

Enchanted 191

Her heart beat so fast, and she asked, "But why didn't you even care about my virginity blood?"

"How could I use that to judge whether it was your first time?" Joseph expressed his opinion.

"What if I lied to you? Hymens can be repaired now with advances in medical procedures."

Joseph shook his head and said, "I really didn't think too much about it. You are a good woman."

"You want to say I'm an idiot."

"But I really cherish you, my little idiot." Joseph held her tightly and sighed. "Isabel, I am so lucky to be with you. You belong to me now, and it makes me feel so happy. Did you know that when I entered you last night, it was the first time I realized that something like that could be a spiritual experience?"

Her face became red, and in the deep of her heart, she felt that it was so sweet. Her panic had vanished under his trustworthy eyes.

"Don't say that. You've had a girlfriend before." She pretended to frown at him.

Joseph was a little embarrassed and cleared his throat, then said, "Well, I apologize to you."

Irish laughed and said while blushing, "I hope that is true. I don't want a kid suddenly showing up and calling you daddy."

Joseph laughed with his eyes turned down, "It's normal for a kid to call me daddy. As long as our kid won't be as shrewd as Pea."

Irish followed his eyes and found that he was staring at her abdomen. She hastily buried it and said, "Joseph, you are ridiculous!"

"We didn't take any precautions last night or this morning." He thought it was necessary to remind her that.

"I am in the safe period." She replied frankly.

Joseph was shocked and raised his eyebrows, "Safe period?"

"Are you looking forward to having a baby?"

"Of course." He smiled.

"Nice try. But I just asked about your other girlfriends." Irish said deliberately.

Joseph felt helpless and flicked her forehead, "I didn't take precautions with you, not them."

"Ouch!" She suddenly remembered that he said before that he wouldn't give any chance to another woman to have a baby with him. He only wanted to have a baby with his beloved woman. She felt excited, and her heart beat even faster.

"Well, then what about Ruby?"

He smiled and replied, "I had an agreement with her and never touched her."

After getting the answer that she wanted, Irish smiled, but she still pretended that she didn't care and corrected him. "I am not asking that, but asking you who is more beautiful? I can't ask that in bed."

"You seem to have asked that before."

"But I want you to answer again." She smiled a sweet smile at him.

Joseph stared at her and replied, "You are more beautiful."

Staring at his handsome face, Irish was so cheerful, and she couldn't help recalling the scene from the night before. She loved how direct he was, so she took the initiative to get closer to him and added, "I still remember that you said we were equal."

Joseph embraced her and looked down at her eyes, "Have you heard that beauty lies in a lover's eyes?"

She went pink again and hastily drew back her gaze. Seeing her shy appearance, Joseph couldn't help kissing her and mumbled, "Isabel, I'd like you to stop telling me to leave you alone, I like your helplessness when you are sensitive."

She had to admit, not only did he bring her physical pleasure but mental bliss as well. It seemed that as long as he was there, she would not be afraid of anything. But she was a stubborn woman, and when she looked at him, she cleared her throat and said, "I pretend to be like this. I know men like to see women in their weakness, so I pretend to be a weak woman."

Joseph rubbed her nose and said, "It is okay if you lie to me."

"But you just asked why I don't tell you the truth." Irish showed a faint smile and added, "I won't hide anything from you."

He knew she was delighted in contradicting him, so he smiled and said, "I hope you can tell me a little more of this lie."

She couldn't help laughing. Joseph looked at her and then embraced her in his arms again. "Now that you've promised that you won't lie to me, then I have something to ask you."

"What?"

"You said just now that you fell in love with Fredrick secretly."

Irish was surprised by his words.

"Is that true?"

"Yes."

"Okay, it was all over."

Irish then realized what he meant. "Joseph!"

But he didn't say anything and just smiled at her.

"Don't laugh at me. I didn't say anything." Irish hastily put a hand over his mouth.

Joseph was cheerful and held her hand, then kissed her. He lingered on her lips for a long time and finally said, "Anyway, now you are mine."

Irish was moved by the sparkle in his eyes and suddenly bit his lip. When he was about to say something, her tongue slipped into his mouth, and she took the initiative to kiss him.

Joseph was touched by her charm and enjoyed her kiss. "Witch girl!" Finally, he said to her while smiling.

She put her fingers on his lips and looked at him with her enchanting eyes, "You're mine, and I can kiss you whenever I want."

Joseph laughed and pressed her down on the seat. "Okay, I will fulfill your wishes." Then his lips overlapped hers again.

She didn't resist, and her hands had already hooked around his neck.

Lily had invested in a film, and the media began to report and advertise it. Recently, many businessmen have turned their focus on the cultural industry, and the new generation has become the mainstream in the film market. Films had become more popular than soap operas, so there was great potential for the development of the film market. Leo had already started his business in this area, which was why Megan chased after him.

Leo was attending the press conference, and Britney was also there. Everyone was interested in her since she was the leading actor in two important films. Both films had important jewelers funding them, the former was Leo, and the latter was Joseph.