now, I don’t need you anymore,” Charlie.

“Don’t you think you’ve gone too far? How could you make that promise when you need me and kick me away when you don’t?” Sarah questioned.

Charlie raised his eyebrows and said, “You’ve never thought that you’ve gone too far, either.”

Chapter 790 Who Does She Think She Is?

Theresa had been worried that Charlie would not take Ben back to her.

She breathed a sigh of relief when she received the message from Leonard.

Dick was sleeping. When Theresa was about to leave, a familiar voice came from behind. "Dr. Cameron."

Theresa turned around and saw Chandler standing behind her, followed by Celia.

Chandler came to see Dick, and Celia came with him.

Celia smiled sarcastically when she saw Theresa.

After Theresa and Dick left the day before, Celia heard something about Theresa and learned that Theresa had divorced two times and had two children.

In Celia's eyes, Dick was really blind to choose such a woman.
