Chapter 4 Obligations Of The Wife

"No..." Vanessa Shell said weakly. Tears were rolling down her cheeks. She had come this far. Therefore, she must stay in the Yardley family.

"I'm just... Ah!" Vanessa shouted.

Scott Yardley didn't give her any chance to explain. He pushed her away and said, "I'm disgusted by women like you. You're a sl*t!"

After saying that, he turned the wheelchair around and left. He didn't even look at Vanessa who had fallen to the ground.

Watching Scott leave, Vanessa bit her lower lip lightly.

He stopped saying that he wanted Vanessa to leave the Yardley family. Does this mean she could stay?

Scott didn't return. Vanessa breathed a sigh of relief. It seemed that she had succeeded.

Vanessa got dressed and went downstairs where the servants were busy with their tasks.

Vanessa lost her balance and fell to the ground.

A broom appeared under her feet just as she was about to ask the servants where the kitchen was.

"Ah!" she shouted.

All of a sudden, someone grabbed her arms and helped her up.

Vanessa looked up and saw someone looking at her with gentleness.

"Are you okay? You must be my sister-in- law, Scott's wife right?"

"Your sister-in-law?" Vanessa repeated.

"I am Scott's eldest brother. My name is Benedict," Benedict Yardley said gently.

Someone interrupted them before Vanessa could say anything. "I think I came at the wrong time."

Then, she realized that Benedict was still holding her in his arms. She quickly took two steps back Scott glared at her.

"Is that so?" Scott sneered. He did not take her seriously at all. "Isn't it shameful for a woman to desperately look for another man right after a divorce?"

Vanessa clenched into fists. She was consumed by anger. Was she looking for another man? She

"You'd better keep your promise. You have nothing to do with the members of the Yardley family. You will suffer if you do anything with the Yardley family name. You will also suffer if you are planning something against us," Scott said.

After that, a servant came over and said, "Second Young Madam, the old master wants to see you."

"Second Young Madam, this way please." the servant said.

Then, he said, "Sam." Sam pushed Scott's wheelchair away.

Old Master? Was he the grandfather of the Yardley family?

She suddenly became nervous. Her mother had said that the members of the Yardley family had never seen Erica Shell before. That was the reason why they dared to let her marry into the Yardley family.

Why would the old master want to see her now? Did he discover the truth? Vanessa followed behind the servant nervously.

The servant was very humble. Vanessa thanked her and walked into the study room cautiously.
