Chapter 541 President of the Collection Society, Sean Mitchell

"If I'm not mistaken, that one would be from the collection of the House of Savoy royal family in Italy, I had one in my collection before." the old man added.

"The Italian House of Savoy royal family?" The stall owner was shocked, "You mean that House of Savoy?"

"Yes."

"God. Then how much is this estimated to be worth?" The stall owner's eyes were filled with shock.

"If it really is the collection of the Italian House of Savoy royal family, it's at least 10 million."

"What? This thing is actually worth 10 million? And I sold it for fifty thousand and here I am laughing at her?! Am I stupid?"

The stall owner was scratching his head and stamping his feet in place.

"Well, yes." When the old man finished, he turned around and walked away.

Leaving the stall owner alone in the wind, "Shit! I'm so stupid!"

The few young men and women, moreover, were completely stunned, and after a few looks at each other, they simultaneously drew in a cold breath.

"That ring is actually worth ten million."

"So it's not that beautiful person who's stupid, it's us."

"That's awesome, how come that woman is so good?"

It was then that a few of them realised that they were wrong.

The stall owner smiled and had an even harder time.

He's even more stupid, okay?! He regrets it now!

Seeing that Jocelyn hadn't gone far, he looked at her back and chased after her.

On the other hand, Jocelyn was holding the object she had just bought in one hand, cheerfully holding Allie's hand, her eyes always glancing at the ring from time to time.

"Jocelyn, this seems to be a real antique, I just don't know whose work it is."

"We'll find out whose it is when we remove this outer layer of attachment." Jocelyn smiled.

"I heard from Mum that you got something good at the auction and at the night market today?" Noah kissed his lover Zoely.

"Yeah." When the subject came up, Jocelyn was in an extraordinarily good mood, "I've made so much money today."

"Well, I heard about it." Noah said.

"Did Mum tell you everything?" Jocelyn asked.

"Well, it's been compliments." Speaking of which, Noah was also happy.

"All right." A smile grew at the corners of Jocelyn's mouth.

At that time, when she and Allie were shopping in the night market, Allie kept holding her mobile phone and talking to people.

So, it was a chat with Noah.

"And I was admonished over and over again that such a good daughter-in-law had to be pampered and protected."

"What else?"

"And that if I dare lose you, she will dare not want me as a son."

At that, Jocelyn couldn't help but laugh lightly.

"How do you think I'm going to get rid of you?" He whispered in her ear, teasing her body as he did so.

With her sensitive earlobe being licked and a pair of hands stroking the sensitive spots on her body, Jocelyn didn't hold back her cry for a moment.

Noah was instantly aroused and pinned her to the sofa to begin this wonderful night.

When the two finally got tired, Noah leaned back on the sofa with Jocelyn in his arms and smoked a cigarette.

His eyes were drawn to the ring on the table.

Taking the ring, he began to look it over, "I heard that this was bought for 50,000?"

Jocelyn, "Yeah."

Noah, "This looks like an antique. Attachment on the outside seems to be thick, indicating age."

Jocelyn, "I've looked through it and it's from the collection of the House of Savoy royal family in Italy."

Noah, "Surely."

Regan was thrilled.

Perhaps his most beloved grandson could indeed be cured!

"Leave this to me. I'll help you." Regan added.

"No, I'll do it myself and you can assist me if I don't understand something." Jocelyn said again.

Regan, "You're so busy with work, I'll do it, and I'm bored with nothing to do every day."

Seeing that Regan was keen to take over, Jocelyn didn't have anything more to say and nodded, "Okay, then I'll go out to work first, Grandpa."

Regan smiled and said, "Well, be careful on the road."

Driving into the red Maserati, she was escorted by bodyguards all the way into the Murphy Group.

After Jocelyn was done with her work, she went back into X Entertainment and made a low key round, to see how the trainees were training.

After her rounds, she walked out of the office and back to her car.

Instead of immediately fuming about the car, she opened Weibo and looked at today's hot list.

The Hot 100 is full of X Entertainment artists' names.

Ryan, Daniel, Dorian and Nicolas.

It's all about their work above.

Jocelyn clicked in and saw that it was all compliments, so she was relieved to exit Weibo and prepare to fire up the car.

She saw a lot of marketing numbers forwarding the pictures of Dorian and her in the car.

The photograph appears to have been taken from a great distance and is very blurred and of extremely poor quality.

But vaguely, their outlines can be seen.

And the angles of some of the photos were taken in a bizarre way.

She was clearly unbuckling Dorian's seatbelt, but, from the photo, it looked very much like she had her head on Dorian's lap, doing something ambiguous.

Each of these marketing numbers, accompanied by the same copy, reads

[Today, some of his fans photographed a luxury car carrying him to a magazine, during which he and the owner of the luxury car were talking and laughing, and were intimate.

Because of the distance, the photographer did not get a clear picture, but it is certain that the owner of the luxury car is a woman.

Is Dorian's hidden girlfriend?]

Many people in the comment section of the marketing number are picking up on the identity of the female lead -

[Why do I feel that the woman's side face looks a bit like Jocelyn? Is it my illusion? What is she doing with Dorian?]

[I also think that the side face really looks like it, but the photo is too high blurred. No way to be sure at all, just what are they doing?]

[I think it's Jocelyn. Do you remember the last time Jocelyn and Dorian met at the mall and lent Dorian her bodyguard?]

[I remember, why do I feel like there's something fishy about these two? I'm already brainstorming the drama.]

The next second, she saw that Dorian also forwarded, "Some people don't speculate maliciously."

Immediately afterwards, Jocelyn saw her comment section was filled with all sorts of words.

[Then why did you just happen to run into Dorian? And twice in a row?]

[It's okay to have a chance encounter at the mall before, but where did you have a chance encounter this time?]

[The chances of you meeting a celebrity are a bit high, why do I feel that Noah and Ryan are only saying that on purpose to maintain the Mason family's decency?]

[I have the same feeling that Noah and Ryan were deliberately explaining for the sake of saving reputation].

[After so many chance encounters, I don't believe it when you say you are not related at all.]

Although they all explained, the netizens are not buying it at all.

Continuing to swipe through the comments section, she also saw a photo posted by a self-proclaimed fan of Dorian, of her and Dorian in front of X Entertainment.

In the photo, her car window is half down and she is looking out of the car at Dorian.

This fan questioned, "Tell me, what are you doing in front of X Entertainment if you're not related? Do you call that a chance encounter?"

This picture, which is in high definition, immediately attracted the attention of countless Dorian's fans.

People went on another tirade -

[It does seem that something is going on with these two, Jocelyn, you are shameless.]

[A chance encounter in front of X Entertainment? You're too deliberate with this chance encounter, aren't you?]

She did not know how long it took before he reluctantly let her go, cupped her face and whispered, "If I didn't have business to attend to, I would love to fuck you right now."

His tone was ambiguous.

Jocelyn blushed, "Hurry up and go to the office."

Noah, "Okay."

Noah then went to the bed and got his car keys and left.

Jocelyn got ready to put the water in the bath.

.....

When Noah arrived at the office, it was already eight o'clock.

As soon as he stepped out of the car, Tom walked up to him and bowed his head respectfully, "Mr. Mason, what are you doing here? Everyone is waiting impatiently."

"Cooked for my wife." Noah said indifferently, continuing to walk towards the company gate.

The four security guards at the door, hearing this, could not help but look at Mr. Mason.

And Tom, for a moment, was speechless.

The six bodyguard cars that Allie brought over also stopped after Allie.

Immediately afterwards, the twelve bodyguards were the first to get out of the car and automatically split into two teams, standing on either side of the pink Lamborghini supercar.

The two bodyguards, positioned close to the car door, coincidentally, pulled the door open for the mother-in-law and daughter-in-law.

Immediately afterwards, the mother-in-law and daughter-in-law, each getting out of their side of the car, walked tacitly towards each other, arm in arm, and into the hotel.

Because it was a super-large antique auction, the venue, chosen for the auction, was the hotel's largest ballroom, the Dragon and Phoenix Room.

The ballroom, at this point, was full of people.

After looking around calmly, Jocelyn held Allie's hand and walked to the middle of the first row where they were sitting.

From the moment they entered to the moment they took their seats, the two of them attracted the attention of more than a few men.

Jocelyn in particular, a beautiful young woman of wealth, was the talk of the town.

The men are surrounded by partners who are jealous of such images.

Not long after they sat down, the auction started.

The beautiful auctioneer, after coming on stage and saying a formal opening speech, went straight to the point, "The first item to be brought to you next is a French aristocratic custom-made antique diamond emerald bracelet, starting at 3 million."

As soon as she said this, three staff members pushed up the auction items, which were placed inside a transparent anti-theft glass enclosure.

Below the mirror was a transparent automatic swivel table.

Because of its rotation, one can take in the details on the front mirror and see them clearly.

Soon on the big screen, a magnified image of this mirror also appeared.

This is a very delicate bracelet, measuring 18.3cm in length and weighing 58g.

Chapter 548 Charles Barnes

Just then, an obese middle-aged man in the last row raised his number plate, "150,000."
Jocelyn gave him a deep look and called for another bid, "Two hundred thousand."
She guessed that he should have seen something mysterious as well.
The obese middle-aged man added, "Three hundred thousand."
Jocelyn, "Half a Million."
Everyone on the floor, including the auctioneer on stage, was stunned.
"What are they up to? Competing to see who's more rich but stupid? Hahahaha."
"Why is this still a competition over a worthless high replica piece?"

"That's too funny, isn't it? Were they born into high replica?"

All around, the chatter is starting again.

Although Allie was very puzzled by Jocelyn's behaviour, she knew that Jocelyn must have Jocelyn's reasoning.

She was confident in her daughter-in-law.

Her daughter-in-law, she thought, must have seen something mysterious in the painting and that was why she was bidding on it.

So, Allie went silent.

Obese middle-aged man, "600,000."

Jocelyn, "800,000."

The obese middle-aged man had a look of determination, "One million."

Jocelyn, "Two Million."

There was an uproar as the crowd became more and more confused about them.

They've seen people fighting for the real thing, but they've never seen people fighting for imitations like this.

Everyone just watched from afar as Charles, meticulously splitting that painting.
About an hour later, the two paintings were split and completed.
The golden wheat field below, complete, was presented before Charles' eyes.

After Charles had carefully appraised it, he and carefully picked up the painting and showed it to the crowd, excitedly saying, "This is a real Van Gogh! All the details are exactly the same as the real Van Gogh!"

Charles's words, as well as the object in his hand, stunned all of them at once.

Only Jocelyn was calm.

In the crowd, she looks like an untouched white peony, beautiful and elegant.

"It seems really like a real Van Gogh. It really doesn't look any different from those real Van Gogh."

"This style of using colour, this is Van Gogh?"

"My goodness. I didn't expect there was such a mystery hidden behind this painting."

"If I had known, I should have bid too!"

The people around were talking excitedly, and the scene was instantly lively.

Many of those found saying this were the same people who had just taunted her.

Instead, Jocelyn just smiled and didn't say anything.

Everyone's reaction was all that she expected.

Allie, at this moment, was also excited, and her eyes kept glowing as she looked at the painting.

She subconsciously clutched Jocelyn's arm and stared at the painting without moving, "Jocelyn, you are so good, If I were a man, I would marry you, this is a real Van Gogh painting."

"This must be Van Gogh's authentic work." added Allie.

Charles smiled and looked at the crowd and said, "Yes, many of Van Gogh's paintings, in fact, are out there, some were destroyed, and some, being well preserved, just did not appear in front of the eyes, like this one."

With those words, Charles immediately shifted his gaze to Jocelyn's face, "Miss, I can tell you that this is the real Van Gogh. If I had the money, I would have competed with you to the end just now.

Unfortunately, I am just a small employee of an antique shop, don't have that much money and can't afford to compete over it, that price I just shouted is all I have saved."

She saw Joseph and Bella chatting while walking outside.

Joseph was dressed in a white T-shirt and jeans, looking much thinner than before, without the glowing look of the past.

Bella, on the other hand, was dressed in a light green slim-fitting dress, heavily made-up and flamboyant as ever.

When Joseph turned around, he saw Jocelyn.

She was beautiful, and it was clear that she was surrounded by people, but no one was as beautiful as she was.

It has been a long time, but she is looking better and better, and the confidence and calmness in her eyes has deepened more than before.

He heard that she has another identity, that of the big boss of X Entertainment.

She's like an unreachable star.

Every time he saw Jocelyn, Joseph regretted.

Bella, on the other hand, blackened instantly.

When she thought about her previous, silly run to X Entertainment when she didn't know that Jocelyn was the big boss of X Entertainment and said she wanted to be an artist in X Entertainment, she felt ashamed.

She gave Jocelyn a fierce blank stare and pulled Joseph's hand, heading out.

Jocelyn did not give them another look, and calmly took a step, pulling Allie with her, and continued to walk towards the restaurant.

As he passed by them, Joseph whispered, "Jocelyn, are you okay Recently?"

Jocelyn smiled radiantly, "As you can see."

Bella snorted coldly, "What's the big deal? So smug."

Jocelyn, "And it is big deal that you came to my company and beg me to sign you?"

This statement instantly stabbed Bella extremely upset, she subconsciously clenched her fist, "Who lowly begged you?"

Jocelyn, "Some time ago, that person who came to my company's reception desk and begged me to meet her, wasn't it you?"

Bella, "That's not begging!"

Jocelyn, "What's that?"
