

Ex Convict 2511

Chapter 2511

“Despicable. If you need women, I can ask around for some in the nightclub. There are women interested in you,” she said through clenched teeth.

Ignoring her anger, he only said lazily, “Tell me. How would Herman Moss feel if he knew that I had my way with you in this car?”

Amber Mitchell’s expression changed. “I’ll sue you if you do that! Deer City will learn all about your scandal by then! I think Herman would only feel sorry for me because a monster had its way with me.”

The air in the car tensed suddenly. “Then why don’t I try and see if you’ll sue me!”

He said as he proceeded to undress her.

She looked at him coldly but did not resist.

“What’s the matter? Aren’t you going to resist me? Is your so-called love for Herman Moss just all talk?” he asked.

Amber Mitchell only said calmly, “I can’t fight you if you really want to have your way with me. If I had done everything I wanted to do, I would fight you to the death. But I still have things to do.”

Chapter 2511

Therefore, she could not let anything happen to her. She could not get caught by the police.

“Is putting Louise Mitchell, your father, and your stepmother in jail what you want to do? Are you even willing to give up all resistance for this purpose?” He mocked.

However, she did not answer and just slowly closed her eyes.

What she wanted more than putting all three members of the Mitchell family in jail was to find out who killed Herman. She wanted to give Herman the truth!

She was in the car with her eyes closed, and underneath her clothes lay a battered body. There was barely a patch of skin intact and countless old wounds.

George Gregory froze. He knew she had been hurt, but he never imagined that she was hurt so badly.

These injuries stung his eyes. The moment he caught sight of them, his blood seemed to freeze. His heart constricted violently as waves of pain surged within him!

“F*ck off! F*ck off!” George Gregory suddenly shouted.

Amber Mitchell opened her eyes, hurriedly pulling her clothes together. She rushed out of the car in a fluster. She kept running ahead as if she wanted to escape from the car and the person.

George Gregory leaned heavily on the back of the chair as he stared blankly at his hands. Then, he clenched his fist and slammed it on the seat.

Chapter 2511

'Why... Why am I so filled with anger but with nowhere to vent? It's so uncomfortable!

'And... Why is my heart in so much pain?

'It hurt when I saw... her wounds!'

"What? The doctors changed their statements?" Amber Mitchell asked as she looked at the lawyer in disbelief.

"Yes." The lawyer was a little frustrated too. "Now, the evidence can only prove that your father and stepmother were involved, but Louise Mitchell had no idea about it. And because of the changes in the statements, your father and stepmother will probably receive a lighter sentence as well. Louise Mitchell... might get acquitted."

Amber Mitchell clenched her hands into fists, and the veins on the back of her hands almost burst.

'Acquitted? No way!

'How can that vicious woman, Louise Mitchell, go free?

'Louise Mitchell not only sent me to the mental hospital, but she was also the one who tortured me...'
Amber Mitchell felt a pang at the thought of the evidence she had just discovered.

Chapter 2512

"Why would those doctors suddenly change their statements? Have they been in contact with anyone else?" Amber Mitchell asked urgently.

"There was a food poisoning incident at the detention center, so they were all taken to the hospital for tests," the lawyer said.

Amber Mitchell's heart sank. They might have met someone there and negotiated the terms, which was why they suddenly changed their statements.

Could George Gregory have done that?

George Gregory once said he would protect Louise Mitchell, so was this George Gregory's plan?

"Is there no way to convict Louise Mitchell based on the evidence we currently have?" Amber Mitchell asked.

The lawyer said, "It's difficult unless there's new evidence. I'm sorry. Grace asked me to help you before she left Deer City, but I haven't been very helpful."

Amber Mitchell said, "No, you've helped me so much already. Thank you, Lawyer Gan. I'll try to work things around. Perhaps there's a way to turn things around."

With that said, she got up and walked out of the law firm. She headed for Moss Enterprise.

Chapter 2512

Daley Moss looked at Amber Mitchell in his office. "You came to see me about my brother's car accident, right? Have you thought of anything else?"

"Several doctors involved have changed their statements in the lawsuit against the Mitchell family. The lawyer just told me that Louise Mitchell will likely be acquitted once she goes to court," said Amber Mitchell.

Daley Moss said unconcernedly, "I've never cared about her guilt or innocence. If you're looking to me to help you get her convicted, you've come to the wrong guy. I'm the last person in Deer City who'll help you!"

"It's not for me but Herman!" Amber Mitchell corrected.

Daley Moss's eyes narrowed. "What do you mean?"

"The person behind the accident is either Louise Mitchell or connected to Louise Mitchell. "If Louise Mitchell is acquitted and released, it'll be difficult to bring her to justice if she goes abroad." Amber Mitchell took a deep breath and took out a photo.

The photo showed a woman dressed as a waitress. She looked to be about 27 or 28 years old.

"This is a photo of a woman named Sandra Lucas from the information you gave me before. One month after the accident, I happened to see this woman looking for Louise Mitchell at the entrance of the Mitchell family's house. Come to think of it, her gaze was evasive, and she lowered her head when she saw me. But I didn't think much of it at the time."

Chapter 2512

After a pause, Amber Mitchell continued saying, "I investigated it the other day. Sandra Lucas resigned three days after the car accident. She told her colleagues that she had made a lot of money buying stocks and was going to enjoy her fortune. However, she had never opened any accounts in the stock market.

“On the third day after the accident, Louise Mitchell’s bank account had one million dollars unaccounted for. One month later, another sum of five million dollars was unaccounted for. Sandra Lucas left Deer City and became a missing person. They found her corpse in a town near Deer City half a year later.”

“So, you suspect that Sandra Lucas has something to do with this?” Daley Moss asked rhetorically.

Amber Mitchell said, “Don’t you think it’s suspicious? I’ve checked, and Sandra Lucas only had one younger brother, but he moved elsewhere soon after Sandra Lucas’s body was found. I hope the Moss family can help me find Sandra Lucas’s brother’s whereabouts. Her brother may be the only breakthrough. I don’t think you’d want Herman’s death to go unexplained and the real killer to go unpunished, Mr. Moss.”

Daley Moss stared at Amber Mitchell with her thin lips pressed together tightly. “I hope you’re telling the truth. If you’re taking advantage of the Moss family for your own revenge, there’s no way I’ll let you off the hook.”

Chapter 2512

4/4 “You can kill me at any time if I’m lying to you. I won’t have any objections,” Amber Mitchell said bluntly.

Chapter 2513

A large reason why she was staying alive was to help Herman catch his killer rather than getting justice for herself.

Grace’s examination report was officially released one week later. The hospital also did a consultation on Grace’s current condition. The conclusion was that the pregnancy could go on for now, but they had to monitor it closely, especially the baby’s nutrition absorption and the placenta’s location.

If the placenta was not in place, immediate termination might be required.

The results were much better than Grace had expected.

Grace said, “Jay, don’t say anything about my pregnancy until the placenta grows.” If the placenta was not in a good position, the pregnancy would have to be terminated as soon as possible. Otherwise, if the placenta ruptured, the baby would die, and so would she.

However... she wanted to keep the baby while she had the chance.

“Okay,” said Jason as he gently took her hand. “Grace, I’m sorry for putting you through this all over again.”

Grace shook her head. “It’s nothing. I told you I wanted to give you a home and many children so that our family can be lively and happy.”

She only wished for God to have mercy on her and let her deliver the baby safely.

"You've given me everything you promised me," he muttered, pulling her hand to his cheek and gently rubbing it against her palm.

The Reed family was no longer as cold and cheerless as before. There was laughter every day.

Their family would only grow bigger and bigger, becoming happier as well.

What the old master had predicted was wrong after all!

The reason why humans were humans was that they had weaknesses. One would only have something one cared for and have the chance to experience joys and sorrows if one had weaknesses!

One would only be a machine if one had no weaknesses.

"Grace, you make me happy. All I'm asking of you is to not take my happiness away, okay?" He murmured, pleading and hoping.

"I won't do that. We have to accompany each other for a lifetime!" Grace said as she hugged Jason back.

Since Kyla was still in the hospital's inpatient department, the two returned to the inpatient department.

Kyla looked much better than before. She could get out of bed and walk now. She could have a normal diet too.

She could not feed the newborn because of her medication, but she had gone to the neonatal care unit to see her baby through the transparent glass walls.

The tiny baby looked much weaker than regular babies, especially with tubes attached to her body. The sight of it made her heart ache.

Chapter 2514

However, all she could do now was watch her baby through a glass wall.

She only hoped the baby was strong enough to survive this.

"By the way, Kyla, have you chosen a name for the baby yet?" Grace asked as she sat beside her hospital bed.

"Yes, I have." Kyla finally smiled at the mention of her daughter's name. "Her name is Trista."

"Ye?" Grace was surprised.

"Yeah, her surname is Ye," Kyla answered affirmatively. She wanted the child... to have the surname Ye.

“Which ‘Si’?” Grace asked again.

“The ‘Si’ that means thoughtful,” replied Kyla.

Grace understood that the ‘Si’ probably meant longing. Kyla had never shown any emotions toward Martin Weiss’s departure, but... she probably missed Martin Weiss.

She used to say her love for Martin Weiss was not enough.

However, the depths of one’s affection could change.

How could Kyla’s feelings for Martin Weiss not be deep enough? Kyla had no idea that the liver in her body was donated to her by Martin Weiss.

The two of them were already inextricably intertwined.

After leaving Kyla’s ward, Grace asked Jason, “How’s Martin Weiss?”

Jason said, “He’s still hospitalized, but he’ll probably have to stay in the hospital for a while. Besides, he needs to recuperate for a long time afterward. The liver donation almost killed him. I later learned that there were some risks during the operation. He was lucky to have survived it. Otherwise, he probably wouldn’t have made it off the operating table.”

“I hope when Kyla recovers and Trista is removed from the intensive care unit, Kyla will move on from the hurdle in her heart and get back together with Martin Weiss again,” said Grace. Martin Weiss had given so much to Kyla.

Even though Martin Weiss had made mistakes, he had paid the price for them over the years.

“They’ll be together if Kyla has the intention to do so,” said

Jason.

“But will Martin Weiss... be willing? After all, his affection for Kyla isn’t what it once was,” Grace said with concern.

“He even risked his life to save Kyla. How could he be unwilling? Forgetting feelings through hypnosis only makes you think so, but how can you forget something so unforgettable? In the end, it all depends on whether Kyla is willing to take that step.” Jason pointed out.

"I hope Kyla and Martin Weiss will have a happy ending and that Amber Mitchell will find new evidence as soon as possible so that Louise Mitchell won't be able to escape justice," said Grace.

"What's the matter? Is there another twist in Amber Mitchell's case?" Jason asked.

"The doctors who were involved in the case changed their statements. Their testimonies are only about Amber Mitchell's father and stepmother. They excluded Louise Mitchell. The Gregory family must have done something to take the blame off Louise Mitchell," Grace analyzed the situation and spoke.

Chapter 2515

"That's troublesome. If we can't get Louise Mitchell this time, I'm afraid it'll be difficult to convict her in the future," said Jason. The Gregory family was no pushover and had great influence in Deer City.

"Amber Mitchell is now collecting additional evidence, and the Moss family has agreed to help her."

"the Moss family is willing to help her?" Jason was surprised. After all, Daley Moss hated Amber Mitchell to the core.

"It's because the car accident that led to Herman Moss's death was probably planned by Louise Mitchell! Besides, Louise Mitchell is the biggest beneficiary of the accident," said Grace.

Jason raised his eyebrows. "It seems that the Gregory family doesn't know Louise Mitchell is the mastermind of the accident. If they knew, George Gregory wouldn't have married Louise Mitchell."

"They probably don't know yet, but Amber Mitchell is keeping the news to herself for now. She's afraid of acting rashly and alerting the enemy, which will be bad if evidence stacks up against her."

Jason sighed. "If the truth comes out, George Gregory will be in for a shock."

Chapter 2515

"He brought it upon himself. He keeps saying he loves Amber Mitchell, but he never once trusted her. When Amber Mitchell was sent to the mental hospital, he married Louise Mitchell without a word. Perhaps he only cared about money. He would marry anyone who had shares in Mitchell Group and was helpful to his career."

Grace had no sympathy for George Gregory.

Jason looked down. In his opinion, it was not that George Gregory did not love Amber Mitchell. It was just that his love was clouded by jealousy. When Kyla played the video of Amber Mitchell in the hospital in front of the reporters, the shock and pain in George Gregory's eyes did not fool anyone.

When the truth was out and George Gregory understood that Amber Mitchell had never done him wrong, it would be when George Gregory fell into the abyss!

the Moss family was efficient. Soon, they found the whereabouts of Stan Lucas, Sandra Lucas's younger brother.

Stan Lucas was in Deer City. He owned several houses and a bakery. He also had a wife and children. One could say that he was living a good life.

However, as soon as Amber Mitchell looked into the timeline of when Stan Lucas gained his fortune, she found that two of the houses he owned and his current store were purchased in the early years.

Chapter 2515

Given the Huang family's financial resources at the time, there was no way they had so much money to buy two houses and one store. The total amount added up to over five million dollars, which matched the six million dollars unaccounted for in Louise Mitchell's account.

Amber Mitchell came to the hospital. According to the information the Moss family had given her, Stan Lucas needed to be treated in the hospital for about a week because of sudden deafness.

She wanted to talk to Stan Lucas first to sound him out.

However, when she came to the inpatient department, she heard a nurse hurrying past her while saying, "Is it true that there's not enough type-B blood in the hospital's blood bank? What about the child?"

"Who knows? Two accident patients were brought in for major surgery. Both happen to have type-B blood, so the hospital gave them the blood first."

"The quickest blood transfer from the blood bank will take more than an hour."

"Dr. Zhang has already told the doctors and nurses in the hospital to see who has type-B blood so they can donate it to the child first. The child needs a transfusion. He'll need a lot of blood!"

Amber Mitchell suddenly ran up to the two nurses who were about to get on the elevator and said. "Is there a child when needs type-E blood as soon as possible? I'm type-B, and I'm willing to donate my blood."

Chapter 2515

Chapter 2516

The two nurses froze. Moments later, they came back to their senses. "You have type-B blood?"

"Yes," replied Amber Mitchell.

"Then come with us, but you need a blood test before you can donate," the nurse said.

Amber Mitchell nodded her head, showing that she understood.

When Amber Mitchell followed one of the nurses to the blood-drawing room, there were already some doctors and nurses inside. Some of them held cotton balls to one part of their arms. It seemed that they had just gotten their blood drawn.

Amber Mitchell rolled up the sleeve of her left hand, exposing her left arm while she kept the glove on her right hand.

Due to the missing finger on her right hand, she had formed the habit of wearing gloves.

A tube of blood was drawn from her arm. The results would be out in 15 minutes.

The child needed a transfusion every time his illness recurred, so he had to use a lot of blood. Three medical workers there also donated their blood, and they could not help but applaud Amber Mitchell's decision to donate blood when she was only passing by and heard that a child needed blood badly.

"There are fewer and fewer people like you now.

"If more people are willing to donate their blood on a whim, blood banks won't run out of blood every year."

Amber Mitchell smiled faintly. "I think it's good to help people in need."

If her blood could save a child, she would feel that the life that Herman had saved could be of some use.

The test results soon came back, and the three nurses arranged for Amber Mitchell to donate blood.

Amber Mitchell slowly closed her eyes as she saw the red blood flow through the transparent tube into the plastic bag. She only hoped that the child would be okay.

She could imagine how serious the child's illness was if they needed a transfusion at such a young age.

It was all she could do.

"Miss Mitchell, tell us if you feel any discomfort. Because it's an emergency, we'll draw more blood today, but we'll keep it within the normal range. However, you might feel tired in the next few days after having your blood drawn," the nurse said.

"Okay, got it," replied Amber Mitchell.

Chapter 2516

Blood flowed from her body, and she seemed to slowly drift into a trance.

She seemed to have gone back to the time of that car accident. Herman was protecting her with his body, and the warm blood dripped down Herman's forehead onto her face and body.

It was a feeling she would never forget.

Sometime later, she was done getting her blood drawn.

The nurse gave her a red envelope. "This is a red envelope from the patient's father. He's grateful for your help today."

"No thanks. I didn't donate my blood for compensation." Amber Mitchell declined.

"We know you didn't donate your blood for compensation, but the patient's family is just trying to show their gratitude. Besides, you need to buy some supplements to replenish your body after donating your blood. You'll get a basic subsidy for regular blood donation too," the nurse said as they put the red envelope in Amber Mitchell's hand. "Just take it."

"Why don't you help me return it to the patient's family?" Amber Mitchell asked.

"Well..." The nurse seemed stumped. "The patient's family never take back what they've given away."

Chapter 2517

"Why don't you tell me where the patient's family is and I'll return it to them myself?" said Amber Mitchell.

"I'm afraid it's inconvenient for us to disclose their information. without their consent," the nurse said.

Amber Mitchell went silent.

Just then, another nurse put the bag away. Amber Mitchell vaguely heard a voice from the next room.

"Hurry and take it to the 12th floor."

'12th floor? Is the kid who needs blood on the 12th floor?' Amber Mitchell wondered to herself.

She could not leave immediately because she had just finished donating her blood. She had to rest for 30 minutes first. She could only leave if there were no adverse symptoms.

After 30 minutes passed, Amber Mitchell took the red envelope and left the blood-drawing room.

There was only one 12-story building dedicated to the inpatient department in this hospital.

Therefore, Amber Mitchell went to the inpatient department and took the elevator. She intended to check with the nurses' station on the 12th floor to see if she could find the patient's family and return them the red envelope.

However, after she got to the 12th floor, she ran into George Gregory coming out of the doctor's office when she was walking through the corridor.

He was accompanied by several doctors, who seemed to be talking to him while walking.

"Mr. Gregory, the transfusion is only to handle the emergency. It's safer to transfuse the child with his mother's blood. Blood from a biological mother is the most acceptable to a child," the doctor said.

George Gregory's expression was cold. Louise Mitchell's release would take some time.

At the soonest, it would take a month. If it took a little longer...

In that case, Simon would probably have to suffer many more times.

Although he had little affection for Louise Mitchell and would not pity her tragic end, he did have affection for his only son.

For some reason, he felt something every time it came to his son.

Therefore, he would save Simon at any cost. Even if Louise Mitchell were guilty, he would get her acquitted!

As if suddenly sensing something, George Gregory stopped abruptly and looked in Amber Mitchell's direction.

Chapter 2517

He froze upon seeing Amber Mitchell's figure.

He did not expect to meet her in such a place!

However, he could not help squinting when his eyes fell on the red envelope she was holding.

The red envelope... If his eyes did not deceive him, he had sent someone to give it to the four people who donated blood to Simon as an expression of gratitude.

However, why was Amber Mitchell holding the red envelope in her hand? Could it be that...

George Gregory walked over to Amber Mitchell, stared at her, and asked, "What's the matter? Did you donate blood today?"

Amber Mitchell froze before staring at the red envelope, then George Gregory. After a moment, she remembered what she had heard before. "Is the child who needs a full-body blood transfusion today yours?"

"Yes, do you regret it? You probably wouldn't have volunteered to donate blood if you had known it was my child," said George Gregory.

He had heard from his doctor that a non-hospital worker happened to hear that a child needed type-B blood and offered to donate without even knowing the child's identity.

Chapter 2518

He had been wondering what kind of person they were. Who knew it was her?

Even if she did not donate, he could have found plenty of other donors... Why her?

"I have no regrets. I want to save the child. So what if he's your and Louise Mitchell's child? Grown-ups' affairs are between grown-ups. The child has nothing to do with us," Amber Mitchell said indifferently.

'Nothing to do?' George Gregory suddenly felt a sense of irony.

She had no idea he married Louise Mitchell because of the child.

"Since you gave me this red envelope, I'll return it to you. I donated blood to those in need. I don't need a red envelope." With that said, Amber Mitchell handed him the red envelope.

However, George Gregory did not take it. He looked at Amber Mitchell's face. "I won't take back what I've given away. If you don't want to accept the red envelope, you can throw it away!"

Amber Mitchell pressed her red lips together, turned around without saying a word, and took the red envelope to the nurses' station, saying, "Mr. George Gregory is donating this sum to the hospital. Take it." With that said, she put the red envelope on the counter of the nurses' station and left.

George Gregory watched Amber Mitchell coldly as she walked past him on her way to the elevator. Suddenly, he grabbed her arm and said coldly, "I'm going to ask you one last time. Do you really want to make an enemy out of me? Once you become my opponent, you'll have nothing!"

Amber Mitchell jerked back her arm with a faint smile. "I already have nothing, so I have nothing to lose. In that case, what do I have to be afraid of?"

With that, Amber Mitchell walked into the elevator.

The elevator door closed slowly, leaving George Gregory staring at the closed elevator door.

It was quite a while before he returned to the ward.

A six or seven-year-old boy lay in the hospital bed. He was pale and wearing an oxygen mask. There was a needle in his arm to transfuse the blood.

The last bag of blood was Amber Mitchell's.

George Gregory stared blankly at the blood bag hanging in front of him, not expecting Amber Mitchell's blood to be transfused into his son's body one day.

However, Louise Mitchell's blood was the one that could save

Simon!

Otherwise, Simon's condition would only become more critical if it went on like this.

Chapter 2518

George Gregory quietly sat beside the hospital bed, watching his son struggle for his life. His eyes were filled with a rare look of apology.

Amber Mitchell originally wanted to meet Stan Lucas, Sandra Lucas's younger brother. He might be the key to determining Louise Mitchell's role in the accident.

However, she hesitated again when she came to his ward and saw the sweet family there.

If the old case was brought up, Stan Lucas's fortune would be illicit and it would be confiscated.

Would Stan Lucas be willing to let that happen?

Chapter 2519

He did not seek justice for Sandra Lucas's death over the years. Instead, he used the illicit fortune to improve his life. How much family affection would he have now?

Would he give up part of his fortune or even get into trouble with the authorities for a sister who had been dead for years?

Amber Mitchell's heart sank instantly.

Just then, she noticed from the glass panel in front of her that someone was staring at her in a corner not far behind her. She seemed to have seen this person... around George Gregory before!

With that in mind, Amber Mitchell suddenly shuddered and turned around, only to find ordinary patients, their families, and medical staff behind her. She did not see the person she had just seen.

'I'm... being followed!

'Did George Gregory send someone to follow me?' Amber Mitchell's heart sank. If she had entered Stan Lucas's ward and talked to Stan Lucas just now, George Gregory would have known that she came to the hospital for Stan Lucas!

Perhaps George Gregory would bribe Stan Lucas like how he bribed those doctors.

Chapter 2519

Therefore, Amber Mitchell pretended to be looking for a ward. She continued walking and lingered in front of another ward. Finally, she went to the nurses' station, made up a name, and asked if the patient had checked in. After receiving a negative answer, she left the hospital.

George Gregory's eyes showed a touch of confusion after hearing his subordinates report Amber Mitchell's whereabouts. 'Did she come to the hospital to see a patient? But the patient she's looking for isn't here.

'Could it be a coincidence? Or is there something else I don't know?'

Amber Mitchell called Brian after leaving the hospital. Brian had given her his contact information, stating he would help her whenever she needed it.

She wanted to ask the Moss family for help with the matter regarding Stan Lucas, but George Gregory probably had his eyes on the Moss family too if he had even sent someone to follow her. Brian was not deeply involved with them and was an outsider. George Gregory's men would probably not keep an eye on him.

After all, George Gregory would not be able to find out much about Brian for a while.

When the call got through, Amber Mitchell said what she wanted. "Mr. Hart, I can email you the details. I wonder if you can help me? Stan Lucas is probably the only solid witness who can confirm that Louise Mitchell's guilty."

Chapter 2519

Brian readily replied, "Okay, I'll help you. I'll get you the results as soon as possible."

"Thank you," Amber Mitchell said gratefully. Of course, she knew very well that Brian was willing to help her only because of Grace.

Sometimes, she felt like she was looking at Herman when seeing Brian. Although it was a hopeless relationship, he still tried his best to make the person he liked happy.

Such relationships were precious, but she did not understand them at that time. Now that she had, Herman was already gone.

'What about Brian? Is his love life going to be like this for the rest of his life? Or will he one day meet a woman who's worthy of his affections and who'll return his affections?

'It would be such a pity if that man's love life is going to be like this for the rest of his life.'

Louise Mitchell was staring darkly at her hand in the detention center. She still could not move her right middle finger because George Gregory had broken it.

Louise Mitchell crooned, "George, don't let me down! I'm waiting for you to get me out of here!"

Since Simon was seriously ill, it would be best if he died! She could find another way to get another child anyway, and that child would not have traces of Amber Mitchell in them!

Chapter 2520

As the court session approached, Deer City's media outlets also reported the relevant content. The news went viral, becoming the talk of tMason Swanson only.

However, Amber Mitchell's history with Herman Moss and George Gregory was brought up again. There were all sorts of comments online, including those who felt sorry for Herman Moss and those who thought George Gregory was unlucky for having his former girlfriend and his current wife in a lawsuit. To make matters worse, both were half-sisters. How complicated! Others sympathized with Amber Mitchell and hoped she could get justice for herself.

Of course, some netizens said Amber Mitchell deserved it. She was George Gregory's fiancée but seduced Herman Moss and was sent to the mental hospital. They found it exhilarating.

Amber Mitchell brushed off such comments.

After experiencing so many things, she no longer cared about the opinions of people who did not matter.

All she could think about was making Louise Mitchell pay- not only for sending her to a mental hospital but also for killing Herman!

'Herman... Herman was so nice, but Louise Mitchell killed him!'

"Herman, I'll get justice for you!" Amber Mitchell murmured.

On the day of the trial, reporters swarmed outside the courthouse. Amber Mitchell and the Moss family were all present. When Amber Mitchell got out of the car, the reporters swarmed at her, almost surrounding her and leaving her immobilized.

Fortunately, security guards at the courthouse helped block the reporters away, and she was able to enter.

In the courtroom, Amber Mitchell saw George Gregory in the gallery.

George Gregory was dressed in a black suit today, and his handsome face was expressionless. When his eyes saw her, he only gave her a faint glance before he shifted his gaze away.

Amber Mitchell recalled what he had said that day in the hospital.

She had made an enemy out of him, and she would accept whatever the consequences were!

When the trial started, Amber Mitchell saw her father, stepmother, and... Louise Mitchell at the plaintiff's table.

However, Louise Mitchell looked well compared to her father and stepmother. She seemed confident.

Amber Mitchell stared at Louise Mitchell. Louise Mitchell must believe that George Gregory would save her this time!

Chapter 2520

However, she would not give them what they wanted!

The trial began. Lawyer Gan represented Amber Mitchell, and famous lawyers in Deer City helped the three members of the Mitchell family.

Three lawyers represented each of the three defendants.

In the courtroom, the witnesses' testimonies steered clear of Louise Mitchell and established that Louise Mitchell was innocent. In the end, all the blame was directed at Mr. Mitchell and her stepmother.

The two had been talked into protecting their youngest daughter, so they 'voluntarily' confessed in court.

Of course, their confession only stated that they 'mistakenly believed' that their daughter was mentally ill and they wanted her to be treated in the hospital. They only transferred the money to the doctors and the nurses who took care of Amber Mitchell so that they could provide their daughter with better treatment.
