

Ethan's Fantasy Drift

Chapter 26 A hard but bright road

Merlin was very surprised at Ethan's decision so quickly, and also wondered why Ethan chose such a difficult path so easily.

"You said that as long as I can walk down this road, I will have at least as much strength as you, right?"

Merlin nodded: "Yes, as long as you can go on firmly without passing away due to any accident... Although this road is difficult to follow, there is no serious bottleneck."

Ethan was aware of this, but the reason for his decision was not just this.

"Then, if I follow the path of a common mage, where can I be guaranteed to go?"

"This..." Merlin understood what Ethan meant, and showed a clear smile: "Young man, your mind is very clear. This can make you go faster on the path of the mage. I hope you can always Keep this sober."

The reason for Ethan's decision is simple: one is a road that can definitely reach the level of a top magician like Merlin. Maybe this road is full of thorns, but the end is faintly visible.

The other road is full of unknowns, and even where the end point is and what it looks like is not clear. There is no need for him to take all kinds of accidents and risks to choose such a road.

The ordinary mage path may enable him to form combat power faster, but Ethan is not a pure mage from the beginning, and his methods of dealing with emergencies are not limited to the magic system.

Self-protection, after a big deal, prepare some technological equipment for yourself, which is enough to help yourself through the difficult period in the early stages of the road.

"As long as I can control the space-time energy, I have a greater chance of returning to the Marvel Universe... Then can I fudge Tony Stark to help me get some equipment?"

But Tony Stark is not a helpful character in the impression. If you want to benefit from him, you must pay enough chips.

No matter how bad, some firearms in the movie world can deal with many dangers.

So Ethan doesn't care how difficult this path is in the early stage. The spiritual strength of the cultivation is what he has been insisting on, and then he just keeps on sticking to it.

"In fact, you don't have to worry too much. Although it will be boring and monotonous at the beginning, after you can nurture magic power from yourself, as your mental power becomes stronger and stronger, the magic energy produced will also become more and more powerful. At this time, it's not that you can't extract energy from the outside world to enhance your magic power. Just be careful not to extract too much and contaminate your own magic power."

This is the same as the sea. If Ethan has enough magic power to absorb external energy and transform it into magic power, it is like pouring some ink into the sea, and it will not have any effect on the sea at all.

If the other way round, there is only a small pot of water but half a bottle of ink is poured...

Those are all very distant things, and then Merlin explained in detail the cultivation method he proposed. Although I only introduced a few major steps in this practice, it still took a lot of time.

To put it simply, this method is divided into several steps:

Continue to firmly strengthen his mental power, and at the same time have sufficient control over his mental power. This is a natural advantage for Ethan. His control over his mental power has surpassed that of many just starting wizard apprentices.

At this stage, it is impossible to extract magical energy from the outside world, not at all, it will pollute one's mental power.

At the same time, I have to keep learning all kinds of knowledge to broaden my knowledge. According to Merlin's theory, the magic bred by one's own spiritual power does not include all attributes. According to the mage's own understanding of various energies, there is a certain bias.

For example, a mage has a very good understanding of the fire element energy, so even if he does not extract the fire element energy from the outside world, the magic power he has bred will also have a considerable degree of affinity for the fire element and can better grasp the fire attribute. magic. Many mages use this method to increase their magical attributes-with their own magical powers, they conversely 'contaminate' the magical powers that have been fixed in their original attributes.

If Ethan wants to have a more comprehensive magical power, then he needs to continue to work hard to learn all kinds of magic knowledge-not only can't perform magic like a normal mage, but also constantly work hard to learn all kinds of magic related knowledge, this This feeling is really... Ethan was stunned that he couldn't find a suitable adjective. Just thinking about it, that feeling will definitely be particularly uncomfortable.

"So, can magic circles or magic items be used?"

"Oh, there is no problem with this."

Ethan nodded. It seems that he still has to go down the genre of 'Item Stream' firmly, coupled with the melee ability that has been practiced hard, Ethan is now not so much a mage, as it is a four-different —— I know everything, but I don't have a mastery.

When I have passed this stage, I will get better.

The mental power is strong enough, plus enough magic knowledge reserves, coupled with the special meditation door, will make a special change in the mental power.

This kind of change is like digging a spring on the soil composed of spiritual power, and then the magic power bred by the spiritual power will slowly flow out like spring water.

At this stage, Ethan can already use his own magical power to cast magic without relying entirely on foreign objects.

Of course, at the beginning, the spring eyes were very small, and there was very little spring water that could gush out. At this time, the magic power was still very fragile, and it was very easy to be polluted by external forces, so it was still unable to absorb external energy.

After that, the spring water becomes a small stream, the stream condenses into a small lake, becomes a big lake, until it becomes the sea.

At this time, Ethan's magic power can already be described as profound. Not only can he use himself to cast spells like a normal mage, but at the same time he no longer has to worry about the pollution of his own magic by external energy, and he can improve himself by absorbing energy. The total amount of magic power or simply restore their own losses.

From Merlin's words, Ethan realized that in order to make his magic power into a sea that can contain all things, in addition to relying on time accumulation, he also needs to have enough magic knowledge, and even needs to learn and understand each other. All kinds of energy properties, otherwise it is unlikely to produce 'attributes' that can contain all things.

Unfortunately, Merlin did not give a clear answer.

“Unfortunately, I don’t know exactly what it is, after all, no one has really tried this kind of cultivation method.”

Ethan was suddenly curious, how did Merlin get started? Do you choose the kind of energy you are most familiar with like a common mage?

“Oh! This ah...” Merlin suddenly smiled triumphantly: “I am not a pure human being. I am born with huge magical powers.”

“Damn, pure talent!”

Only then did he remember that the legendary Merlin had the blood of a fairy, and he was born with magical talents, and he was not even comparable to this ordinary person who could not even become an apprentice.

Ethan, who was shown inexplicably, was depressed. At this time, he thought again that the profession of mage is very talented. From this point of view, the path that Merlin proposed to himself may be the only possibility Practise the path of achievement by yourself.

If he really does practice like most wizards, he will probably reach a certain level and he won’t be able to go anymore. In the best case, maybe after he has mastered the water element, his spiritual power is contaminated, and he will get stuck. There is no breakthrough in a single attribute. Because of the lack of talent, he started too late, and his total amount of magic power was worse than that of the mages of the same grade.

Of course, Ethan, who has time and space pointers, may find other means to break the bottleneck of talent, but the extent to which it will eventually be is full of too much uncertainty.

He didn’t like this, so when there was such a chance that he could achieve quite a bit before him, he just grabbed it and refused to let it go.

Although this practice method only talks about the level of the ‘sea’, Ethan has already opened his own brain and roughly ‘calculated’ the back of it the sea seems to be boundless and unfathomable enough. , But it is not the most ‘large’.

No matter how big the sea is, he is at most a planet. What if he can breed a galaxy containing countless planets? Let alone mass, the depth of magic alone has crushed many existences; mass is not without direction, such as stars that can serve as the core of several planets?

To go further, countless such star galaxies form a larger galaxy... Ethan even thought of using magic to create a universe in his body.

“Uh...Is this thing supposed to be called Xiaoyushu?”

Ethan, who accidentally changed his job as a Saint Seiya, put away his mind. Now that he thinks so far, there is no doubt that what he has to do next is to learn this knowledge step by step, all in his mind. , And then there is perseverance and hard work to practice.

Because of limited time, he can only stay in this world for ten days. After determining Ethan's learning direction, Merlin is the most important instructing him on how to control space-time energy. As for the mental power training method, Merlin is going to sort out all the information. After that, let Ethan go back and practice slowly.

This means that Ethan is about to get a bunch of textbooks again.

"Speaking of books, I have an idea, I wonder if you can do it?"

Ethan suddenly thought of the piles of books on his ship, and now that he saw that Merlin was about to give him a pile, he immediately felt a little broken.

It is foreseeable that in order to learn more magic knowledge and understand more energy attributes, he will have to read more books in the future. Is he going to prepare a boat to install the books in the future?

Therefore, creating a magic item that can store learning materials has become the most important thing right now.

Chapter 27 bad boy

A magic item that can store knowledge and various information?

Ethan's requirements are not high. In fact, magicians have many similar methods, but Ethan mentioned an additional requirement, which is to continuously 'absorb' or 'absorb' newly acquired books or other materials. Copy' into this magic item, so that you can check it later.

"Oh, this idea is good, but I need to study how it should be implemented."

For magicians of Merlin's level, their powerful mental powers give them incomparably powerful memory. Even knowledge that has never been touched before can be remembered in their minds in a small amount of time, and there is no need to worry about forgetting or remembering it. wrong.

But Ethan is far from reaching this level, this kind of magic props is very necessary.

Because he cannot have a fixed residence like many wizards, and then collect all kinds of books he has collected. Judging from the environment introduced by Ethan before, the storage of books is indeed a problem—but now Ethan needs to collect a large number of books, which has become the most troublesome problem for Ethan at present.

“It would be nice if there were some image references.”

Of course, Ethan knows a more vivid reference, and even knows many kinds. For example, the tablet computer used in the previous life is a very convenient tool. He even considered making a similar thing, using magic stones for energy. Finished, maybe the things created will be better to use.

It's just because I don't know anything about magic stone technology, so this is just part of the future plan.

In addition, the most suitable reference for Merlin is the hand strap that records his information.

“Do you think this is okay?”

“Oh?” Merlin took the thin white strip that Ethan handed over. This thing was very inconspicuous. It was usually hidden under the wristband. Even Merlin didn't notice it.

Now after seeing someone touched it with his own hands, Merlin also noticed the extraordinariness of this thing: “It's interesting, with this thing as a reference, I will soon have some clues.”

Ethan suddenly remembered that he had also got a magic stone, and he didn't know if the attributes were the same, so he gave it to Merlin for research.

Merlin was even more happy when he saw this magic stone. He took the hand strap and the magic stone and went into his laboratory without even saying hello to Ethan.

The legendary magician is still a magician. When he encounters something he is interested in, he will inevitably expose some of the habits that magicians have, but Ethan has had too few magicians before, and he did not react for a while.

Arthur, who was still by his side, explained in due course: “When your Excellency Merlin encounters something of interest, he will focus too much on this matter and ignore other people or things, so I hope you Don't feel offended by this.”

“Oh, no!” Ethan waved his hand: “I just wondered how long it will take Master Merlin to make what I want.”

Arthur is very confident in Merlin's strength: “I believe it will not take long.”

The two will definitely become partners. In the future, young people who want to float on the ocean together and venture on various planes also took advantage of this time to chat for a while, so as to increase their understanding of each other.

In terms of age, Arthur was still a teenager, only fourteen years old, much younger than Ethan.

And Arthur, who has just entered puberty, appears limited and thin, and his height is not too tall, coupled with the voice that has begun to change... Ethan always feels that he is suspected of being a nanny.

Arthur is very smart, and he has been carefully observing Ethan, who will take him to various worlds in the future, to learn and experience various worlds and knowledge.

So when Ethan showed some wry smiles, he quickly guessed his thoughts.

So, the young Arthur proposed a competition between the two.

Anyway, the two people have nothing to do now. The chat is familiar to each other, and the competition is the same. As a partner, it is necessary to have an understanding of the combat ability of your comrades. Otherwise, you don't know if you should trust the strength of your teammates in an emergency. Let him face it alone, or he should be worried about his life safety and rescue.

Ethan also understood this, so he didn't refuse Arthur's proposal, and directly nodded and agreed.

Result...

Ethan was very embarrassed!

Arthur may be very young, but he is the king's own son after all. Although he was brought back directly to the castle because of his origin, he still entrusted the great magician Merlin to raise him and give him all-round teaching.

There is even less difficulty in eating and wearing. In addition, Merlin has tailored training for him since he was a child, and the continuous training for more than ten years has made Arthur's strength far more than ordinary people.

Look at Ethan again. He was malnourished since he was a child. He was a mage apprentice who hadn't even touched the door, learned a few simple melee combat with a priest, and just started to explore and practice basic swordsmanship by himself...

After being hit by Merlin once, Ethan was taught to be a man by the young Arthur. This made him very depressed. Fortunately, although Arthur's foundation was solid, he was still suffering because of his young age and his strength. Because of the lack of real enemy experience in training, Ethan won a few games in the next few games, which can be regarded as a bit of face saved.

"Your foundation is very good."

“Your foundation is too bad.”

The two played for most of the day, and they inevitably performed the ‘mouth escape’ stunt during the competition to interfere with the opponent’s performance. It is precisely for this reason that the relationship between the two people has become intimate after the fight. Less, and a little less scrupulous when talking.

“I have only studied swordsmanship for a few months, and I have been practicing by myself.”

Arthur nodded. If that’s the case, Ethan’s poor sword skills can be understood. In addition, Ethan is a mage, and he will definitely spend a lot of time cultivating magic knowledge, so there is not much time to practice swordsmanship.

“With that said, it is not easy for you to have the strength you are now.”

Ethan smiled bitterly. He was not sure about this. Perhaps it was just because of his poor foundation that he made rapid progress in the early stage, and he might soon encounter a bottleneck. In close combat, he is not strong enough to suffer. The strength is limited by talents and living conditions, and it is not so easy to grow and improve.

It was Arthur, who was not much weaker than himself when he was only fourteen years old. When he was a few years old, he was fully grown up, and he estimated that he could not resist even a single sword.

“Maybe you can consider finding something to improve your physical fitness?”

After all, I’m not sure what world I will go to in the future. Although the calm sea is okay, but I am not prepared to eat and die in that ocean for a lifetime. I must have an impact on the wider world-in this way, the storm The sea has become the gulf that one must cross, and besides having a better ship, a strong body can also increase the possibility of success.

In addition to this factor, there is another point that is life span.

Now that he has the ability to travel through different worlds, it is possible to at least exceed the life span of ordinary people regardless of what immortality is.

What’s more, I run back and forth in different worlds, and time disappears quickly. If I don’t find a way to increase my life, maybe I haven’t reached my goal yet, and I will die because of old age and physical decline.

“That would be too bad.”

So, don’t look at Ethan’s seemingly aimless turmoil during this period, in fact he has always had various plans for his future in his head.

Then according to various unpredictable situations, the order of these plans is constantly adjusted.

At the beginning, improving the strength to ensure that you have the ability to protect yourself is already considered complete.

I found a method that can continue to practice systematically, and now I have a clue after I met Mei Lin.

As for making a magic item that can store a lot of knowledge and information, it belongs to the branch line that needs to be solved in the practice. Now, with the help of Merlin, it can be regarded as a direction.

After completing these two goals, physical fitness and longevity are next at the top of the list.

Since he confirmed that he can travel through the plane, this idea has appeared in his mind, but his own safety issue is more imminent, so he has to hide his thoughts deeply.

Until now, because of the physical fitness factor, I also considered how to increase the life expectancy.

“Many planes can increase the lifespan of a person. The only trouble is that I am not sure I can go to those worlds. UU Reading www.uukanshu.com” The most reliable way at present is to take one step at a time and work hard at the same time. Strive to become a mage early.

According to Ethan's guess, many wizards have the means to increase their lifespan, which may be learned from some secret books, or they may be realized by themselves when practicing various magics. He believes that as long as his magical strength increases To a certain extent, you can even solve the problem of longevity by your own ability.

Relatively speaking, it is more troublesome to improve your physical fitness—in fact, the improvement of your physical fitness can also change your vitality, and it will also improve your own combat effectiveness, which will make your life safer more secure.

At present, the most effective way for him is to exercise persistently. There is no shortcut.

This time, he also has a professional teacher and the legendary king of Britain in the future: Arthur Pendragon!

The young King Arthur seemed to find the joy of being a teacher in Ethan. He shouted Ethan at dawn almost every day, and then used the same practice he had done back then on Ethan.

“This is the practice you did when you were eight?”

After three days, Ethan, who always felt something was wrong, asked, and the sunshine boy, King Arthur, showed a miraculous expression of embarrassment.

“Actually, I taught you that I have increased the amount of training several times before. After all, I was too young at that time to withstand such a large amount of training.”

“ ... ”

Ethan looked up at the sky, never expected that King Arthur with thick eyebrows, big eyes and a righteous face was actually a black-bellied kid. It's a pity that his expression hasn't been maintained for a few seconds. Merlin, who has disappeared for a few days, finally appears, and at the same time brings good news to Ethan: what he wants is done.

Chapter 28 Merlin's Book of Legacy

“Book?”

What Merlin took out was a thick-skinned tome with a heavy hand. Using the other hand to gently brush the surface of the book, I don't know what kind of hard cover is made of leather. It feels weird to touch it. Ethan can't tell what it feels like, but I can feel what it seems. Things flow under that hardness.

The white magic stone is inlaid in the center of the cover of the book like this, it seems that the whole is integrated into the book, only a little protruding-this is almost impossible, although it is a hard cover, the thickness of the cover cannot accommodate at all. This whole piece of magic stone.

In order to be sure, Ethan even opened it to read it, only to find that he couldn't open the book anyway.

“You can't open him now, you have to wait for you to successfully imprint your spiritual power in the core of this book before you can use it freely.”

Ethan knows in seconds: Acknowledge the Lord!

“How to do it?”

“Concentrate your mental energy and transfer it to the core of this book...that is, inside the magic stone, and then this book will “tell” what you should do.”

Ethan followed his actions and successfully left his spiritual mark in this book, and then this book was finally opened by him.

The thick book that was opened has symmetrical thickness on both sides of the book, as if Ethan had just turned to the middle page of the book.

What makes Ethan speechless is that the two pages presented to him are all blank.

Scroll forward... it's all blank.

Scroll back... it's all blank!

Ethan realized that something was wrong, not just because there were all blank pages in the book, but because he turned it over for so long, the position he turned it seemed to have never changed, and the thickness of the pages on both sides always remained the same.

"How is this going?"

Merlin was very proud of her work, but didn't want to make all the secrets clear. Hearing Ethan's question, she only gave a hint: "Try to read it mentally."

did the same, and the page that had been blank finally appeared. Ethan realized that not only did he need to use mental power when opening the book, he also needed mental power to read it in normal times.

More importantly, he further discovered that the content presented in this book was not fixed, but 'inquired' according to his mental power, and then the magic book would automatically give the corresponding content.

"The encyclopedia of magic?"

He soon realized that he was thinking too much, and he casually inquired about the non-magical questions. The book did not give the corresponding entries or answers, and the pages of the book remained blank.

Merlin saw that Ethan had mastered the correct usage of this book, and then began to introduce its other functions.

"I made this magic book based on the characteristics of the hand strap you gave me and the white magic stone. By the way, I also copied my magic knowledge in this book for convenience. When you encounter magical problems in the future, you can have a place to inquire about the answers."

Ethan raised his head, his face full of surprise. He never expected that Merlin would actually copy his magic knowledge and give it to him. This is a great favor, which is equivalent to sending him a complete inheritance. It's nothing more than the treatment of direct disciples.

“This...” Ethan felt that this magic book was heavier in an instant: “It’s too expensive.”

Merlin didn’t care much, and smiled and patted Ethan on the shoulder: “Actually, I am curious about where you can go, and if you can reach the top with this magic book, I can also lend you a reputation. Multiple plane universes.”

“Okay, let me tell you how to use this magic book. After all, you won’t have much time to stay here.”

Ethan originally wanted to learn the control of space-time energy here at Merlin, after all, he has no control over that energy now. However, the production of this magic book was delayed for a few days. Ethan has few days left and will leave soon, so Merlin simply left the relevant knowledge in the magic book and recorded it as a chapter separately. Ethan will learn by himself.

After listening to Merlin’s detailed introduction, Ethan realized that this magic book not only records all of Merlin’s magic knowledge, but also organizes the practice methods recommended to him in a more systematic way. It became an important tool to assist him in his cultivation.

requires the use of mental power to open, and to use mental power to read, and even a lot of small magic used to cultivate spiritual power is recorded in it.

These magics are the same as the level-breaking game. You must pass the level after meeting certain requirements, and then the level can be unlocked to unlock the next stage of training.

In addition, the magic book also has the ability to scan or absorb various books and materials, and store them in the book, Ethan can query and read freely-Ethan finally does not have to feel about his thick stack of books Having a headache, he can use the magic book to absorb these books after he returns, and the contents recorded in these books will be stored in the magic book.

, including the information books he will get later, can be recorded in this book by such means. It can be said that as long as there is this magic book, Ethan will have a private mobile library.

What surprised Ethan most is that these are just the basic functions of this magic book.

Yes, it is as strong as Merlin to exist. How could it be possible to waste so much time in making a simple magic item book? It took him so many days to complete it, and the fundamental reason was to create a more powerful magic item.

First of all, this book uses a variety of precious materials to make, and it is almost impossible to damage it. It is difficult to leave traces on it, whether it is physical or magical-and in order to avoid such a possibility, Merlin also madly engraved it on the book. The restorative magic circle, even if someone can hurt the book, it will automatically repair it.

Hearing this, Ethan realized that this is not just a learning tool, but even a top defensive magic item.

He still underestimated Merlin.

How can the design made by Mr. Great Magician be so simple and crude? This magic book is not only strong enough to be almost impossible to damage, but also self-repairing. At the same time, there is a magic shield inscribed on the book. Ethan can use his mental power to activate and defend himself.

Magic shield can not only perform single defense, as long as it increases output, it can also become a group defense.

“.....”

What can Ethan say, he can only secretly give another like in his heart.

The energy of the magic shield is borne by the magic stone engraved on the cover of the magic book. For a wizard of Merlin's level, it is not difficult to change the nature of the energy. What he really has to deal with is to provide the magic stone with a continuous charge Magic circle. Merlin not only considered the consumption, but also considered the problem of energy recovery, which was solved easily.

Even, this magic book also has a strong bonus effect on offensive magic casting, allowing Ethan to cast all kinds of magic more quickly-the only regret is to encourage Ethan to work hard and improve. Strength, Merlin deliberately separated this function from the energy supply system of the magic stone.

In other words, if Ethan wants to use the magic book as an item similar to a wand to enhance his magic power or cast speed, he must rely on his own magic to cast spells.

“Are there any magical features?”

Merlin talked for a while before he fully introduced this ‘masterpiece’, and Ethan felt that he was really lucky.

“If you have an attribute panel or something, your lucky value is at least S, you have to attach three plus signs.” Ethan lowered his head and looked at the magic book he couldn't put it down: “Least!”

After fully understanding all the functions of the magic book, Ethan didn't want to let go at all, and wanted to hold him in his arms while sleeping.

“So, does this book have a name now?”

Merlin smiled and shook his head: “It is your magic book, and you should name it.”

“Do I have a name?” Ethan looked at the tome in his hand with straight eyes, and finally made up his mind: “Merlin’s book of inheritance! How is it?”

Ethan raised his head and looked at Merlin seems to be asking how about this name? It seems to be asking about something else.

Merlin smiled, did not give his own answer, instead just said: “I said, this is your magic book, you decide what name it should be.”

Ethan sighed, thinking that Merlin had refused.

I didn’t expect to hear another sentence immediately afterwards: “But the name is pretty good. I look forward to one day the name of you and this book will spread across countless universe planes.”

“Will do!”

secretly made up his mind, whether it is the time-space pointer or Merlin’s unreserved knowledge inheritance, they are things that ordinary people can’t get in their dreams.

Now that both of them are obtained by myself, it would be too embarrassing if I can’t become a top person.

“As a traverser, I also got such a powerful golden finger. It would be too wasteful if I didn’t succeed!” Ethan didn’t want to be ashamed, let alone be a waste: “If this is not a weapon, it only means that I am not working hard enough. , This kind of start can no longer be better.”

What else can I say? Practice hard!

So, in the next few days, Ethan went crazy for various studies and exercises, even if he wanted to put aside and go back to slowly learn and exercise the space-time energy mastery, there was miraculous progress.

The benefit is that Ethan has stayed in this world for a week longer than originally expected, so he has received a lot of additional guidance from Merlin-he now completely regards Merlin as his teacher, even this legend The old mage did not admit it at all.

But Ethan felt that he had gained too many benefits, and he had already greatly exceeded the scope of the previous agreement. So even if Merlin didn’t want to suppress his generation, Ethan still treated him as his own teacher.

“Being a person is to know how to be grateful.”

Chapter 29 Companion 1

“Is this your boat?”

The young Arthur was still in a state of seeing everything fresh, and he grew up in the small isolated valley in Merlin. The appearance of the sea also made him very interested.

After staying on the plane of King Arthur for an extra period of time, Ethan returned to the calm sea again.

This time, he was finally no longer alone. The young King Arthur came here with him, and he finally understood how the shuttle magic circle brought people back.

For creatures with autonomous consciousness, as long as they stand within the range of the magic circle, and at the same time subjectively willing to ‘follow’ Ethan to shuttle together, the shuttle circle will transmit them together.

For those without self-consciousness, such as minerals, water, books, etc., Ethan needs to “bring” them back. Just putting them in the magic circle or being touched by Ethan will not let them be sent back together. .

“It turned out to be like this.”

After Ethan gained some control over the space-time energy, he finally got new information. Perhaps as the degree of control increases, he will eventually understand all the mysteries of this magic circle. At that time, he may be able to use his magic power to remind him. The magic circle is activated instead of relying on the pointer to find specific space-time energy.

Suddenly remembering something, Ethan turned his head and glanced at the hourglass not far away. The sand in it has just flowed down a little bit, as if it was just starting to time the clock.

“So every time I shuttle, the time on this plane is stagnant?” Ethan shook his head: “No, it should be that the time when I returned from the shuttle was very close to the time when I left. It seems this magic The formation is not only as simple as being able to shuttle through the plane, but also involves the realm of time.”

Turned his head and looked at Arthur again, the blond boy cut his long blond hair short, because Ethan told him that he was sailing on the sea and his hair was too long to take care of. It was more convenient to have short hair, so he deliberately cut it out before setting off. There was a hair-Ethan discovered that after Arthur had cut his hair short, there was a small cut of his hair that was particularly eye-catching, and he stubbornly refused to stick it on his head together with other hair.

In addition, the young Arthur also possessed various equipment gifted by Merlin, including silver-white light armor and blue tabard, two-handed broadswords over 1.2 meters in length. As for many miscellaneous things, Ethan It's not very clear, only know that in the end Merlin also cast a blessing spell on Arthur, so that Arthur will not be drowned in the sea.

Not only Ethan didn't know the specific effect of this blessing, but Arthur didn't know too much. He was just confused and felt that the endless sea water was very kind.

After a while, Arthur has already visited the entire boat, and at the same time noticed the smaller boat behind: "Is that your trophy?"

"No, this boat is my trophy."

Before, he roughly talked about the situation of the calm sea, but his experience here was not as detailed as he said.

"It seems that there are many shameless villains in this world."

"Without restrictions, many people will constantly break through the moral bottom line."

The interior space of this Caravelle sailing ship is not only spacious, but also divided into various uses, including a separate captain's room and a rest area for the ordinary crew.

But now there are only two people on this ship, and the captain's room is also sufficient, and Ethan directly used it as a common lounge for two people.

As for the bed? Although Arthur is the heir to a kingdom, he has received various trainings since he was a child. Although he has no worries about food and clothing in life, he has not cultivated a noble style in life. It is not very different from ordinary people, so for the rest room The environment did not feel bad.

"I urge you to take off this armor set on your body and put it away. Wearing this thing is to make yourself suffer."

Ethan took off his armor as early as the first time he came back. If he wears it for a while, it is estimated that it will turn into an oven again.

The sea conditions in the calm sea are very good, which means that most of the time the sun is very bright, and the metal armor will be burnt hot after less than an hour in the sun.

Arthur, this silly boy, was already sweating, and he didn't even think about taking off his armor, and he didn't know whether he was obsessed with the "Knight's Way" or simply unresponsive.

After Ethan's words were finished, he saw the boy hurriedly remove the armor, and then let out a sigh, Ethan realized that it was the latter.

"But here seems to be full of dangers. Is it really okay to not wear armor all the time?"

"Relax, there is an advantage to being at sea, that is, you can see far away. When you find other ships, you will not only have enough time for you to judge whether the opponent is an enemy, but also have enough time for you to fight before the battle. ready."

In fact, these things were something that Ethan just wanted to understand not long ago, so I will use it to educate Arthur now.

By the way, I also taught some common sense about living at sea. Ethan asked him to organize his salute first-Arthur brought not a few things, enough for a few large boxes.

He himself ran to the place where he used to store the books, and took out the book of inheritance with his left hand. Under the urging of mental power, the book of inheritance floated in the air in front of his left palm, and the opened pages were facing the books. Books emit white light, drawing these books into themselves one by one.

Mellin's Inheritance Book, when recording data, you can choose between complete absorption and pure data copying.

Simple data copying is a bit more troublesome, more wasteful of time, and requires more mental energy to stimulate. However, it will save a lot of trouble to fully absorb. A light shines through, and the locked book slowly disappears in the light, and the content of it is completely recorded by the book of inheritance. When reading, it is no different from reading the original book, as if it was just a change of cover.

"It really helped a lot."

In the future, he will collect more and more books. Although his memory will continue to improve, there are too many things he needs to learn now. No matter how good his memory is, it will take time to read each book, so books will definitely be more and more. Many, this time saves worry.

Returning to the deck happily, Ethan saw Arthur standing above the * and looking around, occasionally staring at something in a daze—this thing may be a calm sea, maybe a blue sky, or maybe It is a fish that suddenly jumped out of the sea.

In the end, Arthur's gaze stayed on the boat at his feet, and asked Ethan, who was standing on the deck, "Is it difficult to make such a boat?"

"Um..."

Ethan didn't know how to answer this question. He really didn't know anything about shipbuilding, and he didn't know what the shipbuilding craftsmanship of this world was like. He could only answer with some impressions in his mind.

"I'm not quite sure, but according to the productivity of your world, it would be troublesome to make by ordinary people without using magical abilities... and not only cause trouble, the wood used for shipbuilding is not so easy to find."

The blessing of reading many novels in my last life, there are really some materials about the manufacture of sailboats.

Like this kind of sailboat, the wood used has strict requirements on wood. Even if a suitable wood is found, it will take a long time to process it before it can be used as a raw material for the ship.

Among them, the keel, which is the most important backbone of the ship, has higher requirements for materials!

Arthur nodded, and then continued to ask.

"Such a boat...isn't it the best boat?"

Originally, he thought that this ship was already very good. It was able to fly steadily on the sea with another ship full of cargo. If his kingdom had such a ship, it would be invincible at sea. exist.

But he soon remembered. Ethan himself said that he had just ventured in this ocean for a short time, and this ship was snatched from another group of robbers—just a few stronger than ordinary people. robber.

Thinking about it this way, maybe this boat can only be regarded as ordinary in this world, right? Otherwise, why would a few robbers keep this ship in such a world without the suppression of the law of power? So it can only prove that, although such a ship is good, it is not top-notch in this world.

Ethan also has this kind of guess, and he can definitely have a better ship—otherwise how to cross the sea of storm? With this small Caravel sailing ship? That is dying.

It's just that he still doesn't know what a better ship in this ocean is, so he can only tell Arthur about ships in other worlds.

Steam engines, internal combustion engines and even nuclear power, Ethan talked to Arthur in general, and young Arthur heard about so many magical warships, and suddenly understood why Merlin had to travel with Ethan.

“Sure enough, traveling with you can really gain a lot of knowledge.”

Only the first day, Arthur felt that his trip was worthwhile.

In the next few days, Ethan’s schedule has been adjusted to some extent. In addition to the original training plan, there is also an additional exercise with Arthur.

Higher-level cultivation of one’s own spiritual power, as well as the mastery of space-time energy...The former is still scheduled to be carried out before going to bed, while the latter is exhausted because the space-time energy stored in the pointer has been exhausted, and can only wait for the next time the space-time energy is collected get on.

Ethan and Arthur lived very monotonously and regularly in the following days. Until this day, after getting closer to the State Island, Ethan was preparing to introduce Arthur to the central city of the calm sea. Suddenly, the two people noticed that a large ship appeared on the sea horizon in the distance.

Two people have seen the ship clearly through the binoculars: a ship that is at least twice the size of Ethan’s Caravel.

But these are not the main points. The main point is that they seem to have no good intentions. After spotting Ethan and others, they immediately adjusted their direction and rushed over. At the same time, something like the muzzle of a cannon emerged from the front of the ship.

Chapter 30 Hand of flame

“Fire at the front of the ship, warning!” Sean commanded his men, looking calmly at the approaching ships.

After getting the boss’s order, the sailors not far away became a group, pushing the magic stone cannon equipped on the bow of the ship out of the gun door, then loading the magic stone, and then aiming and launching.

Boom!

The deafening sound made many people on the ship tremble uncontrollably. Even though many people were mentally prepared, they were still frightened by the sound of the guns.

“Strange, the coward Angus saw our ship not actively stopping the ship when he couldn’t escape...Does he think that speed can escape our pursuit?”

Standing next to Sean is his deputy Keno, who has been with him since he first started to recruit people.

Several years later, the sailors who were recruited at the time have either been buried in this quiet sea, or they have accumulated some family property and went out to work alone-and then they will be killed by him.

Only Keno is still standing by his side, becoming his most trusted deputy, and the first mate of the Flame Sovereign, that is, the first captain.

Sean the Hand of Flame, one of the most famous adventurers in the Sea of Peace, is also the most notorious robber in this sea.

As long as he is eyeing, the best case is to throw away all the gains and barely save one life.

Cruel heart, insatiable greed is synonymous with Sean, and he can do these things unscrupulously, relying on his sturdy ship and the magic stone cannon, which is equally powerful, although it is amazingly expensive.

“The situation is a bit strange, maybe that coward made a big deal, so he is not willing to hand it over?”

Looking at the ship in the distance, it was a ship he was familiar with, and it was a little famous in the calm sea.

The coward Angus is what Sean calls him, and the adventurers in the Sea of Peace call him more of his vicious dog Angus. He is a gangster who specializes in snatching novices and the weak, and when facing the strong. The image of being cautious and respectful, the one that scared him the most was Sean the Hand of Fire.

Angus is also one of the few adventurers who can save his life in the hands of Sean many times, because every time he meets Sean at sea, he will actively hand in his gains. Even occasionally he would take the initiative to contact Sean and send some gifts.

When Sean saw Angus’s ship, he noticed that the ship was obviously loaded with a large amount of supplies, which made the draught very deep and the ship’s speed surprisingly slow. A small sailing boat was towed behind, and judging from the draft of that boat, it was also loaded with a lot of things. Obviously, a ‘big deal’ has just been made.

But this coward made no response after seeing his boat. The completely different situation in the past made him a little puzzled—did Angus find something special that I didn't want me to see? So try to escape directly?

"Fire, if they don't stop the boat, shoot at the boat behind them!"

The more Sean thought about it, the more he felt that this should be the case, and what he cared most was that the thing that could make Angus uncharacteristically might be the most magical magic stone on this sea.

"Maybe it is a top quality magic stone for battle, otherwise he would not have done such a thing." If it is really like guessing, then definitely not let Angus run away...

The second huge orange fireball flew towards the two ships that were connected together, but it was much closer than it was obviously aimed at a place farther away.

The rumbling explosion sounded the heads of people dizzy, and the scattered spray splashed far away, and Ethan and Arthur standing on the deck were showered with coldness.

"Bah!"

spit out the seawater in his mouth, and the salty taste made his unhappy mood even worse.

"Sure enough, I ran into a group of bandits again."

He didn't know the ship opposite, let alone one of the most famous villains in the sea of peace. The other party directly fired a cannon on his way forward, warning him to stop the boat immediately, and a cannon hit the nearby sea immediately, perhaps the next shot would directly hit the ship under his feet.

He didn't know that Sean on the opposite side was reluctant to sink his ship. The previous shot was still a warning.

"Can't you fight back? Is it so passive?"

Arthur had been well equipped for a long time, but now the two sides were far away, and they couldn't even see the people on the opposite ship. At this distance, there was no way to fight back.

"How do you fight back? We don't have cannons."

Before, Ethan had guessed that the world has similar technology, but he didn't expect to see the real thing so quickly. The two inventions just now are obviously not familiar artillery, not to mention the power and range. That kind of energy bomb with magical fluctuations, like a compressed fireball technique, must be a technology developed based on magic stones.

“What should I do?”

Ethan didn't know what to do. If the opponent had been bombarding him with cannons, he seemed to have no other way to deal with it except for using the magic shield on the magic book for large-scale defense.

“Or throw away all the ore, and then speed up and escape with full sails?”

There are too many things on the ship now, which severely restricts the speed of the ship, and there is a ship full of ore behind towing, which makes the Caravel sailing ship's own speed and agility advantages unable to play.

“That's too late!”

The acceleration of the sailboat is not so easy, and the current wind direction is not good for him. Even if he is now showing great power and throwing away all the ore on the boat in a short time, there is not enough time for the speed to rise and escape from the opponent. The range of fire.

Judging the shooting distance and accuracy from the previous two artillery shots, maybe before I finished throwing the ore, I was bombarded to pieces by the opponent.

The speed of the brain has almost reached its limit, and Ethan made a decision in a flash.

“Sail, stop!”

“what?”

Arthur was surprised when he heard Ethan's words, but he did the first thing, and quickly understood Ethan's intentions.

“Is this useful?”

“The opponent's first shot was to warn us to stop the ship. Although the second shot was much closer, it should still be a warning. If we stopped the ship, they would not continue to fire.”

Ethan didn't dare to guarantee 100%, but instead of passively bearing the shelling at such a long distance, it was better to stop the ship to attract the opponent to come up. If it becomes a close combat, at least he has a chance to counterattack the opponent.

As expected, as Ethan's boat slowed down and eventually stopped, the opposite side did not fire any more guns.

He didn't know, but Sean on the opposite ship was stunned for a moment when he saw him stop the ship.

"Why did you stop again?"

Keno was not sure, and guessed: "Maybe the coward was sleeping just now? Didn't see us?"

"It is possible."

It stands to reason that if this demonstrates his deterrence, he should be more happy, but Sean just can't be happy. He was still looking forward to it. The coward took the risk because he found something good. Now it seems that it may just be a dream of myself.

Unhappy, wanting to vent, Sean is already thinking in his heart how to clean up this guy Angus.

"Kill..." I shook my head in my heart. "Forget it, for the sake of his wit, he was left with his life, but I took his boat, anyway, he got a 'new boat' again."

With the decision, it seemed that he was in a better mood. Sean waved his hand and said to his side: "Go forward at full speed, get close! That ship is the last goal of our voyage, and then we will return to Statt. On the island!"

"Oh !"

The sailors knew that after the ticket was finished, they could enjoy it for a while, so one by one was full of enthusiasm, and many people also recognized that the target was the coward Angus, so no one felt this What is the danger of the ticket.

"That coward will certainly crawl under the captain's feet again and offer everything obediently."

"Hahaha, maybe I will kiss the captain's shoes."

"You said, if I frighten that coward with a knife, will he kiss my shoes in the same way?"

"Maybe, we'll be together then!"

"Hahaha, such an interesting thing, you must count me."

" ... "

The discussions of the sailors were all heard by Sean, and for what the crew wanted to do, he didn't have any interest in blocking UU reading www.uukanshu.com, and he even had a mentality of watching a show.

"This is a good fun."

Yes, he will see a great fun. Just on the ship in the distance, Ethan and Arthur knew that their intention was achieved when they saw that they hadn't fired the guns on the opposite side, but how they should counterattack next is more important. I have a headache.

The young, passionate, and second-year-old King Arthur stood firmly in the most conspicuous position on the deck, and then held his unsheathed two-handed sword, quietly waiting for the battle to come.

According to Ethan's original meaning, two people hid, and then directly sneaked into the other party's ship while the other party was approaching, so that the other party could not rely on cannons to threaten themselves and their own ship, and then fight each other.

My first companion is a knight who advocates frontal decisive battle!

In fact, he also likes head-to-head duels, knocking down his opponents openly. I like the huge ship artillery head-on bombardment, but only if I have talent.

"Forget it, they couldn't adjust the bow gun to the side in a short time when the opponent came up anyway." He could gradually see some details of the ship on the opposite side. There was no gun door on the side of the ship, and the deck I didn't see any more cannons on it.

Even if the opponent can move the bow cannon out for use, Ethan with the preparation time can also use the magic shield to defend-and he does not believe that the guys dare to attack with the magic stone cannon at such a close distance, it will not only hurt It may even damage your boat if you reach your own person.

"Actually, you don't need to stand here with me. There is no problem following your plan. I don't force you to stick to the chivalry standards like I do."

"No, it's just too late to hide now."