

First Love 147

Chapter 147 Wife, I Didn't Betray You

When Hongliang saw these photos, he was furious. He wondered who was behind this. Especially when he heard that Tingting had a miscarriage because of this incident, he was even more furious. If I catch this person, I will never let her go. "Xiao Wang, check it out for me. I will never let her go once I find out who it is."

"I didn't see anyone either. I heard from Aunt Wang that it was a courier who brought it," Hongliang's mother murmured.

"Assistant Wang, please send someone to check the source of the express delivery."

"Okay." Assistant Wang left immediately.

"Son, tell me the truth. Have you and Lizhen rekindled your old love?" The old woman stared at Hongliang's eyes. She wondered if her son was lying to her.

"Mom, do you think we can?" Hongliang said to his mother.

"I, but are these photos fake? How are you going to explain to me and Tingting?" the old woman questioned Hongliang.

"Mom, I'll tell you the truth. If it were true, I would admit it and I would be willing to do so, but these are simply not true." At this time, Hongliang looked at the place where the photo was carefully again, and suddenly he remembered.

"I remember now, I was drunk that day. Lizhen saw that I was drunk, so she came over and helped me up. I don't know what I said. Lizhen also scolded me. She wanted to leave, but when she saw that I was drunk, she couldn't bear it, so she stayed and asked Xiao Wang to take me home. It seems like it happened last week," Hongliang recalled carefully.

"Mom, to be honest, Lizhen's husband cheated on her, and now she's getting a divorce. I feel so sad when I see her. To be honest, mom, I admit that she is still in my heart. Sometimes I wish that if you hadn't interfered back then, we would have been together now, and Lizhen wouldn't be so pitiful now." Hongliang choked up in his throat when he said this, and he couldn't continue.

"Mom is doing this for your own good, but things are different now. You're married and have children." Seeing Hongliang in so much pain, the mother felt a little reluctant. After all, he was her son.

"Yes, Lizhen said the same thing. Tingting and I already have a child. She said that I must be responsible for Tingting, worthy of the child, and right for this family. Mom, you shouldn't have said that about Lizhen just now. She is really a good girl and an especially kind person. It's a pity that I don't have the blessing to get her." Hongliang became more and more excited as he spoke.

At this time, the door of the emergency room was opened. Hongliang and his mother rushed to the door. The old woman quickly took the doctor's hand and asked, "Doctor, what happened to my daughter-in-law?"

"Everything is fine now. Mother and child are safe. Fortunately you sent them to school in time." The doctor's words finally made Hongliang and the old woman feel at ease.

"She will be transferred to the general ward soon and you can go see her," the doctor told them in a comforting tone.

Soon Tingting was pushed out on a cart. Hongliang hurried over and held Tingting's hand. Tingting looked at Hongliang, then she immediately retracted her hand and turned her face away.

Hongliang also thought that since Tingting was angry now, he shouldn't bother with her.

They followed the nurse to send Tingting to the general ward. After Tingting was settled in the bed, the old woman said, "I'll go home and ask Aunt Wang to make some chicken soup for me." She took the opportunity to leave, leaving Hongliang and Tingting in the ward.

"Ting, I know you will be sad when you see these photos. Can you please listen to my explanation?" At this time, Tingting turned her head away, unwilling to look at Hongliang.

"Lizhen and I are each other's first love. We are both very self-controlled people. Especially since we got married, we have only been friends and have never crossed the line. Especially since Lizhen works in a company outside, every time I send her home, she will ask me to go home, saying that you are a pregnant woman and need company. You can feel it yourself, right?" Hongliang looked at Tingting, but she was still facing away and not looking at him.

"You can feel it during this period of time. Except for meetings and social events outside every day, I have been at home with you." Tingting was moved at this time. She thought about what was going on. Since her pregnancy got deeper and deeper, Hongliang has been more considerate to her and spends more time with her at home than before.

Suddenly Tingting turned her head and stared at Hongliang and asked, "Where did these unbearable photos come from? Are they real?"

Hongliang leaned forward and thought for a while; "This photo is real. I was drunk that day and started talking nonsense. I don't know what I said. Lizhen was angry and wanted to leave, but I didn't let her go. I held her hand and leaned on her, and maybe someone took the photo. That's how it was that Lizhen asked Xiao Wang to send me home. You know I was drunk and Xiao Wang sent me home last Friday night, right?" Tingting listened carefully and yes, Hongliang was sent home drunk last Friday night. He was right.

"I don't know what the purpose of the person who took the photo is. Lizhen and I are innocent so far. A man of integrity is not afraid of his own shadow. No matter what purpose this person wants to achieve, I think we should not be instigated by others. We should not stir up trouble among ourselves to make others happy," Hongliang said to Tingting earnestly.

Tingting thought about it carefully and said, "Yes, what's wrong with me now? I can't stay calm at all when something happens. Could it be that someone really is framing Hongliang? If so, I must have been fooled by others. Fortunately, the baby is safe this time, otherwise it would be too late for us to regret."

Hongliang was very happy to see Tingting slowly calm down. He slowly sat down beside Tingting's bed and held Tingting's hand. Tingting did not refuse this time. She slowly raised her eyes and looked at Hongliang affectionately.

"I'm sorry, I was too anxious. I thought that if I neglected you because I was pregnant, you would be unable to bear the loneliness. What's more, she is your first love. I thought this way when I saw the photo." Tingting was also an unreasonable person. After Hongliang explained the whole story, she slowly let it go.

"Don't worry, I will get to the bottom of the photo incident and clear Lizhen and I of all charges." There was a terrifying light in Hongliang's eyes and an angry expression.