

Ex Convict 3201

Chapter 3201

On the day of the formal wedding, the whole city was bustling with excitement. Online, there was an overwhelming amount of information about the wedding.

After all, how could the wedding of a prince in the entertainment industry not attract gossip? Especially when the bride is a Cinderella with a limp, it's just like a fairy tale.

And the online reputation has been slowly changing over the past six months.

Valda has become a role model for many ordinary girls. After all, many people hope to be Cinderella and have their own prince, and Valda has given these people hope.

Who says a prince can't fall in love with an ordinary girl!

Even more, Valda has a limp leg, but the prince still loves her and doesn't regret marrying her!

Besides the attention on the newlyweds, the guests at the wedding were also impressive.

Almost all the celebrities in Emerald City and big names in the entertainment industry came to attend the wedding.

The streets outside the wedding hotel were already lined with safety barriers and security guards, but there were still many people who came to watch on both sides of the hotel entrance, desperately taking photos with their phones or cameras as the celebrities arrived in their cars.

Especially when those stars got out of their cars, their fans shouted their names loudly, making the scene almost as exciting as a red carpet event.

And at this moment, in the dressing room, Valda is wearing her wedding dress, looking at herself in the mirror with exquisite makeup.

The wedding will be held soon.

She is already familiar with the wedding procedures and even rehearsed a few times yesterday, so she shouldn't make any mistakes. However, she suddenly became nervous at this moment.

As time passed, the tension seemed to become even heavier.

"What's wrong? Why do you look so serious?" Camille walked into the dressing room and gently patted her friend's shoulder.

"Ah, it's normal to feel nervous for your first wedding. Don't worry, everything will be fine. Brian will be by your side soon, so you don't have to worry," said Camille.

Although that may be the case, Valda's sense of tension is still difficult to eliminate.

“By the way, your wedding today was like a grand event in the entertainment industry. I wonder how many people will envy you. Even at award ceremonies, you don’t see so many big-name celebrities,” Camille exclaimed. “Do you think if I ask for autographs, they will give them to me?”

Valda said, “You’ll definitely get their autographs if you wear this bridesmaid dress. After all, they have to show some respect no matter what.”

Valda is certain about this point.

“Sure,” Camille said, checking the time. “We have 20 minutes until the admission time. Do you want to use the restroom or anything?”

“No need,” Valda shook her head, her face looking a bit pale due to nervousness.

“I’ll go outside and check the situation first,” Camille said, walking out of the dressing room.

4/5 At this moment, there were only Valda, the makeup artist, and a few assistants in the dressing room.

The makeup artist checked Valda’s makeup and then had an assistant bring in the wedding shoes, preparing to help Valda put them on.

Just then, the dressing room door was pushed open and Brian walked in.

Brian said to the others, “You guys can leave, I need to talk to Valda alone for a few minutes.”

“But the wedding shoes...”

“I’ll help Valda put them on,” Brian said.

So the makeup artist and the assistants left the dressing room one after another.

Now, only Brian and Valda were left in the room.

Brian crouched down in front of Valda and picked up one of the wedding shoes. He carefully put it on Valda’s foot.

Then, they took another wedding shoe and put it on her other foot.

5/5 Valda stared at the man squatting in front of her, feeling a bit dazed. In this world, he was the man who easily surrendered his emotions to her, and the man she would cherish for the rest of her life.

When he finished putting on her wedding shoes, she asked, “How did you come in? Weren’t you supposed to be outside greeting the guests?”

Chapter 3202

“Your parents are welcoming the guests,” said Brian. “I heard from Camille that you’re feeling nervous now?”

“She felt a bit embarrassed and stuck out her tongue. ‘Did she tell you?’”

He smiled slightly and said, "Don't worry, I've got everything under control."

A gentle voice and a simple sentence miraculously eased the nervousness in her heart little by little...

"I'm worried that if I make a mistake or fall down, it will be very embarrassing," Valda expressed her concerns. "And on a day like today, if I really mess up, I won't just be losing face for myself, but also for the Hart family."

"Don't worry, even if you really made a mistake, you don't have to be afraid of losing face or embarrassing the Hart family. The Hart family is your reliable support, not something you have to be cautious about," said Brian.

Valda felt her heart warm as she heard Brian continue, "Even if you did make a mistake, I'll be there with you every step of the way. After all, it's our wedding, and we can do things our way, right?"

Valda held Brian's face in her hands and leaned in slightly, pressing her forehead against his. "Brian, I'm okay now because... you'll be by my side."
"Yes, I'll be by your side," he murmured in reply.

When it was time for her to make an appearance, Valda stood alone at one end of the red carpet.

In a normal procedure, the bride's father would lead her to the groom at this moment. However, Valda's father has passed away, and their family has lost contact with their relatives. Therefore, there are no male relatives present at this moment.

Originally, the Hart family planned to have a male relative escort Valda down the red carpet, but Valda refused.

"I'll go by myself," she decided.

Instead of finding someone who doesn't have much emotional connection to walk this path with her, she would rather walk it alone by herself.

Because this is the most important journey of her life.

On the Hart family's side, they agreed to her request.

And so, at this moment, Valda held a bouquet of flowers in her hand and walked step by step towards Brian, who was standing on the stage in front of the banquet hall.

That is the future, and the man she will spend the rest of her life with is the person she loves the most in this world!

From now on, she will rely on and stay with him, they will have children together, and grow old together with white hair.

Her footsteps were unusually firm. Everything around her seemed to gradually fade away, and in her eyes, there was only the presence of one person.

At this moment, she can clearly hear the sound of her own heartbeat and breathing.

These are not due to nervousness, but rather anticipation.

Because she was eagerly hoping to become his wife soon!

Finally, Valda arrived in front of Brian. The distance was short, but it took her over two years to get there.

When he lifted the veil of her wedding dress, she smiled gracefully.

Chapter 3203

The wedding emcee is reciting a prepared script.

When it was time for the bride and groom to exchange vows, Brian held the microphone and looked at Valda. He said, "Valda, thank you for coming into my life. I know I didn't protect you well in the past and you suffered a lot of pain. But from now on, I will protect you with my life. As long as I'm alive, I won't let anyone hurt you."

Valda looked surprised for a moment.

Brian is currently using a script that was prepared during the rehearsal, but he has also added some parts on the spot.

"Valda, today you have married me, and I will never let you leave again. For me, there is only one person who can become my wife, and that is you. Only you can truly make me happy and bring me joy. So, from now on, please stay by my side and let me protect you and love you, okay?"

Valda's eyes became moist, "Okay, I won't leave you, Brian. I love you too. You are the person I love the most in this world."

Brian picked up the wedding ring, took Valda's hand, and put it on her ring finger.

Valda picked up the men's ring and took Brian's hand. She put the ring on his ring finger and said, "From now on, you belong to me too."

As her voice trailed off, he lowered his head and kissed her lips. The surroundings fell silent, then erupted into thunderous.

applause.

Grace watched happily from the audience as Brian and Valda embraced.

"They say true love always finds a way. You should let go now," a familiar voice suddenly whispered in her ear.

Grace turned her head and met the familiar peach blossom eyes of Jason.

He understood her well. He knew that if Brian and Valda missed their chance, she would blame herself for a lifetime.

“Well, I can relax now,” Grace smiled slightly. “They will be very happy in the future.”

“So will we,” Jason said, gently taking Grace’s hand.

Holding hands and growing old together, nothing is better than this.

The wedding banquet continued, with Valda and Brian toasting the guests. Many people were chatting with each other, as it was a rare occasion to gather so many celebrities and film industry bigwigs. It was a great opportunity for people to meet and get to know each other better.

As for the children who came to attend the banquet, they ran and played in the banquet hall, adding a lot of lively atmosphere to the scene.

Jasper was led to the bathroom by her nanny. The nanny was supposed to lead her back to the main hall, but while they were walking down the hallway, they suddenly heard a melodious piano sound.

Jasper suddenly stopped in her tracks. She plays the piano, so she naturally pays extra attention to the sound of it.

So she stood still, listening to this piano piece.

In just a moment, she recognized that it was Liszt’s super challenging Transcendental Etude No. 12 Chasse-neige.

Although the person playing the piano may not be very fluent, there is a wonderful rhythm in the sound of the piano that gives people a beautiful feeling.

“Ms. Jasper, it’s time to return to the main hall,” the nanny on the side urged.

“Wait a bit longer,” muttered Jasper, unable to resist the urge to follow the sound of the piano.

She wants to know who is playing this song.

“Hey, Ms. Jasper, where are you going?” The nanny hurried to catch up, but she didn’t dare to forcefully take Jasper back to the main hall. After all, she was Mr. Reed’s most beloved third daughter.

“I’ll see who’s playing the piano!” said Jasper.

Chapter 3204

Following the sound, I arrived at the door of a utility room at the end of the hallway.

The sound of the guqin came from this cluttered room.

Just as she was about to open the door, someone else opened it first. A small figure, about the same height as Jasper, suddenly darted out of the storeroom and collided with him. Then, the figure quickly ran towards the safety passage on the side and disappeared in an instant.

Jasper was hit and fell to the ground. The nanny quickly approached and asked, “Miss Jasper, are you okay? Did you hurt yourself?”

Jasper shook his head and looked towards the cluttered room with the door open.

In the cluttered room at this moment, there is no one around, but a piano is prominently placed in the room.

Jasper looked puzzled for a moment. Could it be that the person who was playing the piano just now was the same boy who bumped into her and ran away earlier?

The nanny helped Jasper up, and just then, a voice suddenly sounded, “Jasper, what are you doing here?”

Jasper looked up and saw William running towards her with a nervous expression. “Did you fall just now?” he asked.

“Yeah, someone bumped into me and I fell,” Jasper muttered. She then turned to her nanny who was walking beside her. “Coty, did you see the guy who bumped into me just now?”

"I didn't see him clearly," the nanny apologized. "The kid was running too fast and I was only focused on you, Miss Jasper."

Jasper felt regretful upon hearing this. "I didn't see what he looked like either. He ran too fast. I wish I had caught him just now!"

William asked, "Do you want to find the guy who bumped into you just now?"

"Yes!" Jasper's expression became excited again. "William, do you know what? That guy played the piano so well just now! He should be around our age. Although his skills may not be that good, the piece he played had a special taste to it..."

She chattered on about her feelings towards the piece she heard just now, but didn't notice the flash of panic in William's eyes.

A boy around their age who can play the piano well enough. to impress Jasper? If...if Jasper had caught the guy just now, then...

William couldn't bear to imagine it.

Wasn't it because Jasper liked his piano playing that he became close to him and even became friends with him?

So if another person who plays the piano well enough to attract her appears, will she become close to that person and become friends with them?

A sense of panic spread within him, and he suddenly reached out and grabbed her hand.

"Oh? William, you're holding my hand too tightly," Jasper cried out in pain.

William suddenly realized that he had been holding her hand too tightly. He quickly loosened his grip, but still maintained the posture of holding her hand.

"We should go back soon, or else the adults will come looking for us," said William.

"Oh." Jasper looked back at the emergency exit with some reluctance, regretting that he didn't catch the little boy earlier.

"The song just now was really nice. If only you were with me, William, you could have listened to it with me. Maybe we could have even stopped the musician and asked for more!" said

Jasper.

William's body trembled slightly, then he took Jasper's hand and said, "Let's go, otherwise your parents will worry if they don't see you."

He took her hand and led her towards the main hall of the wedding banquet, while the nanny followed closely behind, matching their steps.

Chapter 3205

When they arrived at the main hall, Grace was already looking for her daughter. When she saw her daughter and William walking in hand in hand, she approached them and asked, "Where did you go just now? Auntie Valda and Uncle Brian will come over to this table to toast in a while. Do you remember what Mommy told you at home about what to say?"

"Remember to congratulate Auntie Valda and Uncle Brian on their happy marriage, and also wish them to have a baby soon!" Jasper grinned.

Grace nodded in satisfaction.

"By the way, Mommy, I heard someone playing the piano in the hallway earlier. It sounded really nice! And the person playing was a little boy around my age, but I didn't catch him," Jasper mentioned the incident again. She couldn't stop thinking about the beautiful piano music she heard earlier.

"A boy around your age?" Grace was momentarily stunned. Her daughter's talent on the piano had been praised by many piano masters.

And being able to play the piano to a level that even Jasper finds pleasing, at a similar age to his daughter, it is likely that the little boy also has an exceptional talent for the instrument.

"Mhmm." Jasper nodded his little head heavily. "Mommy, can you help me find him? I want to hear him play the piano again!"

"This..." Grace hadn't had a chance to answer when William spoke up beside her. "Jasper, if you want to listen to piano music, I can play for you!"

Although he has been studying various courses arranged by his father for the past few years, he has had less time to play the piano. However, he still manages to practice every day by setting aside a certain amount of time.

He knew that she loved the piano and that it was the strongest bond between them.

So, he definitely cannot give up this bond.

“But, William, the way you play the piano is different from that person,” Jasper murmured.

William bit his lip slightly, seeming embarrassed and unsure.

“William plays very well too,” Grace intervened, trying to smooth things over, while secretly sighing at her daughter’s obliviousness.

Although the two children are not even 10 years old yet, one is too mature for their age and the other clearly doesn’t understand anything.

Usually, she and her husband often discuss what would happen if Jasper ends up not liking William in the future.

“If that’s really the case, then even if it’s painful, William can only bear it himself. My daughter cannot be wronged,” Jason said.

Watching William’s current expression, Grace couldn’t help but feel sorry for the boy.

Over the years, she has seen how William considers Jasper to be the most important person in his life. Whatever Jasper likes, William will do and give to her.

How many people can meet someone like that in their lifetime?

However, it seems that the children are still too young, and Jasper only sees William as a very important friend.

Chapter 3206

And William, he’s probably just naive and doesn’t really understand what love is yet. He just sees Jasper as the most important person in his life, even to the point of having some puppy love tendencies.

And in the future, no one can know how these two children will develop.

"I didn't say William doesn't play well, but the feeling when they both play the piano is different!" Jasper said casually, still immersed in the piano music he had just heard.

At this moment, Brian and Valda have arrived at this table to offer a toast. Grace then took a few children and together with Jason, they returned the toast to the newlyweds.

The triplets followed the previous rehearsal and congratulated the newlyweds, making Valda giggle uncontrollably.

"Brian and Valda, I wish you happiness!" Grace sincerely said.

"Thank you," Brian said, looking at Grace and understanding her gesture. Then he clinked glasses with Grace and they drank together.

For so many years, I was obsessed and trapped in the mud of emotions, but in the end, I was saved by another person.

He doesn't regret loving Grace. Without that love for Grace, he might have missed out on being with Valda.

The relationship between him and Valda, one could say, was brought about by Grace!

When Brian and Valda finished their drinks at this table and moved on to the next one, Jason looked at Grace and said, "They will surely be very happy in the future."

"Yeah, Brian really, really loves Valda," Grace murmured.

This is the ending she most wants to see!

When Valda fell into the water and couldn't be found for a year, she thought she would never see this scene again!

Fortunately, Valda has returned!

Grace and Jason sat back down, and Jasper leaned in close to Grace again. He continued with the previous question,

"Mommy, can you help me find that boy?"

"Which boy?" Jason asked with great interest.

So Jasper repeated the incident of hearing the piano music in the hallway and the person running out of the storeroom.

Jason's eyes flickered with a hint of thoughtfulness, "So, does Jasper really want to find that boy?"

"Mmm, I want to hear him play the piano again," the little one nodded vigorously.

Jason looked at William standing next to Jasper and asked, "What about William? Do you want Jasper to find that boy?"

William's body suddenly stiffened and met Jason's gaze.

In an instant, he felt as though the other person had seen through all of his thoughts.

Every time he was looked at like this by Uncle Reed, he felt like he couldn't hide anything and felt a heavy sense of oppression.

He certainly doesn't want Jasper to find that boy, nor does he want her to develop feelings for someone else's piano and then... develop feelings for that person!

Because... he used to be like this!

If he didn't have a piano back then, maybe Jasper wouldn't have been so interested in him!

Chapter 3207

"So, do you want it or not?" Jason's voice rang out again.

"I..." William shifted his lips, feeling like all the words were stuck in his throat.

"Of course William wants to find him too!" Jasper interrupted, then turned excitedly to William and said, "William, when we find that boy, let's listen to him play the piano together so you can understand what I mean by 'flavor'! And then we can play the piano together, it'll be so much fun!"

Jasper's bright eyes sparkled like stars, and his hopeful expression made William's uncomfortable feeling grow stronger, as if he would lose her if that boy was found.

But he couldn't bring himself to say no, because he didn't want to see her disappointed.

So he could only say, "Um, of course...I also hope we can find him."

"I knew it!" Jasper raised his chin triumphantly and looked at his dad.

Jason smiled slightly, "Then I'll find this boy and let him play the piano for Jasper and you all again."

"Thank you, Dad!" Jasper immediately showed a brilliant smile.

Grace looked at her husband disapprovingly and asked when the nanny took the children to another part of the banquet hall, "Do you really want to help Jasper find that boy?"

“Why not? Since Jasper wants to hear that boy play the piano again, what harm is there in fulfilling our daughter’s small wish?” said Jason.

“But William, he...”

“He just said it earlier, didn’t he? He also hopes to find that boy,” Jason chuckled.

“You clearly know that the child is not genuinely willing!” Grace said. She could even see through William’s thoughts, and she didn’t believe he couldn’t see it.

“Yes, he wasn’t really willing, but since he said those things to Jasper, he should bear the consequences, shouldn’t he?” Jason said. “If he can’t handle this, then there will only be more things he can’t handle in the future.”

Jasper nodded in agreement, “I understand what you mean. It’s important to take responsibility for our words and actions, even if we don’t really mean them.”

Jason smiled, “Exactly. It’s all about being accountable and honest with ourselves and others.”

Grace sighed, feeling sorry for William, even though his mother was Lily.

The culprit who once framed her and caused her to be imprisoned, but this child is innocent!

Moreover, although this child grew up with Lily, he did not develop any bad thoughts. In fact, he was once bullied because his mother was a criminal.

Grace knows what it feels like to be bullied, so she feels even more sorry for William.

“Alright, as for the children’s affairs, they will solve them on their own in the future. Right now, they are still young, we have to wait for them to be troubled by matters of the heart, at least for another 7-8 years.” Seeing the worried expression on his wife’s face, Jason started to console her.

“Grace said, ‘I hope William and Jasper will be well in the future! As a mother, she realized that the older her children grew, the more she had endless worries.’”

Jason didn’t say much. For him, the only things that mattered were Grace and their children. As for William, he was actually insignificant to him.

At first, the Reed family took in William simply because Jasper liked him. To William, he was nothing more than Jasper’s toy.

So, naturally, he wouldn’t care about what will happen to a toy in the future.

He just wants his daughter to be well and happy!

If Jasper ends up liking William in the future, then no matter what, he will help his daughter get him! If Jasper doesn't like William, then he naturally has a way to make William lose interest!

After the wedding reception, Philip and William returned to their hotel.

Chapter 3208

Philip suddenly said, "I heard that your uncle Reed is going to help Jasper find a boy who can play the piano well, is that true?"

William's small body suddenly stiffened.

"Do you want Jasper to find that boy?" Philip asked.

William tightly pursed his lips and looked at his father, but didn't answer immediately.

Philip said, "William, if you really want Jasper to find that boy, then I won't interfere. Uncle Reed won't take long to find him. But if you don't want that boy to be found, then I can intervene and end this matter here."

William was surprised and looked at his father.

"What's wrong?" Philip raised his eyebrows.

After a while, William asked, "Why?"

"Why am I willing to do this?" Philip raised his hand and touched his son's head. "Because you are my son, and as a father, I naturally want my son to be happy. So if you don't want it, I can make sure that boy won't be found by the Reed family."

William blinked and Philip continued, "When I brought you back to the Barlow family, I told you that if you just followed Jasper, you might never get what you want. The more precious something is, the more it requires matching strength!"

After a pause, he smiled faintly, "Just like now, I have the ability to make sure that the person you don't want to see won't appear in front of Jasper.""

William's beautiful black eyes seemed to understand something.

After a moment, he shook his head and said, "No need. If Jasper really wants to find that person, then let her find them on her own."

He didn't want to see disappointment in Jasper's eyes. He hoped she could be happy, even though he would be scared, worried, nervous... and afraid that if she really fell in love with the person's piano and also considered that person important, what should he do...

But when she thinks about the anticipation in her eyes today, she doesn't want to do something she doesn't like.

"Are you really sure about this?" Philip asked seriously.

"Mmm, I've made up my mind," William nodded earnestly.

"Since you have made up your mind, you will have to bear the consequences of your decisions in the future, no matter what happens. Do you understand? Don't regret the decision you made today!" Philip sighed and said, "You should know that every decision you make now may affect your future."

William's hand, which was hanging by his side, slowly tightened into a small fist. "I understand, and I won't regret it!"

Because he wanted to see Jasper's smile, this was more important than anything else!

Philip said, "Okay, then let the Reed family find that boy!"

Since the son has made this decision, the father will no longer intervene. He only hopes that in the future, William will not regret the decision he made today.

Chapter 3209

After the wedding reception, Valda was taken back to the villa that had been set up as their new home.

Of course, a housewarming party was also held. After everyone had left, only Valda and Brian were left in the bedroom of their new house.

"You must be tired," said Brian.

"Somewhat," Valda replied. During the busy and bustling wedding today, she didn't feel it much. But now that everything has suddenly quieted down, a sense of exhaustion has slowly crept up on her.

"You go freshen up first, I'll help you put away your clean clothes," he said. As he spoke, he took out her clothes from the wardrobe and placed them in the bathroom.

When he came out of the bathroom, he saw her struggling to take off her wedding dress.

"I'll help you," said Brian, walking forward and pulling down the zipper on the back of Valda's wedding dress.

undergarments underneath.

Valda felt a bit embarrassed and blushed, "Then I'll go in and take a shower first!" she said, about to walk towards the bathroom, but he suddenly picked her up horizontally.

"Hmm?" She paused in confusion.

He held her tightly and walked into the bathroom with big steps. Then he carefully placed her on the ground next to the bathtub.

"Okay, you wash up. I'll step out first. If you need anything, just call out to me," said Brian.

"Oh, I see," said Valda, blushing.

Even though she had already lived with him for a period of time and they had been intimate more than once, at this moment, she couldn't help but blush and feel her heart race.

He had already prepared the hot water for her. When he left the bathroom, Valda undressed and soaked her body in the warm water. She felt the exhaustion in her body slowly dissipating.

From now on, she is Brian's wife! They will live together from now on! In the future, they will have their own children!

What will their children look like?

At this moment, she was filled with anticipation.

When the hot bath was ready, Valda put on her bathrobe and blushed as she walked out of the bathroom.

Brian was sitting on the couch, flipping through a book.

"What are you reading?" she curiously asked as she approached him.

"The places we're going for our honeymoon. My company has a week off, so we can leave tomorrow. If you want to rest at home for a day, we can leave the day after tomorrow," Brian said.

"Let's leave tomorrow," Valda said. The destination for their honeymoon had been decided between them earlier. They chose a foreign country because they were afraid of being recognized while traveling domestically after the wedding, which would be inconvenient.

“Okay,” Brian said. “I’ll go take a shower first. You can look at the tourist attractions in the travel guide and decide where we’ll go.”

were going to for their foreign honeymoon was full of a cartoonish atmosphere, which was a place she had always wanted to visit.

Now, being able to go there with him was really great!

As for which attractions to visit, she had already made up her mind.

Valda picked up the booklet and sat on the bed, looking at the bright red sheets and pillows... The feeling of being married hit her once again!

She was really married!

Today was her wedding day!

As she lightly stroked the soft sheets, her blood rushed to her face again, making it even hotter.

Oh my god! Valda, why are you blushing? She scolded herself in her mind, it’s not like it’s the first time!

Chapter 3210

But her face kept getting hotter and hotter.

When Brian walked out of the bathroom, he saw that Valda’s face had turned almost as red as a tomato.

“What’s wrong? Are you feeling okay?” Brian hurried to the bed and looked at her flushed cheeks with some concern.

“No,” she murmured.

He raised his hand and reached towards her forehead, his temperature slightly high. “I’ll take you to the hospital,” he said decisively.

What?

Valda was stunned. What was going on?!

But as she saw Brian about to call the driver, she quickly grabbed his hand to stop him. “I’m fine, no need to go to the hospital!”

“You call this fine? Are you feverish from exhaustion? If you don’t want to go to the hospital, I’ll have the family doctor come over.”

"No!" she hurriedly said. If the family doctor really came, that would be embarrassing. "I just...just thought that today is our wedding night, and I got embarrassed thinking about what we're going to do later!"

Valda blushed as she finally explained the reason.

Now it was Brian's turn to be stunned.

He stood there dumbfounded, staring at Valda, a blush creeping up his cheeks.

It turns out... it's because of this reason.

After a while, he took a long breath and said, "It's good that you're not really sick."

"I'm sorry for making you misunderstand," she apologized.

"There's nothing to apologize for. Like you said, today is our wedding night, blushing is normal," he said, gently embracing Valda, his voice carrying a hint of seduction. "Valda, we're husband and wife now."

"Mm-hmm," she responded.

His kisses gently fell on her cheeks. "I want to have a child with you, is that okay?"

"Do you prefer a boy or a girl?" He tenderly lay on top of her.

"Either... is fine," she stuttered.

"Then let's work hard from today onwards, okay?" He whispered softly. Because it was her, he longed to have their child.

During the year he waited to marry her, even if they did have a physical relationship, he took precautions to prevent her from getting pregnant before marriage. He did not want anyone to use it against her in the future.

And now, finally, we don't have to worry about these things anymore.

"Okay," Valda responded.

That night was warm and sweet, feeling each other's presence and telling each other that he/she is the most important person.

"Y-yes," she blushed and replied. He continued to kiss her, each one teasingly tantalizing.

"Do you prefer a boy or a girl?" He tenderly lay on top of her.

"Either... is fine," she stuttered.

“Then let’s work hard from today onwards, okay?” He whispered softly. Because it was her, he longed to have their child.

During the year he waited to marry her, even if they did have a physical relationship, he took precautions to prevent her from getting pregnant before marriage. He did not want anyone to use it against her in the future.

And now, finally, we don’t have to worry about these things anymore.

“Okay,” Valda responded.

That night was warm and sweet, feeling each other’s presence and telling each other that he/she is the most important person.