

RAISING A FEW WIVES IN A BEAST APOCALYPSE

Chapter 16 Telekinetic force field!

After the battle, Emily went from dog to dog, burning it with her golden flame. Since the target wasn't moving, she could confidently use her power indoors, though Layla was beside her just in case. Chloe tried to help getting rid of them with her blue lightning, but she only managed to cook them instead. Seems she was still far from Zeus's level of being able to erase things out of existence with lightning alone. So she could only helplessly sigh and give up.

It took a while for Emily to finish, but it was eventually done. It's something that definitely had to be done at that point. They couldn't risk attracting the dogs below anymore. Not after finding out that they weren't all unranked like they thought.

"Hey!, stop ignoring me!, is that the thanks I get for all the work I did?. You're going to make me sleep outside?". Jade said as she walked behind the others after being silent for a few minutes not knowing what to say.

"You clearly have the speed to avoid the blood or at least you could have just poked their heads like you did with the other dogs. But you chose a literal blood bath, that's what you get." Muku said back to her while still walking forward. They were going back up the stairs. Muku and Jade were pretty spent after all. Nobody wanted to take a risk to go down further when not all their members were a hundred percent.

"Hmm, do you think it's so easy to control your body at such high speeds?. It literally was my first time after all!" Jade defended herself.

"Even worse, you did something unnecessary, wasting your mana when your initial speed would have been enough. No matter what you say, unless you can find a way to change your clothes your definitely sleeping out...you can take them off thou... Ow! Who pinched me!?". Muku was about to get off track again before someone pinched his back.

At this point Layla, Emily and Chloe were walking just right behind him so he couldn't tell who did it. Even worse was how all three of the girls pretended like they didn't hear him.

"Hehe, I'll tell you if you le...". Jade thought she had found her way back into the room but she interrupted before she could finish.

"No, I don't need to know". Muku rudely interrupted her. To which she only "hmped" but didn't say anything more.

It seemed like Mr Swindon's group didn't rest first when they left. They took care of throwing the dogs out the windows. The reason why Muku's group came this conclusion was because all the floors they passed till they made it to the top, no longer had dead dogs on them.

Around 1 pm, everybody had fully, recovered, Jade still pouting as Muku really barred her from the room. Even made everyone eat in the principal's office just so that she doesn't dirty the sofas in the lounge.

"Okay, we've had lunch, let's go for round two, we must take care of everything today if possible....so we can ditch this extra weight tomorrow morning." Muku spoke as he got up, though the later part he only said it in his head.

"Hmph, I'm not going". Jade said while folding her arms still sitting down.

"If you go I'll allow you back into the room". Muku simply said.

"Deal, let's go, what are we waiting for" Jade excitedly got up running toward the door.

"T-too easy". Chloe couldn't help but comment.

Luckily for her Jade had run ahead and didn't hear her or she might have wanted to fight it out. Which Chloe in her current state would definitely lose.

"Hey idiot, slow down or the deal is off!" Muku screamed running after her.

"I'm not an idiot, you are!". Jade's shout could be heard from the distance.

On the fourth floor.

"Jade, I know because of your awakened power you're likely more energetic than ever before, but don't forget that your fellow girls are Mage types and their bodies haven't been improved that much in terms of stamina so don't always run off like that. We're still in a dangerous situation after all, what if you met danger and died before the others caught up to help huh?" Muku's teacher side that seldomly appeared since the apocalypse began came out as he nagged Jade.

"Yes sir, I won't do it again". Jade knowing that what he said had some merit and she really had gotten arrogant could only agree to his words and promise to not do it again.

The other girls who were listening to him also suppressed their rising egos. They knew they would have likely done the same as Jade if they were in her position. In fact they couldn't help but feel relieved that it was someone else who acted up and got scolded before they did.

On the stairway to the second floor.

"Okay everyone, get ready, I feel like this time is going to be different from before so be mindful of your surroundings... Yes, I'm talking to you Jade. Now go!. Muku gave his orders to which Jade made a disgruntled sounds again for being targeted. They then stepped onto the floor from the stairs.

Unlike the previous floor. There wasn't even a single unranked killer dog here. Just three ranked ones lazing around.

"Shit, they are all middle stage Rank Ones!. I'll attack one, Jade One, Layla one, Chloe you can assist Layla if she wants, as for Emily...cheer everyone on". Muku was first startled by their slightly higher level. But quickly regained his composure and gave out orders.

As for why he specifically told Emily to stay out of it. That was because he had noticed that her flame tends to spread easily when she was burning the dogs. While she couldn't properly control it yet, so that could lead to a situation were there all burned to death in the building. Wouldn't it be embarrassing to survive the beast attack only to be killed by your ally?.

Woosh!x 12

Twelve claws flew toward Muku's group. The three dogs had all sent out their long range claw attack at the same time.

Clak!x12

(A/N : don't judge the sound effect, unless you know what sound projectile claws make when they hit the floor)

Oddly as soon as the twelve claws arrived in front of Muku, they seemed to have hit an invisible barrier and fell to the ground.

"I knew it could be used in more ways than just propelling my body. So other than the base spell we subconsciously already know from the start, we have to come up with the rest ourselves huh. How fun, I'll call it (Telekinetic force field)". Muku said, which was just to explain to the confused girls what had happened.

Then he moved into one class knowing one of the killer dogs would follow him. Well, he was hoping anyway, luckily the dogs didn't embarrass him as one really did follow him.

"Good idea!". Jade said as she moved into another class. And another dog followed her as well. Leaving the last one to the three remaining girls.

Chapter 17 Ice spikes!

Muku's fight.....

{Well, although it took some effort to kill the other one before and this one is stronger, I should be able to do it with less effort. I now know what to expect after all. Would have been better if I could use the force field and the speed booster at the same time though. No use in thinking about what I can't do, now it's time to fight!}. Muku thought as he and the dog stared at each other with killin intent radiating from both sides.

Boom!

As if on cue, both of them charged forward at the same time. Muku stepping on the desks while the dog bulldozed its way through. When they were less than three meters away from each other, the killer dog lifted it's paw, unleashing its signature attack.

Woosh! ×4

"Not this time!" With that shout Muku jumped into the air avoiding the projectile claws and another sword appearing in his free left hand. Now holding two swords he went down, the swords aimed at the dog's head. Like the one before it, the dog stood on its hind legs, it even seemed more adept at it than the last one.

Clang ×2

Both swords were successfully halted by its claws.

Woosh!

When it opened its mouth about to bite at Muku's head, a third sword speedily pass by Muku's head and before the dog could react, the sword was already poking into its mouth, coming out the other side.

The killer dog quickly pushed Muku away and tried to grab the sword to pull it out. Whether it would survive even if it successfully pulled it out was questionable. Blood was already pouring out of it's mouth and back of the head were the sword came out.

Slash! Bang!

The dog was so occupied with the sword that it completely forgot about Muku. He took that chance to run behind it and slash its head off from the back, putting it out of its misery.

(A/N : no the author isn't going senile or doesn't know how to count. A low stage Rank One beast counts for one kill, while a mid stage counts for two. In fact, it depends on the strength of the beast.

Note: Killer dogs are one of the weakest beasts around, even when they are Rank One)

"Tsk, seems these things aren't anything special once you know what to expect." Muku said while walking out of the room to go and see Jade's fight. He chose her before the others since she was alone while they were three. He did see them paying a game of "dodgespikes" with their dog though.

When he got to her room though, his lip couldn't help but twitch. He was met by the site of Jade sitting on the body of the dog that had five holes on its skull. Seemed she had finished her fight even before him and a lot easily too.

"Oh you're finally here, what took you so long". Jade said with a bored expression seeing him get into the room.

A few minutes before.

Jade and the killer dog were staring at each, neither one was moving or taking their eyes off of the other.

"Hmm, this should a lot more fun than killing those defenceless trash from before right?". She spoke to herself while her transformation occurred in front of the now bewildered dog.

"Ahh!". Jade screamed as she ran forward to psych herself up. She ran at her fastest speed in-between the desks and..

Stab!

Her claws were already dug deep into the skull of the dog before she realised it.

"What!?"

"So what you're saying is you discovered an ability your class has by mistake?". Muku asked after she told him what happened.

"Yeah, it seems my shout can stun them for a second. If I had known I wouldn't have done it though, it made the fight not even worthy of being called a fight. It took all the fun out of...ow!". Jade was ranting on about how she regretted shouting when Muku flicked her forehead.

"We aren't fighting for fun you idiot, and if I ever see you holding back in the future just because you think it would make things less fun then... Hmph, wait and see." Muku quickly snuffed out her dangerous habit in the early stages of its development. Like who would want an ally who could be holding back for the fun of it when you're in a dangerous situation?.

Jade narrowed her eyes wanting to refuse but like before she couldn't help but feel that it would be a mistake if she did that. And so, without even knowing it, her beastly instincts saved her from a spanking.

"Okay, can we go now, I want to see how the others are doing" Jade said while getting up and walking out.

"This brat, sigh, where does she get the confidence to be so carefree in our situation anyway?". Muku asked himself before following her.

{Though I have to admit, right now she might be even stronger than me. I hope she doesn't realise it or I might be in for a real headache} He had some fleeting thoughts as he stared at her back.

"Hahaha, Layla, what are you even doing?, how are you even having so much trouble with this weak thing?". Jade said as she was looking at the fight between Layla and her dog.

Layla being a mage type couldn't get in close and personal with the dog like Muku and Jade. So she could only exchange shots with the dog. While it threw some claws, she threw some ice arrows. They were mostly cancelling each other out and dodging the rest. This situation made her feel a bit helpless not knowing what to do. She had refused any help from Chloe and Emily, though Emily was banned from helping anyway.

Hearing Jade's taunt she for the first time was angered and...

"Haah!" She screamed out.

Stab! × 4

Ice spikes started poking out of the group, with the area in front of her being ground zero. They kept getting longer the further they got from her. The killer dog was completely caught off guard and was stabbed right through by four big ice spikes. One spike for its head, one for its chest and two for its stomach. It was even lifted into the air by the spikes, it was dead in less than a second.

"Well....that was unexpected". Jade managed to say after collecting her jaw of the ground.

"You idiot, haven't you ever played games or watched movies?. Don't you know that mages will eventually trump over other classes in attack power?. Why would you try to piss her off?". Muku said with a disdainful look.

"Umm, Layla I'm sorry, I was just joking so I hope you don't take it seriously. We're friends after all...right?". Jade hearing his words couldn't help but break in cold sweat and quickly apologised to Layla.

Layla on the other hand just looked at her before looking at the dog she just killed.

"Hey, don't ignore me!. We're fine are we?. Say something!" Jade was even more scared, she had no dreams of being an icicle or popsicle one day after all.

"Thank you". Layla looked at her again and only said that.

"Huh?, for what?" Jade was confused.

"I realised that strong emotions can help us advance our magic. If you didn't make me angry I don't know when I would have been able to learn the ice spikes spell". Layla explained.

"Oh, right. I totally meant to do that. And I accept your gratitude that's what friends are for right." Jade being told how useful she was couldn't help but let her ego inflate. She even puffed out her chest with a smug look on her face. The others seeing this could only roll their eyes but remained quiet

Chapter 18 Fighting the Boss!

An hour later.....

"Everyone should have rested enough right?, so let's continue" Muku said.

They had been taking a break on the second floor. Though nobody was really too tired, they knew floor one was going to be the big fight so they needed to be in peak condition.

On the stairs, Muku poked his head out to survey the situation. That's when he noticed it, a beast of a killer dog. The killer dogs they had fought before were beasts but the one in his sight was a beast even among them.

Two and a half metres while standing on all fours. Whole back covered in spikes. Huge bulldog like head, mouth filled with razor sharp teeth. Pitch black skin unable to hide the bulging muscles. Half a meter long front claws on it's bear like paw. The aura It was releasing was greater than the three mid stage Rank Ones from before combined. Without a doubt It was a peak stage Rank One beast. And it was gulping down a dead body of a student.

Muku quickly pulled his head back before it sensed him. Then pushed back Jade's head that was about to poke out and look at the dog. She of course wasn't happy about this but seeing the seriousness on his face didn't say anything. This monster was likely the one that destroyed the school gate.

"There's a peak stage Rank One killer dog there. We might have to fight that one together, even Emily... though try not to burn the building. Luckily for us it seems to be the lazy type and didn't go up the floors itself having the food brought down to it, otherwise we would have died before even reaching Rank One. Anyway, me and Jade will be the vanguard, Layla and Chloe will support us from the back group. If the situation seems to be getting out of hand, that's when you step in Emily. Now everyone gets ready". Muku quickly gave out his orders before anyone could say anything and quickly got into action.

He charged forward, Jade beside him, the rest following a few metres back.

Woosh!×4

The dog seemed to have already sensed them and was playing the fool. It had already finished it's meal and quickly sent out some claws.

"Expected it". Muku said with a smile as he deployed the force field. He like he said expected the attack.

Boom!×4

But what he didn't expect was how the force from the claws would push him back for a whole two metres. As well as take a huge chunk of his mana away. Just like that, a quarter of his mana was gone.

"Damn, what power, Jade don't play around this time, if you are hit even once you will die.". Muku said with a serious expression as soon as he stopped being pushed back.

"You think I'd let myself get hit after what I just saw?, you know what, whatever, let me show you what I can do. Ahh!". Jade replied him before using her stun attack and charging at the killer dog boss.

Clang! Pwak!

Surprisingly the dog wasn't stunned as Jade thought it would be and even more surprisingly it managed to react fast enough to block Jade's high speed attack. It even counter attacked and slapped at Jade with its other paw.

Luckily Layla reacted in time and made ice spikes appear from the ground and block the paws path to Jade. Sadly they weren't strong enough to stop it, but luckily it was slower down enough enough for Jade to manage to get out of the way.

"Growl!". Seeing it's attack impeded, the dog growled lookin I'm Layla's direction who couldn't help but gulp down some saliva due to nervousness after being looked at by the beast with it's blood red eyes full of killing intent.

"You idiot, didn't I tell you to not get cocky!?. You should thank Layla or you might have had one less life right now" Muku shouted at Jade but his eyes never left the dog that was staring them down. Although he was shouting at them it was more to keep her grounded than anything as even he didn't expect the beast to be so strong. It literally blocked an attack he could barely see and seems to have shrugged off Jade's newly discovered stun ability, though the latter might be because Jade didn't know up to what stage from herself it affected.

"Now isn't the time, come up with a plan already!" Jade shouted back, she could sense that although he shouted at her there was no blame in his voice.

"Tsk, I why don't you come up with one, why did I even bother teaching you when you can't even think for yourself then?" Muku said back though in his mind he was thinking of what he could do to get out of the situation.

"Growl!"

But the killer dog boss didn't give him the time as it growled as it charged forward. He as the man of the group, also as the teacher and also as the only one with a defensive skill at the moment ran to meet it head on. He tried what he did with the last dog he fought. Two swords in hand aimed at the dog's head from above after he jumped up under the boost of his weak ass telekinesis that couldn't affect anything but him yet.

Clang×2

Which were blocked as expected, and again a third sword came aiming at the dog's open mouth.

Clang! Pwak!

But different from the previous script. The dog killer dog boss managed to bite down on the sword and break it with its teeth.

"Well damn!. Jade!". Muku screamed, his cool new finishing move was defeated even before he named it.

Woosh!

Hearing her name, cat girl Jade, used her "high quick" skill and exploded forward, her claws aiming for the dog's gut. When she was about to slice it open, the killer dog boss's muscle on the area tensed and her attack only managed to leave five shallow cuts.

"Damn is true". Jade said as she and Muku quickly stepped back from the dog completely out of options at this point. They had basically given it all they had.

Crack!

But it seemed both of them and the dog had forgotten that they had some backup. Chloe with her low presence made her move. Blue lightning shot out from her hand, flew in-between Muku and Jade and hit the KDB's head.

(A/N : Killer Dog Boss = KDB)

It didn't have time to react before it was hit, though unless it could have dodged. There was nothing else it could have done to an energy attack as a physical type beast. It's body started spasming a bit while it tried to suppress it.

"Now!" Chloe shouted, getting Muku and Jade out of their shocked state. This was the first time they had seen Chloe act to actually attack after all.

Not wasting time, Jade uses her "high quick" again and this time aimed at the dog's front leg. It tried to move out of the way but the spasms made it a tad too slow nor able to properly tense up it's muscles and so...

Slash!

Howl!

It's leg was cleanly cut off, prompting a loud cry of pain from it. Not giving it time to recover Muku sent three flying swords at its head. The dog looked at the swords approach with a look of despair in it's eyes as it knew it could at best stop one in the situation with its mouth. Worse yet none were aiming at its mouth.

Stab×3

All three swords stabbed into its skull killing it off instantly.

"Huff!!, it's finally over, Jade was that exciting enough for you?" Muku huffed in relief and couldn't help but taunt Jade as he set on the floor, more mentally tired than physically as he still had at least half of his mana left.

"Hmph!, No not at all, what's so fun about a beast I likely wouldn't be able to kill by myself". Jade replied also slumping down to the floor.

The rest did the same as they laughed at Jade's reply. This fight drained everyone mentally no matter how small the part they took in the fight. They have never felt so much danger before, they all knew that one wrong move could have ended in someone dying after all.

"I just hope there is no other beast like it close by". Jade said again.

"Brat!, are you trying to jinx it!?". Muku roared, while the girls all laughed at his reaction.

Chapter 19 "Projectile Claws" skill acquired!

"Hmm, so you're saying both of you got reduction on your kill count to Rank Two when I killed the dog?". Muku asked while looking at Jade and Chloe.

"Yes". The both spoke at the same time.

"Well then the logical conclusion is that whoever damages a beast from Rank One onwards will get KP based on their contribution. Though it has to be something significant otherwise even Layla would have gotten something since she assisted a bit. But to think the monster was actually worth 5 kill points. It must have been quite a beast even among Rank Ones.". Muku being blessed with a good brain quickly deciphered the situation.

"Makes sense, hey do you mind if I dig into its chest?". With that statement from Jade everyone couldn't help but look at her with a weird expression.

"Hey, stop looking at me like that, I just got this feeling that there's something useful to me there okay". She quickly defended herself seeing how the others were looking at her.

"Oh, you should have led with that, we thought you were developing an interesting in bloody hearts or something. I mean you have the weirdest class out of everyone here after all like what the hell is a Beast Empress anyway?". Teacher Muku maliciously commented. Seeing his smug expression, Jade got the urge to punch him in the face, but she held herself back.

"And you think Devine Metal Warlock sounds less weird?...like what's so devine about it?, you dont seem devine at all. You know what, I don't have time for this. Jade retorted as she walked toward the dead KDB.

She had to put in a bit of effort to turn the dog around as it had fallen forward when it died. Since she didn't yet have enough control over her ability, she had to completely turn into her cat girl form just because she wanted to use her claws. With the dog dead, its defense that depended heavily on its muscles plummeted. Though even then it took Jade a bit of effort to break through its hard chest area especially getting through the rib cage.

"Wooh, so this is what has been calling out to me". Jade said with sparkling eyes not minding the bloody mess she has created. Though the others couldn't help but scooch a bit of distance away from her clearly shaken by what she was doing with a smile on her face.

"Well what is it, show us". Emily said, but still didn't come closer to Jade.

"This!". Jade who hadn't noticed the extra distance between her and the others excitedly pulled out a red crystal like sphere radiating mana, it's size a little smaller than a golf ball.

"It seems its called a beast core and it's rare to find in lower level beasts like this." Jade explained the sphere as she held it out.

"Oh is that s...hey what are you doing!?". Emily was responding to her when she noticed Jade open her mouth and move the beast core toward it. Seemingly not minding the blood on it or her hands.

Swoosh! Clang!

A sword flew out and hit the core away from Jade's hands.

"Huh?". Jade seemed to wake up from a trance as she subconsciously said.

"What do you mean huh?, you were literally about to eat an unknown orb just because the internal assistant told you it's name. Not to mention it's freaking covered in blood!". Muku shouted at her.

(A/N : From now on the ability they have to suddenly know the names of things is called the "internal assistant". Thought of system but that doesn't seem very ideal or original either.)

"Oh, what?. Last thing I remember is looking at it and getting a sudden urge to eat it then the next thing your sword was hitting it away from close to my mouth. But I don't remember actually trying to eat it, at least not consciously.". Jade defended herself though still a bit confused by what had happened.

"Oh, if that's what happened then it can't be helped, everything is still new to us after all. Anyway, I'm sure if you felt such an urge to eat it, it should be good for you. So go ahead, but first clean it with some water, no need to be disgusting now. Emily please give her a water bottle". Muku replied to her then told Emily who was carrying a backpack with some water bottles in it.

Yes, Emily felt that if she couldn't fight indoors, she could at least be the pack mule. Although the others wanted to disagree with her choice, they needed the water so.... nobody lost anything anyway.

After washing it, Jade quickly threw the beast core into her mouth as if somebody would steal it from her if she was slow to do it. She was back in her base form at this time, but as soon as she put the core in her mouth, it melted and was completely absorbed by her body before even reaching her throat.

Her body started burning up a bit. Then without her actively doing it. Her body turned into her cat girl form and she subconsciously swiped her claws at the wall. Then a surprising sight occurred. The claws detached from her and flew out all sinking deep into the wall. Yes, she had gained the killer dog's projectile claws skill. And like the dogs, new claws quickly grew, replacing the ones thrown out.

"Well damn". Muku said while trying to collect his jaw off the floor. The girls including Jade who had regained control of her body were just as shocked as him. They all thought that it would make her stronger or something like that, but to steal a skill was unexpected to say the very least.

"This isn't fair, doesn't this mean she can just horde skills from beasts we kill from now on while the rest of us wreck our brains to create new ones!?". Emily shouted out in disgruntlement.

"Actually it seems I can only gain three skills per Rank like this. And don't forget that the IA said that beast cores are rare among Rank Ones". Jade clarified. Hearing it, not only Emilia but everyone else also felt relieved because they didn't want to face a day were Jade had a hundred of skills while all of them combined had around ten or something like that.

"But still, you don't have to think about coming up with skills like this... though now that I think about it maybe that's why you're the one with such a class". Emily was expressing her jealousy when she realised that Jade didn't like thinking very much so she would have been screwed if she didn't have this core devouring ability from her class.

"Hey!, are you indirectly calling me dumb!?". Jade exploded in anger.

"Forget that for now, go get yourselves some change of clothes from the receptionist counter. Especially you Jade.". Muku seeing that Emily didn't know what to say to Jade's question quickly interfered, diffusing situation like a good teacher.

Uniforms were issued out at the front desk on the first floor by the receptionist. So there were always some uniforms there. Although Jade was the most bloody one in the group, every had some level of blood on their clothes after all the fights they had. Even Muku was thinking of getting himself a male student's school uniform.

"Hmph!". Jad felt that he was trying to cover something up but she was a girl after all. So despite seemingly not minding her current bloody appearance, she definitely would want to change her clothes if possible. And so she didn't pursue the matter and went to choose a uniform with the rest.

(A/N: Jade isn't dumb, she's just one of those people too lazy to use their brains when they feel like they don't have to)

With their change of uniforms chosen, the girls were about to go to the school bathrooms to take a shower before wearing new clothes. The electricity was still around so the water and everything other than the network blocked by mana were all working fine enough.

"Wait, I just remembered something, let's go check if there are still any killer dogs outside. Which is highly likely after all the corpses we tossed out." Muku suddenly said as the girls were about to merrily go take a bath.

"Yes!!". Emily shouted in happiness, even jumping up a few times. Looking at her the others were confused as to why she was so happy at first. But then they realised something.

They were going outside and Emily could finally participate in battles!

Chapter 20 Emily unleashed!

Woosh!

"Flame burst!". Emily excitedly shouted, hitting an unlucky unranked killer dog that was trying to flee from the mad pyro. The dog was incinerated before it could even howl in pain.

"Hahaha, take that! Hahaha, who's next?". Emily had basically gone berserk ever since they went outside of the school building.

She was tossing out what seemed to be exploding fireballs. They would only explode when they made contact with the dogs then envelop them, burning them until they are charcoal.

"Well, so is this why they say you should never let a lady get too pent up?" Muku said with a pondering look his hand on his chin. He and the girls didn't even get a chance to do anything ever since they came out and were all just following behind the mad Emily.

"I can't help but feel that your statement has double meanings". Jade said while the other two nodded in agreement.

"Cough..you're overthinking it. Anyway I hope Emily finishes soon we only have about two hours of daylight left after all." Muku replied, shifting focus, trying to cover up what he said.

"Hmm, if you say so. And we can always join in if she takes too long.". Jade said.

"Yuh, you're welcomed to try if you want. I for one refuse to get in her way right now." Muku replied look at Emily's current state with a wary look.

"Your know what, you might be right. I can't believe this is that sweet Emily who couldn't even attack these things before. It's literally only been like a day, how has she changed so much.". After also looking at Emily's current state Jade backed off from her plan while expressing her surprise in her change.

"Well I guess seeing the others doing something all this time, especially during the boss fight while she only carried some water got to her". Chloe chimed in, she could somewhat relate to Emily as even she hadn't had many chances to act too.

"Makes sense, from now on we shouldn't let anyone sit on the shelf for too long, one psycho in Jade is enough for the group after all" Muku nodded in agreement while Jade gave him a side glance but was too lazy to argue.

An hour later.....

"Huff, that was fun. Too bad they are all dead or ran away though". Emily said looking at the dog shaped charcoal all over the school premise. The rest of the unranked dogs ran out through the gate in the direction of the city.

Looking at the city her eyes seemed down and bit before regaining their glow. She then turned back and walked toward the others who had long stopped following her after seeing how she was bullying the dogs that weren't even resisting.

"I'm done here, I guess we can go take that bath now. We are leaving tomorrow morning right so we have to properly prepare and come up with a plan.". As she got to the others she said. She didn't stop though, she went inside, grabbed her new uniform heading for the showers.

"At least she seems to have gone back to normal now. Though I don't think I can still see her in the same way as before". Jade commented while looking at Emily's back.

"Yeah, and what are you all still doing here?, go join her. Jade, don't come out unless you shower at least three tim..ow". Muku was speaking when he was kicked on the leg by Jade who "Hmped" and walked away.

"Honestly sir, why do you cause trouble for yourself?". Layla asked while looking at Muku with confused expression.

"Cough, I can't help it okay". Being looked at like that, he couldn't help but feel embarrassed as he responded.

Layla shook her head still not understanding, she then followed after Jade and Emily. Chloe picked at Muku, giggled and also walked away.

"Sigh, the more time I spend with these girls the more I forget I'm their teacher and the more face I lose. I wouldn't be surprised if they started calling me "bro" soon". Muku spoke to himself as he headed toward the male showers. Not before grabbing something...

Around thirty minutes later....

The four girls were waiting for Muku at the reception desk. They had all changed into new school uniforms, properly fixed their hair. If one ignored their surroundings they might even think it was a normal school day by looking at the these cute girls radiating youthful vigor.

"Where the hell is he?, what kind of man takes longer to bath than girls anyway". Jade said with a displeased expression in her cute little face. Her eyebrow scrunched a bit, a green eyes barely visible.

"How stereotypical of you, anyways don't you know there are always exceptions in everything". Layla said with a neutral expression on her face.

"Hmph!" Jade didn't know what to say in response.

"Sorry to keep you waiting". Muku said while walking towards them in his new clothes.

"What the f..." (Jade)

"Language!" (Muku)

Jade couldn't be blamed as right now their great teacher Muku was donning the school's male student uniform. Since he worked out, although the trousers fit fine enough, the blue shirt looked quite tight on him. Right now he didn't seem like great teacher Muku but buff student Muku instead.

"Don't ask, although I managed to find a proper trousers, but there were no longer shirts that I could wear. It was either this or my bloody shirt. Since I should be able to fight something better when we get to the city tomorrow, I chose this. And Jade stop giving me a judgemental look for wearing a student's uniform. And Emily you're drooling.". Muku said his piece. Jade looked away with a shrug while Emily looked away with embarrassment.

"Can we go now?". Layla asked.

"Yeah sure" Muku replied and they walked back up the stairs.

A few minutes later they were back in the lounge.

"Umm, Mr Chisen your clothes..." Mr Swindon spoke but didn't know how to continue.

"It was either this or my bloody clothes after I cleared the school of all the dogs. Do you think I made the right choice?". Muku said with a smile on his face.

"Makes sense....wait what!?, you've killed them all?" Mr Swindon along with his group were all shocked.

"Well the girls helped of course, couldn't have done it without them even". Muku affirmed while giving the girls their deserved recognition.

"Even then, there's only five of you!. How's that possible!?". Mr Swindon asked, his emotions unstable from the shock.

"That's what the power of Rank Ones can do Mr Swindon. If you had been a bit more daring, you could have had it too. Though it's too late now. It won't be so easy anymore." Muku said while looking at him with a neutral expression.

"R-right". That's all Mr Swindon could say, his mind was overcome with regret. His group was also the same. They had thought that it was a fluke when Muku and his group had killed all the dogs before. Or the dogs had even killed each other somehow despite the wounds on them that didn't look like they were from bites. Humans don't trust others easily after all. Although in recent times that's probably for the best, but in some situations like this one, it leads to people missing out on golden opportunities. So it's a matter of lucky really.

"Anyway Mr Swindon, you and your group are staying in the the Principal's office, there isn't enough room for everyone to rest properly in here after all". Muku said, his expression still neutral.

"But..okay, we will go, I hope you all have a good night, we will see each other again tomorrow". Mr Swindon wanted to disagree at first but seeing Muku's eyes narrow a bit when he said "but", he quickly changed his statement. He wasn't sure why but he felt that if he disagreed in that moment he would have regretted it.

With that he and his group walked out of the room heading for the principal's office. The female student of their group looked back briefly, hesitated then continued walking out with the rest.

"Did you have to scare him like that?". Emily asked Muku.

What Mr Swindon and his group didn't know was that Muku had used a bit of his aura when he narrowed his eyes targeting Mr Swindon. Which stopped him from disagreeing.

"Would you rather all ten of us stayed in here or we went to the office instead?". Muku asked her a question if his on.

"Well no but...sigh, fine.". Emily didn't know what to say. She was one of those people who are too nice even when it goes against their own self interest. Luckily Muku wasn't, Jade also wasn't, Layla didn't seem to care much about people outside of their group, Chloe might be a bit like Emily but she wouldn't raise her voice against the group.

"Even then, it kinda seems like you want to do something to us behind close doors the way you said it". Jade taunted. The other girls felt their faces hit up thinking about it.

"Oh please, like I'd be attracted to little girls like you all". Muku said rolling his eyes.

"Hhmp!" × 4

With that, the girls ignored Muku for the rest of the night, and even the plan for tomorrow that was supposed to be discussed was forgotten.

"Huh, what happened?". Muku was confused as to why the air in the room suddenly changed. But for some some reason he didn't dare talk to any of them in that moment. His senses warned him against such an action.
