

Ex Convict 4251

Chapter 4251 I won't be mad at you

This desire and longing made him want to break free from here and find the person who could make him feel no pain, to hold that person tightly in his arms!

But he couldn't do that!

His remaining sanity was desperately suppressing this desire.

Tina, now that she has lost her previous memories, doesn't remember his curse or her promise.

For her, everything that happened in the past no longer exists.

If he were to tell her everything she had promised in the past, including his curse, it would only be a kind of shackles for her.

Tina...

Thinking of her, a sharp pain surged in his chest.

She cares more about Kit than he imagined!

He initially thought that she would erase that man from her heart after witnessing her determination toward Kit.

After all, he knew that she hated being deceived by others. Even though she had lost her memory, this fact hadn't changed.

Therefore, he believed that Kit would never have another chance!

But it wasn't until he saw her protecting Kit in the alley that he realized he had been too simplistic in his thinking.

After all, the person who had been with Tina all those months was Kit.

During that time, Kit was the person Tina relied on the most.

For Tina, who had no memories, Kit at that time was a kind of redemption.

With such an existence, even though he had deceived her, how could he possibly treat it as if it didn't exist?!

When he accompanied Tina to the hospital, he felt jealousy gnawing at him. If he stayed any longer, he was afraid he wouldn't be able to control that jealousy.

Moreover, his pain was about to flare up, which is why he hurriedly returned to the Hunter family in the middle of the night.

He didn't know how much time had passed, but the pain in his body gradually faded away, and Chandler felt completely exhausted.

What should he do?

The closer he got to Tina, the harder it became for him to control himself.

He would constantly recall the love she had shown him before and then feel extremely upset because of her lack of love for him.

now.

After coming out of the medicine bath, he cleaned himself up and put on his clothes.

As soon as he stepped out of the room, a servant approached him and said, "Mr. Hunter, Ms. Hunter is here."

Chandler was taken aback. Ms. Hunter mentioned by the servant could only be one person – Tina!

"Where is she?" Chandler asked anxiously.

"The old Mr. Hunter has already arranged for her to stay in a guest room," the servant replied.

Chandler was momentarily stunned, then understood why she had been assigned a guest room.

These past few days were the days when his pain flared up. Grandfather knew he didn't want Tina to know about his physical condition, so he gave her a guest room.

After a moment, Chandler arrived at the guest room and saw

Tina.

"Why did you come?" he asked.

"I couldn't reach you on your phone. When I found out you were back, I came to look for you!" Tina said.

"I just came back to see Grandfather and my parents," he made up an excuse.

"Aren't you mad at me?" Tina asked directly.

Chandler looked at the person in front of him affectionately. "Tina, I'm not mad at you."

After experiencing the pain of losing her, how could he still be angry with her!

He could only be angry with himself, angry at his own mistakes, angry that he couldn't make her love him!

But Chandler's words didn't make Tina feel any better. Instead, they made the heavy feeling in her chest even more pronounced.

Chapter 4252 The Truth

The better he treated her, the more accommodating he was to her, the more uncomfortable she felt.

It was as if he was wrapped in layers of veils, and each seemingly thin layer could be easily seen through. But once those layers accumulated, it became increasingly difficult to see through!

It felt as if his standing in front of her was an illusion he carefully maintained. She thought she was gradually understanding him, but in reality, she understood nothing.

"Why aren't you mad at me?" Tina asked.

"Because you're Tina." It seemed like this one explanation was enough!

Tina raised her head. "What if I'm not Tina? Would you still not be mad at me?"

He smiled helplessly. "There's no what if like that."

"You..." She glared at him, her teeth tightly biting her lip.

"Tina, are you mad at me?" Chandler softly said, "Are you mad that I came back without telling you? And my phone was off, so you couldn't contact me. I promise I won't do that again. From now on, whenever you want to contact me, you can reach me anytime!"

His slightly humble tone made the anger that had risen in Tina's chest disappear in an instant.

"You really won't let me lose contact with you again?" Tina asked.

"Really," he promised.

"Then were you upset that day?" she asked again, "When I went to save Kil, were you very upset?"

Chandler looked at the woman in front of him. At this moment, she was looking at him with those clear eyes.

She had always looked at him with such clear and open eyes, to the point where it made him feel dirty.

"I..."

"I want to hear the truth!" Tina said, "I don't want to hear lies. We've been through so much together, even though I don't remember the past now, I don't want to be surrounded by falsehoods. Chandler, I want to know what you really think."

He pursed his thin lips. "I was indeed unhappy. I was afraid that if I had arrived later, you would have been in danger. I was afraid that you valued Kit too much, and I was also afraid that you..."

He paused for a moment. There was a sentence that had been suppressed in his heart, and now it finally came out.

"I was afraid that the person you fell in love with was Kit, that you had feelings for him."

Because of fear, he ran away!

He didn't want to see her behavior toward Kit.

"I do have feelings for Kit, but it's not love!" Tina said frankly, "I hate that he deceived me, but when I see him now, I still feel sympathy. I think about how he rescued me from the village, how he protected me and the child during the car accident. So I don't want his fate to be miserable. I hope he can live a good life too!"

She didn't want the man in front of her to misunderstand, so she wanted to say everything she thought in her heart!

"Perhaps, before I knew he was deceiving me, I did like him and felt grateful, wanting to spend my life with him. But after knowing that it was all lies, I no longer like him!" Tina continued, taking two steps closer to Chandler.

At this moment, there was almost no distance between them. She looked up and could easily see her own face reflected in his pupils.

"Chandler, the person I want to love is you. That's why I want to be with you like this, why I rush to find you when I can't reach you on the phone, and why I care if you're angry. I don't want any misunderstandings between us!"

Chapter 4253 Taking the Initiative

His body trembled. "You want to fall in love with me?"

"Yes, otherwise why would I always want to be with you?" Tina said, "I've lost my previous memories and don't remember what happened before. Everyone tells me how much we loved each other and how much you loved me."

She raised her hand and gently touched his cheek. "I don't know how much I loved you before, but I can feel how much you loved me. So I also want to love you, even if I can't remember the past, I want to fall in love with you again."

As she spoke, her expression became more and more determined. "I want to love you, not because others keep telling me that we used to be in love, but because I want to love you on my own!"

Chandler stared at Tina, his mind almost blank.

He had never expected to hear such words from her!

Was it just because she wanted to love on her own?

"So, did you understand what I said?" Tina asked.

Chandler nodded.

"Then you won't be afraid anymore," she added.

He nodded again.

Tina smiled, cupped Chandler's face, stood on her tiptoes, and kissed his lips.

For some reason, she wanted to kiss him now!

Chandler was startled, but he didn't push Tina away. Instead, he responded to her kiss.

This kiss reminded him of the past when Tina used to kiss him like this!

After who knows how long, the kiss finally ended.

Chandler gazed at the person in front of him. "You..."

"You won't blame me for kissing you just now, right?" Tina asked with wide eyes.

"Why did you suddenly kiss me?" he asked.

"I just suddenly wanted to kiss you, so I did. If you find it unpleasant, then I won't do it again in the future," she said.

His eyes were filled with deep affection. "I really like it."

He liked her initiative and her honesty.

She blinked and breathed a sigh of relief. "Also, tonight I don't want to sleep in the guest room. I want to share a room with you."

They were already husband and wife anyway, so it shouldn't be a problem to sleep in the same room at night.

She didn't want to resist the feelings she had for Chandler in her heart.

Although it wasn't clear whether it was love or not, she enjoyed being close to him, holding him, and kissing him.

Chandler hesitated when he heard this, his face showing a hesitant expression.

"What's wrong? Can't I share a room with you?" Tina asked.

"It's not that you can't share a room with me, it's just..." he hesitated.

"Just what?" she widened her eyes, waiting for him to continue.

He was afraid that his symptoms would suddenly flare up. These past few days, the cursed pain would intermittently occur, and he wasn't sure when it would happen.

If his pain suddenly flares up when he's with her, can he really restrain his impulse toward her?

After all, when pain strikes, the reason is fragile.

And she, she is the one he desires the most, the one who drives him crazy!

are already married, you haven't fallen in love with me yet. If we share a room, I'm afraid I'll act on impulse and end up hurting you!" Chandler said.

Tina pondered for a moment, "So, if I fall in love with you, then we can sleep in the same room?"

Chapter 4254 Hearing

Her words caught him off guard.

"Hmm?" She still had her eyes wide open, waiting for his answer.

"Yes." He replied softly.

If she truly fell in love with him, he wouldn't suppress or overcome his impulse towards her anymore. She could have whatever she wanted!

Tina shrugged, "Alright then, I'll sleep in the guest room!"

But when night came, Tina couldn't fall asleep no matter what.

She got up and put on a coat, walking out of the room.

The Hunter family was a completely new and unfamiliar environment to her, yet she didn't feel it was that unfamiliar.

Maybe it was because she had been here before, even though she didn't have that memory, her body might still remember.

In the depths of her mind, there seemed to be an inexplicable calling, urging her on.

Tina unconsciously walked to the door of a room.

This room's door was different from the others.

That intangible urging in her heart seemed to have become even more apparent!

Tina hesitated and pushed the door open.

In her sight was a portrait and a table.

The table was adorned with various offerings.

The portrait depicted a beautiful woman, but her gaze carried a trace of resentment.

Who was this woman?

In an instant, Tina's heart rate suddenly accelerated. She felt as if a memory was appearing in her mind, but it was just a blank.

It was as if there was something important that she should remember!

But she couldn't remember it now!

Just then, there was suddenly a commotion outside.

Tina was startled and instinctively hid under the table, her body covered by the tablecloth.

But as soon as she hid, she realized why she was hiding. Even if she wasn't hiding, it wouldn't matter. If someone saw her, she could simply say that she had entered the wrong room or something like that!

However, someone had already entered, and the door of the room was pushed open at this moment, and someone walked in.

At this moment, it would be awkward to crawl out.

So Tina could only continue to crouch under the table, hoping that the person who came in would leave quickly.

"Don't you want that Stephenson girl to give birth to your child as soon as possible?" the voice of an old man suddenly resounded in the room.

Tina was taken aback. This voice was the voice of old Mr. Hunter.

So the person being asked by old Mr. Hunter at this moment would be...

Just as Tina was thinking this, the familiar voice had already spoken.

"When to have a child should be Tina's decision, not mine."

"What if she never wants to have another one?"

"Then we won't have one."

"You—" Old Mr. Hunter glared at Chandler with anger, "Why are you so disappointing!"

But at this moment, Tina's state of mind was completely different from old Mr. Hunter's.

She felt a hint of sweetness.

He was indeed as he promised, not pressuring her.

But the next sentence from old Mr. Hunter made her suddenly freeze.

"Don't forget, what was your purpose for getting close to Tina in the first place? After all these years by her side, are you planning to give up?" the old Mr. Hunter said angrily.

Tina was taken aback, purpose?

Was Chandler accompanying her for a reason?

"I haven't forgotten," Chandler said, and the pain in his body reminded him of that purpose.

"Since you haven't forgotten, then you should make Tina give birth to the child as soon as possible. Don't forget, only the umbilical cord blood of the child she and you have can save your life. The umbilical cord blood of the first child is already gone, you can only have another one!" the old Mr. Hunter said.

Chapter 4255 Discovery

Tina was completely stunned, she never expected to hear such words.

A child? Umbilical cord blood? Life-saving?

What is going on?

"If you don't force her..."

"Grandfather, I will make Tina fall in love with me," Chandler interrupted the old Mr. Hunter. He knew that if he didn't make a stand now, his grandfather would inevitably hurt Tina, so he had to promise first.

"Are you sure she will fall in love with you? She has lost her memories, even if you want her to fall in love with you, how much time will it take?" the old Mr. Hunter worriedly said.

After all, time was what his grandson couldn't afford the most right now.

This kind of pain only intensified year after year.

Did his grandson have to continue to stay by Tina's side for another ten years or more, just so that Tina could fall in love with him again?

"It won't take too long," Chandler said, "She already has feelings for me, I guarantee that after a while, she will fall in love with me."

my bloodline to end with you."

The old Mr. Hunter said, glancing at the portrait of the woman hanging on the wall. Who could have imagined that the Hunter family would be plagued by such a curse for thousands of years?

Even with all the wealth and power, they were ultimately trapped in it.

"I understand," Chandler said softly.

The old Mr. Hunter looked at his grandson's appearance and knew that saying more would be useless.

"Alright, I couldn't sleep and pulled you out to chat. Now you should go back and rest," the old Mr. Hunter said.

"I want to stay here a little longer," Chandler said.

Hearing this, the old Mr. Hunter patted his grandson's shoulder, "It's fine for you to stay here for a while, think carefully about whether it's worth it to do all this. Don't make yourself miserable."

Chandler lowered his gaze, he was doing all this because he loved Tina.

He didn't want to force her to do anything.

If Tina didn't willingly want to have their child, then he would rather do as Tina wished and not have a second child!

Even if it meant that his life might not last much longer!

He realized what a profound feeling it was!

For that person, he could sacrifice anything. As long as that person was safe and happy, it was worth more than anything else!

The old Mr. Hunter left the room, leaving Chandler alone standing in front of the table, gazing up at the portrait.

When he was young, he used to resent the woman in the portrait. If it weren't for her curse, he wouldn't have to endure such pain!

But as the years passed, his resentment gradually faded and turned into another emotion.

If it weren't for this curse, he wouldn't have met Tina, and he wouldn't have been there for Tina as she grew up!

Just then, a faint sound came from the air.

Chandler: "Who's there?!"

Besides him, there was someone else in the room.

But there was no response, the air was suffused with a sense of suffocation.

"Come out!" Chandler said sternly.

Under the table, there was a faint sound of sobbing.

Chandler's body suddenly stiffened, then his face turned pale, and his gaze fell under the table, filled with unease and fear...

He was like a taut string as if it could snap at any moment.

Chapter 4256 The Reason

Time passed by minute by minute.

The air became oppressively strange.

It was so quiet all around, except for the audible sobbing under the table, which was so obvious!

Chandler stiffened his body, his mind almost blank.

There was only one voice constantly shouting in his heart, please don't let it be Tina...

But sometimes, the more afraid you are of something happening, the more likely it will happen.

When he bent down and slowly lifted the tablecloth that had fallen, he finally saw the figure hiding under the table.

He was instantly shocked!

That familiar figure caught his eye.

It was Tina!

But Tina at this moment had tears all over her face, and her expressions were so different from the ones he was familiar with!

Her eyes, blinking non-stop, were filled with tears, causing him heartache.

She bit her lip hard, and after a long while, she slowly emerged from under the table.

“Why are you here?” he raised his hand, wanting to wipe away the tears on her face, but she suddenly took a step back, avoiding his hand.

His hand awkwardly stayed suspended in mid-air, with a trace of bitterness in his eyes.

“You heard what my grandfather and I were talking about just now?” he said softly.

“Yes, I heard it all!” she said in a nasal voice, “I didn’t know, but I couldn’t sleep at night, and I accidentally walked into this room, and I actually heard those words.”

Chandler withdrew his hand with a pale face and stood there quietly as if he was a person about to be judged.

Tina took a deep breath, “I don’t want any misunderstandings between us, so I have a few questions to ask you, but I hope you can be honest with me, without any concealment.”

He looked at her and said, “Sure, ask me whatever questions you have.”

“What’s the deal with the umbilical cord blood-saving lives?” she asked.

“The Hunter family has a curse that can be inherited by children, but this inheritance is not certain, it could be skipped a generation or several generations. But those who are affected by this curse will experience periodic excruciating pain. This pain may last a few minutes or hours and usually occurs within two to three days.

After enduring these two to three days, the pain will subside for some time.”

“What if they can’t endure it?” she asked.

“If they can’t endure it, they will commit suicide,” he said, there have been many suicides among the ancestors of the Hunter family.

Tina’s body trembled, seemingly not expecting this kind of answer.

“As for the umbilical cord blood-saving lives, a person affected by this curse will have a connection with a certain opposite-S individual. If they have a child with this person they have a connection with, the placenta and umbilical cord blood of the child can be used to create a medicine that can lift the curse," Chandler said.

Tina tightly pursed her lips, seemingly contemplating his words. After a long while, she asked, "So now, you are affected by this curse, and I am the opposite-S individual you have a connection with?"

"Yes," he said.

"When did you know that I was the person you had a connection with?" she stared at him and asked.

His body stiffened even more, "...Before you were born."

"What?" Tina was taken aback, "Before I was born? Are you

Chapter 4257 The Truth

"Yes!" he could never forget that day when he saw Tina's pregnant mother, the connection suddenly exploded in his body.

In that instant, he finally understood what the so-called connection passed down in the family's records really meant!

It turns out that finding the person who can break the curse feels like this!

It wasn't until now that Tina finally understood why Chandler appeared suddenly when her mother was in difficult labor, and then saved her and her mother, and wanted to be engaged to her.

It was all because of this curse.

The so-called fate was because of this!

"So, all these years, you have been by my side, to have a child with me in the future and break the curse on you?" Tina took a while before speaking again.

Chandler looked at Tina, her face full of tears, and he knew that he could lie to her at this moment, maybe lying would be good for both of them.

But no matter how hard he tried, he couldn't bring himself to say the lie.

He had promised her that he wouldn't hide anything and would

At first, that was indeed my intention, but later..." he wanted to explain, but she quickly interrupted him.

"So, it was all just a manipulation from the beginning?" Tina smiled bitterly, "Later? Are you trying to say that later you developed genuine feelings for me? When was that? When I was in elementary school? Middle school? Or maybe high school?"

But none of that matters now!

When she looked at the old photo albums and videos of her and Chandler together, even though she didn't have the memories of the past, she could still feel the beauty in those images.

But now, those beautiful images are starting to change.

How much sincerity is mixed in with all of this? How much is driven by ulterior motives?

Faced with Tina's questioning, Chandler remains silent.

Tina's heart becomes even more uneasy, sinking further.

She hopes he can refute, hopes he can tell her it's not like what she said.

But his silence confirms, from the beginning, he used her, even if he did develop feelings for her much later.

And within this motive, how much does his affection for her really hold?

Tina wipes away the tears from her face, looking at Chandler with determination: "If I'm not the one who can break the curse,

Chandler's hand, hanging by his side, clenches into a fist, his nails digging into his palm: "I don't know, because even before you were born, I knew about your existence, and then I stayed by your side, gradually falling in love with you. I don't know what it would be like between us if you weren't the one, but I've always..."

"If I'm not the one, then maybe you wouldn't have given me a second glance, or by that time, both I and my mother would have already died and wouldn't even be in this world!" Tina mocks herself.

Chandler wants to say something, he knows if he doesn't say anything, their relationship might end like this.

But when he opens his mouth, nothing comes out!

"I need to think about this thoroughly, it's already late today!" Tina says, walking out of the room.

In the room, Chandler is left alone.

Chapter 4258 She's Worth it

Finally, at this moment, he released his tightly clenched hands, blood seeping from his palms.

He wanted to tell her how grateful he was that she was the one who could break his curse because she was so wonderful, and he loved her so much.

This love, even though it began with ulterior motives, eventually turned into genuine affection.

When he looked at her when she was a baby, when he watched her learn to speak, when he saw her call him Chandler, he knew his genuine affection was growing more and more. Later on, he gradually forgot about his original motives and only wanted her to grow up safe and sound.

If it were Tina hadn't lost her memories, she would have understood and believed his words because Tina had experienced those little bits of affection.

But the Tina of today, she had no memories of the past or feelings for Chandler, so she wouldn't believe it at all.

Chandler lowered his eyes, thinking about the last time when Tina found out about this secret before losing her memories.

But the Tina of that time, she loved him, so her reaction would be completely different.

He never expected that back then, Tina would take the initiative to want to marry him early, to want to have his child as soon as possible, to want to break the curse on him.

But now everything had changed.

Chandler looked at the portrait hanging on the wall.

The woman in the portrait had caused great pain to the Hunter family. And now he couldn't help but wonder if it was also a curse that things turned out like that.

Tina left the Hunter family the next day, without even saying goodbye to Chandler.

When Chandler found out that Tina had left, his expression turned dim.

"What's going on? Wasn't that girl coming to see you? Why did she leave on her own?" old Mr. Hunter furrowed his brows, asking his grandson.

Chandler smiled wryly and replied, "Tina already knows."

"What?"

"She knows about my curse. She knows that she has to have my second child for me to break the curse," Chandler answered.

"Did you tell her?" the old Mr. Hunter stared at his grandson.

Chandler nodded calmly.

The old Mr. Hunter's face darkened, and he coldly snorted, "She knows everything, yet she's still like this. I will go to the Stephenson family and ask what this means!"

"Grandfather, this is between me and Tina, you shouldn't interfere!" Chandler immediately spoke up.

"Do you think it's only about the two of you?" the old Mr. Hunter snapped.

"I will save myself, grandfather, you can rest assured," Chandler looked straight at the old Mr. Hunter. "But you also know how important Tina is to me. I don't want anyone else meddling in our affairs, not even you, grandfather!"

Chandler's resolute gaze left the old Mr. Hunter feeling helpless, reminding him of how his grandson spent the days when Tina was missing.

If Tina hadn't come back safely, Chandler might have gone insane, or he might have killed himself.

Letting out a sigh, the old Mr. Hunter said, "Alright then, I won't interfere in this matter, and I won't let your parents interfere either. But I hope Tina is truly worth it for you."

Chandler lowered his gaze and said softly, "She is worth it."

Chapter 4259 I want a divorce

Tina returned to the Stephenson family alone and locked herself in her room.

This worried Hadwin and Lina.

"Did something happen in the Hunter family? Why didn't Chandler accompany Tina back?" Lina asked. In the past, Chandler would always accompany their daughter and send her back to the Stephenson family.

"Tina didn't seem alright when she came back. Something must have happened," Hadwin said, "I'll go to the Hunter family tomorrow."

"Wait!" Lina said, "Let me ask Tina first. Let's not blow this out of proportion."

If her husband really went to the Hunter family, what could have been just an issue between the two children would turn into a problem involving two families.

Hadwin sighed, "Alright, you go ask. If the Hunter family said or did something inappropriate to Tina, then I'll go to the Hunter family and demand an explanation."

Lina stood outside her daughter's room and knocked on the door, but there was no response.

Fortunately, the door was not locked, so Lina pushed it open and entered.

As soon as she entered the room, she saw her daughter watching videos of her and Chandler when they were young.

"Why are you suddenly watching these?" Lina asked.

"Just wanted to watch," Tina whispered. Once, watching these videos filled her with warmth, but now, it felt ironic.

From the beginning, Chandler's kindness towards her was only to break the curse.

All the romance and happiness were just illusions.

Even though Chandler eventually fell in love with her, how much of it was genuine, and how much of it was fake?

"Did something happen in the Hunter family?" Lina asked.

Tina's eyelashes trembled, "I just found out some things."

But she didn't specify what exactly happened.

Lina understood that her daughter didn't want to talk about it, so she gently touched her head, "If you've been wronged in the Hunter family, tell your parents. The Stephenson family won't be bullied. We've worked hard to gain wealth and status just so you can have a more secure future and more choices!"

After hearing her mother's words, Tina's eyes couldn't help but turn red. She took a deep breath and said, "Mom, I haven't been mistreated in the Hunter family, so don't worry. I just want a divorce!"

"What?" Lina was shocked, "You want a divorce?"

Although her daughter had lost her memory and no longer had feelings for Chandler, didn't they get along well recently?

She and Hadwin thought that the two children would have a fresh start, but now there was suddenly a twist.

It seemed that something had indeed happened when Tina went to the Hunter family.

"Is it okay?" Tina asked.

She knew very well that if she really wanted to divorce Chandler, it would be a big deal for both the Stephenson family and the Hunter family.

This marriage was not something that could be easily dissolved.

Lina remained silent for a moment, "Have you thought it through? If you've really made up your mind, then your dad and I will support you. Like I said before, everything we've worked for is to give you more choices. Even if the Hunter family is unhappy later on, your dad and I can handle it!"

Tina's nose tingled, and she suddenly hugged Lina, "Mom, thank you!"

Chapter 4260 Entering her room

After leaving her daughter's room, Lina's face was filled with worry.

She was willing to support her daughter's decision. Meanwhile, she knew it wouldn't be easy for Tina to get a divorce.

After all, the Hunter family saved her and Tina's lives and established this marriage contract.

And Chandler was devoted to Tina.

Although she didn't know why her daughter suddenly made this decision, as a mother, she could sense that her daughter had made up her mind.

"How is Tina?" Hadwin approached and asked with concern.

Lina sighed, "Tina wants a divorce."

“Divorce?” Hadwin furrowed his brows unconsciously. “What happened?”

Lina sighed bitterly. “Tina didn’t tell me, and I don’t want to push her. But the truth is, she has lost her memory now and has forgotten what happened between her and Chandler before. Being bound to Chandler in marriage like this is a kind of confinement for her.”

“If she really wants a divorce, then let her have it,” Hadwin said.

Even before their daughter lost her memory, he had made up his mind that if she didn’t want the engagement with the Hunter family, he would help her break off the engagement at any cost.

Now, it was just a matter of doing it.

Lina had already known that her husband would respond like this.

“Then let’s talk to the Hunter family someday,” Lina said.

Regardless of the circumstances, it was Tina who requested the divorce. If Chandler hadn’t done anything wrong, then it was a price that the Stephenson family would have to pay in the end.

But before they could go and find the Hunter family, Chandler had already appeared at the Stephenson family.

“I want to see Tina,” Chandler spoke up directly.

“Chandler, what really happened between you and Tina?” Lina asked.

Chandler remained silent, his expression a mix of awkwardness, bitterness, and unease.

Seeing him like this, Lina couldn’t bear to continue asking, so she said, “Tina is in her room, go ahead.”

“Thank you!” Chandler said.

Chandler had been to Tina’s room many times before, but this was the first time he stood nervously at the door.

At this moment, he felt like a criminal facing judgment.

After a while, Chandler finally knocked on the door.

“Come in!” Tina’s voice came from inside the room.

Chandler pushed the door open and saw Tina with her back turned to him, seemingly arranging something.

As he approached, he realized that she was organizing the photo albums that contained pictures of them together, as well as some things related to him.

She used to be kept them in her room. But now, she had put all of them into a big box. It was like she wanted to seal everything away.

The feeling of unease grew stronger in his heart.

“Tina...” Chandler’s voice rang out.

Tina, who had been organizing her things, suddenly froze. Then she turned to look at Chandler, her eyes filled with undisguised surprise.

She had thought it was her parents who came in, but she didn’t expect it to be Chandler.

“I came to see you.” He had always been composed and calm. but now, he felt a sense of helplessness. He was even hesitant to meet her gaze.
