

Ex Convict 2381

Chapter 2381

"What about the children?" she asked.

"Uncle Kwan will look after them. Besides, there are so many servants at home. I'll take our two children with us if you're still worried." As for their other child, he would probably refuse to go to Deer City even if they wanted to bring him.

Jason had a headache thinking of how the boy clung to his 'sister' Veronica Barlow.

Mason's 'obsession' with Veronica Barlow even surprised Jason sometimes.

The obsession had gone far beyond the feelings between siblings. He just had no idea if his son's obsession was only a matter of childhood or if it would continue past his childhood days.

"Deer City is Philip Barlow's territory. Give Philip Barlow a heads-up when you go to Deer City. It'll be easier to handle matters in Deer City." Jason urged her.

"Yeah, I can visit William too," said Grace.

The next day, when Jasper heard that her mother was going to Deer City, she immediately shouted, "I want to go too. I want to go with you, Mommy. I want to see William!"

"You're not on holiday now. If you go to Deer City, you won't be able to go to kindergarten. Your brother will have to go to kindergarten alone." Grace deliberately made it sound that her eldest son would be pitiful. "Do you want your brother to go to kindergarten alone every day, Jasper?"

Mick Reed wanted to say that it did not matter if he went to kindergarten alone. He went to kindergarten alone before his mother and sister returned anyway.

However, his father pulled him aside before he could speak. He heard his father say, "Alright, I'll take you two to Deer City to see Mommy and William during the weekends."

Jasper thought it over and concluded it was a good idea. She nodded and agreed. However, she still asked Grace to pass a message to William that she would be there in a few days. She also asked Grace to give him the little frog she had learned to fold with colored paper.

It was a small paper frog, but Jasper solemnly handed it to her mother. Grace looked at the back of the frog. Jasper even wrote the words 'William' on it with a colorful pen.

Grace smiled, put the paper frog away, and said to her daughter, "Alright, I'll pass it to William. You can teach William how to fold this little frog when you and your brother are in Deer City, okay?"

"Okay!" Jasper answered loudly.

Grace packed her luggage and went to Deer City with Martin Weiss and Kyla at noon.

Kyla was not in the right shape to take an airplane, so they drove there.

Martin Weiss asked the driver to drive an MPV car so that Kyla could rest in the car.

Kyla was worried as nothing she had read so far about Amber Mitchell's stay in the mental hospital was good.

"Alright, stop worrying. We'll be there in three hours. We'll find out what's going on when we get there and see Amber Mitchell," said Grace.

Amber Mitchell's identity surprised her. She was the eldest heiress of the Mitchell family of Deer City but was sentenced to 14 years in prison for misappropriating company funds. After her release, she returned to the Mitchell family to fight for power. However, when she was about to succeed, her family sent her to a mental hospital, claiming she was mentally ill. She had stayed there for 14 years.

According to the confidential information they obtained from the hospital, Amber Mitchell's family had visited her over the years. They did not just ignore her after admitting her to the mental hospital.

Chapter 2382

No one in Deer City doubted that the eldest heiress of the Mitchell family was mentally ill.

However, the timing of Amber Mitchell's admission to the mental hospital could not have been too coincidental, given the timeline!

After all, the shareholders' meeting was just a few days later, and given Amber Mitchell's prospects at the time, she stood a good chance of winning! However, she suddenly became a mental patient. Meanwhile, her stepsister married her fiancé right after that.

The biggest winner seemed to be the stepsister who shared a different mother from Amber Mitchell-Louise Mitchell.

When searching for information, Grace also looked into Louise Mitchell.

Compared to Amber Mitchell's tragic experience, Louise Mitchell led a happy life. She was married to George Gregory, who was supposed to be her brother-in-law, with whom she had a son now.

The car drove to Deer City and arrived at the mental hospital where Amber Mitchell was.

However, a hospital staff member stopped them when they asked to visit Amber Mitchell.

They said, "I'm sorry, but we don't allow visitors other than family members."

"I've been her friend for more than ten years. Can't I visit her?" Kyla said quickly.

"That's the hospital policy." They insisted.

Grace frowned slightly. The family would work out with the hospital on who got visitation rights. It was obvious that the family did not want outsiders to visit Amber Mitchell.

Just then, Martin Weiss took out his phone and dialed a number. "Yes, Director Wang, I'm currently in your hospital. My wife's friend is in your hospital. They've been friends for more than ten years, and she wants to meet her. But she can't visit her because she's not family... Okay... Thank you, then..."

Moments later, the staff member answered a phone call and instantly changed her attitude toward the three of them. They said, "Though you can't visit the patient, Director Wang has asked me to show you around the hospital. Please follow me."

By 'showing around', it meant they would be taken to see Amber Mitchell, of course!

Kyla looked at Martin Weiss gratefully. "Thank you."

"Whatever happens later, I hope you can control your emotions. And please remember that you're pregnant," said Martin Weiss.

"Okay, I'll be mindful!" Kyla hastened to assure.

The three followed the staff member as they walked around the hospital ward. Grace and Martin Weiss were on Kyla's left and right sides.

Amber Mitchell's ward was a VIP ward, where all the patients stayed in separate wards. Each ward door had a transparent glass window, which was convenient for doctors and nurses to check on the patients inside.

However, when the three of them approached Amber Mitchell's ward, they suddenly heard the mocking laughter of a woman. "Amber Mitchell, you look so pitiful right now. The heiress of the Mitchell family, who was so popular in the past, looks like this now. Nobody in Deer City remembers you now. Not even the gossip reporters bother to write about you."

Chapter 2383

The voice... sounded hostile. Grace frowned and glanced at Kyla. The expression of the staff member who led them here changed as if they had suddenly recalled something. They hurriedly moved to stop the three of them.

However, Martin Weiss beat the staff member to it by blocking their way, while Kyla and Grace hurried toward Amber Mitchell's ward.

"But I remember you. These are the dishes I specially instructed the cook to prepare. Sis, you gotta finish them!" The woman's voice continued.

Then came the muffled groans of struggle and the sound of pain.

Kyla's and Grace's expressions changed abruptly as they looked through the small window on the ward's door.

A woman in a white hospital gown was being held down by two other people dressed as hospital nurses. One of them even pressed the head of the woman in the hospital gown into the food in front of her, which could not be seen.

The woman's body and hair were covered with food. She was in such a mess.

Not far away stood another woman with elaborate makeup and designer clothes. It was... Louise Mitchell, Amber Mitchell's stepsister!

Kyla and Grace had gone through the information they found and knew what Louise Mitchell looked like.

If that was the case, the woman in the hospital gown who was being held down was without a doubt Amber Mitchell.

Kyla tried to push the door open to enter, but the door was locked from the inside.

"Open the door! What are you doing?! How could you do this to her?" Kyla shouted.

The people inside were shocked. Louise Mitchell turned her head and saw Kyla and Grace through the window on the door. She frowned and got the two nurses who were holding Amber Mitchell to take her aside. Then, she called Amber Mitchell's attending doctor. "What's wrong with your hospital? Why are people shouting outside the ward? I need you to get those people out of here! I don't want any drama..."

However, Martin Weiss kicked down the ward door before she ended her phone call.

Kyla ran toward Amber Mitchell, and Grace hurried to follow. The two nurses tried to shield Amber Mitchell from these outsiders.

One of the nurses raised one hand to push Kyla, but Martin Weiss waved it away before she could touch Kyla.

"Who... Who are you? Who permitted you to barge into patients' wards? Where's security? Where are the hospital's security guards?" Louise Mitchell shouted to the staff member who led Kyla and the rest here.

The staff member seemed to be in a dilemma. "Mrs. Gregory, they're friends of the hospital's director. Well... I... I was just showing them around the hospital, and they happened to run into you."

"I don't care what they're here for. Get them out of here immediately!" Louise Mitchell said, looking upset.

Kyla did not care what Louise Mitchell was saying. All her attention was on Amber Mitchell.

The beautiful Amber Mitchell had fallen into this state.

“Amber Mitchell, it’s me. It’s me! I’m Kyla. Do you remember me? Look at me and tell me what’s going on? How did you end up in here?” Kyla sobbed.

However, Amber Mitchell kept her head down.

From Kyla’s statement, Louise Mitchell figured out that these people knew Amber Mitchell, but Amber Mitchell’s lack of reaction was within her expectation.

Chapter 2384

“Have you had enough? She’s mentally ill, and no one is allowed to visit her except her family. I’ll call the police if you insist on staying!” Louise Mitchell warned fiercely.

“Even if she’s a patient, you have no right to treat her like this. You’re treating her like an animal. She’s your sister!” Kyla glared at her while clenching her teeth.

Louise Mitchell smiled. “It’s exactly because she’s my sister that I hope she can get back to normal. It’s stimulation therapy. You can ask her doctor if you don’t believe me! If you don’t fuck off, I’ll call the police!”

She said as she made a gesture to pull out her phone.

Grace grabbed Kyla by the arm and said, “Kyla, let’s leave first.”

“But...”

“Don’t forget what you promised me when you came here!” Martin Weiss said as his face suddenly approached Kyla. He said in a voice audible only to each other, “It won’t help if you stay here any longer. If you want to help your friend, do as I say now!”

Kyla trembled, and Martin Weiss held her hand to bring her out of the ward. The ward door was closed again.

Louise Mitchell’s face was full of doubts. ‘Who are the three people just now? Anyone who Director Wang allows in can’t be an ordinary person.

‘Does Amber Mitchell even have such friends?’

“But so what if your friends have come for you?” Louise Mitchell suddenly smiled, walked up to Amber Mitchell, and stepped on her right hand, which was missing a finger.

Amber Mitchell instantly let out a muffled groan of pain but nothing else.

Louise Mitchell looked at her reaction with satisfaction and smiled even more complacently. “You’re a mental patient, and you’ll stay here for the rest of your life!”

Amber Mitchell only hung her head low as if she could not hear anything.

Kyla and the rest left the hospital. They got into the car outside.

Once they got in the car, Kyla took a deep breath and said, "I... I want to save Amber Mitchell. Her sister is abusing her. Grace, Martin, please help me save Amber Mitchell, okay?"

Grace hurriedly reassured Kyla by saying, "Since I accompanied you here, I'll help you. But don't let yourself get too emotional and risk a miscarriage."

"Okay," answered Kyla.

"Alright, you've seen Amber Mitchell and Louise Mitchell today. Now, we'll figure out how to meet Amber Mitchell alone," said

Grace.

"Let me arrange it," said Martin Weiss.

Kyla was delighted to hear that but then added, "Then... when can I see Amber Mitchell?"

"I'll do it as soon as possible, but Deer City isn't the Weiss family's territory, after all. Some things may take a while," said Martin Weiss.

When the three arrived at their hotel, Grace said to Kyla, "I have to go out for something later. You guys should rest early."

Chapter 2385

"Where are you going?" Kyla asked.

"I'm going to meet Deer City's local tyrant and deliver a gift on my daughter's behalf!" Grace said with a smile.

Grace came to the Barlow family's house in the evening.

Philip Barlow was a little surprised that Grace came alone. "Mrs. Reed, it's rare for you to come here alone. Did your two children run away from home again, so you came to me to look for them?"

"No, I'm in Deer City with my friends for something. Besides, Jasper asked me to bring William a small gift," said Grace.

Hearing this, Philip Barlow told a maid, "Call Young Master here."

"Yes," the maid responded.

After a while, William came down to the living room. As soon as he saw Grace, affection immediately appeared in his eyes.

After all, aunt Cummins was one of the few who was kind to him even when he was looked down upon.

Most importantly... aunt Cummins was Jasper's mommy!

William walked over, but his eyes could not help looking around as if hoping to catch a glimpse of someone.

As if reading his mind, Grace said, "Jasper didn't come with me today, but she'll come to Deer City this weekend. You can see her then."

William's disappointed eyes immediately lit up after hearing the last half of Grace's speech.

"Jasper is coming this weekend?" he asked.

"Yes, she misses you," Grace said as she took out the paper frog. "This is the paper frog Jasper learned to fold. She asked me to give it to you. She said she'll teach you to fold many paper frogs when she comes over."

William took the paper frog with his little hands and stared blankly at the words 'William' scrawled on the frog's back. The girl's pretty little face seemed to appear before his eyes.

'Jasper misses me too!

'She hasn't forgotten me!'

William took the paper frog back to his room and held it gently against his chest as if he was hugging the person he wanted to see the most.

"Jasper, I miss you so much!" his young voice murmured.

'I want to... I want to see her soon! I'll learn how to fold paper frogs from her and fold many, many of them...'

In the living room, Philip Barlow looked at Grace with a half-smile and said, "Mrs. Reed, I don't think you're here tonight just to deliver a paper frog."

Chapter 2386

"There's one more thing I hope you can do for me if it's convenient, Mr. Barlow," said Grace.

"Oh? I wonder what I can do to help you, Mrs. Reed?" Philip Barlow asked.

"I wonder how much you know about the heiress of the Mitchell family getting sent to a mental hospital, Mr. Barlow," said Grace.

Philip Barlow's eyes narrowed slightly. "What's the matter? Are you interested in this matter, Mrs. Reed?"

Grace said, "I have a close friend who the heiress of the Mitchell family had once saved before, so she's considered a friend of a friend. If I have anything that needs to be done in Deer City, I hope you can help us, Mr. Barlow. The Reed family will return the favor in the future."

Philip Barlow smiled. "Speaking of which, I owe the Reed family a favor. If the Reed family hadn't taken care of William during that period, maybe he would have suffered more before I found him."

After a pause, Philip Barlow said, "I don't know much about the heiress of the Mitchell family. I only know what was in the news at the time. Of course, I heard that the Mitchell family was afraid that the heiress would fight for power, so they claimed that the heiress was ill and sent her to a mental hospital even when she was not. Besides that, the heiress' own father and fiancé believed she was mentally ill. There were diagnosis reports from well-known experts as well. Hence, the voices of doubt soon died down. It seems that the heiress has been in the mental hospital ever since."

Grace said, "Yes, she has spent eight years in the mental hospital. Do you know about George Gregory's relationship with Amber Mitchell, the heiress of the Mitchell family? From what I know, the Gregory family also has some business dealings with the Barlow family, and it seems that you and George Gregory were once schoolmates."

Philip Barlow said, "He's my junior. At least, in my opinion, he and the heiress of the Mitchell family were a sweet couple! He probably loved that woman. He never cared that she had gone to prison, but...

"But when she did get out of prison, he wanted to break off the marriage for unknown reasons. That's all I know," said Philip Barlow.

Grace said, "Thank you. I got more information than I expected. I gotta go. I'll visit another day."

After Grace left, Philip Barlow closed his eyes slightly. "The Mitchell family... Amber Mitchell..." Speaking of which, the name had not been mentioned in Deer City for a long time.

It was as if the name that used to be well-regarded had been forgotten in the river of time.

He remembered that George Gregory was drunk in a private room in a nightclub the night he talked about breaking off their marriage. He happened to pass by, so he decided to do a good deed and take him home.

However, George Gregory hugged him and cried, "Why... Why are you doing this to me? Why?"

It confused him until he heard his mouth vaguely uttering the words 'Amber Mitchell. He then realized that George Gregory was not talking to him but thought he was Amber Mitchell.

"Amby... I... I don't want to do this anymore... If you can't give me all your love, then... I'd rather not have any! I, George Gregory, can't marry you. Even though we're engaged, I can... break off this engagement!"

The man was reeking with the smell of alcohol, but his voice was choking as he laughed and cried.

He knew how proud his junior was. He had always been privileged. The only time he let go of his pride was for Amber Mitchell.

It was said that George Gregory fell in love with Amber Mitchell at first sight and pursued her passionately. He did not care even though she had been to prison.

They were supposed to get married a month later, but Amber Mitchell was sent to a mental hospital. George Gregory was indifferent to that and even married Amber Mitchell's stepsister,

Louise Mitchell, three months later.

"It looks like there might be another storm in Deer City," Philip Barlow said quietly.

Nothing hurt more than 'love', so he would not get hurt if he did not fall in love with anyone!

Chapter 2387

"No, you can't... Ah!" With a scream, Kyla gasped and suddenly opened her eyes only to be met with darkness.

She was confused between dream and reality for a while until she heard Martin Weiss's voice in her ear. "What's wrong? Did you have a nightmare?"

Then the lights in the room lit up, and Kyla saw Martin Weiss's face with a touch of eagerness and concern as he approached her.

'Eagerness and concern. Is he... worried about me?'

"What's the matter? What seems to be the trouble?" His face grew more worried when he saw her in a daze. He even laid one hand on her forehead.

Kyla murmured, "I... just had a bad dream. I dreamed of Amber Mitchell... I dreamed that she was tortured and abused in the hospital..."

She suddenly grabbed his hand and said, "Martin Weiss, I beg you. Let me see Amber Mitchell again as soon as possible. I want to find out what's going on. What she's going through isn't treatment at all. It's abuse!"

Martin Weiss said, "I can take you to her as soon as possible and help you find out what's going on, but... it doesn't mean I'm willing to get involved in this. Don't forget. Our initial deal was just that probation for Jacqueline Bowman. I came here with you. We're going back if we can't handle Amber Mitchell's situation."

"But..."

"No buts. Kyla, you're not god. You can help with some things, but what about those you can't? Are you going to stay in Deer City forever? Besides, don't forget what matters the most to you right now! You might have to give birth in less than two months! I won't forgive you if you let anything happen to the baby!" Martin Weiss said.

Kyla's expression changed slightly. She opened her mouth as if to say something, but she ended up saying, "Got it."

What he was worried about was the baby in her belly!

Two days later, Martin Weiss let Kyla meet Amber Mitchell again, but the meeting this time was more private. He only secretly took Kyla to Amber Mitchell's ward, and for only 15 minutes.

"You can only take 15 minutes at most. If you took longer than that and got caught by the Mitchell family's spies, it'll probably be harder to see Amber Mitchell in the future. After all, Amber Mitchell's legal guardian now is Louise Mitchell," warned Martin Weiss.

Louise Mitchell could exercise her rights as a guardian to protect Amber Mitchell from outsiders. She could even transfer Amber Mitchell to another hospital or hide her in a place where they could not find her, which would only cause more trouble.

"Got it," answered Kyla.

'15 minutes? Only 15 minutes to get the answer I'm looking for?'

Kyla followed Martin Weiss into the ward, where she saw Amber Mitchell's thin body-almost skin and bones, curled up in a ball.

Kyla wanted to rush over but was stopped by Martin Weiss.

"If you have anything to say, stand here and say it. Don't get too close. It's not clear whether she's mentally ill," said Martin Weiss. After all, if Amber Mitchell was mentally ill and attacked, Kyla was in no condition to withstand any aggression.

Kyla could only stand one meter away from Amber Mitchell and said, "Amber Mitchell, it's me. I'm Kyla. If you're not crazy, would you look up at me? I've had a hard time finding you. I'm still waiting for you to tell me what happened and how you became mentally ill!"

Kyla kept talking and shouting. She described everything that had happened in prison just to awaken Amber Mitchell's memory and to remind Amber Mitchell of her.

She did not notice Martin Weiss's expression, and the look in his eyes had changed slightly when he heard what had happened in prison.

Time passed little by little.

Just when Kyla was about to be disappointed, Amber Mitchell slowly looked up at Kyla with those dim eyes.

"Amber Mitchell!" Kyla was delighted. "Do... do you recognize me? It's been years. I know... I know I'm a little different than I was then, but I brought an old photo with me. You... you can take a look at my photo. And Nelson. Do you remember Nelson? I showed you the photo before!"

Kyla said as she took out a photo of her holding Nelson, who was only three years old, from her pocket.

When she went to see Amber Mitchell after being released from prison, she showed her the photo because she did not bring Nelson with her, and Amber Mitchell said she wanted to see how old Nelson was and what he looked like.

In the photo, Nelson was smiling innocently-even though Kyla's eyes had a faint sadness.

Kyla still remembered Amber Mitchell looking at the photo of Nelson for a long time and muttering, "I wonder when I will be a mother. If I have a child, I'll dote on them so much too..."

Martin Weiss looked at the time. 15 minutes was almost up.

"Alright, time's up. We should go. Maybe... she really is mentally ill and can no longer communicate with you like a normal person,” Martin Weiss said to Kyla.

Kyla’s face was full of reluctance. Just leave?’

When Martin Weiss was about to take back the photo, Amber Mitchell’s mutilated right hand grasped it with a shudder as tears poured out of her eyes.

“Kyla...” Her lips parted, and her voice was unusually dry and hoarse as if she had not spoken for years, and one had to figure out what she was saying.

Kyla was startled. “Amber Mitchell... Do you... do you remember me? Could you tell me... what’s going on? Why were you sent to a mental hospital by your family? Are you really...”

Her voice suddenly stopped because Amber Mitchell’s lips moved as she struggled to utter, “Save... me.”

Kyla’s eyes widened instantly!

Kyla’s heart was heavy when she left the hospital. Amber Mitchell’s eyes were... sober when she said, “Save me.”

The originally dim eyes glimmered faintly because...she saw hope!

She was now Amber Mitchell’s hope.

Chapter 2388

“Martin Weiss, I... want to save Amber Mitchell!” Kyla said.

He asked in reply, “Just because she asked you to save her, you think she’s normal and not mentally ill?”

Kyla said, “Even if she’s mentally ill, she shouldn’t be abused. We saw with our own eyes what the nurses and her sister did to her! Her sister doesn’t deserve to be her guardian!”

“If you want to deprive her of guardianship, you must have evidence to show that her sister is abusing her. But if the guardianship is transferred, it’ll be transferred to her father or stepmother. Do you think that her father and stepmother are unaware of what she’s suffering in the mental hospital?” Martin Weiss said.

Kyla said, “There’s another way. Amber Mitchell is normal and isn’t mentally ill. We can evaluate her mental state to prove that she’s normal!” That way, Amber Mitchell did not need a guardian and she could get Amber Mitchell out of the mental hospital.

“She has been in the mental hospital for so many years. Even a regular person would become mentally ill after being locked up in a mental hospital and receiving so-called mental treatment for so many years. Do you think she’s still normal?” Martin Weiss said.

Kyla froze. Indeed, any regular person would have lost their mind after being tortured for years.

However... the look in Amber Mitchell’s eyes when she asked her to save her in the end... made her think that Amber Mitchell was sober!

"It isn't as simple as you think. If you want to reevaluate her mental state, it'll alarm the Mitchell family. If they refuse, we won't be able to do it unless we take her away and send her to another authoritative hospital. I can do that because I know some people in the hospital, including Director Wang. But if I'm going to end up putting the hospital in a difficult spot, do you think these connections will help?" Martin Weiss said.

Kyla was silent, understanding what he meant.

If Amber Mitchell's reevaluation proved that she was not mentally ill, the hospital would surely get into trouble for keeping Amber Mitchell in the hospital for so many years. It might even involve many people. The hospital would not want its patients to go elsewhere for a reevaluation either.

Kyla said after a while, "What if we forcibly take her away to be reevaluated?"

"If Amber Mitchell isn't mentally ill, we won't have a problem taking her away by force. But what if Amber Mitchell is mentally ill? The consequences might be more than a couple of apologies. You could even get detained or sentenced," said Martin Weiss.

Kyla quivered. 'If that's true, then Amber Mitchell...'

"What if I take responsibility for it? Just say I'm the one who gave the instructions for everything? Can we just take Amber Mitchell out for an evaluation first?" Kyla said. Nevertheless, she was willing to gamble that Amber Mitchell was not mentally ill.

Maybe it was the only way to save Amber Mitchell.

"Take responsibility?" Martin Weiss sneered. "Do you want to be detained while pregnant? Or do you want the news to talk about how the wife of the chairman of Weiss Group knew she was breaking the law, yet she forcibly took a mental patient out of the hospital? Don't forget. We're still married. Whatever you say or do not only represents yourself but also the Weiss family!"

Kyla bit her lower lip so tightly that she could not speak.

The next day, Grace gave Kyla some of the information she found about Amber Mitchell. It was mainly about Amber Mitchell and George Gregory's relationship. George Gregory fell in love with Amber Mitchell at first sight and courted her for a year. Then, they started dating, but George Gregory decided to break off the engagement on the eve of the wedding. One of George Gregory's best friends and Amber Mitchell got into an accident. They were in the same car. One could say that the man died protecting Amber Mitchell.

After that, Amber Mitchell became mentally ill and was sent to a mental hospital. Later, George Gregory married Louise Mitchell.

Looking at the information in her hands, Kyla froze. "Why did the name Herman Moss never appear when we were investigating previously?"

After all, it seemed that Herman Moss had a complicated relationship with Amber Mitchell and George Gregory.

"The Moss, Gregory, and Mitchell families are affluent families in Deer City. It'd be a scandal to let the public know that the eldest heir of the Moss family die to protect his best friend's fiancée. Besides, there was a rumor before the accident that something was going on between Amber Mitchell and Herman Moss, so the three families worked together to suppress the news. This information is only stated in police files. No one else knows that the person in the car with Herman Moss at the time was Amber Mitchell!" Grace explained.

"Does Amber Mitchell's hospitalization have anything to do with the Moss family?" Kyla asked as things seemed more complicated than she had imagined.

"I don't know. I wonder what role George Gregory played in all this." Grace pondered and said, "You can say that Amber Mitchell's existence became a stain on the Mitchell, Gregory, and Moss families after the accident. Making Amber Mitchell 'disappear' from the public eye became the best choice."

Kyla thought that she was... getting closer and closer to the mystery that shrouded this whole incident.

"Amber Mitchell must have loved George Gregory," Kyla said abruptly.

"You know about it?" Grace asked in confusion.

Kyla shook her head. "I didn't know his name before this, but I knew she had someone she loved. She said she would marry him, be a mother, and have his children. According to the timeline, that person is probably George Gregory."

If George Gregory was involved in sending Amber Mitchell to a mental hospital, how big would the blow be to Amber Mitchell?

She was sent to a mental hospital by the person she loved the most!

It was just like how she was sent to prison by Martin Weiss.

Kyla said, "I... want to meet George Gregory, the man Amber Mitchell was in love with, and find out if George Gregory thinks Amber Mitchell is really mentally ill."

"Why don't I go with you?" Grace asked.

Before Kyla could speak, Martin Weiss had returned to the room. He walked over and said, "I'll go with her. I'll say it's for business. At least the reason is more legitimate that way."

Grace nodded and said, "Yes, it's also less likely to raise suspicions."

Chapter 2390

Two days later, Martin Weiss took Kyla to Gregory Corporation's office building.

When Kyla saw George Gregory, bitterness filled her heart. She recalled Amber Mitchell smiling and saying, "If we have the chance to meet again, I'll introduce you to the person I love. He kept saying that he fell in love with me at first sight. He courted me for a long time. He said I was too difficult to court. What he doesn't know is that I fell for him the moment I set my eyes on him!"

"Then why did you let him court you for so long?" she had asked in confusion at the time.

Amber Mitchell replied, "Maybe I was afraid of getting hurt. I told you my parents don't have a happy marriage. My father married my mother just for the influence of my mother's family. I don't want to repeat that mistake."

"You must trust him since you've started dating him."

"Yeah, he's not like my father. I believe he really loves me."

She could still hear Amber Mitchell's voice, but the man she trusted married another woman right after she was admitted to the hospital.

Now, Kyla met the man Amber Mitchell loved under such circumstances.

"Mr. Gregory, this is my wife, Kyla." Martin Weiss said as he introduced them.

"Hello, Mrs. Weiss." George Gregory reached out his hand to Kyla to give her a polite handshake.

However, Kyla only stared blankly at him without extending her hand. George Gregory frowned slightly and said with a half-smile, "What's the matter, Mrs. Weiss? Is it because I look strange?"

"Kyla," Martin Weiss called out to remind Kyla.

Kyla then came to her senses, reached out her hand, and shook George Gregory's hand before saying, "Sorry, I was a little distracted just now. Mr. Gregory, you're not strange; you're good-looking. I'm sure you've swept many women off their feet."

"You're too kind, Mrs. Weiss." George Gregory smiled and asked them to sit down.

Martin Weiss and George Gregory talked about business. Kyla was not interested in their conversation. Her eyes were focused on George Gregory as if she wanted to get information from his expressions, manners, and words. She wanted to know what kind of man Amber Mitchell loved.

Kyla was so focused that George Gregory found it strange. The senior executives beside George Gregory looked at Martin Weiss, Kyla, and George Gregory in confusion too. They each had their own speculation.

When they finished talking about business and George Gregory was about to ask them to join him for dinner, Martin Weiss beat him to it by saying, "Mr. Gregory, I have something I'd like to discuss with you alone."

Hearing this, George Gregory asked the senior executives who attended the meeting to leave. "I wonder what you need, Chairman Weiss?"

“To be precise, my wife has something that she would like to ask you. She has a friend she has been looking for for many years. She recently found out that her friend was once your fiancée, Mr. Gregory,” said Martin Weiss.

However, George Gregory’s expression instantly changed once Martin Weiss finished speaking.

Speaking of fiancée... there could only be one person-Amber Mitchell!

Even his wife, Louise Mitchell, had never been his fiancée as they decided to get married right away. They skipped getting engaged.

George Gregory instantly understood why Mrs. Weiss had been looking at him so intently.
