Chapter 961 Idol (1)

Sophie was silently on the sidelines, watching her idol.

After watching Ryan for a while, she opened Weibo again and followed some of Ryan's info fans.

Over the fans, she watched some videos about Ryan.

Knowing that there was an app called Bilibili, she went there and watched some video clips.

In order to avoid disturbing Ryan, she made sure to wear headphones.

Ryan talked to Jocelyn for a long time about work.

Sophie was tired of watching the video and they both weren't finished yet.

Still not bothered, she opened her Weibo feed again and posted her second tweet.

On Weibo, she posted it with a picture she took of.

And saying, "Seeing him in person, Ryan is really nice."

And once the tweet was published, it attracted many more fans of Ryan.

Soon below the tweet, it was taken over by fans.

[Can you be any more fake? You're deliberately making a fake picture of a passerby to fool people, aren't you?]

[Absolutely Fake. It's so disgusting and you people are really dramatic.]

[Hello? Are you there? What did the doctor at the psychiatric hospital tell you, exactly?]

[We naturally know that Ryan is nice, you don't need to emphasize it, and if you want to pretend, act bit like it.]

[I'll show you the power of our fans in a minute if you pull my brother out of the limelight again.]

[I don't think you're a stalking fan, you're a spammer, why are you so ashamed to attract traffic? What kind of crap pictures? Go to hell.]

In an instant all sorts of curses were sweeping through the air.

The masses were drooling almost completely overwhelmed Sophie.

Sophie felt speechless.

[Is Ryan with you now? Who are you to Ryan? Not a relative, are you?]

[Seeking attention.]

Sophie took a brief glance at it before shaking her head helplessly.

Soon, she saw her followers start to rise like crazy.

It has reached more than 10,000.

And the numbers are still soaring.

If this trend continues, it is estimated that her followers will break 100,000 tonight.

And the people who were following her, she saw, all carried Ryan's avatar.

This proves that all are fans of Ryan.

Sophie once again couldn't help but sigh in her heart at Ryan's terrifying popularity.

She immediately turned her head to look at Ryan and said, "Thank you for helping me. Your popularity is really scary, my Weibo started to rise like crazy, according to this trend continues, I guess soon I can become that big V that others talk about."

Ryan smiled shallowly, his gaze as gentle as it was, "You are my brother's sister, then you are my sister."

The corners of Ryan's mouth grew into a smile, "Quite interesting, not to take my picture? Come on, feel free to take."

When Ryan finished, he casually stretched his hands.

Sophie immediately took her mobile phone and started taking pictures of Ryan in all directions.

In his hands, he carried a large paper bag.

Printed on it is the logo of the cake shop, which is Jocelyn's favourite food.

When Jocelyn saw this, her heart immediately fluttered, "Honey, did you buy me a cupcake?"

Noah shallowly hooked his lips, in his gaze, was unspeakable tenderness, "Yes."

Noah then took off his overcoat, changed into slippers, carried his things and placed them on the coffee table.

And then he sat down next to Jocelyn.

Naturally, he reached out his arms and wrapped Jocelyn in his embrace.

And then he softly asked, "Did you have a good day? Are you tired?"

Ryan has long been accustomed to such images.

So does Sophie.

Jocelyn's heart warmed, "I'm not tired, I want to eat."

Noah, "Okay, I'll go and cook for you, what else do you want to eat?"

Jocelyn, "Aubergine."

Noah, "Okay."

Jocelyn, "Thank you."

Only then did Noah shift his gaze to Ryan's face, "You're here."

Ryan shrugged helplessly, "You just found out."

Noah, "How have you been?"

Ryan, "Good, brother, I want to eat your cooking too."

Noah, "No."

Then, Noah got up and went into the kitchen.

And yet there is no response at all.

Allen kept covering his chest and coughing for a long, long time before Connie ran down from upstairs.

Seeing this scene, Connie first froze.

And then she clenched the fists hanging at her side, and then calmly walked up to Allen and asked, "What happened to you? "

"Get me some cough medicine. This cold seems to be tough. I'm coughing harder and I even feel short of breath in my chest."

Allen continued to cough incessantly while covering his chest and breathing heavily.

By now, his face had, unknowingly, turned red and purple.

However, he himself was unaware of it.

Seeing this, Connie immediately went forward to pat him on the back.

Just as, Connie stopped moving.

In the end, Connie's hand rested roughly one centimetre from Allen's back.

Just like that, hanging rigidly in mid-air.

But there was no further action.

Taking a deep breath, Connie carefully withdrew her hand before arriving, "Got it, I'll go get your medicine now."

Turning around, Connie frowned deeply before stroking her belly.

Immediately afterwards, she went straight upstairs.

Five minutes later, she walked over to Allen with cough medicine as well as warm water.

Taking a deep breath, Connie brought the cough medicine to Allen's mouth, and then served Allen to eat it.

After taking the medicine, Allen still has a cough.

Connie frowned deeply and sat trembling beside Allen, wanting to speak but stopping.

Looking at Allen in such a state, her eyes showed bit of hard feelings.

Glancing down at her belly, the uncomfortable feeling she felt soon disappeared.

"Jocelyn, you can persuade your father. He refuses to go to the hospital, I'm worried sick." Connie's eyes are full of sincerity.

That's something that Jocelyn is quite happy with.

For, Connie's mind is very delicate.

Whether it is true or not.

It was nice to have someone, anyway, to be around her father and take good care of him.

Even if it is only superficial, then it is enough to get the superficial work right.

Jocelyn frowned deeply and looked at Allen and asked, "Dad, you're older now, it's not the same as before. Don't want to go to the hospital, then you can come to me. I can help you."

Allen, "Forget it, I don't like herbs. Better go to the hospital."

Jocelyn, "Then go to the hospital."

Allen, however, shook his head helplessly and said, "I do not think it is necessary, I know my health well."

Jocelyn, "I don't care, you have to come with me to the hospital after dinner later."

Jocelyn's attitude is overbearing and does not allow for any refusal at all.

Looking at Jocelyn's serious face, Allen said helplessly, "No need. I'm already better than yesterday."

Jocelyn, "Are you going or not?"

Seeing that Jocelyn still insisted, Allen had no choice but to raise his hands in a sign of surrender.

And then he said gently, "Fine, fine, listen to my daughter, I'll go, okay?"

At these words, Jocelyn then hooked her lips in satisfaction, "That's more like it."

Noah, "I'll take you there myself."

Connie still only heard it but not seen the person.

She closed her eyes before nodding, "I know, I won't let Jocelyn go."

"I also will not let go of Allen!"

When she said Allen's name, Connie began to hesitate.

After saying that, Connie clenched her fist tightly and looked at the mirror in front of her once again.

The words on the mirror, however, disappeared at this time.

Everything is back to the way it was.

She used a washcloth and wiped off the cold sweat that had been on her body.

There was a knock on the door, followed by the voice of Jocelyn, pouring into the room, "Are you okay?"

At the sound of her voice, Connie pulled open the bathroom door and looked at Jocelyn and said, "I'm okay."

Immediately afterwards, she saw, standing behind Jocelyn, Allen with eager eyes.

When Allen saw Connie, he walked through the door and asked, "How are you? Are you okay, Connie?"

"If you don't feel well, tell me and I'll take you to the hospital," Allen added.

Connie nodded, "Well, I'm fine. don't worry, I'm already fine."

Jocelyn's eyes were full of inquiry, "Really?"

Connie, "I'm only in pain for a while at a time, don't worry."

At the word, Jocelyn gave her hand to Connie.

Connie's eyes were full of questions, "What?"

Jocelyn, "Give me your hand and I'll check for you. Maybe I can solve your problem."

Looking at Connie's pitiful look, Allen immediately felt his heart tighten.

He then gently held Connie's hand and asked, "What's wrong with you? Am I not just a cold? Why are you making such a big deal out of it?"

Connie tried to squeeze out a smile and looked at Allen and said, "It's nothing, it's hard for me that you are sick."

At these words, Allen's heart was full of emotion.

"Connie, I feel so lucky to have a lovely girlfriend like you to look after me and care for me at this old age."

"Connie, I saw this morning, someone online showed off a global limited edition bag, I ordered it for you. I ordered one for Jocelyn too."

Allen continued.

Connie's heart was suddenly warmed.

The next second her eyes were even redder, "Thank you."

Allen laughed, "We're a couple."

Connie tried to smile bitterly and said, "If there is no you, in this world, there should be no second person who is so good to me."

Allen, "I will strive to live a few more years to accompany you. Even if I die, I will arrange your future life, don't worry."

Connie suddenly turned teary-eyed, "Thank you."

Allen, "What are you still polite with me? I said, no need to say thank you to me. I should be good to you, you gave me your whole youth, how can I let you lose?"

Immediately, Connie took a deep breath and said, "If one day, you find out that I have done something wrong to you, will you kill me?"

Allen, "I'm sure that you won't, ever."

After saying that, Allen then took Connie's hand and said, "Connie, I want to eat the buns across from the hospital, but they don't deliver takeaway, you go and buy it for me."

Connie nodded her head before turning around and leaving the room.

As soon as she left, Allen closed her eyes and frowned deeply.

Allen's eyebrows were filled with mixed emotions.

And the hands that were resting on the quilt were unconsciously clenched into fists.

Seeing everyone's words, Jocelyn suddenly shook her head helplessly.
And then she logged straight on to Weibo.

After seeing the reason for the sharp turn in the picture, Jocelyn let out a long, contented breath.

Inside, there are no ripples.

For all this was expected of her.

Allen, Allie, Scott, Ryan and Noah were all congratulating her on becoming a national heroine.

Looking at everyone's flatters, Jocelyn couldn't help but hook her lips.

And many, many of her friends, and partners, whom she hadn't contacted in a long time, have sent her message, expressing their admiration for her.

This is a great moment for Jocelyn.

As she spoke, Sophie's stomach began to rumble.
The sound of embarrassment made Sophie's eyes instantly red.
Harry shallowly hooked his lips, "Well, seems to have not eaten, come with me to eat some?"
Sophie nodded, but shook her head again.
She was the one who was to be responsible for the close protection of Jocelyn.
She can't just wander off all the time.
Harry slightly raised his eyebrows, with a faintly probing look under his eyes, "What's wrong?"
Sophie, "I want to have dinner with my sister-in-law."
Harry, "Then ask Jocelyn to come down."
After saying that, Harry dialed Jocelyn's phone number.
"Jocelyn, what are you doing?" Under Harry's eyes, there was a consistent tenderness.
"Working. What's wrong, Mr. Walsh?"
"Come down and join us for lunch."
"No, there's work to be done." said Jocelyn, looking at the mountain of papers piled up in front of her.

Her abdomen is warm and hot.
It's as if there's a warm current that keeps swirling and swimming.
It made Jocelyn feel, well, comfortable.
She instantly touched it subconsciously, where the warmth flowed.
That place, where her child, was located.
She knew that a pregnant woman would have fetal movements during her first few months of pregnancy, but she had never heard of such a sensation in her abdomen.
As she got comfortable, Jocelyn took a quick pulse of herself.
Want to see if it was normal.
After taking her pulse, she found that her fears were superfluous.
At this point, her body was not half as abnormal as it should be.
Jocelyn then breathed a sigh of relief.
Noticing that Jocelyn looked out of sorts, Harry asked, "What's wrong?"
Jocelyn shook her head, "I'm fine."
Harry breathed a sigh of relief, "That's good, if you were out with me and something went wrong, Noah would definitely not let me off."
Jocelyn laughed, "How come?"
Harry said with a serious face, "It's true, everyone in the Flento City now knows that you are the apple in the eyes on Noah?"
At the sound of her words, Jocelyn's heart immediately warmed.
