

Enchanted 120

If she just pounced on him, she would suffer a great loss. After all, he was neatly dressed, while she had only this bath towel on to cover herself. As a result, while faced with a man who she had just poured coffee on and could retaliate against at any time, she could only keep as rational as possible.

"How did you get in?"

While playing with Cassie's underwear, Roy answered, "Well, actually, I wanted to tell you just now that I'm staying in the room next to yours."

What did it matter whether he was next to her? Cassie thought.

"I was just asking you how you came in?" Actually, this was the key. She thought.

"Oh, that's it." Roy drew it out and appeared to be a bad boy with his eyebrows raised, "I just told the hotel staff that my girlfriend had quarreled with me, so they opened the door for me."

"Who is your girlfriend?" This man was so shameless, she thought.

Roy just laughed but didn't say anything. He put the underwear up to his nose.

"You—Pervert!!!" Cassie was very embarrassed and annoyed.

"So fragrant," Roy acted like a playboy. His attractive eyes also seemed to tease her, "Am not entitled to be your boyfriend? Just be assured. Maybe I am not good at some things, but as far as sex..."

He put the underwear onto the bed and stood up, walking towards her.

Cassie was very careful and vigilant at once. She just pointed at him, "You, go away."

Her threat was nothing at all to Roy, who was tall and strong. Instead, he just walked forward and held her hand tightly. Then he pulled her forward. In this way, she was totally in his chest.

"Let me go, you beast!" She had never touched this kind of man whose speech and behaviors were so vulgar. She kept struggling.

However, Roy held her more tightly and said beside her ears, "I am good at it. And you can be...very happy."

"Shut up! You are so shameless!" Cassie blushed and reached her hands out to attack him.

"Otherwise, I will pull your bath towel down." Roy threatened her unhurriedly.

Cassie immediately stopped her actions since Roy's big hands were holding somewhere on her bath towel. As long as he pulled it, she would be completely naked.

"Embarrassed? I was just joking, we are adults now." Roy got nervous, seeing that her face was flushed as the rosy clouds, as well as excited.

"I am not embarrassed at all. Let me go quickly, or I will shout out." She was extremely angry.

"You can just do it. Even if others come in, they will just see the scene where you are lying in my chest with only an untidy bath towel. And you know what they will think of us?" Roy lowered his head and just glanced at her cleavage clearly.

Cassie noticed that he was looking somewhere several times, so she also followed along with his eyesight and was enraged, "Don't look at me." Then she pulled up her bath towel but then revealed much about her hip and legs because of their small size. As a result, it was more convenient for Roy to see more of her.

"Well, if you won't allow me to look at you, so let's have an embrace." Then he embraced her tightly and clenched her wrist to make them surround his neck.

As her body approached the man's, she felt the changes in his body.

"You pervert!" she felt frightened and pushed him away with all her strength. She pointed at the door, "Get out!"

She had had sex with Fredrick, so she naturally knew what these changes meant. She had had only one boyfriend, and it was Fredrick. She also only loved him. For her, he was not only a mentor that made her fall in love but a man that led her from a girl to a woman. She had never thought about what it would mean for her to touch others.

But this man was so shameless to behave like this, even though they had only met a few times. He was a disgusting man and a disaster for women, she thought.

Roy lowered to take a look at her. Then he couldn't help laughing. As it was summer, he didn't wear much. So his physical changes were clearly apparent. However, he was not embarrassed at all but looked at Cassie and snickered to her naturally, "It's huge. Do you want to try?"

"Get out!" Cassie was very mad, so she grabbed the pillow to throw toward him.

Roy tilted his head and then escaped the attack, "Are you accustomed to throwing things? Coffee first, and then you threw a pillow. Let me warn you that we're not even."

"Not even? I want to kill you!" Cassie threw another pillow at him.

Roy avoided it again. As he was about to say something, his phone rang. He had to stop, "Today, I'll just let you go."

"Get out!" Cassie became furious.

As Roy went out, Cassie closed the door heavily, making a loud noise. He looked back at the tightly closed door and couldn't help smiling. Then he took out his phone reluctantly and said, "Mom, why did you call me now?"

"So I interrupted your date with some girl?" His mother knew much about him. Roy walked to the end of the corridor. At this time, it was late at night in Tours, and there was a sight of beautiful foreign scenery, "What's wrong, Mom?"

"If it wasn't for the business of the group, I would not call you." Kelly lowered her voice.

Upon hearing the word "group," Roy felt upset at once. He was to make an excuse to refuse the call, but his mother immediately added, "Please be patient. You know what, Roy, it was said that today Joseph had established a business relationship with diamond mines in South Africa. It's very possible there was an investment in a certain mine which had been put on the agenda before."

"It's fine. We all know that Joseph is capable." Roy didn't care about it at all, so his answer was to the point.