Joseph hesitated for a while and then smiled bitterly, "Well, ask for Mr. Henry's opinion first, and if he agrees with it, then you have to let the media know this news as quickly as possible."

Daisy was puzzled and replied, "But I am afraid that Mr. Henry will not agree to court to Key Group."

After hearing this, Joseph was silent for a while and then replied, "If he doesn't agree with this, I can do nothing."

Daisy sighed and then left.

But when she walked to the door, she stepped back again, handing a letter to Joseph and explaining, "I almost forgot this letter. It was sent by the express company this morning, and the courier asked to hand this letter to you in person."

He squinted slightly and put the USB into his computer.

There was only a file in it which read a video worth 50 million dollars.

Joseph opened the video, and soon it began to play.

It was shot in a clamorous environment, and it was easy to tell that this video was shot by a man who carried an invisible camera, passed through the street, and finally stopped at the entrance of the lane.

There were five to six people standing there, and the lens was getting closer to them.

And finally, Joseph could see clearly who they were, dressed in some weird clothes, and one of them even got a bass on the back. It seemed that these people should be the singers of the bar.

But they were taking something in turn.

When the lens zoomed in, Joseph saw clearly what they were taking in. It was white power, and Joseph knew that it was a kind of drug.

But there was only one person who didn't take part, and he just leaned against the wall in a dandiacal manner with his hands put in his pocket. He was talking with them, but he couldn't hear it clearly.

Joseph was shocked when he saw this and frowned suddenly.

The boy with the hand in his trouser pocket was not someone else; it was his younger brother, Jordan.

The first video ended after several minutes, and soon the second one was played.

The picture of the video was messy, and it should have been shot secretly by someone. To be more concise, the photographer was tracking someone.

But soon, there was a clicking sound in the video, and it was the sound of taking photos. And soon, footsteps and a familiar voice sounded, "Do you want to be dead?"

The lens was fixed on the young face.

The picture had a moment of stillness.

But then a woman's anxious voice sounded, "Don't make trouble here. Let's go."

"He is shooting us secretly."

"If you are aboveboard, why are you so anxious?"

But soon, the picture began to wobble.

"Stop fighting. It will cause trouble for your brother."

And in the following second, another man's voice sounded, "Well, young man, you'd better don't irritate me. The younger brother of the Runestone's president beat the reporter violently and caused serious injuries to him. Do you think it will be explosive news? People will certainly think you act in a tyrannous manner since your brother is a big shot."

But a few seconds later, the man in the video slammed the camera violently, and the camera was soon broken into pieces.

The video also ended immediately. Both of the videos didn't last long but only a few minutes, but Joseph looked so severe, and he frowned tightly while his eyes looked so cold.

Joseph sat in a great state, staring at the video stopped on the computer, and his handsome face looked so severe.

His slender fingers were knocking at his desk, but he looked grave. Then, about ten minutes later, the phone beside him rang, and the ringtone disturbed the huge uneasiness in the air.

Joseph reached out and put through, and a man's voice soon sounded on the phone, "Mr. Dover." Joseph stared at the computer screen and replied indifferently, "Yes, it's me."

The man sneered and then continued, "Well, it really costs me a long time to find your phone number. But thanks to God that I finally got the chance to talk with you, a famous bit shot."

Hearing this, Joseph still replied calmly, "You shot the video, right?"

"You are smart. I really admire you." The man sneered again and then added, "Though the picture in the video is not clear, it is easy to tell that the man in the video is your younger brother, Jordan. What a pity since you have such a lousy brother who piddled with a group of drug addicts. And he even beat a reporter. Mr. Dover, if I have such a brother, I will definitely give a lesson to him."

Joseph was still calm and said indifferently, "Don't be so greedy. I am afraid that you don't have the capability to take 50 million dollars."

"Yes, I admit that I am not a talented man, but I know I am lucky since I got these two videos. Mr. Dover, I will not suffer from any loss if I put these two videos online, but your brother will be famous, and I am afraid that he will be more famous than your girlfriend. Do you think the police will get involved? Though your brother didn't take drugs in the video, obviously, he knew those people well. I am afraid that he will also be trapped in a big dilemma. What's more, he even beat people violently, and he may also get punished for that. Mr. Dover, you are a social celebrity, a well-known entrepreneur, and I know 50 million dollars is not a big account for you."

"Okay," Joseph replied briefly but looked dreary.

After the phone call ended, the room fell into silence again.

After a long time, Joseph played the video again, and when the reporter's voice sounded in the video, he stopped it and then played it again. He repeated several times and finally dialed a number, "Come to my office."

After a minute, Daisy came to his office and asked respectfully. "What happened?"

Joseph put the USB on the table and ordered, "Find out his man before 3:00 pm and then follow my instructions."

Daisy took the USB and replied, "Okay."
