

Ex Convict 4051

Chapter 4051

Thinking back to that time, Jasper found it amusing that Chandler often had a black face.

At that time, Tina was like a chanting machine. Whenever she saw Chandler, she would talk about how he had the potential to become an idol star. She even rallied the people around her to persuade Chandler to participate in a talent show.

This made Chandler extremely frustrated.

However, during that time, Chandler managed to control his temper towards Tina, which Jasper found to be quite rare.

As a child of the Reed family, Jasper was always protected by her family, but she was not naive and ignorant of everything.

Especially after experiencing what happened with Lawrence, she understood the dark side of human nature even more.

As her mother said, when judging people, one should not only look at the surface, as many people hide another side of themselves.

Sometimes, the closer a person is to you, the more likely they are to hide another side of themselves from you.

"Does Daddy also hide another side of himself from you?" Jasper remembered asking this question at the time.

"Yes, he does. Although I know, I don't mind because I know he does it out of love for me. He doesn't want me to see the side of him that might scare me or make me uncomfortable. Besides, it doesn't affect my love for him." Her mother replied in this way.

Although Jasper had never really seen Chandler's other side, as an heir of the Crypt family, which had trained him, Chandler was definitely not just as elegant, stable, reasonable, and restrained as he appeared in front of Tina.

"Did he participate in the talent show later?" Nancy asked curiously.

"No." Jasper said regretfully, "It's a pity. I really wanted to see Chandler participate in the talent show at that time."

"Really? You really wanted to see it?" William's voice suddenly sounded, with a hint of jealousy.

Jasper shuddered and quickly smiled awkwardly, "Um...I just said I wanted to see him perform back then. And, don't you think it would be interesting if Chandler could sing and dance on stage like a boy band?"

"It seems like you really want to see him debut. How about I talk to him when I meet him next time?" William suggested.

No, please don't!

Jasper lamented in her heart. If Chandler found out, who knows if he would secretly make things difficult for her in the future!

"I was just thinking out loud. Now, I don't want to see it anymore. Even if I did, I would be more interested in seeing how you would do if you debuted! Look at you, so handsome. If you really debuted, you would probably have a bunch of young girls fawning over you. It's a good thing you didn't debut, or else I would have to compete with a bunch of girls for you!" Jasper flattered.

Her words clearly pleased William.

"Well, that's great. I'll dance for you someday, so you don't have to think about it anymore," William said.

Jasper widened her eyes in surprise, "You'll really dance?"

"Is there a reason for me to lie? It's not that difficult," William said.

Jasper's eyes suddenly lit up, and a hint of anticipation appeared in them.

Nancy looked at the scene in front of her and felt that William really doted on Jasper!

Although it's not difficult to sing and dance like a boy band, William should still need to practice if he wants to do it.

Moreover, for some men, they may not be willing to sacrifice their dignity to do these things just to please a woman!

But William was willing to do it.

Chapter 4052

Afterward, when Mick and Nancy were alone, Mick asked, "Are you envious of Jasper?"

"What?" Nancy was confused.

"When William said he wanted to dance with Jasper, you had an envious expression on your face. Do you want to see it too?"

Mick asked.

Was she really envious at that time? Nancy thought to herself, "No, I just thought the childhood sweethearts feeling between Jasper and William was really nice and warm. I would like daughter to have a childhood sweetheart like that in the future."

"Then find one for her," Mick smiled and said, "If Sophia was a childhood sweetheart in the future, she will definitely have one."

"Are you so sure?" Nancy was curious about Mick's confidence.

"There are many people who want to connect with the Reed family. In the future, when we take Sophia to attend some events, there will be many boys of similar age around her," Mick said, "But which ones are sincere and which ones are fake, she will have to discern for herself."

Nancy immediately understood that with the background of the Reed family, there would be many people trying to get close to their daughter in the future. Naturally, those boys of similar age would use this opportunity to get closer to her.

Among them, there would be many people with ulterior motives.

"Have you experienced all of this before?" Nancy couldn't help but ask.

Mick smiled faintly, "Just get used to it. After all, these things are always unavoidable."

Although he said it lightly, Nancy felt a kind of indescribable heaviness in her heart.

Considering his status and position, there must have been many people who deliberately approached him when he was young, wanting to use him. He may have even been deceived and used.

So when she used him and deceived him in the past, was that why he hated her so much?

"I'm sorry," Nancy murmured.

"What do you have to apologize for?" Mick asked.

"I also..."

Before she could finish her sentence, his fingertips pressed against her lips. "Between us, there's no need for apologies."

"I hope Sophia will meet someone who truly loves her in the future," Nancy murmured.

"She definitely will. She's our daughter, and she'll surely meet someone who truly loves her," Mick said.

The two embraced each other, while their little baby slept soundly in the crib next to them.

When Tina handed Eugenia Kit's autograph, Eugenia screamed as if she had received a precious treasure. She stuck the autograph tightly to her chest and said with a fanatical expression, "It's great! Sister finally got Kit's autograph! I feel like I can die without regrets now."

"Do you really have no regrets?" Tina looked at her friend.

"Uh, maybe... there's still a little regret. I still want to go to Kit's concert and maybe shake his hand. Of course, if he could give me a hug or something, then I would probably have no regrets," Eugenia thought for a moment and said.

"You have a lot of thoughts," Tina teased.

"Hehe, people need to think more to live with more motivation. Unlike you, who has such a handsome fiancé," Eugenia said. "But speaking of which, when you asked Kit for his autograph, did your guy get jealous?"

Chapter 4053

"Pfft, why would he be jealous? Chandler is not that petty," Tina said, but she couldn't help but think of what Chandler had said to her later that day –

"No matter how many people you're interested in, the one you'll truly fall in love with can only be me."

So, when she wants to chase after stars or something, he will accompany her. Even if she cheers for some male star, buys his photo album, or joins his fan club, he doesn't say anything.

Is it because it hasn't crossed his bottom line yet?

Because he knows that she only appreciates those stars or beauties, and hasn't really fallen in love with them?

"What are you thinking about?" Eugenia suddenly asked her friend who was lost in thought.

"I'm thinking about whether I really love Chandler," Tina muttered.

Eugenia's eyes widened, "Don't tell me you don't love him. You've been engaged for so many years and are going to get married as soon as you graduate!"

"It's not that I don't love him, but I don't know what it means to love someone," Tina said. Her engagement to Chandler was arranged since she was born, so it was just a matter of course.

It was so natural that she didn't have any rebellious thoughts to resist.

Even when she was teased by other children when she was young, saying that her marriage was arranged by her family, she didn't feel anything wrong with it.

After all, she really liked Chandler's company.

"Aren't you someone who loves people with good looks? Don't you love Chandler's appearance?" Eugenia asked.

"You're also very beautiful, and I like you too. But does that mean I love you?" Tina asked back.

"Stop it!" Eugenia shuddered. She wasn't ready to go down that road yet!

Besides, if Tina really "loved" her, she didn't know if Chandler would just bury her on a dark and stormy night.

"Actually, it's simple to know whether you really love Chandler or not. You just need to see how intimate you can get with him," Eugenia thought for a moment and said.

Can we be more intimate?

Tina lowered her head, lost in thought.

For Tina, the closest level of intimacy between her and Chandler was sleeping in the same bed together.

Of course, this sleeping was just simply holding each other while sleeping.

Even before she was 7 years old, Chandler used to often hold her and nap together. As she grew older, Chandler slept with her less and less, and the last time they slept together was apparently 3 years ago.

As for other forms of intimacy, like hugging and holding hands, those were common.

But kissing...it was only on the cheek.

Thinking about it, even though she and Chandler were engaged and only one step away from getting married, she had never had any intimate behavior with him like a typical couple would.

So how intimate could she be with Chandler?

Kissing like a normal couple? Physical intimacy? Even making love?

Whatever step she was willing to take, she would understand whether or not she truly loved him.

Chapter 4054

"What's wrong? You've been staring at me." Chandler's voice suddenly sounded, bringing Tina back from her thoughts.

Tina smiled awkwardly, realizing that she was currently eating with Chandler in a restaurant.

"I was just thinking about how handsome my fiancé is," she flattered.

Chandler raised his eyebrows, "What else do you need me to do?"

"..." She gave him a speechless expression, "I really mean it from the bottom of my heart! I'm not just saying nice things to ask for your help!"

"Is that so?" He smiled faintly, every time she asked for his help, she would speak sweetly.

"Yes." She said, and then seemed to think of something, "By the way, can I stay overnight at your place tonight?"

"Why do you suddenly want to stay overnight at my place?" Chandler asked back.

Although Tina occasionally stayed overnight at his place, it was usually when the Stephenson family was not at home, or when she dragged him to accompany her to concerts or events that ended too late, so they would stay at his place.

And today, obviously none of these situations existed.

"It's just...there's a game tonight for my favorite team, and I want to watch it with you, so I thought I could stay overnight at your place. You wouldn't refuse your lovely fiancée, would you?" She even blinked her eyes deliberately and put on a pitiful look.

"Have you talked to your parents about it?" Chandler asked again.

"If you agree, I'll tell them right now!" She said quickly.

He sighed, "When have I ever refused your requests?"

He could be said to be very indulgent towards her, so much so that even those who knew him well found it strange.

Some people even asked him privately, why he was so devoted to Tina?

After all, although she was not bad-looking, she could not be considered a beauty.

Although she had the background of the Stephenson family, her unconventional personality also made many elders of wealthy families shake their heads.

He himself found it strange.

If it was fate that made him choose her, who had just been born, and engage with her, then his feelings for her slowly accumulated over the years.

Perhaps it was when she was still a baby, holding his finger and smiling at him, or maybe it was when she was learning to speak and calling out to him, "Chandler... Chandler..."

Or maybe it was when she slept in his arms, full of trust...

Even he couldn't explain when his feelings for her started to grow, or even change.

But for him, it was a good thing.

The person he fell in love with was the one he was destined to be with!

Tina called the Stephenson family to let them know she would be staying overnight at Chandler's place.

Lina agreed, reminding her daughter not to make a mess or cause trouble for Chandler.

Tina promised, not mentioning her true intentions for staying the night.

After all, if her parents found out, they would drag her back home by the ear.

Ending the call, Tina smiled at Chandler, "Now you can stay over there tonight."

On the other end, Lina told her husband, "Tina is staying overnight at Chandler's place tonight."

"Staying overnight? Why?" Hadwin frowned.

"She said that her favorite team is playing tonight and she wants to watch the game with Chandler," Lina said.

Chapter 4055

"Can't she watch the game at home? Why does she have to go to someone else's house?" Hadwin said.

"What do you mean someone else's house? Is Chandler a stranger?" Lina said.

"I'm just worried about them being alone in a room together. What if something happens?"

"You still don't trust Chandler?" Lina laughed. "I know you're worried as a father, but I've known Chandler for years and I trust his character. He won't do anything to Tina."

Hadwin grumbled, "I'm not worried about him doing something to Tina, I'm worried about Tina doing something to him."

As her father, Hadwin knew his daughter well. And with Chandler's stunning looks, he was afraid that his daughter might be swayed by his beauty and do something foolish.

In a father's eyes, even if his daughter was the one who initiated it, she would still be the one at a disadvantage.

Lina rested her chin on her hand and thought about what her husband had said. Then she suddenly said, "If that's the case, then our daughter is lucky. They will be together sooner or later, and it doesn't make much difference."

After all, their daughter was already an adult, 20 years old.

Lina wasn't a conservative person and didn't think her daughter would be at a disadvantage.

As long as they took the necessary precautions, everything would be fine.

Besides, if something did happen between them, they wouldn't need her to remind them to take precautions. Chandler would take the initiative to do so.

"How can you say it doesn't make a difference? Tina is only 20 years old. If something really happens between them..."

"When we had S back then, I wasn't much older than Tina," Lina said. "And I was the one who initiated it. Do you think I was at a disadvantage?"

As soon as these words were spoken, Hadwin's face immediately became embarrassed.

Well, back then, he felt like he had been taken advantage of. After all, Lina had taken everything from him and left, causing him to look for her for several years.

"So, our daughter is like me, she won't be taken advantage of."

Lina said with a smile.

"Yes, Tina is like you." Hadwin looked at his wife and remembered their first night together abroad, his eyes filled with desire. "Lina, since Tina won't be coming back tonight, let's have a good night together..."

"Okay." Lina enthusiastically kissed her husband on the cheek.

After so many years of marriage, her husband still loved her so much. This was the greatest happiness for her.

At night, facing the "beauty" of Tina, her father did not cooperate like her mother did. On the contrary, her "beauty" was simply uncooperative to the extreme.

As she watched the game and teased him with her paws, he pressed her paws down after just a few touches.

"Don't move your hands around, I'm still a man after all." Chandler said.

"..." It was precisely because he was a man that her hands moved around!

Originally, she wanted to take the initiative to “tease” him and see what kind of reaction he would have. This way, when they were “intimate”, she would know what she could accept and whether she really loved him or not.

But she didn’t expect to be stopped as soon as she started!

Chapter 4056

“Don’t you like it when I touch you?” Tina asked.

After a moment of contemplation, he asked back, “Do you want to touch me?”

“Didn’t I used to touch you a lot when we were kids, especially when we were drawing?” She remembered how she used to touch him a lot when she was drawing, and her hands had been all over him.

There was a time when she was interested in drawing, especially the human body.

And she only drew handsome men and beautiful women.

So he naturally became her model, and her hands were all over him.

But he never said anything back then!

“When you were drawing, you were only 10 years old, how is that the same as now?” Chandler said.

He was already 18 years old back then, not a pervert who would react to a 10-year-old girl’s touch.

Moreover, at that time, his feelings towards Tina were more like she was his possession, someone he had to be tied to for the rest of his life.

There wasn’t much romantic love involved.

He just thought she was cute, and this love accumulated slowly as she grew older.

“So you don’t see me as a child anymore?” Tina grumbled.

“I know better than anyone that you’re 20 years old,” Chandler said.

In two years, when she graduates from college, it will be the time for her to fulfill their engagement.

Then... she will truly be his!

He has been waiting for this day for too long!

“So, if I touch you now, you’ll feel it, right?” Tina asked bluntly.

As the daughter of the Stephenson family, Hadwin has protected this precious daughter tightly due to the environment. Tina has had Chandler as her nominal fiancé since she was young, but in reality, he has been like a bodyguard and childhood friend by her side. Therefore, Tina’s personality is straightforward and not full of twists and turns.

Especially in front of familiar people, she speaks more directly.

Chandler turned his head and stared at the girl in front of him. “You didn’t come here to watch the game today, did you?” At least now, her eyes weren’t even on the big screen, but were staring straight at him.

“Hehe...” Tina laughed awkwardly.

Faced with his sharp gaze, she didn’t feel like lying anymore.

“So, what do you want to do by coming to my place tonight?” he asked.

“I want to...” Even though Tina has thick skin, she blushed a little when thinking about her purpose.

“What?” he asked, his gaze seeming to want to see through her.

Alright, just confess!

After all, Tina didn’t have the confidence to continue lying when Chandler was suspicious.

When they were kids, every time he was suspicious, if she continued to lie, there was only one outcome – being exposed!

Without exception!

“I just want to have S with you tonight,” Tina admitted honestly.

As soon as she said this, Chandler’s usually calm face showed a rare expression of surprise.

“You... want to have S with me?” Chandler’s voice was even lower than before.

“Well, I just... feel like we’re engaged, and I don’t really know how I feel about you. If I... if we have S, maybe I’ll know,” Tina explained.

Now she felt a bit embarrassed to look at Chandler, not knowing what expression he had on his face.

“You don’t know how you feel about me?” His hoarse voice rose again.

Chapter 4057

“Um... I guess we’ve been together for so long that it just feels natural, and we haven’t had much physical contact, so...” she trailed off.

She did have feelings for him, but she wasn’t sure if it was love.

But she never thought that the person she would marry wouldn’t be him!

But if he, as her fiancé, heard her say these things, he probably wouldn’t be happy.

The air was silent.

It was so awkward!

Tina began to wonder if she was too honest. What if Chandler was really angry? What should she do to make it up to him?

Would apologizing work?

Just as she was racking her brain for something to say to Chandler, his voice rang in her ear again.

“So besides having S, what kind of intimate contact do you want?”

“Kissing!” She almost blurted out the answer without thinking.

After the words left her mouth, she realized what she had said. and looked up at Chandler.

Their eyes met directly.

She felt like she was falling into a deep pool, staring at his eyes.

She had always known that his eyes were beautiful, and she had always liked them. Her fingers had traced the contours of his eyes many times.

But at this moment, his gaze made it impossible for her to tell what he was thinking.

It was like a black veil had been draped over his emotions, hiding everything underneath.

“Um...I was just...” She stumbled over her words, wanting to change the subject.

“Do you want to kiss me?” Chandler’s thin lips parted.

“Huh?” Tina blinked her eyes, suddenly brightening up. She nodded eagerly, as if she had been given a second chance at life. “Do you want to kiss me?”

He didn’t seem angry.

“If you want to, there’s nothing stopping us. But are you sure you want to...?”

Before Chandler could finish his sentence, Tina interrupted him. “Yes, I’m sure!”

“Okay,” Chandler said.

Tina couldn’t help but swallow the saliva that suddenly surged in her mouth. Did he mean that she could kiss him now?

“Now?” she asked.

“Okay,” he agreed.

She swallowed hard again, trying to get rid of the lump in her throat.

Could she really kiss him?

But it also gave her a surreal feeling.

“Close your eyes first,” Tina said. After all, it was too oppressive for her to have him staring at her, which made her a little embarra*sed to “go down”.

Chandler obediently closed his eyes at her words.

Suddenly, Tina felt a lot of pressure lifted from her body.

All along, she knew that she really liked Chandler. Even in her adolescence, she had fantasized about what it would feel like to kiss him.

However... she could only say that her face wasn’t as thick as it is new, so she never really asked him to kina her

If she had asked him earlier, what would his reaction have been?

Chapter 4058

Tina slowly raised her hand and stroked Chandler’s lips.

His lips were very beautiful. Although they were thin, the lines. of his lips were distinct, giving people a feeling of exquisite craftsmanship.

The pale watery rose color exudes a tempting feeling.

Moreover...the feeling of touching it with her fingers is softer and more...um, comfortable than she imagined!

Tina, like a curious child, began to stroke Chandler's lips with her fingers back and forth.

For her, it was just curiosity, but for him, it was more like a stimulation.

Once upon a time, the physical contact between them became more and more like a tease for him.

Or perhaps it should be said that his self-control in front of her was becoming weaker and weaker.

"How long do you plan on playing like this? If you continue to do so..." As his voice trailed off, his pitch-black and profound eyes slowly opened.

"Wait!" Tina was startled when she saw him open his eyes, and without thinking, she raised her other hand and covered his eyes.

Suddenly, Chandler's vision turned into darkness again.

However, he didn't move or remove her hand. He just let her continue to cover his eyes.

"I...I'm not playing. I just want to...get familiar with your lips first." She made an excuse, feeling embarrassed to say that she just couldn't get enough of the feel of his lips.

"Are you familiar now?" he asked.

"Yes, I am. Hehe...don't open your eyes, I'm going to kiss you now." She giggled nervously.

"Okay," he replied.

She then moved her hand away from his eyes, took a deep breath, and kissed his lips.

As their lips touched, her mind became blank, and all she could hear was her own breathing and heartbeat.

It was so rapid!

Even when the kiss ended, Tina was still in a daze.

Chandler's voice interrupted her reverie.

"Done?" Chandler asked.

"Huh?" She blinked. Was that... a kiss just now? Well, their lips did touch.

But it was just a touch!

That kiss couldn't be called a lover's kiss!

Tina saw Chandler's eyelashes fluttering, as if he was about to open his eyes. "Don't open your eyes yet, it's not done! That didn't count, let me try again!"

"Try again?" Chandler's voice sounded.

"Yes, try again." She was too nervous just now and didn't feel anything during the kiss.

But one thing was certain... she liked kissing him.

Chandler didn't say anything else and didn't open his eyes. He just leaned against the couch with his eyes closed, looking like he was asleep.

Tina felt her heart still beating fast, but at least this time, she wasn't completely blank like the last time.

She leaned in and her lips slowly approached his, feeling his breath.

It was strange, but at that moment, even his breath seemed sweet!

Their lips met.

It was a warm feeling.

Gently rubbing, then following the kissing techniques she had seen in movies and TV shows, she pried open his lips with her tongue.

She thought this action would require a lot of effort, but in fact, it was quite easy.

Chapter 4059

Because he was cooperating with all her movements.

It was as if at this moment, he wouldn't resist anything she did to him.

Tina kissed Chandler passionately, indulging in the moment...

She didn't know how long it had been until she felt like she couldn't breathe anymore, and finally pulled away from his lips, gasping for fresh air.

"Are you okay now?" Chandler asked again.

"Yes...I'm okay," Tina said, still feeling a bit unsatisfied.

Although it was a kiss between two people, after she finished kissing him, she was panting like a dog, while he remained calm and composed.

Could it be that the person who takes the initiative has to work harder?

Chandler slowly opened his eyes and looked at Tina. Her face was slightly red, and her lips were moist and shiny, looking very attractive...

Thinking of the kiss just now, his body couldn't help but tense

"So now do you know what kind of feelings you have for me?" he asked.

"Um...just a kiss, I'm afraid it's not enough," she licked her lips and said.

"So what else do you want?" he asked calmly.

"At least a hug, a normal couple's hug," she said.

He raised an eyebrow, "Normal couple's hug?"

"Yes!" She said, taking the initiative to hug his waist and snuggling into his arms.

A hint of doubt flashed in Chandler's eyes. He didn't think this hug was any different from their usual ones!

But then he found out what the difference was.

Because her restless hands were slipping into his clothes.

"Tina!" he said, grabbing her restless hand, "What are you doing?"

Ouch! Ouch! Ouch!

Tina grimaced in pain!

"I...I just wanted to wipe some oil, you don't have to pinch me so hard..." she said.

But before she could finish, he picked up the blanket next to the sofa and wrapped her in it, then lifted her up horizontally.

"Hey, what are you doing?" Tina shouted.

"It's late, you should sleep!" he said.

"..." Her goal for today was to sleep, but that meant sleeping with him! "What about you? Will you sleep with me?"

"What do you think? We're alone together now. If we really sleep on the same bed, do you plan on having your parents come after me tomorrow?" Chandler gave her a direct look.

"As long as I don't say anything and you don't say anything, how would they find out?" She said confidently.

“You don’t really think they wouldn’t find out, do you?”

As they spoke, Chandler had already carried Tina back to the room, threw her onto the bed, and turned to leave.

“Hey! Chandler!” She called out his full name, “Your fiancée is making a move, and you...you’re just going to leave like this?”

Or was it that he didn’t have any feelings for her and didn’t really love her?

Didn’t they say that when a man faced a woman he liked, he couldn’t resist temptation and would even become like a wild beast, full of desire?

But why did she feel like she was the one who was unsatisfied now?

“What do you want to do?!” Chandler turned his head and looked down at her.

“I just want to know if I really love you!” She said.

“So you want to have S with me to find out?” He glared at her.

Chapter 4060

Her confidence was instantly cut in half. After all, he was eight years older than her, and because of this age difference, she had always been inferior to him in terms of confidence.

“Isn’t it said that practice is the only criterion for testing truth?” She muttered.

“I thought the practice just now was enough,” Chandler said. “Or do you actually hate kissing me?”

“No, no, of course not!” She quickly replied. Kissing him felt amazing, “But... we could practice a little more, right?”

“I already said, except for S!”

“Yes, that means no S, but it doesn’t mean we can’t touch and kiss more,” Tina said. “Shouldn’t we become more intimate?”

He stared at her, his eyes suddenly darkening. “So you want to be more intimate with me?”

“Yes...yes,” she said, feeling a little nervous under his gaze.

“Okay, I understand.” Chandler began unbuttoning his shirt. “So even if I treat you like this, it’s what you want, right?”

As he spoke, he wrapped his arm around her waist and pressed her onto the bed.

Tina felt her body heat up.

It was strange. She had been held by him countless times since childhood, even lying on the same bed together many times, but at this moment, she felt her whole body heating up.

Was it because they had just kissed?

As she was thinking, she suddenly felt a warm sensation on her lips. After a second of confusion, she realized he was kissing her!

But unlike the previous kisses, this one was more dominant and intense, making it hard for her to catch her breath.

"Wait...wait..." She managed to say, but before she could finish, his lips were on hers again.

His fingers began to slowly undo her clothes, and the skin on her shoulders broke out in goosebumps as it was suddenly exposed to the air.

As his lips finally left hers, she gasped for air while his lips continued down, kissing her neck and shoulders.

Small kisses sucked on her skin, leaving marks on her flesh.

His kisses continued down, and Tina's body grew hotter, her skin turning pink.

This was a completely unfamiliar feeling for her, and when his fingers touched her skin and continued down, the feeling of being lost in the unknown overwhelmed her.

"No!" She unconsciously shouted out these two words.

His actions stopped. "Are you scared? So don't think that making love is that simple. Once a man loses control, no matter how much you shout no, it's useless!"

With that, Chandler straightened up, intending to leave.

But Tina grabbed his hand again. "I'm not scared."

"What?" Chandler was taken aback.

"I'm not scared of you. I will never be scared of you. Just now, it was just because I haven't experienced it before, so I was a bit..." She thought for a moment, seeming unsure of how to describe it. "Anyway, it's not fear. I'm ready now, let's continue!"

This statement made Chandler somewhat amused and exasperated.
