

Ex Convict 2601

Chapter 2601

Kyla could not help raising her hand slightly and stretching it toward his shirt, wanting to see how his wound was healing. Even though she knew he had doctors and nurses looking after him and that his wound would surely heal well, she could not help feeling the urge to take a glance.

‘One glance. Just one glance!

She told herself and proceeded to unbutton his shirt until she could gently pull it open to see his right rib, which was below his chest...

She saw a hideous wound.

Kyla’s eyes suddenly heated up. She had never gotten a good look at the post-operative scar he had after the first liver donation.

Even when they accidentally slept with each other, the room was dark and she struggled so hard that she never got a good look at the scar.

Later, he got injured and was hospitalized after saving her. His body was wrapped in gauze, so she never saw his injury then either.

2/4

This time, she finally saw it.

The operation wound after the second liver donation was in the same spot as the scar from the first liver donation.

He had undergone two surgeries on the same spot, and the scars became increasingly obvious.

Now, this wound...

“Have you seen enough? Since when could this body make you look at it so intently?" a sarcastic voice suddenly rang out.

Kyla froze immediately, just realizing that Martin Weiss had opened his eyes at some point.

"I... I just wanted to see your wound," she explained immediately.

"Wound? What's there to see? If you want to win the three-month bet, you might as well try to seduce me. That might have some effect."

Kyla's face reddened. "I... I didn't think of it."

"You never thought about winning our bet?" he asked, amused.

Chapter 2601

3/4

"I never... thought about..." She could not speak for a moment.

"Really?" His hand suddenly took hers and pulled hard. The next moment, Kyla was so close to Martin Weiss's body that it seemed as if half of her body was on him.

"What... What are you trying to do?" His scent filled her nostrils, making her heart beat faster as she stuttered.

"Don't you find it contradictory to say that you've never thought about it? And yet you made a three-month bet with me? Kyla, you're not a child. Don't you know what it means for a woman to take off a man's clothes?" he said as he stared at her.

She pressed her red lips together tightly and was silent for a moment.

"Unfortunately, even if you try to seduce me, I'll still have no interest in you. Just like how I have no reaction when you lay on me like this! The three-month bet is only a waste of time!" he said coldly.

His words seemed to be humiliating her.

Her face turned red after being pale, and she said hoarsely, "I don't feel like I'm wasting my time. I'm just fighting for a chance."

Chapter 2601

4/4

"Fighting for a chance? So, you took my clothes off to fight for a chance? Since when did you like doing this kind of thing?"

"As I said, I just wanted to see your injury. I just wanted to know how it was healing," she said.

Chapter 2602

"Really?" He suddenly got up and released her hand. Then, he lifted his hands and removed his white shirt in front of her.

She immediately caught sight of the hideous scar again. It was a clearer view than earlier.

She looked blankly at his injury while feeling the urge to cry. She was already tearing up. "Does the wound still hurt?"

"It's been more than two months. Does it hurt for you?" he asked indifferently.

He was not in pain, so he must be fine. "I'm sorry I made you suffer so much for me..."

Martin Weiss said coldly, "I didn't do it for you but to fulfill my wishes before the hypnosis. Now that you've seen the wound, don't take off my clothes randomly anymore."

He said as he bent down, and their cheeks were so close together. His fingers grabbed her jaw, and he brushed the tip of his thumb against her lips. "Believe me. I have no interest in you!"

With that said, he turned around and left the yard.

Chapter 2602

2/4

Kyla looked at Martin Weiss's leaving figure. Her wrist still held the lingering heat from when he grabbed her hand.

From his speech and body movements, he was distancing himself from her.

He had agreed to the three-month bet, but... he was reluctant.

'A waste of time? Three months? Is it really a waste of time?'

Kyla smiled bitterly.

In a nearby corner, Shana Nicholls looked at Kyla with anger. She did not expect to see such a scene when she had only left to get a thin blanket.

She was in a position where she could not hear what they said, but... the way Mr. Weiss looked at the woman was different from his usual indifference.

It was as if there was something hidden deep under his eyes, or rather... he was suppressing something!

What was Mr. Weiss suppressing?

However, whatever it was, Mr. Weiss was probably not indifferent to Mrs. Weiss!

Chapter 2602

3/4

Grace and Lina were visiting Mrs. Corbyn at the store when they happened to meet Amber Mitchell, who came to visit. After leaving the store, the three of them found a nearby restaurant and sat down to dine together.

Although Lina was meeting Amber Mitchell for the first time, she had learned about Amber Mitchell from Grace and Kyla. Hence, she had always admired Amber Mitchell.

After all, it took an extraordinary amount of fortitude for a woman to survive that kind of adversity without committing suicide or being driven insane.

"Hello, Amber Mitchell. My name is Lina. I often heard Grace and Kyla mention you, so I don't find you unfamiliar. Instead, I have a sense of familiarity upon seeing you." Lina had always been outgoing and straightforward, so she was friendly with Amber Mitchell.

Amber Mitchell laughed. "Hello, I've heard about you from Kyla too. We could finally meet each other today. Since we're all in Emerald City, we can visit each other more often when we have time."

"Are you going to live in Emerald City permanently?" Lina asked.

Chapter 2602

4/4

Amber Mitchell nodded. "Yes, I'm currently studying at an archaeological research institute in Emerald City. I'm hoping to lead a more fulfilling life."

Chapter 2603

Lina's keen eye saw the ring on Amber Mitchell's left ring finger. "What's with the ring?"

"It's my wedding ring," Amber Mitchell replied with a faint smile.

1/4

Lina asked in surprise, "A wedding ring? You're married?"

Amber Mitchell admitted graciously, "Yes, I'm married. I'm married to a man who died trying to save me. Though he's dead, he's the only husband I have. I feel content to be able to marry him after all these years."

Grace said nothing as she had already learned about this from her phone conversation with Amber Mitchell previously.

Lina looked surprised. When she heard Amber Mitchell talking about her husband, the nostalgia and contentment on her face made her heart ache.

"You must love your husband very much," she murmured.

"Yeah, I love Herman." Amber Mitchell smiled. "There's nothing better than being with the one you love. I'll never have this chance, and I can only be with Herman in my heart, but Kyla still has the chance. I really hope she and Martin Weiss can have a happy ending with her trip to L City this time.

Chapter 2603

2/4

Speaking of Martin Weiss, Lina could not help but ask Grace, "Is it true that one's memory could only be restored after saying the password?"

"In principle, yes. Of course, there's another way. There's a chance of recovery if one is forcefully triggered." It was how Jay got all his memories back.

However, Jay and Martin Weiss were different. Jay lost part of his memory after being hypnotized, while Martin Weiss remembered everything except his feelings for her.

"Could we get the password from the hypnotist?" Lina asked.

Grace shook her head. "I've asked. The hypnotist doesn't know Martin Weiss's password because Martin Weiss himself had asked for the hypnosis. Hence, Martin Weiss set the password himself too."

"..." Lina was speechless. "In other words, unless Martin Weiss tells us the password himself, no one will know what it is."

"Yeah. Unless Martin Weiss wants to lift the hypnosis himself, we have no other way," said Grace. Martin Weiss was willing to donate his liver to Kyla a second time, but he still chose to leave her and return to L City. One could tell that Martin Weiss did not want to lift his hypnosis at all.

Chapter 2603

He did not want to lift the hypnosis and recover his feelings.

from back then. Martin Weiss was the one taking charge of the situation here.

3/4

They had no idea if Kyla could make Martin Weiss change his mind during her trip to L City this time.

The three sighed. God knew what password Martin Weiss had set!

Over in L City, Kyla was also pondering the same question.

Standing in the study, she looked at the impatient-looking Martin Weiss and said, "I... I only came in to have a word with you. I'll leave once I'm done."

"I thought I made it clear to you last time we were at the yard," said Martin Weiss.

Kyla took a deep breath and suddenly said, "Martin Weiss, I love you. I love you very much!"

Martin Weiss stiffened slightly and frowned. "I told you. Whether you love me or not doesn't matter to me anymore."

Kyla bit her lip before saying, "Martin Weiss, I like you."

Chapter 2603

Martin Weiss frowned deeper.

2/3

His voice paused as he raised his hand and caressed her hair, but his eyes were inscrutably deep. "Do you want to lift the hypnosis and let me restore my original feelings so that I can. become the fool who loves you so much I'll give up my pride again?"

Kyla trembled. "Do you think you were a fool back then?"

"Weren't I?" His fingers slipped from her hair to her cheek. However, his long and slender fingers were cold. "Wasn't I a fool to give up all my dignity and pride for a woman and plead with her?"

His movements were so soft, but his touch was cold to the bone.

His voice continued to ring in her ear. "Kyla, if I had owed you anything since the beginning, I've already paid it off. You can forget about lifting the hypnosis. I set the password myself. I'm the only one who knows it, and no one will be able to figure it out, including you. It's easy if you want to lift the hypnosis. I just have to tell you the password now.""

Her eyes widened instantly as she looked blankly at him.

However, what he said next seemed to cast her into hell. "But I won't tell you that. I'll never tell you. Since I've decided to bury my past feelings, I won't let them come back. Kyla, I don't love you. Don't waste your time."

Chapter 2604

As his voice finished speaking, his hands let go of her cheeks.

He sat back at his desk and continued reading his documents.

However, she stood there blankly as if her heart were empty!

Even after walking out of Martin Weiss's study, Kyla was still a little confused. She was thinking about everything Martin

Weiss had said earlier.

It turned out that he could have restored his feelings at any time, but he was unwilling to do so!

Had everything she done today just made herself look like a clown to him?

As Kyla was about to pass Shana Nicholls while going down the stairs, Shana Nicholls suddenly stopped.

Shana Nicholls faced Kyla and asked, "Why did you come back?"

Chapter 2605

Kyla also stopped and looked at her.

"Since you didn't come back when Mr. Weiss was seriously ill after his operation and ignored him when he was most in need, why did you come back now? Mr. Weiss is going to divorce you, isn't he? But you still want to cling to the title of Mrs. Weiss. Do you think the divorce terms aren't good enough, so you want to ask for more?"

Shana Nicholls questioned, but she looked and spoke as if she were the mistress.

Kyla's face darkened as she said, "You have no right to question our marriage, Nurse Ruan. You're only a nurse taking care of my husband's health during this time."

"You..." Shana Nicholls was mad. The statement that she was only a nurse cut deeply into her nerves.

She was indeed only a nurse now, and the woman in front of her hogged the title of Mrs. Weiss.

"I just pity Mr. Weiss for marrying a woman like you," snapped Shana Nicholls.

Chapter 2605

2/4

"So, do you think you qualify to marry him?" Kyla asked in reply, her dark eyes looking at Shana Nicholls as if they could see through her.

Shana Nicholls's face reddened instantly. She had no idea how she was going to answer that.

Shana Nicholls pressed her red lips together tightly and said nothing. However, she deliberately bumped Kyla's shoulder as she passed by her.

"Ah!" Kyla lost balance and fell to the bottom of the stairs. Her hand instinctively went for the railing beside her.

Even so, she fell several steps before managing to steady herself. She felt a fit of sharp pain in her ankle.

Kyla gasped and looked up toward Shana Nicholls at the top of the stairs.

Shana Nicholls pursed her lips in disdain as she said in a nonchalant joking tone, "Hey, be careful when taking the stairs. It'll be a big deal if you tumble down the stairs due to your carelessness. People would think I pushed you down the stairs, and that's not a sin I can bear!"

Kyla said coldly, "If I do fall down the stairs, it'll be a crime you can't bear. I don't know what you're up to, but you'd better not do it again. I can even consider what you did earlier as attempted murder!"

Chapter 2605

3/4

Martin had sacrificed so much to give her a chance to live.

She cherished her life more than anyone else.

Shana Nicholls's face turned even redder. "What are you talking about? Don't make any accusations! It happened because you didn't step on the steps properly!" With that said, Shana Nicholls hurried away guiltily.

Kyla pressed her lips together as she limped down the stairs. She found a chair, rolled up her pant leg, and looked at her ankle.

Sure enough, her ankle was already swollen.

In this case, she would probably need to apply some medicine to it. Otherwise, the swelling would be so bad that she would have trouble walking.

Therefore, Kyla found a servant and asked where the medical kit was.

“There’s no medical kit here. Go to Nurse Ruan for medicine, but she’s only in charge of Mr. Weiss,” the servant said without any respect.

Martin Weiss’s attitude toward Mrs. Weiss these days was obvious to the servants in the mansion.

Chapter 2606

Besides, Mr. Weiss was divorcing the woman, so the servants were naturally contemptuous of Kyla. Some would even deliberately make things difficult for her.

Kyla instantly asked no more questions after hearing that.

She was aware of the servants’ attitude toward her, and she knew she would not succeed in getting medicine from Shana Nicholls.

Kyla limped out of the mansion while holding her phone.

At the intersection, she hailed a taxi and went to the nearby drugstore. After buying the medicine, she was about to leave when a car stopped in front of her.

“Miss Corbyn, Old Madam wants to see you,” somebody got out of the car and spoke respectfully to her.

Kyla’s heart sank instantly. She already knew that she would meet Martin Weiss’s mother again sooner or later when she came to L City.

She had promised Mrs. Weiss to separate from Martin Weiss, but she now came to L City voluntarily and refused to sign the divorce papers. How could Mrs. Weiss not know about this?

Chapter 2606

Kyla got into the car and arrived at the Weiss family’s mansion.

2/4

When she limped after the servant into the Weiss family’s living room, Mrs. Weiss looked at her walking posture and said indifferently, “Miss Corbyn, you’re wounded.”

“I sprained my ankle, but it’ll be alright in a few days,” said

Kyla.

Mrs. Weiss said indifferently, "Some injuries can heal in a few days, but some injuries aren't that simple. They can't be healed in a few days."

Kyla was silent for a moment before saying, "I'm sorry. I know Martin donated his liver a second time for me. I..."

"It was his choice, and you have nothing to apologize for!"

'Mrs. Weiss picked up the teacup in front of her, took a sip from it, and said, "I'm not going to blame you for this. After all, as a mother, I understand that you wanted to give birth to the baby in your belly. The child also carries the Weiss family's blood and is Martin's child. You risked your life for the baby, and he sacrificed his health to save you. It's hard to say who's right or wrong."

Mrs. Weiss paused as she said that. Her eyes suddenly turned

Chapter 2606

3/4

sharply to Kyla. "I just want to ask if you remember what you promised me, Miss Corbyn?"

Kyla stiffened. It was still this question after all.

"I meant it when I agreed to it, and I did try to keep my promise. It's just that... I didn't realize I'd end up dragging Martin down."

"Why won't you get a divorce when you know you're dragging him down? As far as I know, Martin has asked the lawyer to talk to you about the divorce."

Kyla clenched her teeth. "It's because I love Martin. Back then,

I was afraid that I loved him too little and would not have much time left to live when my liver failed after giving birth. That's why I wanted to separate from him. But now... I'd like to be with him if he's still willing to love me!"

"You love him?" Mrs. Weiss suddenly rubbed her temples as if she had a headache. "You've never loved him after all these years, but you're suddenly saying that you love him. Miss Corbyn, what on earth are you thinking? You know Martin doesn't have feelings for you anymore, don't you?"

"I know he doesn't have any feelings for me, but I want to fight for it anyway. Three months. I only need three months. I told him that I'll sign the divorce papers if he still insists on divorcing after three months. I won't waste any more time,"

Chapter 2606

said Kyla.

Mrs. Weiss put down the teacup in her hand. 'Are you are you really going to sign the papers after three months?'

4/4

"If he doesn't love me after three months, I'll sign the papers without causing any more trouble. But if he's still willing to love me and have a family with me after three months, I hope you can accept a... mediocre daughter-in-law like me, Aunt."

Chapter 2607

She looked intently at the woman in front of her. No one could tell which one of them was right.

However, if Kyla meant what she said, it was just another three months.

"I hope you'll keep your word," Mrs. Weiss said in the end.

Kyla's eyes darkened slightly. Mrs. Weiss was hoping she would sign the divorce papers in three months.

Yes. In her opinion, she was only a woman who kept hurting her son.

"I will," said Kyla.

However, she saw Martin Weiss standing at the entrance of the living room as soon as she turned around. She had no idea how much of her and Mrs. Weiss's conversation Martin Weiss heard.

"Mother, I told you to stay out of things between her and me!" Martin Weiss said coldly. Then, he walked up to Kyla and grabbed Kyla's wrist to lead her away.

2/3

However, he felt Kyla stumble. She nearly fell after he had just taken a few steps.

He frowned and noticed that something was wrong with her foot.

"What happened to your foot?" he asked..

"I slipped down the stairs and twisted my ankle," said Kyla.

Martin Weiss frowned before suddenly leaning over. He lifted Kyla's pant leg to check her ankle.

"I'm sorry. I'll walk a little slower..." Her words were barely out of her mouth when he suddenly picked her up in his arms.

Kyla lay almost motionless against Martin Weiss's chest, unable to believe that he would pick her up.

However, Martin Weiss did not wait for her reaction. He carried her toward the mansion gate.

Mrs. Weiss stared at the scene until the two figures were out of sight before muttering, "Ill fate! Three months later... What then?"

Mrs. Weiss stared blankly at the scene until the two figures were out of sight. She mumbled, "How unlucky! Three months later... What will happen... in three months?"

3/3

'Will my son still be willing to divorce Kyla by then?' Mrs. Weiss was unconfident.

Kyla finally gained her senses when Martin Weiss carried her into the car. "Is your wound okay? Is it okay to carry me like this? Will it burst open?"

She said as her hands reached for his clothes as if to take them off to take a closer look at his wound.

However, he grabbed her hands before she could touch the buttons of his clothes.

"What are you doing?" A cold voice rang in the car.

Chapter 2608

Kyla stiffened as her ears heard Martin Weiss say, "I've shown you the wound you wanted to see the last time, didn't I? What's the matter? Are you still interested?"

She said with a sob, "I just wanted to see if your wound burst open. You carried me all the way here..."

"I'm not too weak that I can't walk this far. Besides, do you think the wound I got more than two months ago will burst open again?" He mocked her in reply.

Kyla paused, finding herself foolish. It had been more than two months since his wound was sutured, and he did not feel any discomfort. He was naturally fine.

Martin Weiss ordered the driver, "Drive."

The car slowly drove away from Weiss Residence and headed toward the mansion.

Kyla sat silently in the backseat and said nothing until Martin

Weiss suddenly asked, "Why did you go out alone when you've hurt your foot? Did my mother contact you and ask you to leave the mansion to meet her?"

Chapter 2608

He learned that she had left the mansion alone after receiving news that her mother's staff had taken her to Weiss Residence.

"No, I only left the mansion to buy some medicine for my ankle. Then I met your mother's subordinate in front of the drugstore after buying my medicine..." While speaking halfway, she exclaimed as if she had recalled something, "I left the medicine I bought at your mom's house! Can you... get the car to stop at a drugstore so that I can buy a new one?"

He frowned. "The mansion has a regular supply of such medicine. How foolish are you to go out and buy it yourself? Didn't you ask the servants?"

The corners of Kyla's mouth twitched as she said to the driver in the front row, "Driver, can you please stop if you pass by a pharmacy? I'll get down to buy some medicine."

Martin Weiss's eyes glimmered slightly before he said to the driver, "Don't stop. Drive straight back to the mansion."

"But I need to buy the medicine," said Kyla.

"I said we have it in the mansion. Just ask the servants for it."

"But..."

"They won't give it to you?" Martin Weiss asked as he went straight to the point.

Chapter 2608

3/4

Kyla pressed her red lips together tightly, and Martin Weiss knew he was right. "You're Mrs. Weiss. How could the servants bully you so?"

"The servants at the mansion don't think of me as Mrs. Weiss," said Kyla. Due to his attitude toward her, the servants did not give her the respect she deserved. They even secretly speculated when she would divorce him and leave.

Although Kyla never said the second half, Martin Weiss could figure it out.

"Are you blaming me, then?" he asked.

"I don't blame you. We're supposed to be divorced, and it's only natural that you're indifferent to me," Kyla said calmly.

However, the calm tone of her voice made him feel uncomfortable.

When the car arrived at the mansion's entrance, Kyla opened the car door and was about to get down when Martin Weiss passed the car rear and picked Kyla up.

Kyla was shocked. "I... I can walk by myself..."

My Gorgeous Wife is an Ex-Convict!

Chapter 2609

"You're going to slowly limp into the house?" he asked.

1/4

She was instantly speechless. Her teeth bit her lower lip, and a faint blush rose on her cheeks.

Even though he was probably only carrying her because her walking slowly would annoy him or it was because of sympathy, she felt a long-lost sense of security as she lay in his arms.

Martin Weiss carried Kyla to the living room and placed her carefully on the couch before instructing the servants, "Go get the medical kit and get Nurse Ruan to treat Madam's injured ankle."

"Yes," a servant replied and hurried out of the living room to look for Shana Nicholls.

The other servants in the living room watched with some surprise in their eyes. The servant who had turned Kyla down when she asked for a medical kit now had a look of fear on their face.

They were deeply afraid that Kyla would tell Martin Weiss about it and they would lose their job.

Chapter 2609

2/4

Although they were only a servant in the Weiss family's house, their salary was higher than many white-collar workers out there. The job was not tiring either, and such a job was not easy to find.

Shana Nicholls soon arrived in the living room, and the servant who had gone to fetch the medical kit came with her.

"Mr. Weiss, why did you ask for me..." Shana Nicholls asked.

"Take a look at the madam's ankle. She sprained it," said

Martin Weiss.

Shana Nicholls was surprised. It was the first time Martin Weiss addressed Kyla as the madam in front of everyone. The term 'madam' was no doubt a deGraciation of Kyla's identity to the crowd so that they did not forget that this woman was the madam of the Weiss family!

"Yes," said Shana Nicholls as she walked up to Kyla. She crouched down, lifted Kyla's pant leg, and began to examine her ankle.

However, this posture made Shana Nicholls feel humiliated. Kyla sat on the couch like the high and mighty matriarch while she crouched on the floor like a mere concubine.

To make matters worse, she was the one who caused the wound on Kyla's ankle. She had no idea if Kyla had told Mr.

Chapter 2609

Weiss about the incident at the stairs.

3/4

Shana Nicholls wondered nervously. Moments later, she got up and said, "There's nothing serious with the madam's ankle. It's just sprained and swollen. It'll recover after applying medicine for a few days.”

She said as she took a jar of ointment from the medical kit.

She was about to pass it to Kyla, but Martin Weiss snatched the jar from her hands first. Then, he crouched down in front of Kyla to apply it to her ankle himself!

“Don’t move.” As Martin Weiss muttered, he took off her shoes and socks first. He held her foot with one hand and smeared her ankle with ointment with the other.

The cool ointment slowly seeped into her skin as he applied it, reducing the burning sensation she felt.

After he finished applying the ointment for her, he picked her up in his arms again before walking toward her room.

Kyla could feel the servants watching them.

Once they entered the room, he put her on the bed. Then, he left the ointment jar on the bedside table. “Remember the instructions. Three times a day.”

Chapter 2609

With that said, he turned around to leave.

4/4

“Wait!” She stopped him. “Was that... intentional?” Did he intentionally carry her, who was having trouble moving, and apply the ointment for her in front of everyone?

Chapter 2610

He could have asked someone else to do it for him.

“Anyway, you’re still my wife. We’re still married, and the people here should understand that,” said Martin Weiss.

Kyla felt her heart melt. He had always been this way. He would not say much but would express himself through his actions.

1/4

After this, the servants in the mansion probably would not dare disrespect her again. At least not until they divorced.

"Thanks," she said.

"Thanks?" He seemed slightly surprised. She was disrespected in the mansion because of him. He was only giving her the respect she deserved, yet she was earnestly thanking him!

"By the way, did you and my mother have some deal? What's this about the promise you made her at the hospital?" Martin Weiss asked suddenly.

Kyla tensed up suddenly. Her hands hanging at her sides could not help grabbing the hem of her clothes.

Chapter 2610

He had heard a good deal of her conversation with his mother.

2/4

How was she going to tell him that his mother had got on her knees to beg her to leave him? How would he react when he found out?

"You're not going to tell me?" Due to her long silence, he said, "I can figure it out even if you don't tell me. My mother must have asked you to leave me when I got injured and hospitalized to save you. She must've offered you something in exchange. What did she give you? Money? Or the condition that the Weiss family won't fight for the children's custody in the future?"

Shock flashed across Kyla's face. That expression was enough to let Martin Weiss know that he was right.

Martin Weiss smiled lightly and said, "I guess I got it right. Kyla, you said you wanted to separate from me because you were afraid of dragging me down, but now it seems that there was more to it than that."

"Yes, your mother asked me to leave you, but I didn't ask for anything in exchange. I chose to separate because--"

He interrupted her and said, "Because of what? Do you dare say that my mother had nothing to do with your decision to separate from me?"

Chapter 2610

3/4

She was speechless. Mrs. Weiss indeed had something to do with it.

If Mrs. Weiss had not begged her like that, maybe she would not have overthought it. Maybe she would already be with him, and he would not have chosen to undergo hypnosis...

Various causes and effects intertwined with each other to form today's situation.

"Look. You said you love me, but you could easily choose to leave me because of another person. It doesn't seem like you love me very much," Martin Weiss said mockingly as his deep eyes looked at Kyla. However, no one knew what was on his mind.

Kyla met Martin Weiss's eyes. "Do you think I don't love you all that much?"

"Isn't that the case?" He sneered. "Three months will soon pass. Then we won't have to see each other anymore."

Just as he was about to walk away, Kyla's suppressed emotions seemed to suddenly burst out. Ignoring the pain in her ankle, she got up, grabbed Martin Weiss, and pushed him to the bed with a sudden force.

Martin Weiss's face was full of shock. By the time he came to his senses, Kyla had already pressed both hands on his sides and bent over to look at him. He was underneath her.

Chapter 2610

4/4

Tears had welled up in her dark eyes at some point. It was as if those tears would escape at any time.

"Do you doubt my love for you that much?" Kyla sobbed. Her throat was full of bitterness, and she did not know how to vent
