

RAISING A FEW WIVES IN A BEAST APOCALYPSE

Chapter 4 Anyone have a phone?

"So how are we going to take care of the three remaining dogs?. I also feel we should do it quickly, lest more come join them.". Layla said with a frown on her face, not knowing how to get out of their current predicament.

"Simple, we make an obstacles in the middle of the room then open the door. Since sir Muku can oneshot them, he can just kill one after the other quickly before they completely get through the obstacles. Of course it's a risky plan since we don't know how agile they are." Chloe said, this time without stuttering, it seemed after getting to know the people around her a bit more, she gained more self confidence.

"Hmmm, good plan, I vote we do it". Layla said after considering it and how they didn't have any other plan anyway.

"Me too". Both Emily and Jade said at the same time.

Seeing how they agreed to their plan, Chloe happily smiled, feeling useful to the group.

Seeing this from the sidelines, teacher Muku also smiled, happy at how smart his students were.

"Why are you just gawking at us like a pervert, say something". Jade looked at him with a disgust visible on her pretty face as she said.

"Ey, show some respect, I'm your teacher!!, and of course I agree with the plan otherwise I would have expressed my disapproval already. Also I'm not a pervert, I just like seeing my students work together okay". Muku was triggered, and angrily replied but at the same showed that he was in on the plan.

"Enough joking around, we don't have the time, let's get to work". Layla reminded them of their situation, and everyone got to work. Using the desks that weren't used on the door to make the obstacles.

In less than twenty minutes, they were done. Then came a question, who was going to bell the ca...cough, who was going to open the door?.

Although they had removed most of the furniture blocking the door, the dogs weren't hitting in anymore. So they didn't know it could now be easily opened.

"Does anyone have their phone on them?" Muku suddenly asked, which confused the girls but they all took out their phones and holding them out. At that point in time, the phones were all basically useless since there hadn't been any network available since the voice. In fact, the whole world over had no network, so people couldn't contact each other through anything that required network.

Seeing them all present a phone, Muku's face darkened for a second but didn't say anything before taking them all. Before the girls could ask what he wanted to do, he tossed them all at the one after the other.

"Hey!, my phone!". All the girls screamed in anger.

"What do you mean, last I checked, my class didn't allow phones, so how could any of you possibly have them". Muku replied with a smile that gave off anything but happy vibes on his face.

The girls were all speechless and just looked at the door to avoid eye contact with their teacher.

Bang!

One of the phones Muku threw, did the job he was aiming for. It went through the broken part of the door that had a glass on it. And it happened to reach the closest dog and hit it's body.

The dog was angered and so it growled at the door for a bit before throwing it's body at it. What it didn't expect was to breakthrough, it's body fell inside the room. It was confused for a bit but after seeing it's prey behind some desks it quickly got up and ran towards them.

It jumped in the air wanting to go over the desks but, it's luck from opening the door ran out as it was met with an axe to the neck, getting decapitated.

"Okay even I'm starting to worry as to why I seem to be only capable of decapitating them". Muku said why looking at the dog's body.

"Growl"

"Growl"

When jade was about to gloat, she was interrupted by the growls of the remaining two dogs as they sped into the room.

One was in front of the other and it's the one Muku got ready to meet. The other than toward Chloe who stood at the end of the group. Seeing this, the other girls got closer to her, ready to defend.

The dog that Muku was getting ready to cut down when it jumps over the desks, surprisingly didn't do so. It ran around the desks instead.

"Oh shit!". Muku shouted while running to meet it.

Seeing an unexpected variable, the girls felt their bodies tense up, but they still didn't shrink back from the incoming beast. Especially Emily who didn't want to repeat what she did before.

On Muku's side, as soon as the dog made it's way around the obstacles, he struck down. To his suprise, just as he was about to cut it down, it got out of the way. He only managed to scratch it's neck a bit.

Enraged by the wound it got from it's food, the dog growled and lunged at him. It's aim was to rip off his neck. Muku barely managed to roll out of the way but he dropped his axe in the act.

{I'm screwed}. He thought as the dog threw itself at him again, mouth wide open, ready to finish it.

Back at the girls' side, luckily for them their dog, acted according to the script. When it was still in the air all four of them struck forward, hitting it on different parts of its body.

"Ooow!"

The force was enough to not only hurt it but managed to push it back. The dog with four new wounds fell back. It quickly got up and started growling at them but didn't attack again, only stared at them with its crimson colored eyes full of murderous intent.

Being looked at like that made all the girls gulp down some saliva in fear. Just then, Jade happened to look in Muku's direction and that's when she noticed his dire situation. Without thinking and not even knowing where she got the strength, she threw her axe towards the dog that was about to jump at him.

Just when Muku thought he was going to get ripped apart, staring at his death as its mouth got closer.

Bang!

An axe appeared out of nowhere and dug itself into the dog's neck and making it fall to the ground. Without even thinking of what had happened, Muku quickly jumps for his axe, picks it up and quickly finishes off the dog that was howling in pain on the ground.

"Huff, that was close, than...shit!". Muku was expressing his relief when he looked in the direction of the girls and noticed that they had all gotten distracted and were looking at him. This gave the dog that was attacking them the opening it needed. It jumped over the desks again, this time knowing that it won't be struck down.

However when it was still in the air and about to bite Jade's slender neck. It's eye noticed a shadow speeding forward from the side. Before it could make sense of what was happening, an axe dug into its back, bringing it's body down.

It twitched for a bit on the floor before it breathed its last.

Chapter 5 He made me do it

"Huff, well that almost took a turn for the worst". Muku took in a long breath thinking of how he and Jade almost died. The dog he he just killed was a few centimeters away from ripping Jade up.

"Y-year, and thanks for saving me". Jade stuttered a bit as she spoke, still shaken by how she almost died.

"No need for that, besides you saved me first remember". Muku waved the gratitude off.

"Yeah, you're right, in fact it can be said that it was because of you I almost got killed". After regaining her wits, Jade quickly got back to her old ways. Of always trying to find trouble with Muku.

"This brat... You know what, I'll give you this one because there is some truth to what you said. In fact I want to apologise for my mistake.". Muku at first felt like fighting it out with her but as the grown up he gave in, for the sake of peace.

"Don't blame yourself sir, none of us are accustomed to fighting these monsters so a mistake here and there is only natural. We should just be grateful that nobody got hurt or worse, died.". Before Jade could say anything, Emily the appeaser spoke first.

Hearing her and knowing that she was speaking the truth, Jade could only curse under her breathe. She couldn't find trouble with Muku again in the situation otherwise the others will find her to be an unreasonable person.

"Umm, excuse me everyone, I suggest we find a new place to hide, the stench of blood here is sure to draw in more killer dogs." Chloe raised her hand as she spoke softly, seemingly afraid she might be getting in the way.

"Chloe, you don't need to raise your hand before speaking, we are not in school anym...well we are but you know what I mean. Anyway, no one is going to get angry at you or something like that, you have been nothing but helpful since the start after all. And you've made another good suggestion, let's get out of here before more of them come."

Muku spoke with an wry smile on his face, not knowing what to do with this student of his that seemed to have low self-esteem.

"He's right you know". Emily backed him up while the other two girls nodded in agreement.

"O-okay, if you say so". That's all Chloe could say while being stared at by everyone.

"Good then, let's go, and I suggest we go close to the storage room. In a few hours when the adrenaline completely runs out, we are going to need more than just water." Layla who seemed to only know how to speak important things spoke. Though it was to be expected, she was the best student in the grade after all.

With that they left their bloodied classroom. The reason why they were lucky to even have water was because it was summer so there was a 20 litre water bottle in the class.

"I like the name killer dogs by the way". As they ran, Jade suddenly said. To which Chloe's face reddened a little bit with embarrassment but she didn't say anything.

Their floor was the second top most floor of a building that had 8 floors. There were classes from floor 3 to floor 7. While floor 2 was where the cafeteria was located. Floor one only had the reception desk. On the top floor there was the principal's office which had a personal latrine, the food storage room and the teacher's lounge.

Since the storage room was on the top floor that's where they went. Though it wasn't like they could go down to the lower floors where an unknown number of killer dogs was. After all, they almost lost their lives to just two.

Less than thirty minutes after Muku's group left, as predicted, more killer dogs came to the 7th floor. With no questions asked, they pounced on the corpses of their dead brethren. Devouring them until nothing was left. One killer dog arrived to late and there was no place at the dinner table....cough, it couldn't find a spot to eat from as all the corpses were completely surrounded.

So it walked out of the room and happened to catch a scent which was mostly masked by the stench of blood. With that lead its lone figure went in the direction of Muku's group, the 8th floor.

A few minutes back....

Muku and his group successfully reached the 8th floor. Their first target was obviously the storage room, when they reached the door they noticed that it was locked. They couldn't break it too since it was a reinforced steel door. So they were at a loss of what to do next.

"Well quite frankly I don't know why anyone thought it would be unlocked". Jade said with a shrug of her shoulders.

"You know, staying quiet when you have nothing productive to say is allowed right". Muku said while looking at her with a deadpan expression.

"Tsk". Jade only made that sound and looked away.

"Oh, I know, why don't we try to look for the key in the principal's office?." Before the situation could escalate between Muku and Jade, Emily made a suggestion.

"Great idea, why didn't I think of that, let's do that". Muku said while walking towards the principal's office at the end of the hallway.

{Maybe because you've been getting dumber since this whole situation began}. Jade thought but didn't dare say it out loud.

"Oh, seems it's locked too...from the inside even. However is inside, open up the door please, it's Mr Chisen". Muku tried opening the principal's door, but it wouldn't barge.

He proceeded to try and call out to the person inside, since it can't be guaranteed that it's the principal who was in the room when the attack began, he didn't directly call out to him. Oddly though, even after calling out for a while, nobody answered, yet when he checked the door again, it really was locked from the inside.

"Why not just break it, maybe the person inside succumbed to the pressure after seeing what's happening and committed suicide". Jade came closer to Muku and said.

"You know, I'm starting to get the impression that you are a rather violent little gir...hmm you might be right. We don't have any time to waste even if the person is just ignoring us after all". Muku was in the process of figuring out the truth about Jade's personality but then thought she did have a point. Luckily for him he didn't continue what he was saying or he likely would have been kicked in-between his legs.

Bang!

Without wasting anymore time, Muku hit the door with his shoulder, forcing it open. When he looked inside he was faced by a scene he didn't expect.

The intern (a dude, can't have girls dying for arbitrarily after all) who was working as the principal's assistant was busy dragging the principal's dead body into the restroom. Before he could make sense of what was going on, the guy sprinted towards him before taking a lunge, hands held out, aiming for Muku's chest.

Muku was taken off his feet and thrown to the ground outside the room. He and the intern started rolling around while the intern was trying to gran Muku's neck and he was trying to prevent it. Muku noticed something behind the girls.

"I got this, go a look for the key, now!!!". When the girls were about to help him, he screamed at them. They felt a bit scared by his scream so hurriedly entered the room to do what they were told.

"It wasn't my fault, he made do it, he made me kill him! After seeing what was going on outside, he foolishly wanted to go help the students!. For my own safety, I had to do, I had to snap his neck.". The intern confessing everything without being asked, seems he had gone mad from committing murder.

Muku suddenly pushed the intern into the air with his feet, throwing him away from him. Just as the intern was about to get off the floor and likely attack Muku again, a large mouth bit into his neck.
