

First Love 110

Chapter 110 Unforgivable

"How's Wang Kun and Li Zhen?" Hong Liang looked at Wang Kun with anger on his face. At this time, he thought he should wait and see how Li Zhen is doing now.

"Lizhen's baby was born prematurely, and is now in a coma and is being rescued." Wang Kun lowered his head. He didn't dare to look into Hongliang's eyes. He spoke tremblingly, and then he lowered his head even more.

"Does Lizhen know about your situation? She must have been so upset after finding out you had an affair that she had the miscarriage, right?" Hongliang was very angry. He looked at Wang Kun with an angry look.

"I" Wang Kun lowered his head even more and spoke hesitantly and incoherently.

Looking at the tightly closed door of the emergency room, Hongliang felt as if his heart was being cut by a knife. He paced back and forth at the door. To people who didn't know the truth, it seemed that it was his relative who was being rescued.

"Lizhen, Lizhen, how are you now, child?" At this time, a middle-aged woman over 50 came over here in a hurry with big strides. She was panting because of her fast walking, but she was panting while shouting her daughter-in-law's name. This person was Wang Kun's mother, Lizhen's mother-in-law Jinlan.

From Jin Lan's expression just now, we can see how much the old lady loves this daughter-in-law. Yes, since her son has been with this daughter-in-law, his life has been on the rise. His career has been smooth sailing. After marriage, she gave birth to a successor for the Wang family. She turned her son from a country boy into a successful person in Guangzhou and opened his own factory. Such a daughter-in-law is really a good daughter-in-law that is hard to find even with a lantern. In her mind, Lizhen is more important than her own son.

"Mom" Wang Kun saw his mother coming, he was like seeing a savior. Since the moment he saw Lizhen being pushed into the emergency room, he was about to collapse. He didn't know what to do. When he saw his mother coming, he felt a little relieved. He knew that his mother was not only very independent, but also that her and Lizhen got along very well. Maybe Lizhen would forgive him for her sake.

"My son Lizhen was fine when she went out in the morning. How could she suddenly have a miscarriage?" Jin Lan found it a bit strange when she saw her son looking listless and in great pain.

"Just ask your good son, what did he do to make Lizhen angry and cause her to give birth prematurely?" At this time Hongliang couldn't bear it anymore. He was so angry that he couldn't help but suddenly burst out the anger in his heart.

"Mr. Li, you're here." Jin Lan looked at Hongliang, greeted him, and then looked at Wang Kun.

"Son, why did you offend Lizhen again?" she asked with strange eyes and a stern look on her face.

"I" Wang Kun lowered his head, looked at the floor, and did not dare to look into his mother's eyes.

"You don't dare tell your mother, right? Let me tell you; your son fell in love with someone else and was caught by Lizhen. Lizhen was too excited and couldn't stand the stimulation, so she gave birth prematurely." Hongliang was so angry that he told the truth.

Jin Lan listened with her eyes wide open and her face almost turned green. "Son, is what Mr. Li said true?" Jin Lan couldn't believe her ears. Li Zhen had just gotten over the matter between her son and his first love some time ago, so how come her son is getting involved with someone else again? What's going on?

Jinlan immediately walked up to her son, grabbed his hand, and ran to a quiet place to scold him loudly, "Son, why are you messing around with girls again?"

"Mom, I got another one. She's giving me a headache already." Wang Kun stomped his feet, his eyes turned red and he was about to cry.

Jinlan looked at her son and thought for a while, "Could it be that Qiuyan again? Didn't she go back? Why is she always haunting us? Why are you still caring about her? Why are you so confused? You useless beast, no wonder you made Lizhen have a miscarriage." After Jinlan finished speaking, she raised her hand to hit her son.

"Mom, so what if it wasn't us? She suddenly had appendicitis and needs surgery. She has no relatives here, and the surgery requires someone to sign. I'm the only one she knows here. I can't just stand by and watch her die." Wang Kun defended himself while dodging his mother's slap.

"She is such a mischievous woman. She has hurt you time and time again, but you are still bewitched by her. Your son is almost 30 years old, and you are already married. You have such a good wife and such a lovely son, and your heart is so soft. You should think about how she abandoned you and how she hurt you so much." Jin Lan was so anxious that tears were about to fall. She scolded her son but couldn't bear to hit him with her raised hand. She knew her son still loved Qiuyan. Yes, her son and Qiuyan were each other's first love, and they had been in love for several years. Her son loved her so deeply, how could she just let her go and feel at ease?

"I know what you are doing, Mom, but I can't just stand by and watch her die. Besides, she found me and we were together before, how could I be so cruel?" Wang Kun felt very sad when he saw his mother crying because of him, so he had to tell her what was in his heart.

"Son, Lizhen will find it difficult to forgive you this time." Jinlan's wife found it difficult to forgive her son, and she didn't know what to do.

"Mom, Lizhen listens to you, can you please help me?" Wang Kun pleaded while holding his mother's hand.

"Then I'll give it a try."

"Who is the patient's family member? The patient has woken up. You can take a look at her gently, but don't stimulate her." At this time, the door of the operating room had been opened and the doctor came out to inform them.

Wang Kun and Jin Lan ran over immediately. At this time, Hong Liang, Wang Kun, Jin Lan and others also rushed over.

"Kunkun, you'd better not go in for now. I'm afraid you will irritate Lizhen." When they arrived at the door, Jin Lan hurriedly stopped Wang Kun and didn't let him in. She was afraid that he would irritate Lizhen.

At this time, Lizhen had just been rescued and was very weak. She lay quietly on the hospital bed. When she saw several people walking into the ward, her tears couldn't stop flowing out.

"Lizhen, you just woke up. You must not get stimulated again. Your health is more important." Seeing this scene, Hongliang immediately stepped forward to comfort Lizhen.

"Yes, the child's health is important. Mom will vent your anger for you," Jin Lan also hurried forward to persuade.

"Mom, I won't forgive him this time. I want a divorce." Lizhen looked at Jinlan, gritted her teeth and said to her family in a firm tone.

Looking back at that life, you encountered my sorrow. Now the silent love weaves a long curtain of dreams, blooms a touch of purity comfortably, and dyes the fleeting years with a touch of elegance. Let me be alone in this elegance, and bloom alone.