Chapter 531 Can only see through inanimate objects

Only in the next second, her gaze pierced through Noah's clothes.

His muscular body was then reflected in her eyes.

She tried to continue to see through, but found that it did not.

Her gaze could only penetrate his clothes, but not his body.

Afterwards, she tried again to place her gaze on the large tree next to her.

This time, again, her gaze could not penetrate the big tree.

She then placed her gaze on Noah's watch again.

This time, her gaze could easily penetrate the watch and see all that was inside.

In another second, she observed the accessories on the bodyguards and the porcelain vases discarded on the roadside.

Her gaze, again, could penetrate all of them.

Noticing a large white bug on a large tree beside her.

She fixed her gaze on the bug again and tried to see through.

This time, it still didn't work.

She was now pretty sure that her eyes could penetrate rocks, decorations and some other inanimate objects, but not living creatures.

This was rather different from what she had watched in the movies, in which the penetrating eyes could see through everything.

"What are you thinking about? Keep walking." Noah put his arm around her shoulder affectionately, his eyes full of inquiry and doting.

Only then did Jocelyn returned to her senses, holding Noah's hand and moving all the way forward.

All along the way, Jocelyn tried again all sorts of things, all inanimate objects could be easily penetrated.

Living things could not be seen through.

In addition to that, she also found that she could only trigger the function of her see-through eye if she had the idea of seeing through.

Soon, the men, led by Tom, put away the guns in their own hands.

Seeing that the situation was not good, Jocelyn walked over to Noah and looked at the bald scarred man and added, "We are only here to ask Doctor Ghost Face to come out to help cure. We have no intention of clashing with you, let's talk about it properly, shall we?"

Although Jocelyn was polite and courteous enough, the bald scarred man did not want to be polite with them.

The next second her eyes fell on the gun aimed at her.

With her eyes, she could clearly see that their guns were loaded with bullets.

He waved his hand towards the men behind him, "What are you waiting for? Shoot them! Kill them all for me."

As soon as the bald scarred man's words left his mouth, Jocelyn then pinned him to the ground with a swift, over-the-shoulder slam.

Her movements were so crisp and sharp that the whole process took no more than two seconds, and before anyone could react, she was already done.

This kind of Jocelyn changed her usual soft and weak appearance, and it was a sight for all eyes.

The thief was caught first.

This man was clearly a leader.

As long as she held this man down, then the others would not dare to make a move.

She didn't want to do that, but he was too arrogant.

At, everyone around the bald, scarred man had their guns aimed at Jocelyn's head.

The people behind Noah also took out their guns and pointed them at the bald scarred man and his group.

The smell of smoke and mirrors became more and more intense.

The faces of everyone were cold to the extreme.

The bald scarred man struggled, "What do you want? Let go of me!"

"Tell that group of people behind you to put the guns away and I will let you go." Jocelyn ordered in a cold voice.

"I told them to hurry up and leave, but they refused! They even beat me and threatened me. If you don't believe me, ask my senior brothers." The bald scarred man added.

With that, he pointed behind himself to the large group of men dressed in uniform black traditional clothing.

His senior brothers nodded their heads.

His ability to turn right and wrong upside down was top notch.

Hearing this, Jocelyn couldn't help but frown slightly.

She had seen a lot of bitches, and this one he had done was not yet able to cause her mood swings.

The same was true for Noah.

The bald scarred man then changed his wimpy appearance and arrogantly pointed at Jocelyn and Noah, "Just wait, my master will definitely beat you up hard. I am my master's most beloved eldest disciple, if you bully me, you are the same as bullying my master!"

Master has always treated him like his own son.

He believed that Master would definitely help him out.

Not only would Master refuse their request for a cure, he wouldn't even let them have the life to leave the island alive!

Last time, a man had bullied him in the same way and ended up dying straight away on the island.

Now with Master around, he could finally speak with impunity and he really felt so good.

He knew that due to the authority of his master, they would never dare, casually, to do anything to him.

Noah did not say anything, holding Jocelyn's hand, and walked up to Ghost Face.

Ghost Face, however, still did not look at them, still quietly lowering his head and sipping his tea.

"You all go out." Noah looked at his men and said.

Tom led the men away.

Soon, only a few of them, as well as the bald scarred man's group of senior disciples, were left in the large living room.

The world, instantly, was much clearer.

"I am genetic special, surgery would produce a rejection reaction." Noah said truthfully.

Ghost Face nodded, "So that's why you found me? You know I can help you change your genes?"

"Yes. Do you remember a girl you healed, Daisy? She was the one who told me that you could change people's genes." Jocelyn said softly.

Ghost Face smiled, "I remember. How you found me?"

He had never told Daisy where he lived.

Upon hearing this, Jocelyn gave a clear account of what had happened.

Ghost Face smiled again, "You guys are really smart."

With those words, Ghost Face then once again placed his gaze on Jocelyn's face, "Don't worry, as long as it's something you want to do, I will help you accomplish it."

"I will cure Noah." Ghost Face added.

"Thank you." Noah said.

"You're welcome." Ghost Face added, "Thank your wife, if not her, I wouldn't have bothered with you."

He had retired for many years and had long since stopped helping people heal.

Having said that, Ghost Face then possessed himself and pulled open the coffee table drawer in front of him.

The drawer was filled with various bottles and jars made of white ceramic.

He sharply took out a white pear-shaped porcelain bottle from it and handed it to Noah, "This is a medicine that can change your special genes, it is my unique recipe, one a day, take it for fifteen days in a row, by then your genes will be changed."

"Thank you." Noah said as he put the item into his pocket.

"As I said, you're welcome." Ghost Face finished and put his eyes on Jocelyn's face again, "I live here all the time now, if you need anything, feel free to look me up, besides, let's add WeChat."

"Don't you need to do a genetic test or something?" Jocelyn asked.

"The colour of your underwear today is grey." Jocelyn added.

A trace of slight surprise flashed in Noah's eyes.

This morning, when he changed his clothes, he was in the cloakroom.

Jocelyn hadn't come in the entire time.

There was no way that he would have known what colour underwear he was wearing.

Afterwards, Jocelyn casually picked up another packet of chips from the coffee table, put her eyes on it and began to see through.

She could clearly see that a card was placed inside, and on the card was written, "Another packet."

Jocelyn said, "Inside this packet of chips, there was a card that said one more packet."

Noah smiled, so he opened the chips.

Sure enough, he saw a card inside.

On the card was written, one more packet.

Jocelyn then picked up another packet of shrimp chips and penetrated.

After the penetration, she added, "There's another packet in here too."

Noah looked at Jocelyn suspiciously and opened the shrimp slices once again.

The black card with the words "One more pack" printed on it hit his eyes.

What he was experiencing in front of him had completely touched his blind spot of knowledge.

Although he felt unbelievable, he still believed it.

Noah's eyebrows were slightly raised, once again taking a closer look at Jocelyn's eyes, and after a few seconds of deep thought, he added, "I really didn't expect that the movie acting of the see-through eye was actually real."

"Yes, I didn't expect it either." Jocelyn smiled, "This special function can be really great."

Noah, "Well, I think your great grandfather must have known the secret of that sapphire, that's why he specifically instructed you to keep it and love it like your life depends on it."

Jocelyn, "Yeah."

What came into view was a diamond of excellent colour.

By the looks of it, it was the purest FL grade of diamond.

Most importantly, it was of a size that could set a new historical record!

Jocelyn did not expect that such an inconspicuous piece of stone would have such a surprise hidden inside.

This kind of FL grade diamond was extremely rare.

This piece of raw stone was worth at least 1.5 or 6 billion.

"This piece of raw stone is not good at first glance."

"Yes, the colour is so dark, it must be a loss."

"Whoever is stupid to buy it. This piece of raw stone has a rough skin shell, it doesn't look good at first glance."

The crowd began to talk with each other.

But not a single person raised a bid.

Jocelyn glanced at the crowd and raised the number plate in her hand, "Fifty-one million."

When they heard Jocelyn's bid, the people around them thought Jocelyn was a fool.

Allie lightly tugged Jocelyn's hand and whispered, "Jocelyn, this raw stone is clearly worthless, don't buy it."

Jocelyn smiled, "But my intuition tells me that it is very good."

"How is that possible? Anyone with a bit of common sense knows that it's impossible to open anything good from a raw stone like this."

"What's wrong with this auction? How dare they bring something like this out to perfume us."

"That's right. Miss, you've been fooled, just this crap, I don't even want to give it to me."

A few men at the next table looked at Jocelyn and said.

The crowd was certain that this piece of raw stone was absolutely unable to open anything good.

Allie was dumbfounded.

No one thought that a raw stone that looked insignificant on the outside could actually open up the purest FL grade of diamonds!

"How did this happen? This is actually the purest FL grade diamond."

"According to reason, it shouldn't be like this. This raw stone can actually open up the purest FL grade diamond? Is there any mistake?"

"I should have known that I should have followed. I really shouldn't have mocked her for her poor eyesight."

"She really has a good eye, it seems that it's me who has a bad eye."

"Worthy of being the future mistress of the Griffin Group, her vision is just great! I concede defeat."

The people who had originally mocked her had all changed their tune now.

Looking at the camera, the diamond that was so beautiful to the extreme, their entire being was suffocated with amazement.

Looking at what was on the big screen, Jocelyn was filled with a sense of achievement.

"Jocelyn, your intuition is so accurate." Allie said as she stared at the enlarged version of the original cutting surface in the big screen with eyes full of disbelief.

Allie was stunned.

Gambling on stones was not something she played often, only occasionally.

She thought she was very lucky and had bought a total of three raw stones from the previous year until now, all of which had made a profit.

But, she didn't expect that Jocelyn would actually have better luck than herself.

"Miss, can you sell this raw stone of yours to me? How about I offer 60 million?"

"Miss, sell it to me, sell it to me, I offer a hundred million."

"I offer two hundred million. Miss, give it to me."

The people around her gathered around her like crazy and kept bidding, trying to take her raw stone.

Soon, the bidding began.

The starting bid was the same fifty million.

Everyone in the room was shouting frantically for the raw stone.

Finally, the old man behind her offered eighty million and took it.

After taking it, the old man looked at Jocelyn and said, "Girl, in a moment I will show you what will be opened out of the stone you said was not good, you are still too unprofessional."

With these words, the old man got up and looked confidently at the auctioneer on the stage and said, "Give me a direct split in half."

The auctioneer smiled, "Okay."

Axel then brought three staff members onto the stage once again.

With everyone watching, Axel, together with the staff placed the raw stone on the workbench and used a hand whack on the cleaver to split it in half.

The large screen behind them showed all the details, in crystal clarity.

The white-haired old man was the centre of attention.

Soon, the splitting of the raw stone was complete.

When he saw that there was nothing inside, Axel was dumbfounded.

Originally, he was very optimistic about the stone, but he never expected that there would be nothing inside.

It was empty!

With eyes full of disbelief, he, together with the staff, showed the two cutting surfaces in front of the camera.

The old man with gray hair was dumbfounded.

And the others on the scene were equally so.

Then, Axel put the two halved stones on the saw plate again, and the saw plate began to run at high speed.

There was still nothing.

At these words, Allie then nodded helplessly, "Alright then, I'll pay for it."
"No, I'll pay."
Before she could finish her sentence, Axel on the stage spoke up, "Miss, are you selling it?"
His eyes were full of desire for the piece of raw stone.
Without waiting for her to speak again, the crowd in the auction hall all gathered in front of her and began to shout out their bids -
"Eight hundred million, sell it to me."
"Nine hundred million, sell it to me."
"Nine hundred and ten million, sell it to me."

"One billion, sell it to me."

Everyone's eyes were filled with desire for that piece of raw stone.

The price was incredibly tempting, but Jocelyn remained unmoved.

She looked at their faces in a cloudy manner and said, "Sorry, I won't sell this piece, no matter how much it costs, I want to make it into jewellery and give it to my mother-in-law."

With those words, Jocelyn then looked at Allie next to her.

Allie and her looked at each other with a smile.

At these words, the crowd let out a long sigh of resignation and simply dispersed.

"The one next to her is her mother-in-law? She's so young."

After she fixed her gaze on the ring, she opened her perspective eye.

Soon, the ring, which was blackened, began to appear before her eyes, zooming in, zooming out, Her gaze penetrated the blackened layer of attachment and saw the ring itself.

The ring was carved with a strange totem and the overall workmanship was exquisite, completely unlikely to be a modern artefact.

She looked more closely at the sign hanging above the stall, "Collectibles Trading".

A collectibles trading stall like this in a night market is known by professionals to be used to fool fools.

She really didn't expect that she would find such good stuff today.

"Jocelyn, what are you looking at?" Allie asked as she looked curiously into Jocelyn's eyes.

Following Jocelyn's gaze, Allie clearly saw a glowing black ring.

The colour on the ring caught her eye.

It was clearly abnormal with its black outside.

She instantly understood what Jocelyn was looking at.

Jocelyn smiled, looked at the middle-aged male stall owner in front of her and asked, "Hello, can you take this ring and show it to me?"

"Sure." The stall owner didn't even think about it, so he handed it over to Jocelyn.

Jocelyn then took the ring and once again opened her perspective eyes to take a closer look.

When her eyes fell on the inside of the ring, she saw the handwriting hidden underneath the attachment.
