

Ex-Wife 1861

Chapter 1861

Everyone turned to Adie, and Renee asked him suspiciously, "What kind of wish?" She had a feeling that Adie was about to trap her.

"I want Daddy and Mommy to hug each other for ten minutes!" Adie blurted out.

Yeah, we hope Daddy and Mommy can hug each other for ten minutes," Abby echoed excitedly as she jumped up and down.

"Huh? What a weird wish!"

"I heard that Mr. Hunt and Ms. Everheart divorced each other. I guess they're forced to be together for the kids..."

The children probably want them to get back together. It's sweet, but... also quite pitiful." Everyone started gossiping, curious about the relationship between Stefan and Renee and sympathetic towards Adie and Abby.

Renee's jaw dropped, and she quickly squatted down and held Adie, whispering indignantly, What are you two up to? You can't trick me like this!"

"Mommy, we're not trying to trick you..." Adie whispered back, his gaze sincere. "I heard stories where people stopped fighting after hugging each other, so you both should hug too. Although Daddy is unreliable sometimes, he's generally a very good man. Abby and I won't be worried if he's your husband."

Abby innocently chimed in, "Mommy, don't you want to hug Daddy?"

Renee looked at Abby, delighted at the opportunity her daughter had offered her. She nodded vigorously and said, "Well... my arms are aching, so if I hug him, my arms will hurt. Why don't you and Adie ask for something else?"

"Let me think about it... Abby rubbed her chin and frowned as she thought about it, then her eyes lit up. "Okay then, Mommy, if you can't hug Daddy, you can just kiss him instead! You don't need your arms for that, and the both of you will be closer after."

Renee was speechless, inwardly groaning at her daughter's alternative.

"I'm fine with it." Stefan raised his hands and looked at Renee. "The kids' wish is for us to hug each other, so why don't we grant their wish?" He barely had time to enjoy holding her in the cave earlier, so this was practically a gift from the heavens.

"Are you trying to be as insensible as the kids? Renee snapped at Stefan crossly. They had done more intimate things than hugging in the past, but Renee couldn't get over Stefan's indifference. She hated that side of him very much.

"Insensible? I think they're being very sensible, and we shouldn't disappoint them." Stefan spread his hands. "Come on."

"How dare you!" Renee felt like she was being put on the spot. If she refused to hug Stefan, her two children would be heartbroken, so... Gritting her teeth, she threw herself into Stefan's arms. Stefan's warm embrace was just as she remembered it, and she instinctively melted into his arms.
