

Ex Convict 3251

Chapter 3251

1/4

The body's senses seem to be constantly expanding, as if emotions that were once suppressed deep inside are now gushing out. The pain, oppression, and despair are gradually enveloping his entire being.

I feel terrible! It's so unbearable that he almost wants to die!

Martin had one hand pressed against his temple, while the other hand tightly gripped the collar of his shirt at the chest. He was curled up and about to collapse.

Kyla quickly supported him, "Martin, are you okay?" she asked urgently.

At this moment, the pain on his face far exceeded her imagination.

She never imagined that he would be in so much pain after she uttered the code to release him from hypnosis!

His body weight suddenly pressed onto her, causing her to lose her balance and both of them fell to the ground.

Fortunately, there was a carpet laid on the floor of the suite, so the fall wasn't too painful. However, Martin's weight was mostly on kyla, causing her bones to ache a bit from the pressure.

However, at this moment, she couldn't care about herself, only worried about him. "Martin, how are you? Are you okay?" Kyla asked anxiously.

Martin's face was unusually pale, with beads of sweat on his forehead, and he was clenching his teeth tightly against his lower lip, as if he was fighting against something... His facial expression and bodily reactions were telling her how much pain he was in.

At this moment, Kyla suddenly regretted it. She didn't expect him to be in so much pain.

Did she act too hastily in deciding to lift his hypnosis in the end?!

“Martin, how are you feeling? Are you in a lot of pain? I...I can take you to the hospital!” Kyla said, quickly trying to stand up and grab her phone from the table.

She had just stood up and taken a step when suddenly her foot froze in place. A hand had grabbed her wrist.

That is... Martin’s hand!

Next, a hoarse voice sounded, “No need... to go to the hospital.”

3/4

Kyla turned around blankly and looked at Martin. He slowly stood up from the ground, his pale complexion and slightly bleeding lips from being bitten made him look weak and frail,

However, there was no longer any pain on his face, which slightly eased her heart.

“How are you feeling? Do you still feel any pain or discomfort?” she quickly asked.

His eyelashes trembled slightly as he looked up at her.

Those deep black eyes, however, were not as gentle as before, but rather sunk like an endless abyss, causing her heart to suddenly sink as well.

Kyla just realized it now – earlier, she said the code to break the hypnosis, so now he... the hypnosis has been broken!

Have all those emotions that were once buried by him now. returned?!

The painful entanglements between them, even though he remembered and knew what had happened, ultimately, without that emotional connection, it was just like watching someone else’s story, and it never left a deep impression on him.

hapter 3251

And now, since he has regained those feelings, how will he view her? How will he view their relationship?

4/4

Will he still hate himself for begging her to forgive him and be with him, despite her cold and heartless rejection of his plea to let go of the past?

Even though there were many obstacles between them back then, which prevented them from being together, ultimately it was her who hurt him and chose not to be with him.

Chapter 3252

“Martin...” Kyla murmured, calling out to him.

"Kyla." He slowly uttered these three words from his mouth.

But her heart sank even further. She couldn't read his eyes and didn't know how much hate or love he still had for her.

"Did you... lift the hypnosis on me?" she asked, her voice trembling.

"Yes," he replied.

"So, what about you now..." She nervously opened her mouth, but halfway through her sentence, she didn't know what to say next.

Do you want to ask him if he still loves her and wants her?

Although she had already made plans to try to win him back even if they had to separate after he recovered, she suddenly felt anxious when facing him now.

Kyla, what are you panicking about? She scolded herself inwardly.

For a moment, there was silence between them.

"Why do you want to lift the hypnosis?" he murmured.

"As I told you before, I don't want to live in constant fear that one day the hypnosis will be lifted and I'll have to worry about you every day," she said. "You gave me the power to choose, so this is my decision."

"But what if now, I don't plan on being with you anymore? What will you do?" he asked her, looking at her.

His gaze was filled with pain, repression, and many other things she couldn't understand, as if they were all mixed together.

"I will pursue you until you are willing to be with me," she said firmly.

"But no one can guarantee that you will be able to pursue me until I am willing," he said.

"Then until we're old, until we die, anyway...you won't be able to shake me off in the future!" Kyla said.

He pursed his thin lips and after a moment, he said, "Aren't you afraid that I might fall in love with someone else?"

"You won't fall in love because you've already fallen for someone else. But I believe that you will only love me, and as for me... I will only love you!" Kyla spoke, gazing at the person in front of her. "Martin, do you believe... that I love you?"

He remained silent.

The feeling of being released from hypnosis is actually so uncomfortable. All those negative emotions that were once suppressed and forgotten suddenly flooded his body, while the warmth and beauty that were originally there... seemed to be in a tug-of-war with these negative emotions... making him even more miserable.

But in the midst of that pain, there seemed to be a voice constantly saying, “Martin, no matter what happens, believe that I love you!”

Believe that she loves him!

But does she know how difficult it is for him to believe in those two words?

I have experienced rejection before, even sacrificing my dignity just to keep her, but it was all in vain. Did she know that her heart died in that moment, turning to ashes?

If he hadn’t been so desperate at that time, why would he have chosen hypnosis?

He would rather bury his feelings for her completely, as he didn’t know what else he could do!

At that time, he never imagined that there would be these changes between him and her later on!

Chapter 3253

And today, she even lifted the hypnosis for him herself.

Martin slowly reached out his hand and pulled Kyla into his embrace. His movements were slow, but when he held her, it was with great force.

It’s like wanting to embed her deeply into one’s own body, not letting her escape even a bit.

“Kyla, this is my last...time trusting you. I trust that you truly love me! I trust that you won’t leave me again!” He whispered, burying his face almost entirely in the crook of her shoulder.

“You chose to use hypnosis on me, so you have to take responsibility for it!”

Kyla was stunned and for a moment, she couldn’t quite regain her composure.

So... he believes her now? And... he’s willing to continue being with her?!

“Do you not feel angry or resentful towards me?” she asked with a trembling voice.

“What does anger or hatred matter? I know what’s most important to me! Just like you said, the only person I've ever loved in my life is you!" Martin said softly.

Chapter 3253

All the pain he had ever experienced couldn't compare to the love he had for her.

Because he loves her, he can let go of those things!

Kyla leaned against Martin's embrace, even though her bones were aching from being held so tightly, she couldn't bring herself to cry out in pain.

Because she knew that if she cried out in pain, he would surely let go of her, but she still wanted him to hold her a little longer and make the embrace last a bit longer.

Her hands wrapped around his waist, and at the same time, she hugged him back.

"Martin, thank you, and... I love you," murmured Kyla as tears welled up in her eyes.

She had previously prepared for the worst, but now, nothing has happened.

This is the best outcome, right?

Martin looked up and gazed at Kyla. "I remember now. From now on, you can't not love me! When it comes to loving me, you have to follow through with your words!"

Chapter 3253

3/4

"Okay, I understand!" She smiled through her tears and took the initiative to kiss his lips..

This kiss was completely different from before, it was a kind of unprecedented ease. It was as if all the past worries and fears had finally settled, and there was no longer that feeling of walking on thin ice. Instead, it was a solid and grounded feeling.

He parted his lips slightly, turning from passive to active, responding fiercely to her kiss.

She is the woman he loves the most in his entire life, to the extent that he is willing to give up everything for her.

And when those buried emotions resurfaced, her feelings.

towards him seemed to become even more intense, more passionate.

After a romantic encounter, Martin looked at Kyla sleeping soundly next to him. He gently stroked her hair and then leaned down to lovingly kiss her forehead. He whispered softly, "Kyla, you are mine for the rest of my life."

Since Martin released the hypnosis, Kyla and Martin's relationship has become even better, and Kyla's face has also gained many more smiles.

Chapter 3253

4/4

"Did something good happen?" Amber asked curiously while she was out shopping with Kyla.

"Well, that's a good thing," Kyla smiled and said, "Martin and I have finally truly started over."

Amber paused for a moment, looked at her friend, and then said thoughtfully, "So you have no more emotional baggage?"

"No more," Kyla said. "From now on, he and I will truly be together."

"Congratulations!" Amber sincerely congratulated, "After so many years with him, you have finally weathered the storm.

and come out the other side."

"Thank you," Kyla said. "How about we all get together this weekend? I'll invite Grace, Lina, and Valda."

Chapter 3254

"Sure," Amber replied. "I'm free this weekend anyway. We haven't gotten together since Valda's housewarming party, so it's a good opportunity to catch up."

On the weekend, Kyla chose a famous private club called Emerald City and booked a large private room for the party.

Inside the private room, there are many entertainment facilities available. However, for this gathering, everyone coincidentally did not bring their children and it is only an adult gathering.

A few women gathered together, and apart from being concerned about the romantic relationship between Kyla and Martin, the only topic left was about Valda's pregnancy.

"How about it, are you pregnant?" Lina, showing her gossiping nature, asked.

"Not yet," Valda shook her head with a hint of regret. Since their marriage, she had been trying to conceive, but it had been several months and she still hadn't gotten pregnant. This made her a little anxious.

Obviously, she doesn't seem to have a body that is prone to pregnancy.

Chapter 3254

"Has she been checked at the hospital?" Grace asked with concern.

2/4

"We did a check-up before marriage at the hospital, and there were no problems," Valda said, then glanced at her friends, "It seems like all of you got pregnant pretty easily!"

It turns out that some things may seem easy, but when it comes to oneself, it's not that easy.

"What do you mean by easy? I'm definitely not easy," Lina quickly declared, "You have to know that my husband and I tried so many times before we had our Tina."

"Ha ha!"

Lina's use of the word "tried" made Valda laugh. She felt that wherever Lina was, the atmosphere would be relaxed. Even her own anxiety was eased by Lina's humor.

"Since both parties have no physical problems, there's no need to rush. Just let nature take its course. Besides, you're only 30 years old, which is not considered old," Kyla said. After all, she was already in her mid-30s when she had her second child.

"Yes, relax and the child may come naturally," Grace and

04

Amber also said.

3/4

"Okay," Valda nodded.

However, Lina's next sentence left Valda's brain half-stuck.

"Don't always say 'let it be', you also need to cast a wide net for this kind of thing!" said Lina.

"A wide net?" Valda was confused.

"The more the merrier!" Lina winked, "The higher the frequency, the greater the chance. It's like buying a lottery ticket every day, the chances of winning are higher than buying one once a week!"

Valda understood, then...her face blushed slightly, "Wouldn't that be too tiring?"

"If Brian hears you say that, he'll think you're questioning him," joked Lina.

Valda's face turned even redder.

“By the way, let me teach you some tricks,” Lina said, lowering her voice and began to teach Valda her so-called “tricks”.

Even Kyla, who was listening on the side, couldn’t help but blush.

Chapter 3254

4/4

“But speaking of which, if you have so many ‘tricks’, how come you still had a baby without convincing him?” Kyla asked in confusion.

“When I gave birth to my daughter, I was too dangerous and scared Hadwin. No matter what I said, he wouldn’t let me have another child!” Lina said.

At this point, she expressed regret and actually wanted to have a few more children to make the household livelier.

Unfortunately, no matter how much she persisted, her husband refused to agree and even went as far as getting a vasectomy, crushing her hopes and making it impossible for her to even try to get pregnant.

Chapter 3255

1/4

“But giving birth to your child was indeed dangerous.” Kyla thought back to the scene when Lina gave birth to her daughter, and she still felt a lingering fear. At that time, they were all afraid that Lina wouldn’t make it, but Kyla still vividly remembers Hadwin’s despair.

“By the way, does the child from the Hunter family still come to your house often?” Kyla asked again. Initially, no one expected that the one who would end up saving Lina and her daughter would be a young boy.

However, the little boy Hunter, who saved Lina and her daughter, made a strange request – he wanted Tina Stephenson.

So now, Tina can be said to have become the child bride of Hunter.

Fortunately, the child has a good relationship with Tina. Kyla has met Hunter a few times before and each time she saw how caring he was towards Tina.

Although he himself is still a child, he cares so much about another child.

Chapter 3255

2/4

“Yeah, he often comes to my house with an arrogant attitude, always trying to use his intelligence to crush others.” Lina has mixed feelings towards her future son-in-law.

After all, Chandler Hunter is quite attractive to Lina, who is a fan of good-looking guys. As he grows older, he becomes even more handsome. However, his high intelligence often leaves Lina feeling frustrated, especially when they play games like cards or chess at home.

Chandler didn't give Lina's future mother-in-law any leeway, which made Lina very angry.

Especially before, Lina became interested in mobile games and started playing them. Unfortunately, she suffered a crushing defeat. As a result, she asked Chandler to play a few rounds for her because she needed to take care of Tina.

Chandler ended up winning.

She curiously asked, "How are you able to win every time?"

The other person responded directly with, "It's probably because of the difference in intelligence."

Suddenly, she was choked and unable to speak.

The only thing that makes Lina feel fortunate is that their daughter can still control Chandler. Whenever Tina makes a request, Chandler will comply.

Chapter 3255

3/4

This can only be described as one thing suppressing another thing!

"Intellectual superiority? What's going on?" Valda was a bit curious. She had only heard a little about the Hunter boy, but had never actually met him.

"It's hard to put into words. You'll understand when you see him next time," said Lina, quickly changing the subject and starting to talk about something else.

Grace and Amber were chatting on the side. Amber looked at the scene in the private room and sighed, "Kyla and Martin have truly reconciled now. It's really heartwarming to see all you couples finally together.""

"And what about you? What are your plans for the future?" Grace asked indirectly.

Amber smiled slightly and said, "Me? Well, I'm actually quite content with my current life. I have work to keep me busy, and if I ever feel the need for a man, I just talk to Herman's picture and reminisce about the past. There's nothing wrong with that."

Grace whispered, "Aren't you afraid of loneliness?"

Chapter 3256

"Loneliness?" Amber smiled and said, "For me, what scares me the most is not loneliness, but not knowing the purpose of living. Now, I have goals, children, and friends. That's enough. As the saying goes, 'How can you tell if a fish is happy?'"

Grace smiled in relief upon hearing this, "You're right, I was overthinking things."

She spoke and lightly clinked her glass with Amber's, then they both drank it all in one go.

On the other side, Brian looked at Martin and said, "I heard you and Kyla took wedding photos?"

"Yes," Martin replied. "Speaking of which, you said something right back then."

"What did I say?" Brian asked.

"You said that if it's something you've experienced, even if it's painful, you don't want to forget it," Martin said. "Maybe if you had told me that earlier, Kyla and I could have avoided some detours."

"It's not too bad now. Maybe detours are for a better future,"

Chapter 3256

Brian said.

2/4

"That's true," Martin said lightly. "So, when will we hear your good news?"

"Good news?" Brian was confused.

"A child, last time we met, everyone was guessing when your and Valda will have a child," Martin said, patting Brian's shoulder.

"It's not something we can rush," Brian said, although he really wanted one, he didn't want to pressure Valda.

"It can't be rushed, but if your child is too far apart in age from our children, it will be difficult for them to play together," Martin said, patting Brian's shoulder.

After all, the group of people they were talking about, the younger ones, are still quite young.

"You won't believe it, but I'm sure they were discussing children among themselves today," Martin said.

Before Brian could respond, Hadwin walked over and said, "I believe it, and my wife will probably have a lot of ideas to contribute."

Hadwin knows very well how many worms are in his own wife's belly.

Chapter 3256

"I heard your wife is often driven crazy by your future son-in-law," Jason casually remarked as he approached.

3/4

“Whether he will be my future son-in-law remains to be seen. It depends on what Tina thinks when she grows up,” Hadwin said.

“If Tina doesn’t want to, are you planning to break the engagement?” Jason looked at Hadwin and said, “Hunter is not easy to deal with.”

“I know, and besides, Hunter saved Lina and Tina back then.

But as a father, I also hope my daughter can be happy. If she really doesn’t love that boy, then I...” Hadwin didn’t finish his sentence.

But everyone understood what Hadwin meant.

As a father, how could he bear to let his daughter lose her happiness because of a promise?

“It will be a tough battle,” said Jason.

“I know, but it’s still early,” Hadwin smiled. After all, the child is still young and no one can predict what the future holds.

A few men were chatting when suddenly Lina suggested playing a game together. She felt that since everyone was gathered, it would be a waste to just chat and not do anything fun.

Chapter 3256

4/4

“I have to leave early because I have the morning shift tomorrow and need to go to work. You guys can keep playing,” said Amber.

“Are we leaving now?” Lina said with some regret.

Grace said, “We should get together more often in the future. It’s not like this is the only time we’ll meet.” Then, she turned to Amber and said, “I’ll have my driver take you home.”

“No need, I’ll just take a taxi back,” said Amber.

“Let the driver take you back, I’ll feel more at ease,” said Grace. As she spoke, she picked up her phone and dialed the driver’s number. After a moment, she turned to Amber and said, “The driver is outside, you’ll see him as soon as you leave the club.”

“Okay, thanks,” said Amber before leaving.

Chapter 3257

1/3

After Amber left, the remaining few gathered together. Lina looked at the number of people and suggested, “Why don’t we play cards?”

Regarding this, everyone didn’t have any objections, “So, two tables then?” It’s just right for eight people, with four people per table.

“That’s so boring.” Lina giggled and said, “Let’s just have one table.”

“One table?” Grace pondered, while Hadwin immediately sensed trouble upon seeing his wife’s smile. As expected, her next words shattered his beliefs.

“Let us women be in charge of playing cards, and as for the men, they can be the bet. The losing side will be responsible for taking off a piece of clothing, um... just the top half will do.” Lina added the second half of the sentence sheepishly, under the gaze of her husband.

A few men glanced at each other, while among the women, Lina naturally grabbed her best friend Grace and said, “Grace, you don’t mind, do you?”

Chapter 3257

Grace smiled and glanced at her husband’s ambiguous expression before stating, “I have no objections.”

It’s kind of funny to think about this kind of bet, and she’s starting to become a little interested.

2/3

“That’s something Kyla and Valda will surely agree with, right? Just think, if it’s just about money and drinking as the stakes, it wouldn’t be exciting at all. We need that drive to win.” Lina said.

“What about the bet?”

“This bet is different. Everyone will definitely try their best to keep their own husband’s clothes,” Lina said confidently.

“Okay, you’ve convinced me with your twisted reasoning,” said Kyla.

Valda glanced at Brian’s clothes today, compared them to the clothes of the other men, and blushed as she said to

Brian, “Brian, they all agreed, and I feel bad not agreeing too. Besides, you’re not dressed too lightly today.”

In other words, Valda also agreed.

Four men looked at each other, at a loss for words. Since their wives had all agreed, they had no choice but to comply obediently.

Chapter 3257

3/3

Among the four men, Hadwin is the most helpless and pitiful one who is accompanying someone he shouldn't be with. It's because his own wife came up with this bad idea, so he can only apologize to the other guys.

Jason is the most relaxed of the group, with a slight smile on his lips that makes Hadwin seriously doubt that even if the bet was to take off his pants, Jason wouldn't care. As long as Grace agrees, he will agree.

Martin looked serious and glanced down at his clothes. He began to care about who Kyla would team up with for a while, after all, this was a game of "Double-Dutch" and having a good teammate was important!

Regarding Brian, he furrowed his brow and leaned in to Valda, asking, "How good are you at playing cards?" He hadn't really seen her play much when they were together.

Chapter 3258

"Nothing special," Valda said awkwardly. "But I haven't really played much in the past two years, so I don't know if I've gotten worse."

Upon hearing this, Brian's forehead immediately formed a black line.

What level of proficiency would it be with an average technical level, plus a decline?

"If... um, if you really had to take off your shirt today, don't mind me," Valda stuttered, "I'll make sure to practice my card playing skills and try not to do that next time."

"Next time?" Brian raised an eyebrow. Did his wife still expect to have such a bet again in the future?

After chatting for a while, the four women began to choose their partners by directly showing their palms and backs of their hands to see who would be paired with whom.

The final outcome is that Lina and Grace are a team, and Kyla and Valda are another team.

Four women sat around a square table, while four men

Chapter 3258

gathered on the other side.

2/4

"How good is your wife's card playing?" Brian asked Martin.

"About the level of a middle school student," said Martin.

Kyla usually loses to Nelson, this middle school student, when playing cards at home, so Martin's comment is understandable.

..." Upon hearing this, Brian was momentarily at a loss for words and could only silently mourn to himself.

Anyway, as long as Valda is happy, it doesn't matter. It's just taking off a piece of clothing for his wife.

Looking at Jason and Hadwin, they have known each other for many years because of their wives and often meet each other.

They have played cards together before and both know each other's wives' card skills, so there's no need to ask about that.

Just because he understood the situation, Hadwin was feeling particularly embarrassed at the moment.

"If it really comes down to us having to take off our clothes later, please forgive us."

"Lina's card skills, Grace probably can't handle unless the opponent has worse card skills," said Jason bluntly.

Hadwin chuckled dryly.

Chapter 3258

My own wife is really... not only is she bad at playing cards, but she also came up with this terrible idea and ended up tricking her own husband and her teammate's husband.

3/4

Regarding this, Hadwin is speechless and unable to comment.

The game began, and because it involved the issue of the four men's clothing, all four men became interested in the game.

Overall, Grace is the most skilled player and can also count cards. However, unfortunately, she was dragged down by her teammate Lina, who played like a pig, and suffered a miserable defeat.

Some games that were originally winnable ended up being lost.

Kyla and Valda's card skills are not very impressive, but luckily they are evenly matched and cooperate well with each other,

so they can still hold their own in the game.

Four people, back and forth, you win one round, then I win one round.

The four men on the side looked pitiful as their clothes became increasingly scanty.

Four men looked at each other, their clothes were all worn out and barely covering their bodies.

Chapter 3258

4/4

If another woman were to come in and see this, she might not be able to resist screaming out loud.

At this moment, the game is being played exceptionally fiercely, and four men are paying particularly close attention.

After all, in this game, the husbands of the losing team may end up playing shirtless.

The men were staring intently at the card game, as if it was more important than a multi-billion dollar business deal.

On the contrary, women are playing cards while chatting casually, appearing extremely relaxed.

Chapter 3259

1/4

Even Lina was chatting about entertainment gossip, "By the way, have you noticed the newly rising popular actor Kering recently? He has good acting skills, good looks, and seems to have a cute personality. Next time he's filming at the film and television city, I plan to go and see him. Do you want to come with me? We can form a group!"

"Kering? He's only 22 years old, but the drama he's currently in is pretty good," Grace said.

"Which one? I'll go check it out," Kyla said.

"Time's Gift, he's so handsome in it!" Lina praised.

Hadwin heard this and rolled his eyes, but Lina didn't even notice.

Valda, on the other hand, became interested. "Let's go to the film and television city together next time and watch the live filming. It's quite interesting."

"Wow, it would be great if you could come. We might even get a chance to get up close with the crew!" Lina said. After all,

Valda is the prince of the entertainment industry, and all the major crews are eager to work with him!

Chapter 3259

2/4

Lina was still excited when suddenly she screamed, "Ah!

Something's wrong with my cards..."

As they say, too much joy brings sorrow.

As expected, this mistake was irreversible.

Even if Grace struggled to the end, it wouldn't make a difference.

When the game ended, Kyla and Valda breathed a sigh of relief, finally holding onto the last bit of clothing on their respective husbands.

Grace and Lina looked a bit embarrassed as they glanced at their own husbands.

Grace blinked and said to Jason, "I lost."

"Yeah, I saw," Jason replied.

"Um...I'm willing to accept the punishment," Grace said.

"Of course," Jason said, raising his hand and slowly unbuttoning his shirt. "Since you lost, I'm your bet, so I have to accept the punishment."

No way! Is he really going to take it off?!

Chapter 3259

3/4

Valda widened her eyes in surprise. After all, this was Jason's last piece of clothing. If he really took it off, then...

Valda didn't even have time to react before Brian covered her eyes with his hand. In the next moment, Brian grabbed his own clothes and lifted Valda up like a child. "Let's go for now, we'll meet again next time."

After finishing speaking, he quickly hugged Valda and left the private room. It seemed like if they stayed any longer, his wife would be as angry as a hornet.

Kyla and Martin exchanged a smile. "Well then, if that's the case, we'll be on our way," said Martin. He put on the clothes he had just taken off and left the private room with Kyla.

Now, in the private room, only the losing team remained, looking at each other in confusion.

Hadwin pulled his wife close to him and said, "Alright, since everyone has left, let's go back home."

"Hey, you haven't even agreed to the bet yet. Look at Jason, he has so much to offer! At least follow the rules!" Lina shouted.

"I'm willing to bet and accept the consequences!" Hadwin quickly put on his clothes and lifted his wife onto his shoulders. "When we get back, I'll follow the rules. Whatever you want me to take off, I'll take off!"

"But... um, can you stop for a moment? Let's walk later, why rush like this?"

"Who else do you want to stay and watch?!" Hadwin said impatiently.

As the sound of the opening and closing door faded away, only Grace and Jason were left in the private room.

Chapter 3260

1/4

Jason had already unbuttoned half of his shirt, and he raised his eyebrows slightly. "So, do you want to continue?"

Grace smiled and walked up to him, wrapping her arms around Jason's neck. "Of course, we'll continue when we get home. But if they don't leave, will you really take off this shirt?"

"What do you think?" Jason calmly replied. "What about you? If I continue to undress, will you let others watch?"

Grace stood on tiptoe and kissed Jason's lips. "Guess!"

Everything else... is left unsaid...

Valda and Brian returned to the villa, and Valda said, "Why did you just carry me away like that?"

"What, were you planning to keep watching?" Brian raised his eyebrows slightly.

Valda blushed slightly. "I... I wasn't!"

"None? Then who was staring at Jason?" he asked.

"I...I was just surprised," she quickly explained. After all, Jason had started taking off his last piece of clothing.

Chapter 3260

2/4

"If I didn't take you away, were you planning on continuing to watch?" Brian asked, his voice clearly tinged with jealousy.

"I...I would have turned my head and not looked," she said, but it sounded like she lacked confidence.

"Is that so?" Brian picked up Valda and carried her towards the bed in the bedroom. "Even if you wanted to watch, I wouldn't let you."

As he spoke, he carefully put her down and began taking off his own clothes. "If you want to watch, you can only watch me."

Her face immediately turned even redder. He knew how tempting he looked right now.

As Brian took off his clothes, he leaned down and kissed

Valda's rosy cheeks. "What were you talking about before playing cards today? Your face turned red when you were chatting with them."

"We...we weren't talking about anything special, just...normal conversation," she muttered. His delicate kisses kept falling on her cheeks, making her breath even more unstable. It was as if all the blood in her body was rushing to her face.

Chapter 3260

3/4

Without looking in the mirror, Valda could tell how red her face was just from the burning sensation.

"Is there really nothing?" Brian clearly had no intention of letting go of the topic.

"...Really." She replied.

In a daze, she only felt his hands gently undoing her clothes, and his lips approaching her ear, his low voice ringing in her ear, "Then just talk to me about the ordinary things we were chatting about earlier. Let me know why you're blushing."

She became even more dizzy, his breath in her nose, her mind almost blank. "It's...it's about giving birth...they were telling me how to make it easier to give birth..."

The words came out of her mouth, and Valda finally understood how terrifying beauty could be. No wonder so many people have used it throughout history.

If she were a security agent, he could probably charm her into revealing anything he wanted.

"Children..." Brian said thoughtfully, kissing her face and neck one after another. "What did they say?"

"Just...do it more times, cast a wider net..." She stuttered, realizing what she had said only after the words had left her mouth.

Then she just wanted to bury herself in the covers!

Oh my god, what did she just say!

Brian raised an eyebrow and said, "I see. Since they came up with this idea, let's give it a try and see if we can really have a child."

As he finished speaking, he lay on top of her body...

The night was filled with indescribable tenderness.

A child...he also wanted to have a child.

Because it would be their child, he wanted it!

She had warmed his life and filled him with hope for the future.

And from now on, they would continue to be happy together with their child...