

Ethan's Fantasy Drift

#Chapter 41 – 45

Read Ethan's Fantasy Drift Chapter 41

Chapter 41 The plot begins

"I don't think this can save the world."

Hiding in a dark corner, Ethan listened to Jill's complaint without giving an explanation. There is no way to explain this kind of thing, unless she is allowed to see everything with her own eyes, she will only be regarded as a neuropathy just by her mouth.

"You said you want to know, then I'll take you to see with my own eyes, otherwise how would you believe it? It just takes a little patience...Are you not a policeman? You should be no stranger to stalking?"

Ethan casually found a comfortable posture, leaning on the tree and closing his eyes.

After taking Jill back to his residence and bringing the equipment that had been packed long ago, he and Arthur came to the outside of Alice's villa.

All ran over this time, not that Ethan was sure that the plot was about to happen, but that after Arthur's state was completely restored, he didn't need to hide in the hotel to rest to recover.

In order to be able to catch up with the plot in the first time, Ethan asked Arthur to guard here with him-Jill just incidentally.

Without a better source of intelligence, I can only rely on this stupid method.

"Are you trying to steal something?"

Ethan heard Jill's questioning, and sent her a speechless expression: "If I want to steal something, should I take the initiative to bring a policeman to arrest me?"

"Um..."

It's not that Jill didn't realize this, but today's events have caused her to have more questions. However, this young man was unwilling to explain at all, so she could only speculate on the case handling experience accumulated before.

turned her head and looked at the blond teenager who also closed her eyes, she suddenly felt that these two young people were a little weird.

“So, what are we waiting for here?”

“Waiting for an opportunity to save the world.”

Jill rolled her eyes. Every time she said that, she felt that she was about to believe it.

At this moment, Arthur, who had been closing his eyes and rested, suddenly said:
“There is a situation!” Jill was extremely surprised: “Can you talk?”

She had investigated these two young people before, and learned from the news from many people that the blond boy had never spoken, and was most likely deaf and mute.

“I was just a little uncomfortable in my throat before, and I have been unable to speak.”

The excuse that had been prepared for a long time came in handy at this time, dispelling Jill’s doubts, after all, this is not a rare thing.

At this time, she realized the phrase Arthur said, ‘There is a situation! ’.

“what’s the situation?”

While talking, Jill leaned out a little and saw a sneaky figure wandering outside the villa, seeming to be observing something.

Ethan also noticed that person. Compared to Jill, who didn’t know the situation at all, and Arthur, who didn’t know the plot, Ethan knew the identity of this person.

Matthew Addison, also known as Matt Addison, Matt is actually an abbreviation or nickname for Matthew. His presence here means that the plot has already begun.

“It’s actually today.”

don’t know what to sigh? Ethan thought he would have to wait for a few days to wait for the plot to begin. He didn’t expect Jill to hit the spot on the first day he appeared. I don’t know if there is any bonus to the halo of the original characters?

“Since Matt has appeared, the mercenary squad should be nearby.”

According to the plot, the red queen in the hive suddenly lost control and slaughtered the entire hive. It should have happened during the day. After Umbrella discovered this situation, it immediately dispatched a team of mercenaries to investigate the hive. What happened in it.

The mercenaries arrived at night, and Matt sneaked into the mansion at this time and was caught by the mercenaries.

I was thinking about whether to step back and avoid colliding with the mercenaries; or directly meet the mercenaries and enter the hive together?

Suddenly discovered that Jill was ready to rush out and bring the sneaky Matt to justice.

“What are you doing?” Ethan quickly grabbed Jill’s arm and pulled her back.

Gil was almost in the habit of taking out his gun, but he quickly controlled his impulse, and at the same time expressed dissatisfaction with Ethan’s behavior to stop him: “Why did you stop me?”

Seeing that Ethan had known the sneaky person’s appearance a long time ago, he suddenly realized something: “Have you been waiting for this person to appear?”

Ethan shook his head: “No. But his appearance also means that some things have begun to happen, and the next thing is the main thing. Don’t be too anxious.”

How could Jill not be in a hurry? The * young man never spoke clearly, she wished to take a gun and cut a hole directly in his head.

“If something bad happens, I will arrest you as an accessory.”

“It has already happened, but when you know what I am going to do, you will only be sincerely grateful for everything I have done!”

“Hey, stop talking big, I just hope that my choice will not be too bad.”

She was very worried, so she stared at the villa, as long as there was something wrong, she would immediately rush out-before rushing out, Ethan would be put down and handwritten by the way.

At this time, she was dragged back by Ethan’s body that was leaning out, and her mouth was covered before she could speak.

At that moment, she almost gave Ethan a cut off his grandchildren’s knees. Fortunately, she noticed that Ethan was looking at the dark night sky with a serious face, and at the same time, she made a vocal gesture to herself.

“The main show has begun.”

I don’t know if it is an illusion, she feels that this sentence is ringing in her mind, rather than coming in from her ears.

Arthur, who was on the side, took out pieces of equipment from the backpack that had been placed aside, and put them on his body quietly and carefully.

“Armor?”

Gil’s eyesight is very good, and it can be seen at a glance that these things are not those toys used in comics, but real armors with protective capabilities.

When Arthur took out a long sword and hung it around her waist, she seemed to see a real knight from the Middle Ages, although she was a little younger.

Turning his head and looking at Ethan, the black-haired young man who had let go of her was doing the same thing, putting pieces of ‘outdated’ equipment on himself, and finally put a gorgeous iron rod on him. A large hard-skinned book was inserted in the back waist position, and a long sword was also hung on the waist side.

“What is this going to do?”

Gil has a question mark on his face, always feeling that today’s things are developing in an increasingly weird direction. But before she could ask, the loud noise from the propeller of the plane instantly attracted her attention.

“coming.”

A few people crouched down, and covered the armor part of their body with cloth to avoid being spotted by the reflection. Then quietly watched the military helicopter hover in front of the mansion, put down a few heavily armed soldiers and left quickly.

The stay time was very short, but Jill still noticed the Umbrella logo painted on the helicopter.

“Umbrella’s private armies? Why are they here?”

There are more and more questions in her mind. With the two young people dressed up in ancient costumes next to her, she now wonders if she is having a bizarre dream.

When the mercenaries broke into the mansion, Ethan turned his head and said to Jill: “Come on, watch more, listen more and ask less! When things develop to a certain level, you will naturally know what’s going on.”

Jill originally had a lot of questions to ask, but when he heard these words, he could only hold back all the questions forcibly. She has realized that today’s things are not simple. Since Ethan said that as long as she read and listened to know everything, she didn’t mind waiting for a while.

I believe that this young man will be happy to give himself an answer even if he does not understand anything at that time.

“Otherwise, he doesn’t need to bring himself here.”

Ethan saw that Jill had stopped speaking, and winked at Arthur. Then the two of them picked up their backpacks and walked towards the main entrance of the mansion in a swagger.

At this time, what happened in the movie in Ethan's memory was happening in the mansion. Alice lost her memory and looked confused. Matt was caught by the mercenaries who searched around. James, as the captain of the mercenary- Xue De is explaining his intentions to Alice Only halfway through, a team member suddenly reported: "Captain, someone is approaching."

"Can you see what identity it is?"

"Uh...there are two... young people who are playing, and a young woman." The team member looked weird. He didn't even know how to report the situation. He just thought the combination of these two men and one woman was a bit weird.

If they are fun seekers, then one of the young people is too young? It seems to be a child, right? If it's even more ridiculous for a family of three, the slightly older two are not big enough to have a teenage son.

Not only did he look constipated, but after hearing his report, everyone looked constipated. The female man mercenary Renn wondered if his companion had knocked on something and had hallucinations.

"Man, didn't you tell you not to touch those things before you leave the mission?"

"I do not have!"

It's a pity that this answer was weak, and he also doubted whether he saw an illusion.

Fortunately, he didn't need to waste his saliva to explain. Ethan and the others moved faster than they expected. Before they could react enough, they broke into the house and appeared in front of them soon.

The quality of the mercenaries is very high. Even if everyone is constipated and unbelievable, they have already arranged the defensive arrangements when they heard someone approaching. As soon as Ethan and the others entered this room, they found the soldiers. I have surrounded myself.

Several black muzzles are facing him from different angles, but Ethan is not worried at all, just spread his hands to indicate that he is harmless.

"Don't be so nervous, James, I'm actually here to help you."

Chapter 42 The source of evil in this world

“help me?”

James looked at two young men dressed like medieval knights, and a young woman.

“I really don’t see how you can help me?”

at the same time winked at his subordinates, and naturally someone went up and subdued several people.

It’s a pity that Ethan couldn’t give them this opportunity. The soldiers who were just about to step forward to knock down a few people were caught in a flash of white light before they could get close. Then the whole person lost the center of gravity and fell on the ground. On the ground.

The sound of the click of the safety opening immediately filled the entire room. The soldiers who were far away did not see what was going on. They just saw the white light flashing, and his partner immediately lay down on the ground and fired the gun immediately. He lifted it up, and then aimed at the young man who didn’t seem to be a threat.

Now no one thinks this young man is harmless.

Actually, Ethan just used the Book of Inheritance to release the magic shield. He found that the magic shield can be used as a flash bomb when it is released explosively.

The power of can’t be compared with real flash bombs. It just flashes white light. It is effective only in the dark night environment, and it is useless during the day.

Then he let them go before a few people could see clearly, but he didn’t hit them hard, and he didn’t hurt them. He simply stated: ‘I’m not an ordinary person, and you don’t want to threaten me by force. “Such a meaning.

“Raise your hands!” Unfortunately, these soldiers did not give a satisfactory response to Ethan, and they still raised the weapons in their hands and asked him to obediently surrender.

Ethan looked at James holding the MP5 in front of him, spreading his hands to show that he was harmless: “I said, I’m here to help you, otherwise you will lose these men forever just now.”

James was also shaken a while ago, but he was less affected. In addition, after a distance, he was not brought down by Ethan. He barely saw the process of Ethan bringing down his men. The other party did not. Heavy hands.

“Don’t shoot at all!”

He only said not to shoot, but did not say to put down the gun. As an experienced mercenary, he is not so easy to believe in the character of others.

“Say what you are here, young man.”

“Ethan, this is my companion, Arthur.” Then he pointed to Jill, who was also flashed, rubbing his eyes: “This is the policeman in Raccoon Town, Officer Jill Valentine.”

“Policemen?”

James doesn't care about Ethan and Arthur, but Jill's police status makes him a little jealous. At the same time, he glanced at Matt Addison who claimed to be a policeman not far away.

Jill took out the police badge he was carrying with him: “Raccoon Town Policeman, tell me who you are, and why did you break into the house with full arms?”

James only finds it difficult to handle things. What he waits for is not considered an upright job. If it were done before, he could control it like he did Matt before. After he finishes his work, he releases her, and the rest is The matter has nothing to do with me, just let Umbrella solve it.

But now... do you want to do it?

It can be seen from the young man who put down his hands just now, he is not weak, and even if he can take advantage of the number of hands, it will take a lot of time. They have no extra time to waste on this kind of thing. .

Kill directly?

If there are no other people, or in a remote enough area, he would really dare to do it, but now there are two policemen...

Ethan saw James' embarrassment, and that's why he brought Jill with him. The mercenary was only worried if she was there. After all, Umbrella was still a regular enterprise.

It was Jill who followed, so he chose to swagger to contact the opponent, otherwise he could only follow the opponent to sneak into the hive, and then wait until the opponent is in trouble to rescue him.

Why have to be involved with these mercenaries? It's because Ethan doesn't understand computers.

He was just an ordinary person in his previous life. He can use computers and can easily handle some basic problems. If you want to hack into the control system of the hive with that bit of knowledge, and then open the entrance hidden under the hive, that is simply a dream.

So others don't say, Kaplan, a ready-made computer master, had to be rescued.

Otherwise, he can only get involved with the Red Queen... an artificial intelligence, he doesn't think this thing is easier to get involved than people.

It is always said that in order to be a true savior, he needs to contact these mercenaries, and it is best to reach a consensus. If it doesn't work, he can only choose an alternative: make a consensus!

"Okay, Ethan?" James made a gesture to his opponent, and then turned his muzzle towards the ground. Following his movements, the mercenaries also lowered their muzzles, but they still maintained a vigilant posture and could raise them at any time. Gun shooting: "You said you came to help us, so you know what we are going to do?"

"I know something about it." Ethan pointed to Alice, who had been standing by her side, always in a daze: "You are going to enter the hive to investigate what happened inside, and this is the security officer of the hive."

The faces of the mercenaries were not very good-looking, and their mission was discovered by a young man who didn't know the way. No matter how they thought it was not a good phenomenon.

James' face was already dark enough, but now it's even as dark as the bottom of the pot: "How did you know?"

"I have my news channel." Ethan smiled: "And I know more than you. Including what happened in it."

James's face is even more ugly. Ethan's words made him think of two aspects: Umbrella actually knew what happened inside the hive, but she still sent herself and others to investigate and proved that things were not that simple, and that she was a group of victims if she didn't manage to do so.

Either Ethan is playing him. The young man didn't know what was going on, he just talked nonsense.

Either way, it is not a happy thing.

"So, what happened inside?"

This time, not only James, but almost everyone in the room focused their attention on Ethan.

"I think before you came, you already knew that the Red Queen, who was the main control computer of the hive, suddenly lost control and killed all the people inside, right?"

All the mercenaries present knew this. Only Matt, who was posing as a policeman, had red eyes when he heard this. Unfortunately, he couldn't move at all when he was pressed on the ground, let alone any radical behavior.

"Then you certainly don't know why the Red Queen did this all of a sudden."

Everyone shook their heads, so Ethan briefly explained the situation. However, he only talked about the study of a virus inside the hive, and this virus suddenly leaked, causing the Red Queen to kill all the infected and close the door of the hive in order to avoid the spread of the virus.

Even this little content is enough to shock the mercenaries.

"Virus?" James's face kept twitching: "What kind of virus is so terrible that it will have to kill everyone after Hongkong? Can't we simply isolate and ask for help?"

Ethan looked at James and saw his worse and worse face. He understood that he was not upset that the Red Queen killed so many people, but because of such a dangerous environment and such a dangerous virus outbreak. They were sent over without warning or providing any antiviral serum, which meant that they didn't care whether they were alive or dead.

"The specific situation, you will know after you enter." Ethan looked at James: "You still have to go in? After all, your task is to retrieve the motherboard of the Red Queen."

James became more and more certain that Ethan's source was leaked internally by Umbrella, otherwise, why would the other party know all the details of his mission? If the other party has a contact inside the hive, it is impossible to know the task arrangement on his side.

"Yes, we still have to go in."

None of the mercenaries objected, they just ate this bowl of rice. Now that the money is collected, you have to work. All dangers must be faced, unless the task has not been taken from the beginning.

At the same time, James saw that Ethan was going in with himself and others, and he did not object. If you can't kill the opponent, you can only let the opponent and yourself act together, and then let them leave after the task is completed. Since the other party is willing to go in together, things are simpler.

is thinking of this, so no matter whether the other party believes in himself or not, it will not prevent himself from entering the hive with the mercenaries Then, let's go! Ethan waved his hand again: "You don't have to worry too much, the hive is still safe at the moment. The virus can only spread through the air when it just leaks, so there is no need to worry about getting infected if it enters the hive. " said that, but the mercenaries were still a little worried.

At the moment when the door of the hive was opened, almost everyone took a step back unconsciously: even Jill, a person who knew nothing about the situation, was a little scared.

"Really all right?"

"It's okay."

"you sure?"

"Will I stand here calmly if something happens?"

Perhaps Ethan's posture that he knew everything before left them a big impression, so when he said that, everyone agreed with him—or simply wanted to find a peace of mind. reason.

boarded the internal train leading to the hive, Ethan clearly remembered that the biggest villain in the movie, as well as the virus stock and anti-virus serum he wanted most, was hidden in the car.

It seemed inappropriate to just take things out so bluntly, so he could only suggest to James: "But it's better to be careful. It's better to check this train first."

In fact, even if he doesn't say it, mercenaries have to do it. That's how Spence was discovered in the original work, but the suitcase in the corner was ignored.

This time I had Ethan, of course I would not ignore it. After finding the number one villain, Ethan took out the suitcase and attracted everyone's attention.

"what is that?"

Ethan looked at the things in his hands, and replied with a very clever: "The greatest source of evil in this world!"

Chapter 43 I'm here to negotiate

"The source of evil?"

Everyone was attracted by Ethan's words. Even Mr. Spencer Parks, who was confused and couldn't figure out what the situation was, was lying on the ground and looking up at the one that seemed to belong to him. Suitcase.

"Could it be..."

There are still a lot of smart people. Reminiscent of what Ethan said before, biochemical experiments are going on in this hive laboratory. At the same time, because of a leak accident, the artificial intelligence became popular and killed everyone.

"It's that."

Ethan had already opened the suitcase and checked it. It contained the virus stock and anti-virus serum he was thinking of. Then he closed the suitcase and held it in his hand without further explanation.

"Go ahead, I don't think you can take this thing back for business."

The subtext is that Ethan will continue to walk with them, don't worry about running away with this thing, so everyone is still in the same camp for the time being, there is no need to turn your face here.

As the captain, James pondered for a moment, then nodded at Ethan: "Continue to go inside the hive."

The train started slowly, and the mercenaries gathered together, but the guns were intentionally or unintentionally biased towards Ethan on the other side. Arthur and Ethan didn't say anything, but Jill felt uncomfortable in this situation. .

"Are we really going to enter that hive?"

"Of course." Ethan nodded at Jill: "Don't you want to know the truth? Is it that the moment the truth is about to be in front of you, you regret it again?"

Gil is a very strong personality, and he is very dissatisfied with Ethan's despising himself: "I have no regrets, but I think I should inform the police. At least we can still get some support."

Ethan waved his hand: "Give it up, Umbrella built such a big laboratory in this place, and conducted shady experiments, but nothing was revealed because of what? Do you think your report will be effective? ?"

In the movie version of the plot, Umbrella is simply an invisible super empire, powerful beyond imagination. Being able to use nuclear bombs at will, and afterwards overturning conclusive evidence and denying incidents such as nuclear bomb launches, in turn, Jill and Alice were falsely accused as wanted criminals.

In this world, Umbrella is the most powerful force, not only its own power horror has penetrated into all aspects of all classes. Jill actually imagined that a Raccoon Town police station could help? I'm afraid they will help Umbrella catch herself in turn.

Maybe Jill didn't expect this, but had such a hint of fantasy. But Ethan smashed her last illusion very simply and rudely.

Jill stopped talking, not knowing what he was thinking, Ethan and Arthur continued to rest calmly, Ethan knew that the next period of time was the last relaxing moment, and Arthur knew that there was a situation. Ethan will definitely remind himself in advance.

He didn't know how Ethan found so much news during this period, but he guessed that Ethan could travel through various planes, and there were some other secrets. But he wouldn't ask. Ethan did not say it, which proved that the secret could not be told to himself. It is not a good behavior to insist on asking.

The speed of the train was very fast, and everyone did not waste much time on the train to reach the destination.

After getting out of the car, Ethan and Arthur pretended to be dead as before, quietly watching the mercenaries perform. The only difference is that Arthur is still paying attention to the direction of things, and Ethan is more like rewatching the movie on the spot.

Of course, the intervention of Ethan and others still affected some details. Matt kept focusing on Ethan. If he was not being held by mercenaries, he might have rushed to ask him. The problem is.

Ethan also noticed Matt. Thinking of the man's later fate, he casually said to the two soldiers who held him: "Remove his handcuffs, otherwise you will have to be distracted to take care of him for a while. "

Mercenary Captain James heard Ethan's words and immediately turned his head to look at Ethan: "You mean we will be in danger?"

"Of course. Didn't you have this realization already?"

James frowned: "I want to know what kind of danger it is?" If it is a leaked virus, it seems that you don't need to care whether the guy's handcuffs are untied.

So what is encountered is the danger that requires hands-on, that is, there may be battle. But who is the enemy? Is there any dangerous creature in the hive?

"It's not easy to explain, but someone will show it to you in detail later."

After finishing speaking, Ethan glanced at the inconspicuous camera in the corner.

“Don’t you think? Red queen kid.”

The mercenaries were taken aback by Ethan’s sudden wave of hello, and immediately entered into a combat stance, and at the same time showed a wealth of experience and understanding-several people aimed their guns at Ethan, and others aimed at Ethan and waved. Direction.

It turned out that there was only a camera in that location, and only Kaplan immediately understood what Ethan was doing.

“You mean, the Red Queen is watching us?”

“Very interesting question, the Red Queen controls the entire hive, don’t you think she would not know that we have come in?” Sometimes Ethan really feels that these mercenaries are in arrears with IQ. They are all experienced, shrewd and capable veterans. , How can you ask such a stupid question?

In fact, these mercenaries cannot be blamed. Artificial intelligence and other things are just conceptual things in this era. Most of them only appear in movies or novels. How can I see them in reality? Let alone encounter military missions related to artificial intelligence?

So, of course, no one noticed that Ethan used ‘she’ instead of ‘it’ when calling the Red Queen.

James now has a headache but another thing, their every move is under the supervision of the Red Queen, this feeling is not good. That’s a thing that kills all hundreds of people if they don’t agree with each other. Even if the black-haired young man learns that there is a reason for this artificial intelligence to kill those people, it still makes him uncomfortable.

Plus Ethan has been hinting that there will be a battle next, but he doesn’t say who he is fighting with. He has been a mercenary for so many years, and he has never encountered such a difficult situation.

“Everyone stays in line, pay attention, and open the guy’s handcuffs.” After that, he pointed to Ethan and Alice: “You stay in the middle of the team, don’t run around, we will protect you.”

Similarly, they can also ensure that they will not run around and suddenly run away when surrounded by their own people.

“Kaplan, you and Ren take care of them.”

Originally, the mercenary here chose to take the stairs after checking that the elevator was unavailable. However, realizing that he and others have been under surveillance and might be attacked at any time, James didn't even mention the situation of the elevator, and hurried down the stairs with his men.

The team's advancing speed is not slow, even if it is in a vigilant posture, everyone has maintained the advancing speed, perhaps unconsciously unwilling to stay in this place, and want to complete the task early.

Only Jill is still in the mood to ask Ethan: "What you meant just now that we would be in trouble?"

Matt, who was about to thank him, also leaned over, stopped his urge to speak, and listened quietly to Ethan's explanation.

"It will be a bit troublesome, but if the negotiation goes well, it may just be a simple warm-up exercise."

"Negotiating?"

Ethan did not answer this time, and when he saw that he was silent, everyone did not continue to ask questions, and walked forward quietly.

Soon, according to the plot, they saw all kinds of misery in the laboratory, and the flooded laboratories and offices were displayed in rows in front of everyone.

When Matt saw this scene, he suddenly wanted to rush out, but Ethan held his shoulders: "Don't be impulsive, I know what you want to do, but I advise you not to leave the brigade and act alone for now."

Matt didn't listen at all, just struggling: "Let go of me."

"If you don't want to be beaten into a sieve, I think you better listen to me."

Compared to Ethan, the mercenaries are not polite to Matt. If he really does any aggressive behavior, he will be a beehive in the first place.

Ethan just persuaded him out of kindness, whether he listened to him or not, he would no longer be nosy, UU reading www. uukanshu. After all, he is not regarded as a nosy Madonna who will continue to persuade people not to be stupid. Fortunately, Matt did not continue to be stupid and avoided a lot of trouble.

Still following the plot, everyone came to the so-called restaurant B.

At this time, Ethan deliberately pointed to the freezing devices to James: "You can look at the contents, and I can remind you that those things are alive. If you release the freezing...huh."

James didn't want to look anymore after taking a look. After taking a few steps back and looking at the entire restaurant B, he was shocked by the number of freezer boxes.

"It's all this stuff in here?"

Everyone has seen the contents of the freezer, and then they all did the same thing as James.

"What the * is this?"

Ethan still did not answer, but just signaled everyone to move on.

"The answer is just ahead. Then there is a more qualified commentator waiting for us."

Then he walked in the lead, and this time no one even reminded him to stop and stay in the middle of the team. Instead, they followed silently, as if Ethan was the leader of their group.

went all the way to the outside of the main computer room where the Red Queen motherboard was stored before Ethan stopped.

In front of him is the extremely stunning laser channel in the movie, and even has a unique position in online novels-countless newcomers have earned the first pot of gold in their lives here.

"Unfortunately, this thing will not bring me any benefit, it will only cause a lot of trouble."

At the same time, his destination is not inside, but under the control room. So he stood outside the passage, facing the monitor above his head.

"After the red, I'm here to negotiate!"

Chapter 44 Unable to communicate

No surprise, the Red Queen ignored Ethan at all.

Originally, according to the previous impressions, this artificial intelligence should have born a self-conscious existence, but when the final chapter of the sixth chapter came out, it seemed that this was a very obedient artificial intelligence, and everything was in accordance with the already set The program does things, even the crazy energy is just an illusion.

This makes Ethan particularly difficult to do-if he is only doing things in accordance with the pre-designed procedures, then there is no communication at all.

"The Red Queen, I know you can hear it, so don't continue to pretend to be dead, come out and talk... Otherwise, these people will shut you down completely."

Everyone has entered the room outside the laser channel. James originally wanted Kaplan to invade the red post program and open the channel of the host room.

But after seeing what Ethan was doing, he reached out and stopped Kaplan, ready to see the situation.

After seeing the red, Ethan remained silent, so he had to say to Kaplan on the side: "Since the red queen refuses to come out for negotiations, let's exchange it with someone else." Then he asked: "Kaplan, you can invade. Are all the control procedures of the hive? Let's go to the lower level and talk to the real person in charge."

"The lower level?"

"The real person in charge?"

The amount of information in this passage is a bit large. Everyone was stunned. Only Kaplan asked with a bewildered look: "Aren't we already at the bottom?"

Ethan curled his lips: "Things are more complicated than you guessed, and the secrets of the hive are more than you think."

stomped and made a dull noise: "The position where we are standing is actually a lift. I need you to invade the control program of the hive and send us to the lower level."

Kaplan understood what Ethan meant, first turned to look at the captain next to him, and saw James nod to himself, and then agreed: "Well, I can give it a try, if there is such a part. As far as the program is concerned, it shouldn't be difficult to turn on this elevator."

Just before Kaplan could do anything, an image of a little girl projected through a hidden device appeared suddenly in front of everyone.

"Who are you? I queried almost all the databases that can be queried, but none of your personal information was found."

Ethan was not surprised by the sudden appearance of the Red Queen. His previous remarks were meant to force the Red Queen to appear. Regardless of whether the Red Queen really has self-awareness or strictly follows the procedures of order, she can't let Ethan and them enter the lowest level.

There are hidden Umbrella's greatest secrets, as well as all the high-level bodies of Umbrella.

To be honest, when I first watched the movie, he was stunned by this god-like transitional plot. Now he is very thankful that this plot has been designed, otherwise he really has no way to force the red queen out, so he can only enter. The main engine room unplugged the motherboard and asked Kaplan to help invade the elevator control program.

“This is not the most important thing, since you are willing to come out, first explain to these few what happened in the hive.”

The Red Queen ignored Ethan because he did not have the authority to order the Red Queen. Ethan just shrugged his shoulders and called Alice out-the absolute protagonist of this series, this time just like the tourists who came to visit, there was no sense of existence throughout the whole process. If Ethan suddenly called her, I’m afraid everyone I almost forgot that this is Umbrella’s security officer.

“You have the identity of Umbrella, so you can ask the Red Queen to answer the questions you want to know.”

Ethan made the confused Alice understand with a single sentence, and what happened immediately was still similar to the original plot. With the projection broadcast for the demonstration, everyone understood what was being studied in the hive, and at the same time what’s going on.

“So you can’t shut me down, that will release all the infected people who are locked up by me.”

Honghou used this sentence as a final summary. She already knew the purpose of the mercenaries and was ready to kill them all.

Unexpectedly, Ethan suddenly joined in, causing her plan to fail completely before it even started. Is she now calculating, did Ethan deliberately sabotage her plan, or is this all accidental?

“Sorry, this is our task, we must shut you down, but for the sake of safety, maybe we can think of a proper way.”

Ethan had thought about this a long time ago, so as soon as James finished speaking, he continued: “The method is very simple. The Red Queen cooperates with us to release the temporarily trapped zombies little by little, and then we are responsible for completely removing them. Kill it.”

The method of killing zombies has already been talked about after Red, simple and straightforward: headshot.

There are only a few hundred researchers in the hive, which seems to be a lot, but if the next room is opened with the help of the Red Queen, then the mercenaries who have rich experience in combat and have long understood the specific situation will come. That said, it's not much trouble than target training.

The most terrifying thing about zombies is that people don't understand them, and the number and infectivity of the horror, not to mention the infectivity, even if the unlucky person is bitten, Ethan still holds anti-toxin serum in his hand.

The number of horrors can also rely on the help of the Red Queen. Open a room at a time to release two or three of them. If a few gather more, such as the situation in the elevator, you can also extend the distance first to ensure safety.

Therefore, it is not difficult to clean up these zombies. The key is that the Red Queen is willing to cooperate.

"Wait, I have another question... how did the virus leak?"

Alice is thinking of another aspect. If there is a continuous source of leakage, should they eliminate this hidden danger first? But the next scene played by the Red Queen made everyone turn their attention to Spence.

Spences had moved surreptitiously to the outside of the crowd at this time. When he heard Alice's question, he turned his head and ran away-his memory was restored with the stimulation of those pictures when the virus experiment was played before. After coming over, I realized that the situation was extremely unfavorable to me, and I was always thinking about finding a chance to run away.

It's a pity that Ethan kept staring at this guy in secret, and he rushed out without two steps before he felt something hit on the back of his knee, followed by the softness of his feet, and his face fell firmly on the ground.

The sudden incident caught everyone off guard, but no one blamed Ethan, and even the two mercenaries closest to Spence nodded at Ethan to express gratitude, and then fell to the ground and howled Spence. It was dragged back-an arrow in the back of the knee was nothing, but it knocked off his front teeth when he fell, and he looked a bit miserable with blood on his face.

It's just that after seeing the things he did that was broadcast by the Red Queen, no one expressed sympathy for what happened to him. Everyone hoped that he would be more miserable.

"So, everything is caused by this guy?"

The truth has come to light, and the real murderer has also been caught, as if the matter is over? Ethan only gave a sneer, and then poured a basin of cold water: "The truth? This is just the truth Umbrella wants you to see..."

paused, feeling that it seemed inappropriate to say so.

“No, these so-called truths are not even prepared for you. In Umbrella’s plan, you are a bunch of dead people.”

After Hong turned his gaze to Ethan again: “Who are you, you seem to know a lot.”

“Of course, I know more than you think. For example, you originally wanted to kill us all with the laser transmitter in the main room channel.”

Everyone once again focused their attention on this virtual projection. After seeing the red, not only did not deny it, but asked how Ethan knew about it, and once again proposed to close the red queen directly. This artificial intelligence is really untrustworthy for everyone. .

“If you shut her down, let’s not talk about the zombies that researchers turned into, how are you going to destroy the monsters in restaurant B?”

Captain James lost his temper by Ethan’s rhetorical question. The specific data of those monsters was also released by the Red Queen just now. Although the thing is not impossible to kill, it is too dangerous. He doesn’t want all his players to die. Here.

“We should get rid of those monsters first.”

B restaurant is not far away. If the Red Queen suddenly releases those monsters, they may be completely wiped out by surprise.

“After the red, you should have a way to directly kill the lickers in the freezing, right?”

After the red, he still ignored Ethan, but Alice ordered: “Answer his question!”

“Yes I can.” The Red Queen gave the answer very quickly, and in the process what made Ethan cared about was the Red Queen’s attitude towards Alice: “It seems that the Red Queen In the lowest level of the program, there is a restriction for her to obey Alice’s orders.”

“After the red, kill all the lickers!”

Affirmed Ethan’s guess, it was Alice’s next behavior, almost the moment Alice made the request, Red Queen complied.

“Alice, let the red queen send us to the lower floor.”

This time even other people have noticed something wrong. Although Alice is a Umbrella staff member, she is just a guard responsible for the security of the hive gate. If it sounds good, it may be the security manager. If it sounds bad, it may be a doorman.

Why does the artificial intelligence, which is the center of the hive, obey Alice's orders?

Thinking back to the sentence Ethan said before, 'That's just the truth that Umbrella wants you to know...', things seem to be getting more and more complicated.

James is now facing a choice. Is to continue to follow your own professional ethics, complete your own tasks, and leave other things alone?

Still continue to explore the truth?

While he was still hesitating, Ethan had already thrown a bigger bomb: "If you can't make a decision, let Alice!" come and talk to me."

It is a pity that this time the Red Queen not only did not respond to Alice's order, but even disappeared. At the same time, except that the door leading to the main engine room was still tightly closed, the door to the outside that had been well closed suddenly opened by itself.

Everyone was a little stunned, only Ethan understood it in an instant.

"Be careful, the Red Queen released all the zombies."

Chapter 45 After turning off the red

After disappeared suddenly after the red, and then opened all the closed doors, it seemed to express his attitude.

Umbrella's plan cannot be changed. Since it cannot be made into a pure accident as originally planned, then all the insiders should be wiped out. As long as everyone on the scene is dead, the future development will naturally follow. Was slowly guided back to the original track.

Ethan shook her head helplessly. After all, the Red Queen is not a real self-aware artificial intelligence. She just strictly abides by the pre-defined instructions, so this negotiation can be said to have failed.

"It doesn't matter, it's the same to force the past!"

Ethan drew out the long sword casually, and Arthur, who had been silent for the same movement, also kept holding his pistol, never letting go.

"Don't stand by the door, leave some distance..."

Before the words were finished, a red shadow swished in from the door. Everyone didn't even see what it was. Only Ethan realized that Hong Empress had just lied.

“The licker!”

There is almost no epidermis, the muscles are completely exposed, the sensory ability is extremely strong, the speed is amazing, and it has a pair of claws that can tear steel, and a tongue that can pop out a few meters in an instant and is powerful enough to make a big hole in the human body.

The licker is already a mature biochemical weapon. One or two are already very dangerous. If they appear in groups, the threat will increase exponentially.

is different from the licker in the original game, who lost his vision during the evolution process and relied entirely on hearing to act. The lickers in the movie version seem to have thermal imaging vision, which makes it easier for them to find prey in hiding.

Therefore, Ethan can't make the licker ignore him by keeping quiet and controlling his breathing sound. There is only one way to go when he meets the licker in this world: Either kill it or be killed by it!

raised his hand and fired a flaming arrow out to interfere with the other one, and at the same time, a licker stepped forward, and the long sword in his hand slashed over.

A sword slashed on the paw of the licker, unexpectedly made the sound of metal collision, and as the blade slashed on the paw, it also caused a spark.

“How did this paw evolve!”

complained in his heart that the thing had been changed too much, and the movement of his hands was quicker.

After swiping along the outside of the paw, Ethan used his strength to swipe down, and then slammed an oblique cut with a sharp turn. If the cut was hit, it would hit the licker's chest. The biggest weakness of the licker is the heart that almost completely protrudes.

As long as the heart is hit hard, the licker will die immediately, which is more deadly than attacking the brain exposed to the air.

But because of this, the licker's heart is not easy to be attacked. It usually maintains a prone position to protect its weakness.

However, the licker was in midair, so Ethan's sword cut a solid, even slightly improved a lot of strength, after slicing the licker's heart, he still cast his momentum unabated. He flung it upside down and flew back, bumping into another licker who followed immediately.

At the same time, the licker, who was disturbed by a flaming arrow from Ethan, paused for a while and was smashed into a sieve by the reacting Captain James and his teammates.

“Attacking the heart and head, hitting other parts will not kill them.”

The female man Raine slowly approached the beaten licker who was lying on the ground with a gun, and then shot a few more shots at the corpse before he unloaded the empty magazine and replaced it with a new one. .

“Didn’t this thing have been cleaned up by the Red Queen? That * computer lied to us?”

When Ethan killed the first licker, Arthur had already charged up. In terms of swordsmanship and close combat, Arthur was much stronger than him. Although he took a later shot, he solved his opponent almost instantly, especially when he knew the enemy’s weakness.

Many mercenaries noticed that two young men actually killed two monsters with their long swords. They remembered that a group of people with automatic weapons only killed one after a meal. Isn’t this the difference?

It’s just that no one is in the mood to discuss this at this time. The lickers have not been cleaned up as the Red Queen said, so more monsters will be killed in the future, and all the hive personnel will become zombies. , That thing alone is not dangerous, but if a large group comes out, no one can guarantee what happens.

“Remove the red motherboard first.”

No matter what, the red queen must be closed, but the passage to the host room was tightly closed. Even if it was opened, they still remember that there was a defensive device that could kill all of them in this passage.

“Kaplan!”

“I’m trying!”

The computer expert Kaplan’s head was sweaty, but no matter how hard he tried, the door in front of him remained silent, and all his attempts were easily resolved by the Red Queen.

“Damn, I can’t seize control at all!”

Ethan looked at the mercenaries, although they were a little impatient, but did not panic and acted very tacitly, knowing that they had stabilized their positions.

stepped back a bit, letting the door open so as not to obstruct the mercenary's shooting horizon, Ethan, who was free to shoot, directly stabbed Spence on the ground with a sword.

"What are you doing?"

Jill, the justice policewoman, didn't expect Ethan to kill Spence suddenly. She also knew that this guy was more than guilty and deserves no sympathy, but she didn't think Ethan could kill him like this: "He should be taken. He is judged outside! And his existence can prove Umbrella's various crimes..."

"Don't be kidding, do you think Umbrella will give you a chance?" Ethan brought Jill with a purpose, not because she is a girl, let alone that she is qualified to blame herself: "Besides, now we are the first. The most important thing is to protect yourself. Do you think there is such a guy in the team that will not cheat one of us?"

Originally, Arthur also felt that Ethan would kill Spence, who had lost the power to resist. It seemed a bit improper, but when Ethan explained this way, he also realized that under the current situation, it is indeed not suitable for a hidden danger. By your side.

"In the face of huge threats from foreign enemies, you must ensure the internal unity of your team, otherwise it is very likely to cause extremely bad consequences."

He now began to feel that Merlin allowed himself and Ethan to travel on various planes, not only to see all kinds of worlds, but also to make himself understand more of the truths he couldn't normally teach himself.

He does not have to agree, but he must understand and distinguish the pros and cons of these behaviors. Ethan happens to be an excellent reference object—he can understand the pros and cons of these behaviors as long as he observes whether the results obtained after Ethan makes these decisions are good or bad, which is more intuitive than just talking with his mouth. many.

Ethan didn't know what Arthur was thinking in his head next to him. After stabbing Spence to death and eliminating the hidden danger, he walked directly to Kaplan: "Don't bother, just blast the door open."

He didn't believe that when this group of mercenaries came down, they were not even prepared for blasting equipment? What should they do if the damaged door happens to block the way?

James also agreed with Ethan's proposal and directed the two mercenaries to prepare for the blast...but they opened the door automatically before they got to the door.

Ethan ignored it and continued to demand: "Don't pay attention, even if the door is opened, we will blow up. First, blow this door away, otherwise as soon as we go in, the naughty little girl will lock both doors..."

James nodded and motioned for the two men to follow suit, and then they watched Red Queen shut the open door again.

"Fearless struggle!"

Ethan, who has made up his mind, will not give the Red Queen any chance. Since the Red Queen has been judged to be a pure program that cannot be communicated, Ethan is not too lazy to talk nonsense and blows things up-he remembers that the Red Queen in the host room can only be regarded as a subprogram, and the real main program should be hidden at the end. In the engine room below.

"Is the Red Queen obsessed with carrying out the plan to destroy the world, just because she is a subroutine?"

When I think of this, Ethan can't wait to smoke himself. Why do you find a reason for a broken computer? Since he insists on doing the right thing, he must firmly treat it as an enemy. It makes no difference to him whether is a subroutine.

Installation, blasting!

At the same time, the laser transmitter in the channel was destroyed, and the entire channel was blown up in a mess; then the door on the opposite side was blown up likewise. At this time, everyone dared to walk into the channel and enter the main engine room.

Ethan did not go in, there was nothing worthy of his attention in the host room, he still stayed here, urging Kaplan to find the hidden control program to enter the lower level.

But Kaplan couldn't find it after tossing for a long time. In addition, the zombies that began to appear, and the constant gunshots made the computer expert more anxious.

"Are you sure there is such a thing?"

"there must be."

The reaction of the former Red Queen has confirmed this, but it is hidden deeper.

At this moment, the red queen who had been pretending to be dead suddenly appeared in front of Ethan and proposed a deal: "If you prevent them from closing my program, I can send you to the lower level."

Ethan was taken aback for a moment, and then he wanted to agree, but immediately thought of the behavior of the Red Queen... So he firmly rejected the offer: "I have given you a chance, but you refused! I never agree with you soon. The enemy I killed is negotiating, and you don't have the capital to negotiate terms with me!"

Almost at the same time as it was finished, the entire hive was suddenly powered off, and then the emergency backup energy was activated. The hive, which was originally bright as daylight, was left with the emergency lights still on.

This situation means that the Red Queen was closed.

Almost at the same time, Kaplan, who had been busy with his head down, reconnected to the restarting control computer, and it didn't take long for him to suddenly shout in surprise: "I found the startup program you mentioned!"