

270: This Woman's Strategy and Power

Joshua was completely stunned.

He had already prepared himself to take over as CEO, but now—they were talking about removing the chairman?!

What the hell was going on?!

Garrett swept his gaze across the room and announced, "That's right. The main agenda for today's meeting is to remove the chairman and elect a new one. All shareholders are entitled to cast their votes accordingly."

Charles and Zoe remained silent, but their expressions were calm.

They knew exactly what was happening—this was Caitlin's move.

All they needed to do now was sit back and watch.

Jonathan Loses Control

"Garrett!"

Jonathan's rage exploded. "How dare you betray me?! Yesterday, at the investment ceremony, we agreed that I would continue to control LIG. Why are you suddenly changing your stance?"

Garrett smiled. "Yesterday was yesterday. Business is a battlefield, and circumstances change overnight. Haven't you noticed the shift in the tide, Jonathan?"

"What the hell does that mean?"

Garrett's voice turned sharp. "It means — Jonathan, your era is coming to an end."

Jonathan was so furious that he slammed his hand on the table.

"You son of a —! Your so-called investment was a lie! Your true intention was to take over LIG all along! But don't forget — your contract states that 4EVER Capital only owns 15% of the shares. With just 15%, you think you can remove me from my own company? Keep dreaming!"

Garrett smirked and stood up. "You're right, Jonathan. I only have 15%."

Then, he leaned forward and dropped the bombshell.

"But my boss now controls 35% of LIG's shares. She is LIG's largest shareholder and holds absolute authority."

Jonathan froze. "Your boss?"

His mind struggled to process the implications.

Joshua, on the other hand, felt a cold sweat trickle down his back.

A deep sense of dread crept up his spine.

This was bad.

His chances of becoming CEO were slipping further and further away.

The Mastermind Arrives

Garrett turned toward the entrance.

"Since Jonathan wants to meet our boss, let's not keep him waiting. Welcome our leader!"

All eyes turned toward the door.

A moment later, the conference room doors swung open.

Two rows of elite security personnel entered first, lining the path like a protective wall.

And then—

She walked in.

Dressed in a sleek sapphire-blue power suit, Caitlin exuded an aura of absolute dominance.

Her slender waist and long legs were accentuated by the tailored fit of her outfit.

Her hair was elegantly pulled back, emphasizing her sharp, refined features.

She was breathtaking.

But more than that—

She was powerful.

The entire room fell silent.

For a few seconds, the only sound was the faint rustling of papers.

Some shareholders were stunned by her beauty.

Others were shaken by her presence.

Shockwaves Through the Room

"It's her! It's Caitlin!"

BH's Terry nearly jumped from his seat.

His eyes gleamed with excitement—the same woman who had saved his life before was now standing before him as the true force behind LIG.

Charles glanced at Caitlin and felt a deep sense of admiration.

Her tactics. Her power. Her ability to turn the tides in her favor.

This woman was terrifyingly brilliant.

Zoe, on the other hand, was filled with gratitude and respect.

Caitlin had once helped save her marriage and family.

And today, she was showing why she deserved their trust.

Jonathan's Rage

Joshua was so shocked that he couldn't even form a coherent sentence.

His mouth opened and closed, his hand shaking as he pointed at Caitlin.

"Y-You... Caitlin... Y-You—!"

Jonathan, however, quickly realized the truth.

He had been set up.

This was all Caitlin's doing.

4EVER Capital was her trap!

His face twisted with fury.

"Caitlin! What the hell do you want?!"

Caitlin smiled coldly.

"Isn't it obvious, Jonathan?"

She brushed past him and walked to the front of the room.

With complete authority, she stood at the head of the table.

Her sharp gaze swept over the shareholders.

"First, I'd like to thank you all for attending today's meeting.

"As of now, I own 98.69 million shares of IJG, increasing my stake to 36.64%.

"As the majority shareholder, I hereby propose the immediate removal of Jonathan as Chairman. If there are no objections, let's proceed with the vote."

As she spoke, her team distributed official documents detailing the current share distribution.

Jonathan and Joshua each received copies.

The numbers were undeniable.

4EVER Capital's 15% belonged to Caitlin.

Scott's shares had already been transferred to her.

Several minority shareholders had also sold their stakes to her.

She was the undisputed majority shareholder.

Jonathan's hands trembled as he read the report.

His blood pressure skyrocketed.

"You... You... You... How could you do this to me?! LIG is my life's work!"

Caitlin's expression turned ice-cold.

She didn't hesitate to tear off his mask.

"Your life's work? Don't make me laugh.

"LIG wasn't even yours to begin with.

"It was originally Thompson Global Ventures—my grandfather's company.

"After my grandfather passed, the company was entrusted to my mother. But because of her poor health, you took advantage of the situation and seized control of TGV. You forcibly acquired the shares, rebranded it as LIG, and stole everything from my family.

"And now, you dare call it your life's work?!"

Her eyes blazed with fury.

"You're nothing but a parasite—an opportunistic fraud who fed off the Thompson Family's legacy!"

Her words landed like daggers.

Jonathan was speechless.

Every shareholder's gaze was now filled with judgment.

He could feel it—the walls closing in.

Yet, he refused to give up.

He turned to the shareholders, desperate.

"Everyone, don't be fooled by her lies! Have I not given my blood, sweat, and tears to this company?"

"When TGV was transferred to me, it was with Kelly's permission. I did not steal it!"

"She's just trying to take LIG for herself!"

The Final Vote

Caitlin slammed her hand on the table.

"Enough!"

Her voice was unwavering, filled with authority.

"No matter how much you struggle, you cannot change the outcome. The vote begins now! Do you oppose or support my proposal?"

- Executives from CR and GSI

LIG's top management was also present.

Jonathan, still believing himself in control, stood before the room.

"Ladies and gentlemen, before we begin, I'd like to formally introduce 4EVER Capital."

Then, he cleared his throat.

"As Chairman, I'd also like to announce a new executive appointment. Since our former CEO, Scott, is no longer available, I am officially appointing Joshua as LIG's new CEO."

Joshua was thrilled, standing up to accept his promotion.

But—

Garrett's voice suddenly rang out.

"I disagree. The appointment of a CEO should not be rushed. Since 4EVER Capital is now a major shareholder, I believe we should first discuss LIG's future leadership."

Jonathan frowned.

"Garrett, I thought we already agreed that I would remain in charge."

Garrett's lips curled into a sharp smile.

"Apologies, Jonathan. But as the largest shareholder, we have the right to remove you from your position as Chairman."

Jonathan's expression twisted.

"What?!"

His head spun as if he had been struck with a hammer.

For a long moment, he couldn't even process what had just happened.
