

Ex Convict 2591

Chapter 2591

Even though his daddy had hurt his mommy deeply and he previously hated him, his heart was now filled with gratitude.

If his daddy had not given his mommy his liver, he would have lost her.

Kyla smiled. "Yeah, he's... a brave man."

She knew Martin Weiss had already prepared himself to die for her and the baby the moment she became pregnant and decided to give birth to their daughter.

Even though he went through hypnosis to forget his feelings for her afterward, he still made the same choice.

Two days after making arrangements, Kyla took the high-speed train to L City with her suitcase in hand.

She did not have Martin Weiss's new phone number and could only call the lawyer. "I want to see Martin Weiss and talk to him personally about the divorce."

"I'm afraid that's going to be an issue. Mr. Weiss is too busy with work to come to Emerald City," the lawyer said, feeling troubled.

Chapter 2591

"That's fine. I'll go to L City. I'm already on the high-speed train to L City," said Kyla.

2/3

"What?" The lawyer was shocked. "You're on the high-speed train to L City?"

"Yes, I should be in L City in three hours if nothing goes wrong. If possible, I hope you can give me his contact information so that I can contact him myself," said Kyla.

"Well... I'm afraid that's inconvenient. How about this? I'll ask

Mr. Weiss if he's willing to talk to you," the lawyer said and hurriedly ended the phone call.

It was a long time before Kyla received another call from the lawyer. However, the lawyer said that Martin Weiss did not want to see her. He only intended to sign the divorce papers with her through the lawyer. Even if she were in L City, he would not see her.

“Miss Corbyn, why don’t you return to Emerald City? Mr. Weiss said you’re free to suggest any terms for the divorce papers,” the lawyer said.

“Alright, got it.” Kyla ended the call with a bitter smile. Sure enough, he was unwilling to see her.

‘Does he think donating his liver to me a second time means a clean break for his feelings for me?’

Chapter 2591

‘But I don’t want that. I don’t want things to end like this between us!

3/3

Kyla dialed Grace’s phone number. “Grace, do you know the exact address of Martin’s mansion where he’s recuperating?”

Grace gave Kyla an address along with detailed coordinates.

After that, Grace asked, “Are you going to L City?”

“I’m already on my way. I’ll be there in three hours,” she said.

“Well... I wish you a pleasant journey. If you run into any trouble after getting there, call me,” said Grace.

“Alright, thanks.” Kyla did not refuse.

She would remember her best friend’s kindness. She might never be able to repay her fully, but she would remember it.

After ending the call, Kyla took out the medicine she carried with her. There were three types of pills, making up a total of eight pills. She swallowed them with water one by one.

Chapter 2592

1/4

She should have suspected it sooner. The pills were the same as those given to her after her liver transplant. However, she had carelessly assumed that the doctors gave her the pills because her liver was not doing well after her pregnancy.

How... careless of her!

Kyla smiled bitterly as she touched her right rib right away. It was where her liver would be, and her liver was from Martin

Weiss.

‘How much liver does Martin Weiss have left after donating to me twice?’ She could hardly imagine it.

‘What should I say when I first see Martin Weiss?

‘Thank you, or sorry? Or maybe... I should tell him I love him?’

If she had known it was going to end up like this, maybe she would not have broken up with him like that in the hospital.

She wanted him to live, but she had caused him trouble instead!

When the high-speed train arrived in L City, Kyla got off and took a taxi to the address Grace gave her. The security guards unsurprisingly stopped her at the mansion’s entrance.

Chapter 2592

2/4

“I want to meet Martin Weiss. I’m his wife,” Kyla said to the security guard at the entrance.

However, the security guard looked at Kyla with a confused expression. “Is Mr. Weiss married? I’ve never heard of it. How many wives would he have if everyone just claims to be Mrs. Weiss?”

Well, it was true that her marriage to Martin Weiss was not widely reported. Even if there was some gossip news, that was only in Emerald City. Not many people in L City know about it.

Kyla took out her marriage license with Martin Weiss. “There should be no other woman with this license!”

She did not expect the security guard’s next words. “Wow, this fake license looks so real! It’s the first time I’ve met someone who came here with a false license to see Mr. Weiss.”

Kyla was speechless. “I really am Martin Weiss’s wife!”

“Then call Mr. Weiss and ask him to let you in,” the security guard said.

“...” Kyla rubbed her temples. She would have called Martin Weiss if she had his phone number.

Chapter 2592

Martin Weiss had either changed his phone number or... blocked her.

3/4

Either way, it meant Martin Weiss did not want anything to do with her.

While the two parties were locked in a stalemate, a voice suddenly said, "Mrs. Weiss, what are you doing here?"

Kyla turned around to see Mallory Malcom-Martin Weiss's private secretary. When she came to L City to see Martin Weiss before this, Mallory had taken care of her and helped her with her accommodation.

"I'm here to see Martin," said Kyla.

"But Chairman Weiss..." Mallory Malcom hesitated and said, "Why... Why don't I go in first and see what he wants?"

"Thank you," said Kyla.

"It's nothing," Mallory Malcom said before walking quickly into the mansion.

The security guard at the entrance looked at Kyla in shock. "Are you really... Mrs. Weiss?"

"In the flesh. Not only now, but also forever," said Kyla. She did not want to divorce Martin Weiss. She wanted to be his wife forever!

4/4

Chapter 2592

Chapter 2593

Mallory Malcom entered the mansion and met Martin Weiss, who was sitting on the couch going through the company's documents.

"Chairman Weiss, I just met your wife outside the mansion. Mrs. Weiss would like to meet you," said Mallory Malcom.

Martin Weiss's hand holding the pen paused instantly.

She still came!

She came even though he had made it clear on the phone with the lawyer that he was not going to see her.

He had deliberately stopped himself from thinking about her and removed her from his mind. However, her voice and face kept recurring to him whenever he calmed down.

Everything that ever happened in the past flashed past his mind one by one.

'I was hypnotized! I've forgotten this relationship. Why does this woman still dominate my mind?'

"Chairman Weiss?" Mallory Malcom could not help asking

Chapter 2593

after Martin Weiss's long silence.

2/4

"Since she wants to see me, I'll see her. Take her to the living room. I'll go downstairs to see her," said Martin Weiss,

"Yes, I'll bring Mrs. Weiss in," Mallory Malcom said quickly.

Although others did not know what Chairman Weiss's attitude was toward Mrs. Weiss, he knew that Chairman Weiss cared about Mrs. Weiss even though he seemed indifferent.

Otherwise, why would he instruct him to help make arrangements for Mrs. Weiss when she came to L City back then? He even went to the hotel often to see Mrs. Weiss and spent some time with Mrs. Weiss in Emerald City.

As far as he knew, Chairman Weiss had donated his liver to

Mrs. Weiss in Emerald City! As a result, he was now in poor health and had to recuperate in the mansion.

Not many men would sacrifice their health for a woman. Even old married couples might not be able to do that.

Mallory Malcom arrived at the entrance and took Kyla inside.

Once they reached the living room, Mallory Malcom said to Kyla, "Mrs. Weiss, wait here for a moment. Chairman Weiss will be downstairs soon." With that said, he dismissed the servants and left.

Chapter 2593

It was suddenly empty, and Kyla became nervous.

3/4

She was not nervous on the way in or when security stopped her at the mansion's entrance. Earlier, all she could think about was seeing him. She wanted to see how he was doing.

She had so much to say to him.

However, she suddenly became nervous as she did not expect to see him soon.

Footsteps suddenly rang out.

Kyla stiffened instantly as she looked toward the stairs, where a slender figure descended the stairs step by step.

It was... Martin Weiss!

Kyla looked blankly at the man who stepped down the stairs.

He was dressed in a suit and tie with his black hair combed neatly. His graceful step was not as slow as she imagined. He seemed to look the same as before.

However, when he came down the stairs and walked slowly toward her, she noticed that he had lost weight and his face was a little pale. Even the suit seemed baggy on him.

For a moment, Kyla only stared at Martin Weiss until his voice sounded. "Did you come from Emerald City to find me just to stare at me like this?"

Chapter 2593

4/4

Chapter 2594

Kyla suddenly came to her senses. Taking a deep breath, she suppressed the tension in her heart. "I came to you... to talk about the divorce."

Martin Weiss said indifferently, "You're dissatisfied with the terms I made, and I've asked my lawyer to tell you that I'll accept whatever suggestion you have as long as I can fulfill it. If you just want to talk to me about this, you can talk to my lawyer! It's no different than talking to me.""

With that said, he turned around to leave.

"There's a difference!" Kyla ran forward and held Martin

Weiss's hand. "I don't want a divorce. I don't want to sign the divorce agreement."

Martin Weiss froze instantly. He turned around and looked at Kyla with shock. "You don't want a divorce?"

"Yes," she answered affirmatively.

His eyes were dark. Moments later, he sneered. "In that case, do you want to continue being Mrs. Weiss for a while more? What is it about this time? Last time, you wanted to be Mrs. Weiss because you didn't want your child to be born a bastard. This time, do you want to stay married for a while more because the baby will be discriminated against if her parents are divorced?"

Chapter 2594

2/3

Kyla widened her eyes and looked at Martin Weiss in disbelief.

She never expected him to think that way.

"Then when are you planning on getting divorced? Two years? Three years? Five years? Ten years?" He looked at her as if amused. Then, he said, "Kyla, I have no interest in playing such marriage games with you. You can suggest any terms for the divorce, but there's no way we're not getting a divorce!"

If they stayed married, she would only erode his life further.

Perhaps he would have a mental breakdown one day.

She quickly explained, "It's... It's not like that! Martin Weiss, I don't want a divorce because... I love you!"

She finally said these three words to him.

Those three long-lost words!

She had often said these three words to him when they were younger but stopped afterward. She thought she would never say those words to him again.

It was because they were unsuitable for each other. With all the enmity they had, maybe splitting up was the best choice.

Chapter 2594

However, she said it now. She revealed her true feelings.

"You love me?" he muttered.

3/3

She said, "Yes, I love you. Martin Weiss, I love you. I don't want to divorce you, and it's not about the kids. I just want to spend the rest of my life with you."

"You love me?" He suddenly laughed. "Kyla, did you say you love me? If I remember correctly, it was only less than half a year ago when you said you wanted me to stop bothering you and break up with me for good. We were at the hospital then. I begged you to give me a chance to start over. But you said you didn't love me, didn't you?"

His words poked her heart like a sharp sword.

"Yes... I did say that. I didn't recognize my feelings at the time," Kyla admitted.

Chapter 2595

"So, you recognized your feelings in less than six months? Do you really think you've fallen in love with a man you didn't even love not so long ago? Kyla, do you believe such lies?" He retorted.

She quickly explained, "It's not a lie. It's true. I thought I loved you too little and that you loved me too much. I was afraid you might become miserable if something happened to me. That's why I said those things. But now..."

Her voice trailed off as her eyes rested on his right rib area where his liver was. It was where he had surgery for her twice.

He followed her gaze, then his expression changed slightly. As if realizing something, he frowned. "You know about it?"

He asked absent-mindedly, but she understood.

"Yeah, I do. I know you donated your liver to me again after I got my C-section," she said as her eyes seemed to be covered with a layer of tears.

He looked enlightened. "So, are you trying to make it up to me because you feel bad and think you owe me? But you underestimate me, Kyla. I don't need a woman to make it up to me by saying she loves me in this way."

Chapter 2595

2/3

"No! I do feel that I owe you and want to make it up to you, but that has nothing to do with me saying I love you." She really loved him! She loved him before he donated his liver a second time!

"If you didn't know that I had donated my liver to you again, would you have come to me and told me that you love me? Or would you have signed the divorce papers?" he asked coldly.

She froze. 'Would I? If Grace hadn't told me the truth, what choice would I have made if I thought I was dying and he was healthy?'

She might actually...

"What's the matter? Can't you answer that?" He snorted coldly. "Kyla, I would've been so happy even if you had only said that out of pity. I would've also willingly thought you loved me and let the lie go on. But I don't love you anymore. Do you think I care for your lies about loving me?"

Every word he said slammed into her ears, filling her mouth with a bitter taste.

It turned out this was the price of lying.

She had lied to him by saying that she did not love him, and he believed her.

Chapter 2595

3/3

Now when she told him she loved him, he did not believe her anymore.

"Even if you think you don't care, I still want to say I love you. Not out of pity or because of the baby, but because I don't want to lose you," Kyla said with utter certainty.

They had lost too much.

"You don't want to lose me?" He raised his brows slightly and seemingly looked at her nonchalantly.

"But I don't love you anymore. Whether you want me or not, we've already lost each other, haven't we?"

"No, we... we haven't. Martin Weiss, even though you've forgotten your feelings, you still have some feelings for me, don't you? You still have feelings for me, or you wouldn't have donated me your liver a second time!" If he had no feelings for her, he could have just watched her die instead of risking his health to save her!

Chapter 2596

Martin Weiss quietly looked at the woman in front of him. She was right. He did have feelings that he could not control for her.

The feelings were something she could use against him at any time.

"It seems that my actions have misled you. You'd better listen well. I saved you not because I still have any feelings for you, but because I wanted to fulfill a promise to my former self," his cold voice muttered.

"Promise?" She froze. "What do you mean?"

"It means that I had left a letter to myself before the hypnosis because I was afraid that the hypnosis might affect my memory or change my mindset. In the letter, I begged myself to save your life at all costs, even if I had no affection for you," Martin Weiss said indifferently.

What he did not tell her was that he must have been afraid that her childbirth was risky when he wrote the letter, so he kept reminding himself to save her life. If he did not save her, he would surely be more miserable than death if the hypnosis was undone one day.

Chapter 2596

Would the hypnosis be undone? He did not think it was possible to undo the hypnosis.

However, it was not the letter that brought him to the operating table to save her. It was just that... he did not want to see her die!

2/4

However, there was no need to tell her this because he planned to keep her in the dark.

His feelings for her were only lingering ones. It was just that he had loved her so deeply in the past that his mood was easily affected by her. It was also why he was reluctant to see something happen to her when she was in danger.

If he saw her less or did not see her in the future, the lingering feelings would gradually fade away.

"Kyla, I saved you because I loved you back then, but that's all it is..." he said as he stared at her. He stopped abruptly when he saw the tears rolling down her eyes.

Her tears were crystal clear. They hit his chest like a boulder, and the rest of his words were blocked.

“Yeah, you really loved me,” muttered Kyla. He even left such a letter before the hypnosis to ask himself to save her life at all costs.

Chapter 2596

3/4

How deep was his love for her? Her insistence at that time had caused two people who loved each other to end up this way.

“Anyway, I don’t love you anymore. Divorce would be the best thing for us!” he said gruffly after a while, trying to suppress the uncomfortable feeling in his chest.

Kyla cried harder.

“What if I don’t want a divorce?”

“Then you’ll only be delaying it a little longer. The court will eventually rule the divorce,” said Martin Weiss.

She sniffled, raised her hand, and wiped the tears from her eyes as she stared fixedly at the person in front of her.

His face was indifferent. Those dark eyes were so deep that it was impossible to guess what was on his mind.

“So... why don’t we make another bet?” she whispered.

“Bet? What bet?” He raised his eyebrows slightly as he asked.

She took a deep breath and said, “Let’s bet if you’ll fall in love with me again. Three months. I only want three months. I want to stay with you for these three months. If you still want a divorce after three months, I’ll sign the divorce papers to end our marriage.”

4/4

Chapter 2596

He narrowed his eyes. “Are you kidding? Why would I bet on that with you? I can still divorce you even without the bet.”

Chapter 2597

1/3

“But that would require us to appeal to the court, which would take at least six months. Besides, once the media finds out about it, it won’t be good for Weiss Group’s reputation either,” Kyla said with red eyes.

He stared at her. Her eyes were wet. It was as if her tears would form again and fall from her eyes at any moment.

His heart twitched suddenly as her crying face kept flashing across his mind.

She used to say to him while crying, "Martin Weiss, believe me. I didn't push Paisley Daniels down the stairs. I didn't!"

She had also cried as she shouted in a voice that could break people's hearts, "Martin Weiss, I beg you! Let me go. Let me go!"

Finally, she said in a calm voice through her tears, "Martin Weiss, I'll never forgive you..."

It was all memories of her crying back then. He no longer had those feelings and should feel like an outsider when he recalled these memories.

Chapter 2597

However, why... did his heart ache?

His heart... hurt so much!

2/3

Then he said to her out of the blue, "Then let's make a bet one last time!"

He would stop having this uncomfortable feeling as long as he won the bet!

It was so uncomfortable that... even breathing seemed to hurt!

Kyla would stay in Martin Weiss's mansion. However, she did not move into the master bedroom. Instead, she stayed in the guest room. It was as if Martin Weiss was indicating that she was merely a 'guest'

'But this is good too! At least I'm closer to him now,' Kyla told herself. Unexpectedly, she and Martin Weiss ended up like this after all the events.

One more bet. One last time!

If Martin Weiss really had no feelings for her and did not want to stay with her, she would set him free and sign the divorce papers.

Chapter 2597

However, she wanted to fight for herself first.

3/3

Kyla motivated herself in the guest room, while Martin Weiss. returned to his room, his face paler than ever.

He had noticeably begun feeling more tired than ever since the operation.

After the first donation, he did not feel anything significantly wrong with his health, but the second donation was different.

Despite his poor health, he strangely had no regrets.

Why did he donate his liver a second time? The doctor had told him before the surgery what the consequences would be, but he chose to donate anyway.

Was it because of that letter? Was he afraid that he would regret it for the rest of his life if the hypnosis accidentally undid itself one day?

It... did not seem that way. It seemed that all he could think about was... saving her!

Chapter 2598

1/4

The nurse, Shana Nicholls, entered the room at some point. "Mr. Weiss, it's time for you to take your medicine," she said as she put the tray on the couch and handed Martin Weiss the medicine and glass of water.

Martin Weiss took them and swallowed the medicine.

After taking Martin Weiss's temperature and blood pressure, Shana Nicholls said, "Mr. Weiss, the person who came here today..."

"Ignore her. I'm tired and want to sleep. Go out first," said

Martin Weiss.

"Okay," said Shana Nicholls as she slowly exited the room. However, she could not help glancing at Martin Weiss before closing the door.

She had heard from Mallory that the visitor was Mr. Weiss's wife.

She did not expect Mr. Weiss to have a wife, but his wife never appeared during the most painful period of Mr. Weiss's recuperation.

Chapter 2598

How could such a person qualify to be Mrs. Weiss?

2/4

Shana Nicholls came down the stairs angrily. She was a nurse in a big hospital and was young, beautiful, and capable. This time, she got lucky and was chosen to be Mr. Weiss's private nurse during his recuperation period due to Dr. Lu, who was in charge of Mr. Weiss's health.

Her father and Dr. Lu were old acquaintances, so Dr. Lu recommended her to Mr. Weiss. Mr. Weiss unexpectedly agreed.

Shana Nicholls still remembered the first time she met Martin

Weiss. She was enchanted and felt sorry for him.

When she saw the famous businessman in L City up close, she realized that he was even more handsome than she had seen on the news.

However, he was handsome and weak at the same time. There was even a time when he needed help to walk, and it was painfully difficult.

She knew it was because of his second liver donation, but she did not understand why he wanted to donate his liver and to whom he donated it.

After all, who deserved the liver of a big shot like him?

Chapter 2598

She had been personally taking care of him these days. She often had the feeling that... he needed her!

3/4

She could help him nurse his body and get better. If only she could stay with him!

It was not unheard of for nurses to marry into wealthy families. after they spent a period of time taking care of the patients.

If someone else could do so, then... so could she!

However, the idea had just occurred to her when Mrs. Weiss's appearance spoiled her plans. She never thought that Mr.

Weiss had a wife!

'But it seems that Mr. Weiss and his wife are not on good terms, so maybe I have a chance to... Shana Nicholls's eyes flashed with ambition!

During dinner, the servants prepared a table full of sumptuous food for Kyla. Kyla also checked that the food served was appropriate for post-liver transplant patients like herself. It was clear that the chef had prepared the food specifically for her.

"Why isn't Martin Weiss here?" Kyla asked the servant.

"Mr. Weiss said he's having dinner in his room. We've already brought the food to Mr. Weiss's room," the servant said.

Chapter 2508

"Does he always so se on kyls dead again

We really a complima dos Na care

Kyle wondered, the diving in the room today because he wants to avoid me? Or is just a coincidence?

Chapter 2598

"Does he always eat in his room?" Kyla asked again.

"Not really. He sometimes does," the servant replied.

Kyla wondered, 'Is he dining in his room today because he wants to avoid me? Or is it just a coincidence?'

Chapter 2599

1/4

Biting her lip, she got up and asked the servant where Martin

Weiss's bedroom was. Then, she walked up the stairs and came to his bedroom door.

After two knocks on the door, she heard someone say, "Come in."

However, after she pushed the door open, she suddenly saw Martin Weiss stripped down to the waist. A woman was helping him put on a shirt. She stood in front of him as she helped him button up his shirt. Kyla was standing behind her, so she could not see what she looked like. She could tell it was a woman from her figure.

Kyla instantly felt a stab in her heart.

‘Does it bother me? Or am I jealous that he’s in such close proximity to another woman?’

Martin Weiss turned his head slightly. After glancing at Kyla, who had entered, he turned back. It seemed like he could not be bothered, to give her another glance. “It’s you. What do you want?”

“I... I’d like to have dinner with you,” said Kyla.

Chapter 2599

Martin Weiss rejected indifferently. “No thanks. I’m used to eating alone. If there’s nothing else, I wish to have a quiet meal.”

2/4

The statement was undoubtedly a dismissal.

The woman buttoning Martin Weiss’s shirt was done buttoning his shirt. She took another coat for Martin Weiss to wear.

Then, she walked up to Kyla. “You’d better leave first. Mr. Weiss is about to have dinner.”

Although she sounded polite and respectful, her eyes and expression had no respect and only disdain for Kyla.

Kyla looked at the young woman brimming with youthfulness. She had an oval-shaped face and arched eyebrows. Those bright eyes made Kyla think of her old self.

She looked a little like her when she was young and full of hope for the future.

However, her state of mind was different now. The only thing that remained was perhaps... her love for Martin Weiss.

However, she had loved blindly and did not understand love.

She fell in love again after understanding.

Chapter 2599

Kyla looked past her and at Martin Weiss. "Martin Weiss, do you want me to leave?" she asked.

"Yes, I want you to leave," he said.

3/4

She laughed at herself. 'What kind of answer was I expecting?'

Kyla's eyes darkened slightly as she withdrew from the room.

and quietly closed the door.

There seemed to be an invisible wall between her and Martin Weiss. No matter how much she wanted to get close, she could not get close to him at all.

'Calm down...!

She thought to herself. Their bet had just started. They had three months. Perhaps she could make him... fall in love with her again in these three months.

She finally understood how Martin Weiss felt when he wanted her to give him another chance.

She now hoped Martin Weiss could give her a chance to get close to him too.

In the bedroom, Shana Nicholls was secretly pleased when she saw Martin Weiss's indifference to Kyla just now. Sure enough, the so-called Mrs. Weiss did not carry much weight in

Chapter 2600

However, the next moment, Martin Weiss's voice rang out again, "You get out too. I'd like to dine alone."

Shana Nicholls was shocked. "But..."

"But?" Martin Weiss glared coldly at Shana Nicholls, instantly making her swallow the rest of her words.

"Got it. I'll leave immediately." She looked down and obediently left the room.

For a moment, she felt as if he had seen through her, and fear came over her.

'I must be overthinking,' Shana Nicholls told herself.

In the following days, Martin Weiss did not dine with Kyla at the same table, and the servants' respect for her slowly diminished.

In particular, the servants heard that Martin Weiss wanted to divorce Kyla, but she refused. Therefore, she came to the mansion to get Martin Weiss to change his mind. Everyone looked down on her even more.

Chapter 2600

2/4

However, these things did not bother Kyla. Martin Weiss was all that mattered to her.

However, she had few chances to see Martin Weiss.

After leaving the room, Kyla headed to the mansion's yard.

The mansion had a large yard with many osmanthus flowers.

It was the season when the air smelled of osmanthus.

Kyla recalled how she had told Martin Weiss that she hoped their house could one day be filled with the scent of osmanthus.

It was because they had watched a movie together where the male and female leads go to know each other due to osmanthus. Osmanthus flowers were shown throughout the movie, which also made her fall in love with osmanthus.

This mansion's yard was now full of osmanthus plants. Was it because she said she loved the smell of osmanthus back then?

These plants looked like they were at least five years old.

Ever since Kyla realized the mansion's yard was full of osmanthus, she would stroll the yard every afternoon.

It seemed that even smelling the fragrance of osmanthus could make her mood better.

Chapter 2600

However, to her surprise, she saw Martin Weiss in the yard today.

3/4

Martin Weiss was lying on a dock chair with his eyes closed as the breeze gently blow the hair on his forehead, revealing his plump forehead,

He did not open his eyes as she approached,

Is he asleep?' she thought to herself.

He was less indifferent but quieter with his eyes closed. His long lashes cast a shadow over the bottom of his eyes. His tall nose bridge and sexy thin lips made him as handsome as ever. However, his eyes seemed somewhat haggard. His pale complexion and his thin cheeks made him seem more sickly.

He was sick because of her!

With that in mind, Kyla's heart sank as her gaze went to his chest.

He was only wearing a shirt right now.

The top few buttons of his shirt were unbuttoned, so the collar of his shirt hung open loosely, revealing his bewitching chest.

Chapter 2600

4/4

'How is his wound? Is it healing like mine? Or... is the wound not doing well?

After all, the doctor had said that the healing of the wound depended on the individual.