

Ex Convict 3191

Chapter 3191

Lexi was at a loss and said, "Mom, what do we do now? How can I continue in the entertainment industry? After today's incident, everyone at school will know that my cousin and I have fallen out. Even if I want to get some resources, it will be difficult!"

The Lambert couple also looked worried. Auntie Sandy scolded her daughter, "Why did you provoke Valda again? Haven't you learned your lesson from last time?"

"I just can't stand Valda, who would have thought that Brian would protect that cripple like this!" Lexi broke out in frustration.

Auntie Sandy looked at her daughter and sighed. But in the future, that cripple would be the glorious lady of the Hart family, and what about them, the Lambert family? Without the protection of the Hart family, how long could they hold on?

Perhaps things would only get worse year by year and eventually they would become an ordinary family.

It's a pity that her daughter is still only thinking about the resources in the entertainment industry, without considering the more serious problems that the Lambert family will face in the future.

The Lambert couple exchanged a glance, without saying anything. However, they both saw the deep concern for the future in each other's eyes.

On the other side, after Valda got into the car with Brian, they drove to the entrance of a bridal shop. The wedding dresses here are all high-end and therefore come with a hefty price tag.

Valda looked at Brian and said, "You brought me here..."

"Let's look at wedding dresses. Although our wedding day is still half a year away, there are some things that we need to start preparing for," said Brian.

Valda thought about it and decided to follow Brian into the bridal shop.

In the store, she was a bit absent-minded when it came to choosing a wedding dress, as her mind kept wandering to Lexi's situation.

Although Lexi is not at fault for what happened, it was because of her that he had a falling out with his relatives. And in the future, how many more people will he have to confront in order to defend her?

"What's wrong?" Brian's voice sounded in Valda's ear.

"Not much, just thinking, will people criticize you for falling out with your relatives because of me?" She expressed her concern.

"If someone really wants to say something, then let them say it. I protect my own woman, and I don't see any problem with that," said Brian.

"I have my own woman" – these words made Valda's heart fill with sweetness.

Being protected by such a man is truly a happy thing.

"Alright, don't overthink it. It's time to choose a wedding dress. Look at which style you like and you can discuss the details with the designer later," said Brian.

And inside the store, rows and rows of wedding dresses are all beautiful and exquisite.

The crystals and diamonds embedded in the wedding dress are rarely seen on ordinary wedding dresses.
As a result, the price is definitely not affordable for ordinary people.

Looking at all these wedding dresses, Valda was a bit overwhelmed and didn't know which one to choose. They all looked so beautiful.

The staff then brought out a booklet which contained pictures of models wearing some of the key wedding dresses, as well as introductions to various wedding dress designers.

The designers who collaborate here are well-known wedding dress designers from both China and abroad, many of whom have won numerous awards.

Chapter 3192

Valda looked at the booklet and the designer introductions, and was momentarily unsure of what to do.

“Do you have a crush?” Brian asked.

Valda said, “They all look very nice. I don’t know which one to choose.”

“Let’s try on a few different types first and then make a specific choice,” said Brian. He then pointed to one of the wedding dresses in the catalog and asked, “What do you of this one?”

think

Valda looked and saw that Brian had chosen a wedding dress with a waist-cinching, open-top style. The skirt was adorned with many hand-embroidered roses, and the dress had a simple, straight-cut design with a straight neckline. The embroidery added a touch of grandeur and elegance to the dress.

It is very beautiful and elegant.

Valda was immediately drawn to this wedding dress. The one she chose would allow her legs to move without attracting attention, while also fitting her personal style.

“Okay, let’s try this one,” said Valda, She then went with the staff to the dressing room to change into the wedding dress.

Brian was sitting on the sofa waiting. Actually, it didn’t matter to him what kind of wedding dress she wore, as long as she was happy and satisfied.

Since he wants her to marry him, he will surely make her happy.

As long as she likes the wedding dress...

But when Valda appeared in front of Brian in a wedding dress, he suddenly realized that the type of dress she wore was not insignificant to him.

He found her so beautiful in the wedding dress that he couldn’t take his eyes off her.

He wanted to keep her to himself and not let anyone else see her.

"Is it pretty?" Valda asked as she walked up to him in the wedding dress.

"It's very beautiful," he replied in a slightly hoarse voice.

She turned around slowly because of her leg, "I think you have good taste. I also think this wedding dress is pretty!"

But to him, it wasn't just the dress that was beautiful, it was the person wearing it!

Standing in front of the full-length mirror, Brian bent down and asked Valda, "Are you really ready to marry me?"

"Yes," she said, "Brian, I want to marry you and see you every day." She also wanted to have children with him and have a big family in the future.

What she wants, actually has a lot, a lot.

And marrying him was the beginning of it all.

"Okay, then on the agreed day, you will be Mrs. Hart!" he said.

Next, Valda tried on several more wedding dresses, but still felt that the first one she tried on looked the best. Therefore, she tentatively decided on the first one.

Afterwards, you will need to communicate with the designer and discuss the details.

In the following days, Valda had a lot to do besides work, as she had to deal with many things related to her wedding. For example, she had to communicate with the designer about some modifications to her wedding dress. In addition to the good taste. I also think this wedding dress is pretty."

But to him, it wasn't just the dress that was beautiful, it was the person wearing it!

Standing in front of the full-length mirror, Brian bent down and asked Valda, "Are you really ready to marry me?"

3/4

"Yes," she said, "Brian, I want to marry you and see you every day." She also wanted to have children with him and have a big family in the future.

What she wants, actually has a lot, a lot.

And marrying him was the beginning of it all.

“Okay, then on the agreed day, you will be Mrs. Hart!” he said.

Next, Valda tried on several more wedding dresses, but still felt that the first one she tried on looked the best. Therefore, she tentatively decided on the first one.

Afterwards, you will need to communicate with the designer and discuss the details.

In the following days, Valda had a lot to do besides work, as she had to deal with many things related to her wedding. For example, she had to communicate with the designer about some modifications to her wedding dress. In addition to the wedding dress, she also had to finalize her dress, choose jewelry, and decide on her makeup and hairstyle for the big day.

“I didn’t realize there were so many things to do for a wedding.” Valda looked at Camille, who was trying on her bridesmaid dress.

Camille smiled and said, “You’re lucky. The Hart family is taking care of a lot of things, so you haven’t been too busy. Otherwise, with a wedding like this involving a wealthy family, there would be so much to prepare for that you would have been exhausted and wouldn’t have had the energy to work!”

“Agreed,” Valda said, then glanced at her friend. “What do you think of the bridesmaid dresses? Which set do you like?”

“Take this outfit,” said Camille, admiring herself before changing out of the formal dress and leaving the store with Valda.

wedding dress, she also had to finalize her dress, choose

jewelry, and decide on her makeup and hairstyle for the big day.

"I didn't realize there were so many things to do for a wedding." Valda looked at Camille, who was trying on her bridesmaid dress.

Camille smiled and said, "You're lucky. The Hart family is taking care of a lot of things, so you haven't been too busy. Otherwise, with a wedding like this involving a wealthy family, there would be so much to prepare for that you would have been exhausted and wouldn't have had the energy to work!"

"Agreed," Valda said, then glanced at her friend. "What do you think of the bridesmaid dresses? Which set do you like?"

"Take this outfit," said Camille, admiring herself before changing out of the formal dress and leaving the store with Valda.

Chapter 3193

"Are you planning to live in Brian's villa or the Hart family mansion after marriage?" Camille asked.

"I'll stay in the villa, where I can have more privacy. But on weekends, I'll spend one day at the Hart family mansion and one day at my small apartment with my godmother," Valda said.

"Did Brian agree to that?" Camille asked.

"Yes."

"Well, that's good. It's rare for a prince like Brian to be willing to spend one day a week with you in your small apartment after marriage," Camille said. "By the way, when do you plan to take your wedding photos?"

"Wedding photos?" Valda was puzzled.

"Don't tell me you forgot that you have to take wedding photos after getting married," Camille joked.

Valda looked embarrassed. She had actually forgotten about it, mainly because she had been too busy lately.

"Well, you can think about where to take your wedding photos. Many people like to go abroad for their wedding photos," Camille said. Although taking wedding photos abroad can be expensive, it's not a big deal for Brian.

Valda couldn't help but ponder, where to take wedding photos?!

If she really had to take wedding photos, she would prefer to do it in Emerald City.

Because this city is where they both grew up and also where they fell in love and met each other!

In the evening, when Valda and Brian were video calling, she asked, "Brian, have you thought about when we should take our wedding photos?"

"I'm fine with it, but I can see that you're busy lately. I was actually planning to bring up this matter with you at a later time," said Brian.

"I estimate that we'll have some free time next week," said Valda.

"Do you have a place in mind for where to take photos?"

"Regarding Emerald City, what do you think?" she asked for his opinion.

"Okay, let's shoot in Emerald City. Do you have any favorite photographers?" he asked.

She shook her head.

"I'll go find a good photography team. If you have any ideas for the shoot, you can discuss them with them," said Brian.

"Mhmm," Valda responded, already imagining what it would be like to take wedding photos with Brian.

Wedding photos... I'm actually really looking forward to them!

Valda couldn't help but smile sweetly, as if she was starting to feel the reality of getting married.

A week later, after Valda finished her work, Brian's wedding photography team was also ready to shoot the photos. They discussed their ideas for the shoot with Valda.

Valda also had many ideas and she hoped that these wedding photos could have an additional layer of meaning.

"Take a set of photos under the big tree?" Brian looked at the itinerary and turned to ask Valda.

"Mhmm," she nodded. "That big tree is where we first met and it feels like the place where all our fate began, so I want to take a set of photos over there."

If at that time, he hadn't stood under that tree and she hadn't given that casual glance, perhaps none of these things would have happened between them. Maybe they would have missed each other like that.

Chapter 3194

Sometimes life can be really amazing, the difference between missing out and not missing out can be just a moment.

"So let's take a set of photos there," said Brian. "But even though it's not in tMason Swansonty center, there are still pedestrians on the streets nearby. When we take the photos, there may be people watching."

He knew that she didn't like to attract too much attention, so he spoke up to remind her.

"Anyway, wedding photos are only taken once in a lifetime, so let people watch if they want to," Valda said with a carefree attitude. "And if I marry you in the future, I might be watched by even more people, so it's better to get used to it now."

Brian pulled Valda close and spoke softly, "Valda, I don't want you to marry me and force yourself to do things you don't enjoy. If in the future, you don't like being watched by others, I will provide you with a peaceful environment where no one will disturb you or gossip about you. I will do everything in my power to create the life you want."

Valda looked steadily at the man in front of her. He had protected her from the wind and rain, and had given everything for her. How could she not love someone like him?

"Brian," she gently wrapped her hands around his neck and looked up, "I know you want to protect me, give me the best of everything, and let me live freely even after marriage. But for me, I believe that marriage is a two-way street that requires effort and compromise. If I am going to marry you, then I also want to take on my share of responsibilities. I don't want to be just a sheltered flower that you take care of. I want to face challenges with you and create our future together."

The softness in his gaze intensified, she was truly becoming stronger through gradual change.

Her strength made him feel sorry for her, but it also made him love her more. "Okay, let's create our future life together," he said.

He promised and lowered his head to kiss her.

She smiled sweetly and met his kiss.

She knew that the future would be even better.

Several scenes were chosen for the wedding photoshoot, mostly in the scenic area where the venue could be rented. However, for the set under the big tree, they had to try to take the photos during a time when there were fewer people around.

The first day of the shoot was for the set under the tree.

Valda got up early to start doing her makeup.

The bride's makeup and styling naturally took a lot of time, but watching herself become more beautiful in the mirror was also a pleasant experience.

Finally, when the makeup and styling were done, Valda walked out of the makeup room and saw that Brian had been waiting there for a while.

Today, he was wearing a white suit, his black hair combed back to reveal a full forehead, his well-defined facial features and slightly enhanced makeup making him look even more refined and elegant, even better than many popular male stars.

For a moment, Valda couldn't help but stare, and even a voice in her heart asked, "Is this man really going to be my husband soon?"

Chapter 3195

"Come here." Brian reached out his hand to Valda, with a gentle smile on his lips.

She was a little stunned and for a moment, she forgot to walk towards him and hold his hand. She just stood there foolishly, looking at him.

He raised an eyebrow slightly and took the initiative to walk up to her, holding her hand and asking, "What's wrong? You didn't react when I called you."

Only then did she suddenly come back to her senses and replied nervously, "I just think you're too good-looking... and I got stunned."

The curve of his lips became even more pronounced. "Oh? That's my honor. I can make my lady stunned."

The word "lady" spoken from his mouth made her blush.

"When we start shooting later, there will probably be a lot of women crowding around you to watch," she said. His appearance was indeed very attractive.

"No matter how many people are watching, as long as you're looking at me, that's all that matters," he said.

Suddenly, Valda felt her cheeks getting even hotter.

When they arrived at the tree, Valda looked at the big tree where they first met. For a moment, she felt overwhelmed with emotions.

Because Valda wanted to recreate the scene of their first meeting, Brian stood under the tree while Valda slowly approached him with an umbrella in hand, offering it to him.

The only difference this time was that he took the umbrella she handed him and they smiled at each other under it.

Valda's lips curved into a smile, and in that moment, she forgot about the photographer taking pictures and the people watching around her. It was as if her eyes only saw him.

Perhaps it was meant to be this way, that one glance could last a lifetime. That initial look made her unable to forget this man, which is why she would occasionally think of him later on. So when he asked to be in a relationship, it was only natural for her to agree.

The filming is still ongoing, and more and more people are starting to gather around.

Even though Brian had arranged several bodyguards to block the crowd around him, it gradually turned into a mob, and even the police were called in.

Many people there took out their phones and started recording the scene, and some even recognized Brian's identity.

"Oh my, what's going on? The prince is actually taking wedding photos?"

"Are you shooting some kind of advertisement?"

“How is that possible? Have you ever seen the prince do an advertisement for anyone before? And this woman, isn’t she the same girlfriend that the prince himself admitted to before? She even did a live broadcast before!”

“Is the prince taking wedding photos with this woman? Are they getting married?”

There were various discussions and opinions. Soon after, many posts about today’s wedding photo shoot even appeared online. During the break, when Valda and Brian got on the RV, Camille called.

“Sister, congratulations, you’re trending again! But the way you looked in your wedding photos today was really beautiful! Especially when you were standing next to Brian, it felt like I was watching a romantic drama,” said Camille.

“Did it trend?” Valda exclaimed in surprise.

“Exactly, why don’t you go take a look yourself later? It’s currently trending at number ten, but I don’t think it’ll be long before it jumps straight to number one,” said Camille.

After ending the call, Valda quickly browsed the web and found the news about her wedding photoshoot today. It had already become a hot topic and had risen to the ninth place in the rankings.

Chapter 3196

When she opened the content, she saw some photos taken by onlookers. The photos looked like scenes from a drama, quite similar to idol dramas.

“Should I compress the news for you?” Brian asked.

Valda paused for a moment and shook her head, saying “No need, let’s just go with the flow.” Then, she also took a screenshot of a trending topic.

Brian raised his eyebrows and asked, “Why did you take a screenshot?”

“Let’s show these photos to our children in the future!” She said with a smile, “We can tell them that their mommy and daddy took these wedding photos and even became trending topics. Most people don’t even get to experience that.”

Brian laughed. He had been worried about trending and how it might affect her mood, but it turned out to be unnecessary.

After Valda finished taking screenshots, she continued scrolling through the comments below. Some comments were full of blessings, while others were cursing Valda.

What are they saying about the Crown Prince marrying such a worthless woman? Some are even questioning how he could be so blind. Others are predicting that even if they do get married, they will eventually get divorced.

Others have suggested that the prince was likely just temporarily confused and will come to his senses soon, which would mean there won't be a wedding after all.

Valda scrolled through the screen with her finger, reading through each comment, whether positive or negative.

Brian, who was sitting next to her, naturally watched with her. However, he didn't watch for long before frowning and saying to Valda, "Stop watching."

She looked up at his stern face and asked, "Are you unhappy?"

"Do you think I would be happy to see those online comments that are insulting you?" he said. "I will immediately have someone delete those comments and push down the trending topic!"

He said it and then reached for his phone.

She hurriedly held onto his hand and said, "No, this will only make us look guilty. Besides, I'm not like the currency that everyone loves. It's their business if they have something to say. In the future, our love and happiness will be the best way to prove them wrong."

Valda is now more open-minded towards negative comments and criticisms about her attacks that she used to take poorly.

To stand by Brian's side, you must make yourself stronger.

"But..."

There's nothing much to say, but also, I saw in the comments that many people are saying you're handsome, with no flaws from any angle, and some are even saying that if you were to act in an idol drama, it would definitely be a hit! Valda changed the subject and talked about some interesting comments, "And just now, I saw someone use your profile picture and edited it into a historical costume, it looks really good. I think your historical costume style has a unique charm. How about we take a set of immortal and martial arts style photos for our wedding photoshoot?"

"You can do whatever you want, it's fine with me," said Brian. He didn't have any objections, as long as Valda was happy.

"Regardless of whether you're filming a modern drama or a historical drama, it will definitely be very beautiful, I really want to see how you perform in a TV drama," she murmured as she gently stroked his eyebrows and eyes with her hand.

"all, if he wanted to make a TV drama, it would be a piece of cake for him.

The prince wants to make a drama, but he's afraid that there will be too many cast members coming to audition for roles.

Chapter 3197

"Are you serious?" Valda blinked her eyes.

"Of course it's true. If you want to see it, then what's the harm in me making a movie or TV show about it?" he replied.

She bit her lip slightly and after some thought, said, "Let's forget it. Although I really want to watch it, if you act in it, there will be a female lead who acts alongside you. Seeing you fall in love with the female lead in the drama, I might get jealous. So... it's better not to film it. Just thinking about it is enough."

"Do you get jealous?" he asked with great interest. Come to think of it, he hardly ever saw her display any jealousy.

"Sure," Valda said, "I'm not a saint, so of course I get jealous! Even if I know that there's nothing going on between you and the other person, if I see you acting intimately, I still feel jealous and uncomfortable."

He smiled slightly and said, "Don't worry, there shouldn't be any chance for you to feel jealous in the future, although... I actually kind of want to see what you would look like when you're jealous."

Valda was speechless for a moment.

The hot topic about wedding photos has indeed risen to the top. The photo shoot for the wedding photos has been going on for several days now. Due to Valda's leg condition, Brian has been considerate and only shoots one scene per day, fearing that she might get too tired.

This afternoon, Valda was pulled to do her makeup again. She was a bit puzzled and asked Brian, "Didn't we finish shooting already?"

"We still have a set of night scene photos to take tonight. Once we finish that, it will be officially completed," Brian replied.

"Night scene?" Valda was confused. "Where are we going to take the night scene?"

"You'll know when we get there," Brian said.

At night, Valda finished her makeup, changed her clothes, and sat in the car, following Brian to the shooting location.

Only when she arrived did she realize that it was the amusement park they had visited together before. It was already old-fashioned in tMason Swansonty, but it held many memories for them.

There were memories of her playing here with her parents when she was young, memories of him sneaking here with his classmates when he was young, and memories of them coming here together.

"This place is not open at night," Valda reminded him. It closed at 5:30 pm.

"I know. It's precisely because it's not open to the public at night that it's convenient for taking photos," he said, holding her hand and walking towards the amusement park.

The amusement park at night was so different from during the day.

Right now, the amusement park is very quiet and there are no visitors. However, all the lights are on, illuminating the amusement facilities, creating a peaceful atmosphere after the hustle and bustle.

After a moment of confusion, Valda finally caught up and responded slowly, "Did you rent the whole place?"

"Well, it's not difficult to rent out the amusement park at night. How about taking a set of photos here?" Brian suggested.

"Great!" Valda responded. She never thought she would experience a theme park buyout scene like in a TV show.

At the amusement park, the staff for taking wedding photos were also ready, so the shooting began.

Due to the fact that it was a private booking, the situation was quite ideal and there were not many people to disturb us. The filming process went smoothly as well.

However, because there were many picturesque spots in the amusement park and it held many memories for Valda, she couldn't resist asking for more photos to be taken.

Chapter 3198

"If my parents were still alive and knew that I was taking wedding photos here today, they would definitely be very happy," Valda said with emotion. She also pointed to the nearby Ferris wheel and said, "At that time, I even told them that in the future, I would find the most handsome groom on that Ferris wheel!"

Thinking of the childish words from the past, she couldn't help but smile. However, her eyes couldn't help but turn red because she thought of her deceased parents.

I wish... my parents were still alive to see her happy now.

"Let's go, and ride the Ferris wheel up there," said Brian, holding Valda's hand and greeting the staff with a nod.

The staff then activated the equipment.

After Valda got on the Ferris wheel with Brian, she realized that the photographer who was supposed to follow them didn't come up. She looked at Brian with confusion and asked, "Aren't they going to take pictures?"

"I won't take any photos on the Ferris wheel because I want to do something. I only want to face you and don't want anyone else to disturb us," said Brian.

"What's the matter?" Valda asked.

"Will you marry me?" Brian said. "I haven't formally proposed to you yet. I was planning to do it after the shoot today, when we were alone together. But proposing on the Ferris wheel like this is also great."

He spoke and took out a sparkling diamond ring from his pocket. Then, he knelt down on one knee in front of her and said, "Valda, will you marry me? From now on, I will never leave your side. I will protect you, love you, and cherish you for the rest of our lives. From this moment on, my life is yours!"

Valda's eyes became moist instantly as she stared at the man kneeling in front of her with one knee. The diamond ring in his hand was so brilliant and dazzling, as if it was meant to witness eternity.

Valda leaned down and cupped Brian's face in her hands. She placed a kiss on his forehead and whispered, "Brian, you are my future for the rest of my life."

Their remaining years, she doesn't know how many, but she thinks that the rest of their lives will surely be wonderful.

When the engagement ring was placed on her hand, Brian stood up and embraced Valda.

She leaned against his chest, listening to the strong beating of his heart and watching the starry moonlight through the transparent glass of the Ferris wheel. If her parents saw Brian, they would surely be very happy.

"Brian, before we get married, would you accompany me to visit my parents' graves? I want to share this good news with them and make them happy too," Valda murmured.

"Okay, then let's go together to visit your parents," Brian replied.

The hot search for wedding photos lasted for three days before it ended.

Valda's life is still the same as usual, and there hasn't been any leak of her personal information online. Her studio is also running as usual, with no reporters camping out.

Valda knows that these benefits are due to Brian's connections and actions, which allow her to enjoy the peace of an ordinary person.

And when Valda saw the finished wedding photos, she felt a strong sense of happiness in her heart.

Chapter 3199

Time passes day by day, and their agreed wedding date is getting closer and closer.

These days, every rehabilitation session for Valda is not easy and she has to endure the pain. However, every time, Brian takes the time to accompany her.

She had also told him before, "You don't have to come and accompany me during my rehabilitation. There's nothing for you to do here, you can only wait outside and be bored, isn't that very dull?"

But he said, "I don't find it boring. For me, I can't understand or endure your pain, but at least I can be with you when you're in pain. Valda, this is not a boring thing for me."

“So, do you plan on staying with me until the wedding?” she asked.

“No, I will also be with you all the time after the wedding,” he said.

That was his lifelong promise! His companionship was not just about accompanying her during rehabilitation, but also about being with her for the rest of her life.

Brian’s wedding has naturally attracted a lot of attention, with some even betting that he might call it off.

However, until one week before the wedding, there was no news of calling off the wedding.

Three days before the wedding, Brian accompanied Valda to visit her parents’ graves.

This is not the first time he has accompanied her here, but it is the most formal one.

Today, he was dressed in a black suit with a black bow tie and a white shirt underneath, looking just like he did on his wedding day.

Valda stood in front of a grave wearing the wedding dress she was going to wear at her wedding in three days.

In three days, she is getting married, so she wants her parents to see what she looks like on her wedding day. Initially, she only planned to wear her wedding dress, but after he found out about her idea, he also dressed up in a suit that one would wear on their wedding day and went with her to visit her parents’ graves.

“Brian, thank you,” Valda sincerely said.

“What is there to be thankful for? It’s only natural for them to see what we looked like when we got married, isn’t it?” said

Brian.

Valda smiled and said, “If my parents knew I had found such a wonderful husband, they would be happy for me! I think they are watching us from the afterlife and smiling at us.”

Brian held Valda’s hand and said to the tombstone, “Mom, Dad, don’t worry. I will take good care of Valda, love her, protect her, and give her everything I have.”

Valda was taken aback when he referred to her parents...

“You...”

“They are your parents, and now that you are going to be my wife, it’s only natural for me to call them mom and dad, right?”

he said.

Valda’s eyes became slightly moist, but a smile appeared on her lips.

“Okay, let’s light the incense first,” said Brian.

The two of them personally lit the prepared incense and candles for the offering, and then Valda placed the food she had made herself.

The breeze in the cemetery gently brushed against Valda’s body. She looked at the photos of her parents on the tombstone, and her eyes gradually became moist.

I wish my parents were still alive, and I wish they could attend her wedding.

However, in life, there are always too many regrets that cannot be perfect.

Perhaps this is what life is all about, and what makes it more precious.

As the candle was about to burn out, Valda spoke to the gravestone, “Mom and Dad, I am very happy now. Brian is really good to me. Every year from now on, he and I will come to visit you. In the future, we will also bring our children to visit you together.”

The wind blew through the leaves, making a rustling sound, as if responding to her words.

Valda knelt in front of the tombstone, wanting to pay her respects to her parents in a solemn manner. However, what she didn’t expect was for Brian to also kneel down beside her.

Chapter 3200

“Brian, you—” Valda looked surprised.

“In the past, during weddings, there used to be a ceremony to show our respect to parents. Now, we will do it in advance,” said Brian.

Suddenly, her tears couldn’t be held back any longer and rolled down from her eyes.

He lifted his hand and gently wiped away the tears on her face. "Don't cry, your parents are still watching."

She sniffled and smiled with tears in her eyes, saying, "My parents will definitely like you as their son-in-law."

He wiped away her tears and together they turned to face the tombstone. They both knelt down respectfully and bowed.

This is... the greatest respect and gratitude towards her parents.

I am grateful that they gave birth to Valda.

I am grateful to them for protecting Valda with their lives during the most dangerous time.

If Valda didn't exist in this world, then his life would still be bleak up until now.

Kneeling is finished.

Brian and Valda stood up. Brian took Valda's hand and walked her to the steps leading down the mountain. He looked at her and said, "Let me carry you down the mountain. You walked up here by yourself and stood in front of the tombstone for so long. Your legs must be hurting now."

A hint of embarrassment flashed across her expression. He had guessed correctly – her legs had indeed started to ache, but it wasn't too severe. She should be able to make it down the mountain.

"I have no problem walking down the mountain," said Valda.

"I'll carry you," Brian insisted.

"But my wedding dress is very heavy, it would be too tiring for you to carry me down the mountain," said Valda.

Brian smiled slightly and said, "Don't worry, your husband's physical strength is not that bad. Besides, even if it's heavy, I want to carry it. In the future, when your legs hurt, I will carry you."

He spoke and then voluntarily knelt down in front of her.

Valda finally lowered herself and lay on Brian's back when she saw him. However, even so, she still expressed some concern, saying, "If you get tired, please let me know.""

"Okay," he said, but deep down he knew that even if he was truly tired, he wouldn't admit it.

Because he couldn't bear to see her suffer from leg pain, he couldn't bear to see her walking on mountain roads while in pain.

And so, he carried her on his back and slowly made his way down the mountain. Even though sweat dripped down his forehead and he grew tired and exhausted as they walked, he still couldn't bear to put her down.

She knew that, more than exhaustion, he felt a sense of happiness.

He felt really happy carrying her like this.