

Ex-Wife 1888

Chapter 1888

Adie was brave when he lived on Sun Island back then, but the one thing he feared was the yearly hurricane season. During that time, there would be heavy rain and strong winds, and trees and houses on the island would be uprooted. It was the scariest time of the year, which was why Adie had learned the signs of an impending hurricane.

"Hurricane?" Madelyn was stunned.

"The weather forecast didn't mention any hurricanes." "Weather forecasts can't be trusted.

Stop wasting time-we have to go now!" Adie shouted anxiously, the strong winds nearly knocking him to his feet.

"Go?" Madelyn looked around, dazed.

"Where can we go? We can't sail the yacht in such weather, we'll end up in the sea." She suddenly regretted kidnapping the children and bringing them to such a dangerous place. "Let's try to find a cave to shelter from the wind," Adie suggested calmly.

"That will do!" Madelyn was clueless about all this, so she just regarded Adie as the leader of their group.

The three of them staggered through the thunderstorm, trying to find shelter.

Meanwhile, a large yacht a few kilometers away from the island was battling the choppy waves at sea.

The captain looked around with his binoculars and said nervously, "A hurricane is coming, and it looks like it'll last the whole night.

Mr.

Hunt, we should leave.

We can't afford to get caught in that hurricane!" "No, we can't leave now!" Stefan held onto a nearby railing tightly and frowned.

"My son might be nearby.

We have to get to the island ahead of US." "But the hurricane is so strong.

If we get on that island, we might not be able to leave.

It's too dangerous!" "I don't care if it's dangerous, I have to save my son," Stefan said firmly.

"Keep going.

I want to get on that island!" A few hours ago, he found Adie's location.

He immediately hired a captain and they took off in his private yacht.

Unexpectedly, the weather had taken a turn, and it was threatening to capsize their yacht.

However, instead of moving to calmer seas or going back, Stefan insisted on moving forward.

If Adie really was trapped on that island, then Stefan needed to save him at all costs.

At last, the captain relented and held the helm tightly soldiering through the difficult weather.

Adie searched for shelter for ages, and he was

toe. TheXmhead to is on

Finally, he found a cave with a narrow entrance in the northeast and they all

e

quickly rushed into it

Although the entrance was small, the cave was deep.

"This is great! I guess God took pity on us." tiffany happily walked into the cave not scared at all.

"T hope so!" Adie nodded, slightly perturbed.

He felt like there was something wrong with that cave.