

Enchanted 397

Cassie just stopped there. She had never expected that Roy would appear. However brilliant the light was, she didn't approach him. She just stayed motionless. Cassie's mother felt confused, "Is that Roy?"

Cassie's mother didn't have good eyesight, and the moonlight was dim, so she couldn't see him clearly. Cassie's father also squinted and nodded, "It seemed to be Roy."

"Mom and Dad, you mistook him. Let's go back." Cassie was nervous, so she just pulled her parents to go straight.

"Really? I think he is Roy." Cassie's mother hesitated.

Actually, Cassie's mother was fond of Roy because she was touched by Roy's behavior. That day he just kicked the door and embraced Cassie out of the washroom to the hospital. Cassie's mother knew that Roy liked her daughter.

Cassie grasped her mother's meaning and immediately changed the topic, "It is not him. Nobody will come here since it is Labor Day. He tends to spend it with his family. So just go upstairs."

However, at this time, Roy called her, "Cassie!"

Cassie was totally shocked.

"See. I am right, anyway. He is calling you, so just go." Her mom pushed her and told her, "Let him grab a drink with you."

"Mom..."

"Go there quickly. Maybe he has something crucial to say to you. We will go back home first." And then she pulled her husband and left.

Cassie stood there for a while and then slowly went to the car. She didn't wear much. A light-yellow dress with a thin white belt made her look better to some extent.

Roy didn't get off but still sat on the driver's seat, patiently waiting for her. As Cassie walked toward him, his eyes appeared to be so emotional, and he seemed to have so many words to say to her. His cheek was especially clear under the silver moonlight, and his face was a little pale. All these made him sexy and intoxicating. Cassie didn't know the reason for having this kind of feeling.

Roy pushed the door beside the copilot's seat directly and ordered her, "Hop on."

"Just say anything you want directly." Cassie was not touched by him at all and said lightly.

"Hop on, first," Roy emphasized again. She didn't move and just looked at him quietly.

Behind her was the round moon and her eyes were as cold as it.

"If nothing serious, I will leave now." She didn't know why she was always nervous in front of him, so she turned to leave.

However, Roy's naughty words came, "Believe it or not, if you just go, I will later come to your home."

Cassie stopped suddenly and turned to look at him, completely confused.

"Your parents seemed to like me more." Roy put his arm outside the window idly and stared at her with a complex expression.

Cassie frowned and controlled her anger, "What do you want to do?"

"Hop on." He smiled lightly.

Cassie bit her lips forcefully and took a deep breath to hide her anger. After stopping for half a minute, she finally got in the car unwillingly. But as she closed the door, Roy closed the window immediately. And soon, the space became a closed one, and Cassie smelt the wine aroma.

She felt astonished, "You're drunk?"

Roy didn't pay attention to her words and started the engine suddenly, driving away.

Cassie was nervous immediately and just stared at Roy's side face, screaming, "How much did you drink? You shouldn't drive as you drink alcohol. Stop the car quickly!"

Roy sped up instead.

The car ran as quickly as a rocket. Cassie was so regretful that she had believed him. Looking at the buildings backward outside the window, she didn't know where she was prepared to go. So she began to be afraid and said to him again, "Roy, where are you going?"

"Spend one night with me, will you?" Roy turned the steering wheel and drove on the road.

Cassie really felt that he drank too much, so she dared not to annoy an intoxicated man, especially when she was still in his car. It would be more terrible if he got excited and bumped the car somewhere.

She tried her best to make her voice placid, "Roy, could you just send me back?"

Roy's eyes focused on the road, smiling after his words, "I just want to spend the night with you. Isn't it wonderful?"

"Are you sick?" Cassie was angry.

"You force me to be like this. I've tried so many times to beg you." Roy gritted his teeth.

Cassie didn't know what to say but gripped her fist, "I will just jump from the car if you don't stop."

Roy still neglected her threat.

She took a deep breath and intended to open the door with great risks.

However, the car stopped suddenly with a strange sound. Her body rushed forward but was protected by Roy in time. Such a surprising action terrified Cassie, so she was so anxious that she rushed to get off. However, the door was locked by Roy.

Stressful wholly, she looked at Roy subconsciously. Roy lowered down to approach her with a vague smile, and the aroma mixed with his smell came over. Cassie realized that something terrible would happen, so she dared not to annoy him. She could only attach her back to the door and stop his chest from going closer by her two hands.

"Roy, you are drunk. Do not be this way!"

"In what way?" Roy's expression became evil, and his lips approached her cheek. He behaved like a playboy who enjoyed her fragrance now.

Cassie only sensed that his breath entered her ears, so hot! He got closer and closer, while her hands were so weak to stop his attack, so she could only say, "Release me!"

Roy held her wrist immediately and leaned his whole body on her. He said beside her ear with intoxication and lure, "Let's go to my place. Okay?"

His words made Cassie terrified. She was not a pure girl anymore, so she could grasp his meaning and the desire hidden in his hot breath. As she thought of this, she just shrank herself, but Roy was getting closer to her.

"Cassie. Just one night." His eyes became deep.

Cassie was annoyed and angry, so she tried her best to push him away and slap his cheek. She made such great strength that her fingers became numb.