

Ex Convict 4211

Chapter 4211

"I'm sorry," Kit said softly. If he had been more careful while driving, Tina wouldn't be lying in a coma like this.

The child wouldn't have been born prematurely either!

"Sorry? Yeah, you really are sorry, Tina!" Chandler took a deep breath, seemingly restraining the impulse that was about to burst out of him with all his willpower. "I just want to know why you found Tina but didn't immediately inform the Stephenson family and the Hunter family? Why did Tina stay with you for a while? Why didn't Tina contact the Stephenson family and me? Why did you give Tina a false name for medical purposes before?"

Chandler's mouth. He needed an answer now!

Kit's lips trembled, and it took a long time for him to say, "Tina has amnesia."

Just this sentence made Chandler's expression even more serious. "What did you say?"

"Tina has amnesia. She doesn't remember anything from before, so I lied to her, hid the truth about you and the Stephenson family, and made her stay here peacefully...” Chandler clenched his fists tightly, and his joints made a cracking sound. He didn’t expect that Tina had lost her memory!

“Why didn’t you tell her anything? Why did you make her stay in a place like this? Kit, why?” Chandler questioned forcefully.

“I’m sorry, I’m sorry...” Kit kept apologizing without end.

Suddenly, Chandler grabbed Kit’s hospital gown collar, dragging him up, ignoring the bandages and plaster on his body. He raised his hand and punched Kit in the face.

Chapter 4212

Kit groaned but showed no intention of resisting.

It was as if he accepted that he deserved this, that he owed Chandler.

In no time, Kit’s face was covered in blood!

The nurses outside heard the commotion and rushed in. After seeing this scene, they exclaimed in shock and quickly called for someone to stop Chandler.

After all, if the fight continued, someone might end up dead!

But Kit said, “It’s okay, let him hit me...”

confusion.

Even if the victim said so, they couldn't just let Chandler continue beating Kit. If there was a fatality in the hospital, the responsibility would still fall on the hospital.

The doctor and nurses quickly lifted Kit back onto the bed and examined his injuries.

Chandler tightly pursed his lips and walked to the side of the bed, looking down at Kit.

The nervous nurse looked at Chandler, afraid that he would strike again. However, this time, Chandler didn't raise and me again. Otherwise, I don't know if you'll be able to keep your life!"

After saying this, Chandler turned and left.

Can Kit never appear in front of Tina again from now on, she wondered as she slowly closed her eyes?

Would it be better if he had died in the car accident, at least he would have been happy?

At least until death, Tina would have been by his side.

At least he could still die trying to save

Tina!

Chapter 4213

Tina felt like she had just had a very long dream, but she couldn't remember what she had experienced in the dream.

As she slowly opened her eyes, she saw unfamiliar faces.

She didn't recognize any of these people.

But every person, upon seeing her wake up, had a face full of joy.

"She's awake, she's awake, she's finally awake!" Lina said tearfully, filled with excitement.

She had thought she would lose her alive and back by her side.

"That's great, call the doctor!" Hadwin quickly added.

The nurse who had been accompanying them in the ward had already left quickly to call the doctor.

Meanwhile, Chandler approached the bedside and looked at Tina, who had just woken up. "Tina, you finally woke up. We've been by your bedside for three days. Do you know how much we missed you?"

Tina blinked and looked at the unfamiliar faces in front of her. These were faces she had never seen before, but they gave her a strange sense of familiarity.

And she had felt this same familiarity with Kit before.

"Have we met before?" Tina asked hoarsely.

Tina's parents and Chandler glanced at each other.

Although Lina and Hadwin had already heard from Chandler about their daughter's memory loss, when their daughter actually asked such a question, they couldn't help but feel a deep sense of sadness.

But now that their daughter had just woken up, they were afraid of upsetting her, so Lina could only say tearfully, "Yes, we have met before... You don't need to here."

"What about Kit?" Tina looked around the ward, but there was no sign of Kit.

She asked anxiously.

However, this question made the people in the ward's expressions more serious.

Finally, Hadwin spoke up, "He also got injured and is still undergoing treatment, so he couldn't come to see you."

"How is he? Is he seriously injured?" Tina struggled to sit up, but Lina quickly held her down. "Don't get up yet, you still have injuries, it's not advisable to get up right now."

"He's okay, the injuries are not serious, some fractures in certain places. It will take some time to heal," Hadwin said.

Tina finally breathed a sigh of relief.

Just then, she suddenly realized something and reached for her abdomen, then asked nervously, "What about the baby? My baby?"

"The baby is fine because it was born prematurely, it's in the incubator," Lina quickly reassured her.

"Really?" Tina stared at her.

"Yes, really. Why would I lie to you? Once you're feeling a bit better, I'll take you to see the baby," Lina said.

Tina looked at the woman in front of her, with tears in her eyes, and felt an inexplicable fondness and trust toward her.

It was as if a subconscious voice was telling her that she could trust the woman in front of her.

Tina nodded, and just then, the doctor came to perform some routine checks on Tina.

vict!

Chapter 4214

Tina's parents and Chandler arrived outside the ward.

Lina said bitterly, "Tina really forgot about us!"

"As long as she's still alive, that's all that matters!" Hadwin said. Now, the most important thing to him is that his daughter is alive. Whether she remembers or not, whether her memories will recover in the future, it all seems less important in the face of life and death.

Lina understood this reasoning, too. "But she cares so much about Kit, and then Lina's gaze fell on Chandler.

In the past six months, she witnessed Chandler's almost madness, and she knew how much this man loved Tina.

After Tina went missing and was found by Kit, the police also questioned Kit and made a statement. From Kit's statement, as well as Tina's worry about Kit when she first woke up, Lina knew that perhaps the person her daughter encountered first after forgetting everything was Kit, who rescued her from the village.

Under these circumstances, coupled with Kit's lies, it wouldn't be surprising if Tina developed some kind of feelings for him.

should Chandler do?

With these thoughts, Lina became filled with worry.

Chandler calmly said, "I don't mind as long as Tina is still alive."

Yes, for him, the most important thing is that Tina is still alive.

Lina breathed a sigh of relief. "It's really good that you can think like this. But Tina just temporarily lost her memory. Give her some time, I believe she will recover her memories."

Chandler remained silent.

Lina continued, "Also, now that Tina is awake, why don't you go see the child?"

By "the child," she naturally meant the premature baby Tina gave birth to, a daughter. But ever since the child was brought back to Emerald City from the small town, Chandler had never gone to see her.

It was as if he had a strong aversion to seeing the child.

"I'll go see the child with Tina when the time comes," Chandler said in a low voice.

Although disappointed, Lina could only nod. After all, she couldn't force him. She didn't know what resentment Chandler had towards the child, but he was still

After the doctor conducted a preliminary examination on Tina and determined that she had passed the critical period, she still needed to stay in the hospital for a while for treatment.

This was finally good news, and everyone present breathed a sigh of relief.

However, because Tina had just awakened, she fell asleep again shortly after.

In the evening, Chandler asked Lina and Hadwin to go back first. "I'll stay here with Tina. You can come and see her tomorrow morning."

wasn't awake, they had practically been guarding the ward day and night.

"But..." Lina wanted to spend more time with her daughter.

"The doctor has already said that Tina is out of danger now. You also need to rest well. Tina's recovery will require a lot of energy from you!" Hadwin said. "And there's also Tina and Chandler's child, who needs your care."

After thinking about it, Lina felt that he made sense and nodded her head.

After all, since she found out about her daughter's whereabouts, she had hardly had the chance to rest so well!

"Then please take care of Tina, Chandler.

Let us know if there's anything." Lina said.

Chandler lowered his head slightly and said, "I know."

After Hadwin and Lina left, he sat alone by the bedside, watching the person sleeping on the bed.

Regardless of anything else, for him, the fact that Tina is still alive is the best thing.

As for not remembering anything before, being deceived by Kit's lies, he can tell her the truth again and again when she gradually recovers.

Chapter 4215

In the middle of the night, Tina on the hospital bed suddenly groaned, and Chandler immediately woke up, quickly leaning over to the bedside, looking at

Tina, and asking, "Tina, what's wrong with you?"

As if hearing his voice, Tina who was lying on the bed slowly opened her eyes and looked at Chandler.

"You're awake? Are you feeling uncomfortable anywhere? I'll immediately call the doctor to come and check on you."

Because of Tina's condition, her

Chandler pressed the call button and the doctor quickly arrived at the ward.

After the examination, it was determined that Tina had no problem, and the medical staff left the ward.

In the ward, Tina looked at Chandler and said, "I want to drink water."

"Okay." Chandler poured a glass of water and let Tina drink it with a straw.

After drinking the water, Tina's spirits improved a bit. "Where is Kit? I want to see Kit. Where is he?" Tina asked. She hadn't seen Kit since she woke up.

What puzzled her was that when she asked this question, the man in front of

at her with a sad expression, as if he was feeling very upset!

Why would he show such an expression?

And looking at his sad expression, she also had some indescribable feelings in her heart.

"What happened to Kit?" Tina asked again.

Chandler's expression became even more desolate. Although he knew that she cared so much about Kit now just because she lost her memory, because of Kit's lies.

But when he really saw her eyes filled with concern for Kit, it felt like his heart was being bitten by a venomous snake,

And that kind of anger that had nowhere to vent, almost driving him crazy!

"Do you really want to know how he's doing?" Chandler stared at Tina and asked.

Tina paused for a moment, then nodded firmly.

Just because she had just woken up and was still very weak, even though she nodded firmly, it was only a slight nod.

“He’s fine now, very safe, but he’s not in Emerald City, he’s undergoing treatment in a hospital in another city,” Chandler said.

“Emerald City?” Tina was stunned for

Why isn’t he here with me?”

“Because your condition and the baby’s condition are more serious, better treatment couldn’t be obtained there, so you were brought back to Emerald City for better treatment. Besides, this is the city where you were born and raised, is there anything wrong with bringing you back here?” Chandler explained.

“Then why did you bring me and the baby back, but didn’t bring Kit with us?”

Tina asked, puzzled.

“Because...” Chandler paused for a moment, his voice becoming low,

“Because you are an important person to me.”

“What kind of relationship did we have before?”

Chandler’s eyes flashed with a painful expression, then he lowered his eyelids, concealing the pain in his eyes. “I’ll tell you when you get better in the future.”

“Since I’m important to you, our relationship must be extraordinary, right? Can you help me transfer Kit to Emerald City? He is my husband and also the father of my child! He is really important to me!" Tina said.

Although Kit never said they were married, during the time they were together, she already considered him as her husband.

anticipating the birth of their child.

But her words seemed to provoke Chandler, who suddenly shouted, "He's not your husband, and the child is not his! Your husband and the child's father are..."

In response, she looked at him with a terrified expression.

Chapter 4216

The words he wanted to say got stuck in his throat, nearly choking him.

"So, who is my husband and the child's father?" Tina suddenly raised her hand and grabbed Chandler's sleeve.

He stared at her trembling hand.

With her current physical condition, he could easily free himself from her grasp.

But at this moment, it felt like there was an invisible barrier holding him back.

His Adam's apple moved, and after a while, he said, "I will tell you in the future."

"I want to know now!" Tina insisted, her breathing becoming more rapid, her fingers gripping his sleeve turning white.

"Do you really want to know?" he asked in return.

"Yes!" she replied with absolute certainty. "Since this concerns me, I want to know!"

Chandler remained silent. Even though she had lost her memory, even though she had forgotten her past feelings for him, her personality hadn't changed. She was still the same Tina

Tina preferred the truth and disliked being deceived, even if it was a well-intentioned lie.

But should he tell her the truth?

Should he tell her the truth when she was so physically weak?

What would be the consequences, and could he really bear them?

After a long silence, he slowly uttered, "It's me, Tina! Your husband and the child's father is me, the person you once loved, and it has always been me!"

Tina didn't know how she got through that night.

Ever since Chandler revealed all these facts to her, her mind had gone blank, and everything she had previously known was being overturned in an instant.

So, she was her parents' child, after all, the middle-aged couple who had looked at her with worried yet longing eyes in the hospital room.

But Kit wasn't the person she loved, nor the father of her child. Her husband and the child's father were both this man named Chandler.

He said that at their wedding, she fell into the water and was swept away by the current.

He said he had been searching for her all this time, unable to find her, and he was nearly driven to madness.

He even said that she was the only person he had ever loved in his life!

He showed her many photos of their time together, as well as news articles about the Stephenson family and the Hunter family searching for her after she was swept away, making her unable to doubt everything he said.

But how could Kit have lied to her?!

She still couldn't believe it.

After all, during the time she spent with Kit, he had been so good to her. She could feel the tenderness and affection in his eyes.

Chapter 4217

When Lina and Hadwin came to the hospital in the morning and found out that Tina already knew the truth, they couldn't help but worry.

"Didn't we agree to wait until she recovers a bit and then tell her? Can she handle knowing all this now? What if she can't accept it..." Lina said.

"I'm sorry!" Chandler apologized with guilt, "I couldn't hold back in the moment."

He couldn't help but blurt it out because he was too jealous. Jealous that the person who used to love him so much now had thoughts for another man.

Hadwin patted Chandler's shoulder, understanding his feelings as a man.

"Now that it's already like this, let's think about how to help Tina accept it better," Hadwin said.

Lina sighed and said to the two men, "I'll go in and talk to Tina. Leave her to me." After that, she walked into the ward, leaving the two big men outside.

Lina entered the ward and looked at her daughter, calling out with heartache, "Tina..."

Tina turned her head and looked at Lina. There was a complicated expression on her face. After a while, she spoke, "Are you really my mother?"

Tears immediately filled Lina's eyes, "Yes, I am your mother. You don't know how happy your father and I were when we found out you were still alive, Tina. I know you've lost your memory, and even if you don't recognize me right away, it's okay. Your father and I can wait patiently. Whether you have your memory or not, you're still our daughter."

Tina felt a pang of heartache seeing the tears in the woman's eyes.

She didn't like it when this woman cried. It felt like it would make her uncomfortable if the other person cried!

"Mom!" Tina shouted. She believed, believed that this woman was really her mother because the intense feeling the woman had for her couldn't be faked!

Lina's tears couldn't be stopped anymore. They kept rolling down from her eyes as she hugged Tina.

"It's Mom, Mom is here!" This was her child! From the moment she carried her in her womb, she vowed to protect her child!

"Mom, I know I should believe what you and Dad said, but I still want to see Kit. I want to hear everything from his own mouth," Tina said. "I have to hear it from him personally before I can believe it!"

Because he was the one who rescued her from the abyss!

Seeing her daughter's determined expression, Lina knew that she had to let Tina see Kit, that only when she saw Kit and heard the truth from his own mouth would she accept this reality.

"Mom!" Seeing Lina hesitate, Tina said again, "I want to see Kit. Let me see him. Whether he deceived me or not, I need to hear the answers from his own mouth."

Lina finally nodded, "Okay, I'll let you see him."

With that, Tina relaxed her brows and soon fell asleep due to exhaustion.

Lina left the ward and relayed Tina's request.

"She wants to see Kit," Lina said.

"No, we can't let her see that guy again!" Hadwin objected. "He deceived Tina and caused her to have an accident. Who knows what bad things will happen if Tina goes to see him."

"But no matter what, if it weren't for him, Tina might still be suffering in that small village. He was the one who brought Tina out of the village. And the police also said that when the accident happened, if it wasn't for Kit using his body to protect Tina, her injuries might have been even worse, maybe even fatal!"

"But if he hadn't lied when he found Tina, how could Tina have had the accident? I didn't directly report him to the police and have him arrested. That was already letting him off lightly!"

Hadwin became even angrier when talking about this.

Neither of the married couples wanted to back down.

In the end, Chandler made a concession, "Then let Tina see him."

Chapter 4218

"Chandler!" Hadwin couldn't believe his eyes as he looked at Chandler. "Are you really willing to let Tina see him? Aren't you afraid that he'll say some persuasive words to Tina? What if Tina wavers again, what will you do?"

"Anyway, if Tina wants to see Kit, then let her see him. Even if she is really shaken by it and would rather believe a liar, I accept that fact!" Chandler said.

But the weight of these words, only he understood!

Hadwin glanced at his son-in-law, and only then did he deeply understand that Chandler loved Tina more than he had imagined!

“Since you also know what the consequences might be, I won’t say anything.” Hadwin sighed and patted Chandler’s shoulder.

Lina’s eyes turned red. This is a test for Chandler, but also a test for Tina!

I wonder what will happen when Tina really meets Kit!

Lina’s feelings towards Kit have always been contradictory.

On one hand, she is grateful that Kit found Tina and rescued her from the village. But on the other hand, she resents Kit for deceiving Tina, who has lost her memory.

Now, no one knows what the consequences will be when Tina and Kit meet.

Before meeting Kit, Tina first met her own daughter.

Sitting in a wheelchair, she was pushed into the premature baby room, looking at the newborns in the incubators. Then Lina pointed to one of the babies and said, “This is your daughter.”

Tina looked at the tiny, fragile baby still in the incubator, with thin tubes inserted in her nostrils and IV fluids in her hand. She looked small and vulnerable.

But another indescribable emotion surged from her chest.

This is her child!

A child with blood ties to her!

This child is very important! Very important!

But is it only because this is her baby that she feels it is important and is willing to protect this child at all costs?

It feels like there is another reason.

What could that reason be...

Tina couldn’t help but raise her hand and press it against her throbbing forehead.

Her head started to hurt at this moment as if there was an answer trying to tell her something!

Pain!

The pain in her head seemed to be getting worse!

Tina's face became paler and sweat, like tiny beads, kept sliding down her face.

Seeing her daughter like this, Lina immediately became nervous. "What's wrong?"

"My head hurts so much..." Tina said in pain, her eyebrows furrowing even more, and the pain on her face becoming more intense.

The nurse hurriedly went to find a doctor, while Lina and the nurse quickly pushed Tina back to the hospital room.

Tina's head continued to ache. When Chandler and Hadwin, who were left in the room, saw Tina like this, their expressions immediately became serious.

"What is going on? Why did Tina become like this?" Hadwin asked urgently.

"I don't know either." Lina said, "She just looked at the child, and then Tina suddenly had a headache!" Lina said.

Chapter 4219

The doctor rushed over and administered a sedative to Tina after giving her a preliminary diagnosis.

Finally, Tina's headache subsided and she fell into a deep sleep.

"Doctor, what is happening?" Lina asked, her eyes turning red with worry.

"It seems that something triggered her memory, causing the headache," the doctor answered.

The three of them were taken aback, and Lina quickly asked, "Does that mean Tina might recover her memory?"

"It's possible. Her memory loss was originally traumatic, so when she encounters something that triggers her memory, there is a chance for recovery. However, the side effect could be a headache like she experienced earlier," the doctor replied. "Of course, there are also some patients who never recover their memory and instead develop a headache disorder. So, whether or not memory recovery is possible sometimes just comes down to luck."

In other words, it's difficult to restore memory through treatment.

Whether or not recovery is possible largely depends on luck.

After the doctor left, Chandler sat by the bedside, looking at Tina lying on the hospital bed.

Will she recover her memory? How wonderful would it be if Tina could regain her memory just like this!

They could go back to how they were before, and she wouldn't only be thinking about Kit anymore!

However, when Tina woke up again and looked at him with her eyes, an indescribable disappointment welled up in Chandler's heart.

He knew that she hadn't regained her memory.

Because the love she used to have for him was absent in her gaze.

"You're awake. How do you feel? Is your headache still there?" Chandler suppressed his disappointment and asked.

Tina paused for a moment and then said, "If you claim to be the father of the child, then tell me, why is this child so important to me? Do you know the reason? What does this child mean to me? Is it really just because I am her mother, or is there another reason?"

After

Chandler was momentarily stunned, staring blankly at Tina in front of him.

Even though she hadn't regained her memory, she still remembered the child, subconsciously aware of her importance to the child.

"If I say that you care about this child, partly because of me, would you believe it?" Chandler's voice was hoarse.

Tina hesitated, "Because of you?"

"Because of me..." He pursed his lips, his nose tingling. "I have a disease that requires the placenta of you and our child to treat. So, you care more about this child because you are her mother, and at the same time, you hope I can cure my illness."

Tina seemed to hear something unbelievable, "Your illness requires the placenta?"

"Yes." It was the curse of the Hunter family, a fate he couldn't escape since birth.

However, in the past, he resented the heavens for giving him such a fate, but later, he was grateful to the heavens for giving him such a fate because it led him to her!

"So, is there still a placenta now?" Tina asked with difficulty.

She never expected that the placenta could actually treat the man in front of her.

But the child was premature, and she didn't even know if there was a placenta.

"No, it's gone," Chandler said. The placenta had already been treated as medical waste and disposed of.

And when he arrived at the hospital, he didn't even ask about the placenta. He was only concerned about her well-being.

It wasn't until they were about to transfer her to another hospital that the people from the Hunter family came over and informed him that the placenta had been disposed of and couldn't be retrieved!

The elders of the Hunter family were naturally anxious about this, but they also knew that it was already impossible to reverse the situation.

He can only make Tina get pregnant again as soon as possible.

But he naturally won't comply with this request from the Hunter family elders.

He only cares about whether Tina's body can recover. As for the placenta and his illness, he doesn't care anymore.

Chapter 4220

A worried expression appeared on Tina's face, "What about the placenta? What about your illness?"

Chandler felt strangely comforted in that instant, "You're worried about me?"

Tina was stunned, staring blankly at the person in front of her.

Yes, she was actually worried about him just now!

Was it because he said he was her husband, the father of her child?

But didn't she remember him at all? The current him was like a stranger to her.

"Are you worried about me?" his voice repeated again in her ear.

That voice carried a strong longing.

At this moment, a strange feeling suddenly surged in her heart, and for a moment, she couldn't say any denying answer.

"Yes, I am worried. After all, the placenta could have cured your illness." She spoke softly.

He suddenly smiled, a smile that rarely appeared on his expressionless face, and tears filled his deep eyes.

This was a side of him she had never seen before.

She felt unable to take her eyes off his face. He was smiling, but it seemed like he was about to cry.

She even felt like his tears were about to overflow in the next moment.

Tina couldn't help but raise her hand and stroke Chandler's eye corner.

He looked at her with a puzzled gaze.

She suddenly realized what she had done, "I just thought you were about to

"I wasn't crying," Chandler said softly, but his eyes were filled with tears.

"But you're now..."

"I'm just very happy," he said in a low voice, "because you're worried about me, so I'm happy!"

Happy?

Tina was momentarily stunned. What was there to be happy about?

"But now that the placenta is gone, what about your illness?"

"It's okay if the placenta is gone, then it's gone." As long as she is safe, it's enough for him!

When Tina fell asleep at night, her mind was still thinking about Chandler, and even his teary eyes kept appearing in her dreams. When she woke up, she even felt a bit dazed.

Why did she care so much?

Even seeing the tears in his eyes made her heart ache.

Another day pa*sed, and Tina finally saw Kit.

They met in a hospital room.

Kit was lying in bed, while Tina was sitting in a wheelchair.

Tina knew that Kit's injuries were actually worse than her own.

She had heard the nurse say, in a semi-conscious state, that during the accident, Kit had used his body to shield her from part of the impact, protecting her.

Otherwise, she and the baby might not have survived!
