

ALMIGHTY FATHER SYSTEM

Chapter 3: Villa Reward.

After an hour, Snow came back home and she found Lily frowning hard, while Leo had an amused expression on his face. He looked at Snow and gestured with his eyebrow.

Snow smiled and came over to his side, she spoke in a low voice, "The account is accessible, but only one million is available for withdrawal. It says there that you have invested the rest of the funds in some policies and schemes that would still take some time to mature."

Leo nodded and said, "Well, is that amount enough to pay off the debts or medical bills due?"

Snow nodded and said, "It is enough to get you better physiotherapy, and I do not have much of a debt accumulation, these days, Doctor Kaya and her organization has helped us a lot."

Leo nodded and said, "Let us do this, pay off the debt, book a physiotherapist to come home and help, and donate a small amount to Doctor Kaya's organization."

Snow nodded and Lily said, "Baba, I have a word."

Leo looked and asked dotingly, "What is the word?"

Lily replied confidently, "Millions."

Snow was perplexed but Leo chuckled and said, "Little trickster, you picked up when your Ma said Million."

Lily blushed a little but then she said, "No, Ma said million, and Lily said Millions, so my word is different, and I win."

Leo chuckled and replied, "Fine, you win. What do you want?"

Lily thought for a bit and said, "I want a big doll house."

Leo smiled and said, "Good, we will order one now, and Baba will pay for it. It will be my first gift to my princess."

Lily cheered, "Yay!"

Then the trio began to search for a doll house on the internet, and after a couple of hours, Lily found a doll house that looked like a western manor and said, "Baba, this."

The doll house was big enough to occupy half the living room. Snow frowned and said, "No, this is so big, where will we put it?"

Leo was also thinking about this, but then he saw the expectant look in the eyes of his daughter, and he said, "We will decide about that when the doll house is delivered to us. For now, just order it. Worst comes to worst, we will open one room at a time."

Lily nodded forcefully and hugged Leo as she said, "You are the best Baba."

In Leo's mind a notification went off, 'Ping, as a reward of buying a doll house for your daughter, and making her happy, you have obtained the property rights of the single family villa in North Star Community. The documents and the keys would be delivered to you within an hour.'

Leo was surprised and asked, 'System, the source of this property transfer is legitimate, right?'

'Ping: Don't worry host, it is all legitimate and you can accept it without any worries.'

Leo sighed internally, although he had some reservations about the system and he was still doubtful, but it was what it was. He looked at Snow and said, "Snow, can I get some water."

Snow quickly moved, and fetched him a glass of water, one hour passed in a blink, and the doorbell rang. Snow was surprised by the sudden sound and went to check who it was. Lily also followed her mother with curiosity, while Leo dozed in his wheelchair.

Snow opened the door, and found a young blonde girl standing outside. She wore a corporate suit and her figure was curvy. Snow furrowed her brows and asked, "How can I help you?"

The lady smiled politely and asked, "May I ask if Mr. Leo Cardinal lives here?"

Snow nodded and replied, "He is my husband, what is this about?"

The lady bowed and answered, "Hello, Ma'am, I am Anastasia Qubet, I am here on behalf of Trinity Real Estate. Mr. Cardinal has bought a single family villa from us in the North Star Community. I am here to hand over the purchase agreement and the property deed."

Snow was shocked, and she invited Anastasia inside the house. She was humbled when she saw the modest decoration in her living room and blushed as she asked her to sit down, and looked at Leo who was dozing off, thinking when this guy even had the time and money to buy such an expensive property.

Lily went close to her father and patted him lightly on his leg. Anastasia saw this and was surprised, she did not expect that the owner of such a prestigious property would be confined to a wheelchair, and look so pitiful.

Snow caught this look in the eyes of the official and frowned, she disliked when people looked down on Leo.

Leo opened his eyes, and looked at Snow in askance. The latter made the introductions and Leo turned his attention to Anastasia. Who noticed that despite being in a wheelchair, his eyes were sharp, which even surprised her. She regained her composure and said, "Greetings, Mr. Cardinal. Here are the documents, and I would need you to sign one final paper to assure that the handover has been completed."

Leo nodded and read the documents slowly, before he nodded, and asked for a pen. Anastasia gave him a pen and Leo Cardinal signed his name on them. The official congratulated them and Snow asked her to stay for tea, but the lady declined and left stating that she had some work to do.

Snow frowned, because she could sense that this was not the real reason. Leo was not a fool either, when he saw Snow getting upset he smiled and said, "Do not bother with her, in the future she will be nothing more than a passerby."

Snow regained her smile and nodded, Lily asked, "What is this paper? It is so soft, can we make a boat with it."

The lady's face changed and she quickly collected the paper and looked at Lily and remarked, "My ancestor please do not make boats out of the property deed."

Leo found this address funny and Lily asked innocently, "What is a proper deed."

She could not pronounce property, and Leo said, "It is the ticket to enter a big house."

Lily looked at her father and asked excitedly, "Really? Can we live in a big house?"

Leo nodded and began to answer the questions his daughter asked, such as when will we go, what will we do there, who will be her friend, and what about school.

The young man answered all the questions patiently before Lily went to her room to finish her homework. Snow came to Leo, and massaged his hands as she asked, "When did you get that house?"

Leo smiled, he expected her to come and question, so he had prepared an answer already, and replied, "It was during my college, the Cardinal Family has always been business savvy, so, I bought this place when they had just started the project. It took five years for completion."

Snow cast him a prolonged gaze and asked, "Leo Cardinal, how much more are you hiding from me?"

Leo smiled and replied, "You will know in the future."

Snow smiled and asked, "What do you think about this house? Should we move in there? I mean, we might have to cross paths with them, no?"

Leo nodded and said, "We will have to cross paths eventually, however, unlike the past, this time I will not underestimate them. Everyone will pay for what they have done to me and my family."

Snow shivered a bit and asked, "Leo, can you really not let go of it? What they did to you back then almost... Is it necessary?"

Leo turned his head to look at her, Snow avoided his gaze but the young man said softly, "Snow, I do not blame you, because I know you are thinking for my well being. However, I assure you, that I will not do anything that I am not confident of or something that will put you two in danger."

That being said, I have to be filial to my parents as well, I cannot just let these people walk away from their sins. My parents never harmed anyone, I only seek your understanding."

Snow took a deep breath and said, "I understand, but I hope that you do not rush into the storm unprepared."

Leo nodded and after asked Leo to bring him to his room. Tomorrow, the physiotherapy will begin and they will also move into the new house to begin their new life.

Leo looked forward to the day where he could hold his daughter in his arms and do things for her, earn rewards and at the same time, avenge himself. Yes, he loved his daughter, but he knew where his limit was without the system.
